BOATING SEASON BEGINS? The last of the snow might still be lingering in shady places around the mountaintop, but that doesn't stop an avid boater like 13-year-old David Goldsborough of Mountain Lake Park. David hit the waves yesterday with his brand new two-engine, remote-controlled motor boat that he bought from the Internet. The little speedster zipped around on Broadford Lake as co-captain William Goldsborough, 10, and dad David Sr. watched. The weather is indeed warming up a bit at last, with the sun actually shining down on the brown world of Garrett County and urging spring to come on out.

"HE WAS DOING WHAT HE LOVED" is how Garrett County native Ron Dolan, shown above, was remembered by his brother Rick after his death Friday in a North Carolina plane crash. A noted local pilot and former manager of the Garrett County Airport in McHenry, Ron Dolan, 50, was born in Grantsville and reared there and in Accident. He was a Northern High School graduate and long-time Bausch & Lomb employee who realized his childhood dream over the past decade when he began flying for a living with his own company, Plane Aviation. Dolan was commemorated in a time-honored flying tradition when two of his former Plane Aviation aircraft flew over the Grantsville Cemetery, then as they made a return pass one of the planes peeled away, leaving the lead craft to continue on in the "missing man" formation.

Former Airport Manager Dies In N.C. Plane Crash

Ron Dolan, 50, county native and former manager of the Garrett County Airport in McHenry, was killed last Friday, March 30, in an early morning plane crash in south-central North Carolina. Dolan was flying solo when his Piper Lance single-engine propeller plane crashed at approximately 6:08 a.m. after reportedly striking power lines on a landing approach to the Concord Regional Airport. Visibility was hampered by fog at the time of the accident.

Dolan was pronounced dead at the scene of the crash, and his body was taken to Northeast Medical Center for an autopsy. The incident is still under investigation by the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Safety Transportation Safety Board.

Dolan, who worked at the Garrett County Airport for six years until last fall, was the co-founder and former co-owner of Plane Aviation. Among the services he offered through his company were a charter service, scenic rides, and flight instruction. He also towed airborne advertising banners throughout the region, including over Morgantown's Mountaineer Stadium dur-

Garage, Shed Destroyed By Blaze Tuesday

A fire of undetermined origin destroyed a wood frame garage and a storage shed along Mt. Zion Road Tuesday night. Volunteer firefighters from the Deer Park, Bloomington, Kitzmiller, Oakland, Elk Garden, and Deep Creek fire departments responded to the 10:23 alarm.

Ryan Chapman, deputy state fire marshal who is investigating the incident, said that Michael Tasker, the owner of the property, had been working on a vehicle in the garage earlier in the evening. After about an hour and a half, he noticed fire coming from the shed and telephoned 911. He attempted to remove personal property from the garage, but the flames quickly spread throughout the shed and the garage. Both structures were engulfed in flames upon the arrival of the first fire units.

The fire also melted the siding on Tasker's house. The garage, shed, one vehicle in the garage, and most of the other contents of the two structures were destroyed. The loss was estimated to be $12,000.

It took the estimated 45 firefighters about 30 minutes to bring the fire under control. Chapman was going to return to the scene to continue his investigation into the cause of the fire.

Also responding was a unit from the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

Eastern Garrett, Grantsville VFD Fight Pa. Blaze

Firefighters from the Eastern Garrett, Grantsville, and Deep Creek volunteer fire departments were among those who responded to a structure fire in nearby Pocahontas, Pa., late Sunday. They and volunteers from the Salisbury and Meyersdale, Pa., VFDs were called to the residence of Robert Kelly, which was gutted by the fire.

It was believed that the 11:47 p.m. blaze was caused by a coal furnace, according to Salisbury VFD chief, Heath McKenzie. Kelly was home at the time of the fire, but escaped uninjured.

The unit that responded from the Deep Creek VFC was the Garrett County air cascade unit.

District Court Commissioner To Be In Grantsville

Annetta Lamonica, administrative commissioner for Allegany and Garrett counties, has announced that, beginning April 18, a district court commissioner will be at the Grantsville town hall. The hours will be from noon until 4 p.m. every Wednesday. The commissioner will be there for the purpose of taking applications for statement of charges from persons interested in filing criminal charges. The commissioner will also be available to answer questions and supply information regarding other court matters. The Grantsville town hall telephone number is 301-895-3144.

There is a commissioner at the Oakland District Court office weekdays from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Evening hours are Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 6 p.m. until midnight. A commissioner is sitting in

Cause Of Hafer Fire Determined By Investigators

A join investigation by the Office of the State Fire Marshal and the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms has determined that the cause of the fire that destroyed the Finzel-area house of Senator John Hafer last week was an electrical problem in a wall on the second floor.

The eight-member team of investigators determined that the fire started in the southwest exterior wall of Senator Hafer's office. No one was home when the fire was discovered by a family member just before 4 p.m. on Monday, March 26.

Some 80 volunteer firefighters from seven departments in Garrett and Allegany counties, as well as nearby Pennsylvania, responded to the scene and fought the fire for over two hours. No one was injured; however, the loss of the house and some of its contents was estimated to be $400,000.

PATTON SHEDS TAIL AGAIN - Lynn Patton of Accident's Old Flour Shoppe Bakery recently lost his pony tail once again. As in the previous year, the cutting was done by Carol Smith of Just US Styling and Tanning Salon, and is for a good cause. His shorn curls will be sent to Locks of Love, a not-for-profit organization that provides hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children with medical hair losses. These prosthetics are offered free of charge, or on a sliding scale basis according to the guidelines of the Locks of Love board of directors. Although 80% of the donations are received from children, hair donations can be made by any individual. It is required that the hair be at least 10" in length, in a pony tail or braid, free of chemical damage, clean, dry, and placed in a resealable plastic bag. If the hair donated is not suitable for use in children's hairpieces, it will be sold at the fair market price to offset the organization's cost. For more information about Locks of Love or concerning a donation, persons may visit the organization's web site at www.locksoflove.org or call 561-963-1677.

Sanitary Dist. Planned For McHenry Area

Ron Petrella, administrator of the Garrett County Sanitary District, hosted a public hearing this week along with the county commissioners to discussion the creation of a sanitary district in McHenry. No members of the public attended the hearing.

The plan for the area involves the installation of a 500,000 gallon water storage tank atop Marsh Mountain. This is to provide much improved water service to the surrounding 539 properties, Petrella said.

The funding for the project is being provided chiefly through the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) in the form of a $150,000 grant and a $615,911 loan. The ad valorem tax rate will be placed at $.05 per $100 of assessed property value, coming to an average of $61.73 per property owner per year.

The record for the project will remain open for eight more days. Persons with questions or concerns are encouraged to contact the commissioners at 301-334-8970 or Petrella at 301-334-1980.

KEYSER'S RIDGE

Following the McHenry district hearing, the commissioners adopted a resolution to create a sanitary district at Keyser's Ridge. This action will allow county officials to supply water and sewer services to the area.

The district location is at the intersection of Rts. 219 and 40, on the north side of Interstate 68, and includes about 25 users, including

Frostburg Man Faces GBI Rape, Assault Charges

A Frostburg (Garrett County) man faces a variety of charges including first degree rape after a Friday night incident at a Frostburg Road residence, according to Maryland State Police detectives assigned to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Bryan Eugene Paul, 33, was reportedly involved in a 9:45 p.m. verbal altercation with an adult female that escalated into an alleged physical assault, Detective Scott Anderson's report stated. The suspected victim sought medical treatment at an area hospital, where she was treated and released. The investigation, shared by personnel of the GBI and MSP, resulted in Paul's Saturday arrest.

In addition to the accusation of first degree rape, Paul faces additional charges of first degree sex offense and assault, second degree assault, and reckless endangerment. He was released from the Garrett County Detention Center Monday after posting a $20,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Man Arrested, Man Sought For Local Burglary

A Cumberland man was arrested and a Ridgeley, W.Va., man is being sought for a reported burglary at a Grantsville residence Monday afternoon, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Jeremy Allen House, 22, was charged with first-degree burglary and misdemeanor theft. He was released from the Garrett County Jail on a $10,000 bond. Robert Michael Bridges, 24, is being sought on the same charges, according to police.

The owner of the property along National Pike had returned home when she observed an unknown vehicle in her driveway and her front door ajar. According to the report, the homeowner witnessed the suspects in the process of removing handguns and hunting rifles from the residence.

She called the Maryland State Police, McHenry, but the two suspects fled prior to the arrival of the police.

The victim was able to document the vehicle's license plate number, which was listed to a subject in Ridgeley. Troopers from the State Police Cumberland Barrack responded to Ridgeley and contacted the owner of the vehicle, where upon it was discovered that House and Bridges were in possession of the vehicle and matched the description of the suspects observed leaving the residence.

House was arrested at his place of employment in LaVale by troopers of the MSP Cumberland Barrack. The whereabouts of Bridges is currently unknown.

The Maryland State Police crime lab also responded to the scene for evidence collection.

The burglary charge carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison, and the misdemeanor charge has a penalty of 18 months.

Fiscal Authority Reviewing Budget Wishes From County Offices, Depts.

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners is engaged this week in the annual budgeting process, meeting with representatives of all county offices and departments to hear monetary requests for fiscal year 2002.

As was reported briefly last week, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has made its pitch for $530,000. This week, the roads department has asked for $13,339,515, which is about $1 million more than last year. The extra funding is dedicated mostly to capital projects, with approximately only an additional $45,480 earmarked for operating expenses.

The Garrett County Board of Education made its request Tuesday, asking for $1,754,660. This is up 6.2% from last year, with increases attributed chiefly to Governor Parris Glendening's "salary challenge" (which in part calls for a 5% pay increase for teachers), and increases in transportation and medical insurance costs.

Judge James Sherbin talked with the commissioners on Tuesday to discuss the needs of the circuit court office, which involve mainly an increase in security measures in the courthouse and the addition of a grant-funded family services coordinator. State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch also met with the board Tuesday to ask for an assistant state's attorney, a position vacated several years ago by Welch herself when she was selected to serve as state's attorney. The position has never been reassigned.

Today the sheriff and his staff members met with the commissioners to discuss the addition of correctional officers and to further the plans for an expanded jail. Also on the agenda today for budget reviews were Garrett Community College and the county's general services department.

According to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator, and the county's finance officers, the anticipated revenue for FY 2002 is about $49.7 million. The combined budgets of all requesting entities is currently $2 to $3 million above that amount. Last year, Pagenhardt noted, the requests were $8 to $9 million over the anticipated revenue, so the financial situation has apparently improved.

"The budget requests this year are realistic, which has helped in reducing the overages," Pagenhardt said. "And the county's revenue has increased as well."

Pagenhardt has also emphasized that these budget reviews and requests are preliminary and that more work will go into them over the next month. The final budget will be announced in May.

Budget Plans Of Chamber, Roads Dept. Noted

Several county leaders met this week with the Garrett County commissioners to hammer out budget requests for fiscal year 2002. Those with the most significant requests are the county roads department and the board of education, traditionally the two receiving the largest portions of the county budget. The chamber of commerce made its request for $530,000 last week.

Details of these three departments' requests are as follows:

COUNTY ROADS

An increase of about $1 million over last year is being sought by the Garrett County Roads Department, with the added money to be used chiefly in the area of capital improvements. Proposed bridge replacements and repair, traffic light installations, and roads equipment will cost about $1,755,000 of the total requested amount of

"STRIKE UP THE BAND!" That's the name of the concert, and that is precisely what conductor Jerry McGee will do at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday evening at Garrett Community College, where the Garrett Community Concert Band will present a program of various forms of music, from well-known ballads to patriotic salutes to Broadway favorites to Sousa marches. While admission to the program is free, there is a suggested donation of $5 to help the band cover expenses and add to its fledgling library of music. Tom Frawley will be the narrator for the program, and will provide bits of historical information about the composers and the concert pieces being presented. The band consists of amateur and professional musicians of various ages and from all over Garrett County. The band, which is now affiliated with Garrett Community College, presented its first concert last July 4 to an audience of about 600. Saturday's program is funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council.

Dove Center To Benefit From Fiddlers' Contest

FIDDLERS, PICKERS TO SUPPORT CENTER - The Maryland State Fiddle and Banjo championships, held annually during the Autumn Glory Festival, have been turned over by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce to the board of directors of the Dove Center, the local domestic abuse shelter. Pictured signing the agreement are Jim McFarland, left, who chairs the Dove Center's fund-raising committee, and Ken Wishnick, president of the chamber. See story for details.

The Official Maryland State Fiddle and Banjo Championships, held during the Autumn Glory Festival, will be coordinated this year by the Dove Center as a fund-raising project. The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce had previously operated these annual events.

An agreement was recently signed between the chamber and the board of directors of the Dove Center, awarding the agency the rights to operate, and profit from, the fiddle/banjo events. The Dove Center is Garrett County's resource for domestic violence and sexual abuse.

Linda Spassil, the center's executive director, described this as a "great opportunity" for her agency. "We were looking for a major fund-raising activity that would be family-oriented and alcohol-free. The fiddle championship and banjo contests fit very nicely into that niche," she said. "We are pleased that the chamber was willing to give us this opportunity to help make our agency self-supporting and we will put all profits into helping people in our community."

A task force of the chamber's board of directors, chaired by Oakland mayor Asa McCain, had previously evaluated the benefits of passing on the event's management to a local nonprofit entity. According to McCain, the chamber's staff and volunteers have been working on so many administrative details that no time or energy was left to "creatively grow and improve" the overall festival. "We need to keep Autumn Glory fresh and exciting or it will just wither on the vine over time. By passing stewardship of the event over to the Dove Center, we all benefit," McCain said.

The chamber's board of directors agreed with the recommendation of McCain's task force. Under the terms of the agreement, the Dove Center will commit to managing the championships for two years, with additional provisions providing for extensions.

Chamber president Ken Wishnick explained that in the past two years the fiddle/banjo event has gone from being break-even to making a good profit. "The two nights of contests and entertainment raised several thousand dollars last year and can be even more profitable with the commitment shown by Dove Center volunteers," he said.

Jim McFarland, who chairs the fund-raising committee for the Dove Center board of directors, said he looks forward to organizing the championships. "We've jumped in with both feet and already contracted for the Friday night concert to supplement the competition. The Lewis Family will perform, and they are so talented that we expect a sell-out crowd," he said.

McFarland also pointed out that the Dove Center could still use a few more volunteers to help in planning and managing the event. He urged anyone interested to call the Dove Center at 301-334-6255.

Mishaps Injure Six Persons On Northern Roads

Two motor vehicle accidents, one in the Finzel area Monday and the other in Grantsville yesterday, injured a total of four adults and two children, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack. All six individuals were transported to area hospitals, where four were treated and released, one was released after a one-night hospital stay, and at last report one remained hospitalized in intensive care.

The first accident occurred at approximately 12:44 p.m. along westbound Interstate 68 near Old Frostburg Road. A 1991 Dodge Caravan mini-van operated by Truman Wolfkill, 70, Anmoore, W.Va., left the roadway when Wolfkill reportedly fell asleep at the wheel. The van struck the median, and the driver awoke to steer back onto the highway, but the correction caused the vehicle to overturn and roll over several times, according to eyewitnesses.

Wolfkill and one of his two passengers, Susan Wolfkill, 57, were transported by Frostburg Ambulance to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, while the third passenger, 11-year-old Alexandria Bramer of Bridgeport, W.Va., was flown to Cumberland Memorial by MSP helicopter. The Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department, Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, and the Frostburg Fire Department also responded to the scene.

At last report yesterday Bramer was still being treated in the intensive care unit, while Truman Wolfkill had been released after an overnight hospital stay. Susan Wolfkill was treated and released the day of the accident.

Tpr. M.W. DeValk's investigation is continuing, and the status of possible charges, if any, was not available.

Yesterday afternoon's 1:02 p.m. accident occurred when two vehicles collided at the intersection of National Pike and Route 219 North near the Grantsville Plaza shopping center. A 1979 Oldsmobile sedan operated by Olive Mae Hetrick, 85, Grantsville, turned left from westbound National Pike onto northbound Route 219 and into the path of an oncoming 1999 Dodge 1500 pickup operated by Joann Marie Warnick, 39, Lonaconing. Warnick was traveling through the intersection under a green light, and Hetrick reportedly failed to yield right of way, according to Tpr. Schlossnagle, who charged the elder woman in the mishap.

Hetrick was transported to Meyersdale Medical Center by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, and Warnick and her passenger, 2-year-old Tiffany Dawn Warnick, were both transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by NGCRS. All three subjects were treated and released. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

In addition to the charge filed against Hetrick, Warnick was charged for failing to properly restrain the juvenile in a child safety seat.

Correction Noted

In last week's issue of The Republican, it was stated that Paul William Ferrell was convicted of murder by a Garrett County jury. It should be noted that it was in fact a Grant County, W.Va., jury. The error is regretted.

Drug Charges Filed By MSP Against Trio

Maryland State Police troopers arrested three local men yesterday afternoon on drug charges stemming from an incident along Route 135 on Backbone Mountain.

Deer Park resident Denny Stallard, 18, and Mtn. Lake Park residents Jonathan Jones, 21, and Timothy Tasker, 18, were observed along eastbound Route 135 at Walnut Bottom Road at approximately 1:24 p.m., according to Tfc. Seaman, who filed the arrest report.

Stallard, Jones, and Tasker were in a 1988 Chevrolet Nova sedan that backed up in the roadway and entered a dirt road on the north side of the highway. The suspects then walked into the woods, and further investigation revealed that the three had entered a cave, where they were reportedly smoking marijuana.

The three men were arrested without incident, and a suspected marijuana cigarette and a plastic bag containing suspected marijuana were recovered by police. Each subject was charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Stallard was subsequently released from the Garrett County Detention Center after he posted a $2,500 bond. Stallard was released on a $300 bond, and Tasker was released on his own recognizance.

SERVING UP FOOD, FUN FOR RELAY FUNDS — The third Garrett County American Cancer Society Relay for Life, set for Friday and Saturday, June 8-9, at Southern High School, has already benefited from a number of volunteer fund-raising events throughout the county. These Oak Grove Church of the Brethren members are among the 70 persons who make up five teams sponsored by the church, and the church recently sponsored a potato bar benefit meal that served over 200 diners. In the front row, from the left, are team captains Sandy Vincent and Sarena Rodeheaver, plus Jodi Matthews, and in the back row are Steve Vincent and team captain Tom Matthews. This was the second year their team, the "Wranglers," sponsored a potato bar, which included a silent auction of items either donated by local businesses or made by team members. Upcoming Relay fund-raisers sponsored by other teams include a Saturday, April 21, yard sale in the parking lot of the M&T Bank in Oakland, sponsored by the M&T Relay team, and a Saturday, April 28, lasagna dinner at the Friendsville Elementary School, sponsored by the McHenry United Methodist Church Relay team. For information on taking part in the Relay as a team, individual, or support volunteer, or for fund-raising ideas, interested persons may contact Relay co-coordinator Terry Riley at 301-334-5684.

Reluctant Senate Approves Governor Glendening's Budget With 39-8 Vote

by Jennifer Larson
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - The Maryland Senate grudgingly gave final approval to Gov. Parris N. Glendening's 2002 budget Tuesday, following House consent Monday night.

The 39-8 vote was the end of a "long and difficult and somewhat painful process," said Sen. Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore, Budget and Taxation Committee chairwoman. However, she said, the revised budget is "reasonably ambitious . . . and moderates the growth of spending."

The General Assembly trimmed the governor's proposed budget — the largest of Glendening's tenure — by about $300 million for a final total of $21.17 billion, 6.2 percent larger than last year's.

Sen. Robert Neall, D-Anne Arundel, a member of the Budget and Taxation Committee, was so disillusioned with the entire budget process this year that he asked Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr. to remove him from the committee.

"All I wanted was a wholesome budget because I was gravely concerned," he said, citing a slowing economy and increased spending. "We are at the top of the roller coaster, and there's only one way to go." Neall, who was granted a leadership position as chairman of a budget subcommittee in 2000 after he switched political parties, worried about an economic slump similar to the recession of the early 1990s.

"I don't want to repeat that experience, but I'm getting that Yogi Berra, deja vu all over again feeling," he said. "We're spending when we should be saving."

Despite many lawmakers' worries, the revised budget came in below the Legislature's self-imposed spending limit. The original budget exceeded the limit by $185 million, and Republican legislators warned the budget was dangerously large.

The budget is still too large in light of predictions of deficits looming on the horizon, said Senate Minority Leader Martin Madden, R-Howard, citing the Department of Legislative Services' forecast of a $300 million deficit for 2003.

"This budget spends $907 million next year more than we take in," he said. "We shouldn't be doing this when there are economic warning lights flashing all around us."

Funding for the governor's major priorities, including higher education and transportation, were cut substantially but manageably, said Raquel Guillory, the governor's spokeswoman. Higher education was cut from 14 percent to 10 percent.

"We're satisfied with the amount that was agreed upon," Guillory said.

The budget, despite its

Time to Reconsider...

With the frequency of shootings and other acts of violence in our nation's schools steadily on the rise, the time has certainly arrived for some new proactive, preventive measures. It is also past time for persons in every community across the country to dispense with the attitude that "it can't/won't happen here," a conclusion that, sadly, has of late been disproved over and over.

Garrett County has an opportunity to take one positive step, thanks to a federal grant program of the U.S. Department of Justice. Titled Cops in Schools 2001, the program provides three years of funding to place police officers in and around primary and secondary schools. Besides just their presence being an obvious deterrent to a would-be assailant, the officers are required to spend a minimum of 75% of their time on the school grounds conducting and/or working on youth-related activities. The only commitment that must be made by the county is to fund the program for at least one year following the three-year grant period.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office wants to apply for this grant and is confident of its approval. The request would be to fund two officers, one for Northern High and Middle schools, and one for Southern High and Middle schools. The cost to the county for the fourth year would be approximately $70,000, meaning that the program would cost an average of $17,500 per year over four years.

Unfortunately, the Garrett County commissioners have elected to not support this proposal. It is their opinion that such a move would "send the wrong message." One said that we need to trust our public. One said that school shootings are far less likely in communities that are heavily armed (such as Garrett County).

We respectfully, but adamantly, disagree with this decision by the commissioners and urge them to reconsider. Thank heavens it is true that the incidents of violence in Garrett County schools are rare. However, it is also a fact that cases of domestic violence are plentiful in Garrett County, guns are plentiful, and each and every school has its fair share of troubled, damaged children. It would take only one of them to snap and cause a tragedy.

The officers would not be armor-plated, machine-gun-toting, mean-expressioned sentries standing at attention at the doorways of the schools. They would be as discreet as possible, but everyone would know of their presence, which would make most think twice about bringing a weapon to school.

It is indeed sad that our society has come to this, but isn't it far better to do all one can to be proactive in preventing a tragedy instead of reactive after one has already occurred and lives are lost forever?

The deadline to apply for the Cops in Schools funding is June 15, so there is plenty of time for the commissioners to reconsider.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is in reply to Mr. George Falter's March 29 letter to the editor regarding the Garrett County Commission for Women's 2001 inductees into the Garrett County Women's Hall of Fame.

As stated in all press announcements requesting nominations and announcing the inductees, the Hall of Fame selection committee consists of members representing a cross section of county citizens who are not associated with the commission. This selection committee reviews the nominations received and can select up to three new inductees based on a point system of the stated criteria. this is the sole discretion of the selection committee. The Garrett County Commission for Women has absolutely no input into whom is selected or how many. All individuals who submitted nominations that were not selected did receive an unsigned form letter from the Selection Committee. The reason the letter was unsigned is because the selection committee members wish to remain anonymous.

If there are any questions about other points made by Mr. Falter, the Garrett County Commission for Women would be happy to address those privately. Please send your questions or comments to: Garrett County Commission for Women, P.O. Box 623, Oakland, MD 21550.

Sincerely,
Sandi Flockhart, Chair
Garrett County
Commission for Women

To the Editor:

Along with other Garrett County residents, I truly feel for Senator John Hafer for his loss with the fire at his home last week. To lose items which mean so much to us can be devastating. And I can appreciate his offer to pay the fuel cost of the helicopter travel to bring him home to this tragedy, although the cost of fuel does not nearly cover the cost of such a trip.

His press release published last week stops short of what he really owes the citizens of Maryland — an apology for asking for and accepting this misuse of taxpayer resources. To claim it was a matter of "public safety" is ludicrous on the surface and an insult to all Maryland taxpayers. There are many people who find themselves away from home when tragedy hits and do not have the clout to be able to arrange such a trip. This is a very clear-cut example of how people with power are able to elevate themselves in their minds to such heights that they even feel such special treatment is justified. It seems to happen more and more with politicians these days — a sad consequence of our political system, it seems, but one that can only be corrected at election time.

Six hundred dollars for fuel; yes, that is a start, but an apology is what we deserve.

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to your article on Paul Ferrell's parole hearing, and in response to Don Tucker's letter to the editor. The whole, so-called "case" against Paul Ferrell has been nothing but a sham right from the start, from all the tampering with trumped-up evidence and lost evidence, to the lack of a corpse. No one has ever proven that she is actually dead.

As for the article that The Republican printed on March 29, 2001, Paul Ferrell was never tried and convicted in Garrett County, except in the minds of certain people who know more about the case than was ever made public!

I'm all for seeing Paul Ferrell paroled. I think that he's spent more time behind bars than he ever should have. It's time now to really see justice done. It strikes me as very funny that Mr. Tucker mentions the fact of a smoke and mirrors game because isn't that exactly what was used to put Paul behind bars to start with? Think about it.

Thank You,
Lois Kitzmiller-Stallard

Dear Mrs. Kitzmiller-Stallard:

Our writer inadvertently typed Garrett instead of Grant County in the story last week. The error is regretted.

To the Editor:

March was designated as National Colon Cancer Awareness Month throughout the nation. I was more than pleased to visit a local chain pharmacy last month and find an informational brochure readily available about the disease and a fund-raising program: the "Be A Star in the Fight Against Colon Cancer" campaign. Consumers could purchase a "Caring Star" for $1, with all proceeds benefiting colorectal cancer research. The campaign is estimated to raise over $5 million and is supported by the Entertainment Industry Foundation (EIF), the National Colorectal Cancer Research Alliance (NCCRA) with co-founder Katie Couric, and the National Association of Chain Drug Stores (NCADS).

Why is this campaign important to me? On April 10, 2000, my mother succumbed to colon cancer after a two-year battle. With appropriate screening, this could have been prevented. Colorectal cancer is the cancer of the colon, bowel, or rectum, and is very common. Early detection can mean more than a 90% cure rate, yet only 41% of Americans over the age of 50 have been tested, according to the Centers for Disease Control. This type of cancer does not discriminate — men, women, white, African-American, young, old — all could be at risk. It is recommended that all men and women over the age of 50 be screened for colorectal cancer, but if you have a family history or symptoms and are not over the age of 50, it is highly recommended you discuss screening options with your physician.

I am 23 years old and have already had my colonoscopy, the best and most comprehensive weapon against colorectal cancer. Why at such a young age? With symptoms and a family history, my physician felt it was important for me to go ahead and have the procedure. If the thought of having such a procedure scares you, and it did scare me at first, it was painless. Recently the Today Show on NBC re-aired Katie Couric's colonoscopy after which she said, "It really didn't hurt."

Of course it is very important to consult with your physician first about your risk factors and whether or not you should have any of the screenings available. But don't be scared to discuss it with your doctor, or with even your family. Having problems in this particular area is not something everyone wants to talk about — let alone think about.

My mother was only 53 years old when she passed away. She fought for two years and was determined to battle the cancer as best she could — but, unfortunately, it was just too much for her body to withstand. I sat by her side and held her hand as she took her last breaths, and part of me remains by her side on April 10, 2000, at 8:12 p.m. forever. In her memory, I feel I must help raise awareness for colorectal cancer. An estimated 56,600 people died from colorectal cancer in 1999. Let's hope through education and awareness this number will begin to decrease in future years.

For more information, stop by your local pharmacy or log on to www.nccra.org (the official site for the National Colorectal Cancer Research Alliance), where you can find limitless information on colorectal cancer. I don't want anyone else to suffer through what my mother had to. A simple test could save your life.

Sincerely,
Linda M. Jose

THE STONE FOUNDATION

A photograph of this farm hangs on the wall as a reminder to me of what this place was during its glory days. The house is enveloped in shade trees. There is a pump house between the house and garage. There is a machinery shed, the granary, and an extensive barn.

When I took this place over, the machinery shed was completely gone. The superstructure of the barn was gone, leaving only the foundation. The granary was a mortise and tenon skeleton with a roof. The garage had a shed built onto the front, but the whole of it was leaning nonetheless. The chimneys of the house stood below the roofline. I moved here in 1984, and named the farm "Love-in-the-Ruins." It was a ruins.

Since then there has been a lot more love and a lot less ruins.

Projects have to wait for time or money. One that is still waiting is the barn. I have always wanted to put back some kind of barn on the foundation. I have not needed to think about what kind of barn, since any kind was beyond the realm of imagining.

Year by year the rain has washed out the old mortar, which looks like little more than lime and sand. The strength of old-time masonry, my father told me, is in the laying up of the stone. The mortar was just there to fill the gaps. That thesis is borne out in a stone wall which has lost its mortar, but which has continued to stand nevertheless.

In many different ways I have been blessed by the presence of the local Amish community. One Amish farmer and I have done business together for a few years now. I am comfortable working with him. He keeps coming back, so he must not mind me too much.

Like most of the Amish I have met, he has some experience in various kinds of construction. I asked him about stone work. He said he had a little experience, enough to give it a try.

He has been here several days over the past weeks when he has been able to get away from his farm. In another week or two he will not be able to come at all. I enjoy carrying him back and forth between his farm and mine. We have good talks about many subjects. My favorite conversations are those in which I learn more about his people and their way of life.

My regard for the Amish and their way of life is very high. I know that — as in all communities of people — there are good Amish, bad Amish, and indifferent Amish. What consistently wins my respect is that you can tell an Amishman's faith by the cut of his coat. There is a direct connection between what he believes and how he lives, down to his clothing, transportation, and entertainment.

In many practical ways the Amish live and farm today as my grandfather lived and farmed over 70 years ago. The Amish choose their technology rather than letting technology take them over, as we, "English," — what the Amish call us — do. Not that the Amish are immune to the allure of technology. They have balers mounted with gas engines, and some have even capitulated to the tractor.

Once tasted, the appetite for technology is insatiable. That appetite — which can become like an addiction — has driven more than one farmer to ruin.

The Amish are not without their problems or their temptations. They have a way of life, however, that has proven sustainable when that pursued by "English" farmers has not. The empirical evidence is clear and incontrovertible. The number of Amish farmers increased during the same century in which "English" farmers all but disappeared.

Watching this Amish farmer lay up and point stone is a pleasure. I am an unhandy person, and admire any and all who have such practical skills. What impresses me more than his skill is the way he lets the wall and the stones themselves teach him how to do his work. That requires both humility before his task, as well as being attuned to the objects with which he works.

My goal is to stabilize the wall so that, when the cash is available, I can have some sort of structure built. Barring some serendipitous good fortune, the first structure will be a roof, which someday might become a floor. Every step in that direction feels like a good beginning.

In the meantime, both the Amishman and I grow in appreciation for those who first built this wall. Across a cultural divide we share admiration for the long dead, as well as for our own ability to work together as neighbors.

Editor's Note: The writer of the following letter to Senator John Hafer requested that it be published in this column.

Dear Sir:

As a property owner on Deep Creek Lake near Oakland, I wish to object to the proposal to allow 70-foot tour boats to operate on this lake.

Deep Creek Lake is not a large lake and very narrow in places. During the summer months it becomes quite crowded with water skiers, fishermen, and pleasure boaters. Seventy-foot tour boats will not only further constipate the present use of the lake, but also will contribute to shore erosion and dock damage from its inevitable wake that it will generate. Since our tax dollars now help to pay for the DNR to protect our shores from erosion, it seems counter productive to condone a situation that will create the very erosion the state is trying to stop.

Further, legislation is continually being passed to restrict all sorts of pollution, including visual pollution. Such boats will, without doubt, visually pollute such a modestly sized lake to the detriment of all those who live and visit the area. You will have created a political double standard.

The fact is that the proposal to allow such large boats on Deep Creek Lake is purely based on business and personal income generation by one or two persons to the detriment of thousands of visitors and residents. The idea put forth that such tour boats will make possible the enjoyment of the lake by many who otherwise would not get to see the beauty of the lake is pure nonsense and totally self-serving by those who wish to create and profit by a carnival atmosphere. Again, we are paying the DNR to preserve the natural ambience of the lake by policing the set-back area of the lake allowing no one to cut trees, clear brush, or to use it for any other purpose, yet you are now considering allowing a visual blight to plow its waters. It makes no sense.

If these boats are approved, I can clearly see the situation becoming a very nasty political football for all who voted for it. Please don't let yourself be one of them.

Sincerely,
James R. Monteith

To the Editor:

As we start this new millennium, and Decoration Day (now known as Memorial Day) will soon be upon us, we can start a new century with a very important program that will bring about the preservation of the heritage of our forefathers and foremothers.

CLEAN COUCHES: THE MEANING OF LIFE?

by Beth Bowers

Plastic couch covers may not be such a bad idea. I don't mean for everyone, but if my furniture weren't so far gone, I might consider using them. At least until the kids get, oh say, 18 years old....

Now they may not be the most comfortable cover to sit on. They may make the backs of your legs stick when it is hot, causing that wonderful sound and feeling when you stand up. They may remind you of visiting Aunt Mabel. They may be all these things and more, but after you have turned the couch sections over enough times and neither side looks safe to sit on, you start to ponder this same notion.

If we build a new addition to the house and purchase new carpet and furniture, my husband has already lectured us on the rules. No food, no drinks, no anything remotely near the new furnishings. I am thinking that it may be easier to purchase indoor/outdoor carpet and lawn chairs until the boys leave for college.

But by then we will be the ones spilling the drinks on the couch and dropping crumbs all over the floor. So, maybe you just can't win the war. Maybe it is better to just continue as we are and appreciate the fact that we have cute and ornery little boys to make messes and ruin furniture. Because you can always buy new things, but you can never get back those great childhood times.

I doubt my husband will buy that line, although I thought it was quite sentimental. I can hear him now lecturing us about the new rules, and we haven't even totally ruined both sides of the existing couch.

I must admit I am usually the instigator in these things. I am the one who initiates tearing the couch apart so we can build a fort. I am the softy who says, "Sure you can take that triple layer chocolate frosting cake and large glass of milk, not in a sippy cup, into the living room — just be careful." But I am also usually the one who cleans up the messes, bathes the dirty faces, and takes a piece of cake into the living room for myself.

I used to be a true fanatic about things like this, but that was B.C. (before children). Now I would rather get down on the floor and get dirty with them, than follow them around cleaning up crumbs. You can obsess all you want, but I realize it won't be long before they won't want to play fort with me and I will be dropping them off two blocks from school so no one sees dear old mom.

All this talk about NOT obsessing has cause me TO obsess. I am talking about my two sons, and the second one isn't due until late July. Maybe I should start spring cleaning and rearrange the furniture so he has a few clean spots to mess up all on his own. The spots can be like growth charts. You did this when you were this tall, and you did made that spot when you were doing such and such.

Better run, we have many more memories to create and carpet to stain.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

CELEBRATES 90TH

Dr. Alta Schrock of Grantsville, well known throughout the region for her contributions for helping others, had the assistance of many friends and families in helping her celebrate her 90th birthday.

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, class of 1974 of FSU, treated Dr. Schrock with a breakfast celebration on the morning of her birthday, April 3.

She continued the day with a luncheon in Niverton, Pa., with her family. The same evening she was the guest at a party at the World Light House in Grantsville with many friends in attendance.

GRANTSVILLE TOWN NEWS

All persons wishing to run for council or mayor are reminded that the deadline for nominations is April 16.

The mayor and council recognized Whitney Glotfelty, a 4th grade student at Grantsville Elementary School, as the winner of the "If I Were Mayor I Would..." Essay Contest sponsored by the Maryland Municipal League. She was presented a certificate from the mayor and council.

The annual town-wide yard sale will be held May 19. Spring is a good time to begin collecting items to get ready for the sale.

GRANTSVILLE LIONS

The Grantsville Lions Club Easter egg hunt will be held Saturday, April 14, at the town park beginning at 1 p.m. Children may also have their picture taken with the Easter Bunny, beginning at noon. In the event of inclement weather, an alternate location will be used and announced at a later date.

DISTRICT COURT COMMISSIONER

A district court commissioner will be at the town hall every Wednesday from noon until 4 p.m., beginning April 18.

HOT SPOT MEETING

The next Hot Spot meeting will be held Tuesday, April 17, at 9 a.m. at the Casselman Restaurant. This is a public meeting and all are encouraged to attend.

ROUTE 40 SCHOOL

All the students at Route 40 will be treated to an afternoon of "Rock n Read," which will provide music from a local DJ in the gym, plus treats and snacks. This activity is the reward for the students participating in the "March Madness" campaign, which encourages students to read an extra 15 minutes each evening.

The following students have been selected as "Writers of the Week" for the spring quarter. GRANTSVILLE SCHOOL

Students celebrated Arbor Day on Wednesday, April 4, with a presentation from Ernie Metz of the Department of Natural Resources. Each student received a small seedling.

Students will be celebrating "Hat Day" on Friday, April 6, for their accelerated reading program. Students may wear their hats all day long.

Students and staff are reminded that Tuesday, April 10, will be the next Dime Day for the new Grantsville Library fundraiser.

Kindergarten registration will be held at Grantsville on Thursday, April 12. For additional information, parents may call the school at 301-895-5173.

Students and parents are reminded that schools will be closed April 13 and 16 for the Easter holiday.

Following the completion of the spring school fundraiser, all students who have sold five items or more had their names placed in a drawing for an additional prize. Ben Diehl was the winner, and he will receive a $50 dollar savings bond.

Ryan Winebrenner and Laura Weimer were recently recognized by the school as the winners in the "Design an Ad" contest at the Times-News of Cumberland.

GIRL SCOUTS

Girl Scout Troop #5045, under the direction of Carol Humberson, will hold a Junior Adventure workshop this Saturday, April 7, at Camp Roy Weller in Bruceton Mills, W.Va., beginning at 10 a.m.

Scouts should note the date change for the next meeting. It will be Tuesday, April 10, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Trinity.

Girl Scout Sunday will be observed at Trinity United Church of Christ in Grantsville on Sunday, April 29, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Special awards will be included in the morning service.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST

Trinity will hold a Good Friday service on Friday, April 13, at 7:30 p.m. This will be a joint service for the Paradise Charge, which includes Trinity and St. John's United Church of Christ of Salisbury, Pa.

CHERRY GROVE CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

A Love Feast and Communion service will be held at the church on Sunday, April 7, beginning at 7 p.m.

An Easter sunrise service will be held on Sunday, April 15, at 6:30 a.m. A breakfast will follow at 7:30 a.m. The congregation will then hold regular Sunday school and morning worship services.

Revival services have been scheduled for April 18-21 at the church. Pastor Larry Black will be the speaker for the 7 p.m. services.

The youth meeting for the church has been changed from April 18 to April 25 because of the revival being held at the church. Youth meetings begin at 7 p.m.

SALEM CHILDREN'S TRUST

The community relations committee of Salem will meet Wednesday, April 18, at 10:30 a.m. They will continue planning their annual fund-raising events for the children's home.

FRIENDS OF NEW GERMANY

The Friends of New Germany annual spring clean-up day will be held at New Germany State Park on Saturday, April 21, beginning at 9 a.m. Refreshments will be served at noon for the volunteers. MOUNTAIN TOP YFC

Approximately 90 youth comprising 23 teams participated in the camp tournament recently held at Camp Sonrise in Markleysburg, Pa.

The top individual quizzer for the tournament was Michael Pritts from Pleasant View Baptist Church, Oakland.

The championship team for the tournament was "P.M.S." (Pritts, Murphy, Sines, Shaffer), who represented Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park. Team members included Mary Beth Pritts, Sheila Murphy, Kristen Shaffer, and Aaron Sines.

Second-place honors were earned by "WE 5" from the Springs Mennonite Church in Springs, Pa. Members included Danny Root, Laura Beitzel, Zach Cupler, Jordan Yoder, and Kaley Gnagey.

Third place was awarded to Cherry Glade Mennonite's team "Sovereign," which included members, Lindsay Schrock, Michael Bender, Shannia Custer, and Nicole Opel.

Separate from the tournament, winners were also announced for the regular quizzing season. "P.M.S." received the first-place award for the senior high division, while "Oxygenated," the Pleasant View Baptist Church team, took first place for the junior high division.

Top quizzer awards for the regular season were given to Kathy Pritts for junior high and John Gregory for senior high.

CASSELMAN VALLEY AYSO

Members of the Casselman Valley AYSO Soccer Board recently returned from sectional meetings in Baltimore with the regional Pele Award for the league. Attending from the board were Chuck and Pam Trautwein, Wendell Yoder, Pete Miller, and Lynn Lais. The Pele Award is given for an outstanding increase in the number of players. Casselman Valley experienced an increase in players by 10% for 1999-2000 year.

Referee administrator Pete Miller recently announced the schedule for the referee clinics that will be held in the next few weeks.

Two separate regional referee update courses will be held on April 17 and April 26 from 7 to 8:30 p.m at the Springs Mennonite Church in Springs, Pa. This course will update all of our current referees in the changes of the law for the year 2001.

An area referee course will be held on April 20, from 6 to 9 p.m., and April 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., in Windber, Pa. This course is optional for referees who wish to expand on their skills and knowledge of the game of soccer. For additional information, persons may contact Pete Miller at 301-895-3791.

Board members encourage anyone interested in helping with the league to become a referee. The league has continued to grow and is in need of additional referees.

MARANATHA ASSEMBLY OF GOD

A special Sunday evening service will be held Sunday, April 8, beginning at 7 p.m. The guest singers for the service will be "The Mountain Anthems" from the local area.

A special Good Friday Communion service will be held April 13 beginning at 7 p.m.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

- The town meeting was held Monday, April 2.
- The SHA Streetscaping Project is scheduled to start this week along First Avenue to the Yough Bridge.
- Deputies Valentine and Teets attended the council meeting to discuss various town issues.
- Pastor Ross Glotfelty requested that the mayor and council proclaim the town as a World Day of Prayer Community on Thursday, May 3. His request was approved.
- Ed Lytle requested the use of the park ballfield for Central Garrett Little League practices four evenings a week, starting this week. His request was approved.
- Brenda Frazee, local outreach worker from the health department, and two representatives of the local Crime Watch group requested the use of the walking path at the park for Monday and Wednesday evening from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. for a teen recreational walking activity. Additionally, they requested the use of the volleyball court and basketball court in May and June during the same hours for additional teen activities. This request was granted.
- Work on the new ballfield will continue as soon as the area dries off.
- The Army Corps of Engineers will inspect the original Bear Creek Flood Control project later this month. Residents are reminded that it is illegal to dump any debris onto the banks of either Bear Creek or the Youghiogheny River.
- The town will collect up to 10 used tires per household on April 21 for Tire Amnesty Day. These will be hauled to the fairgrounds for disposal. No commercial tires will be collected.
- The trimming and/or removal of damaged trees is continuing this week. New young trees are being purchased through the DNR tree voucher program to replace the damaged trees.
- April 23-27 is Municipal Government Week. Mayor Schlosnagle is planning several activities for local elementary school students to coordinate with this designation.
- The damaged stormwater drop basin along Oak Street is scheduled to be repaired.
- The Garrett County Sanitary District will be flushing water hydrants in the town of Friendsville on Thursday, April 12. As a result, residents may experience dirty, cloudy water. Residents are urged to refrain from doing laundry. In the case of further problems, persons may call 301-334-1918.
- The next town meeting will be Thursday, April 19, starting at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall.

OAKLAND

- The town meeting was held Monday, April 2.
- The council met with city commissioners to discuss the tax differential, which the town requested. The commissioners have yet to respond.
- The town met with Local Government Insurance Trust (LGIT). For the first time the town will be purchasing insurance from them.
- The town approved four zoning permits.
- The week of April 23-27 has been declared Municipal Government Week. Citizens are invited to visit the city hall.
- A lease agreement with the Little League was discussed. It has not yet been finalized.
- Three council members were sworn in for two-year terms each. They are Jay Moyer, Chris Todd, and Willard Ringer.
- The next town meeting will be May 7.

ACCIDENT

- The town meeting was held Monday, April 2.
- Representatives from Adelphia Cable Company were present to discuss with residents and council members the upcoming "rebuild" project concerning cable TV. No exact dates were given, but the representatives assured citizens that it would be done as soon as the design was finished.
- Two deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office were present to inquire if the town had any problems that officers should be aware of.
- The town would like to remind residents that dogs should be tied up or on a leash. If there are any cases of bothersome dogs, persons should call Garrett County Animal Control in Oakland.
- The council voted on a constant yield tax rate of .224 per $100 full assessment value.
- The council adopted an ordinance concerning the use of jake brakes by trucks traveling along Route 219 through town.
- The second reading of ordinance 2001-1 will be at the next town meeting.
- The next town meeting will be Monday, May 7.

ST. PAUL'S METHODIST

A Lenten service on Friday, April 6, will be held at the church, beginning at 7:30 p.m. This service will feature Norm Arrington, a biblical dramatist from Princeton, W.Va.

A Maundy Thursday service will be held Thursday, April 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the church. Holy Communion will be celebrated at this service.

STATE LINE UNTIED METHODIST CHURCH

A Good Friday service will be held at the church on April 13, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The State Line United Methodist Church is a member of the Grantsville United Methodist Charge and is located seven miles west of Grantsville at the corner of Route 40 and Pigs Ear Road.

MOPS Program Started At Loch Lynn Church

Mothers of Preschoolers (MOPS) is an outreach ministry program recently started by the Loch Lynn Church of God. The meetings are held the first and third Tuesday of the month from September through May, 9 until 11 a.m.

MOPS was designed for mothers of all ages and backgrounds with children under school age who want to learn and listen from other mothers. During the meetings, the children are cared for by volunteers while the mothers participate in projects and discussions.

"Most importantly, MOPS offers the chance to learn about their significance as moms," said Krystal Shreve, publicity team leader. "The job of a mother is not an easy one, and MOPS is there to help moms better themselves as mothers, wives, and women."

Persons wanting more information may call Mary Martin at 301-334-1106 or Krystal Shreve at 301-334-8777.

MOPS PROGRAM SWEEPS INTO Loch Lynn Church of God every first and third Tuesday of the month until May. Participants of MOPS (Mothers of Preschoolers) listen as Cindy Ackerman gives advice and encouragement on motherhood. Seated, clockwise from the bottom, are Jenn Johnson, Debbie Moon, and Karen Kestner. See story for more details.

ing West Virginia University football games.

Although he had been working in North Carolina since shortly after Christmas, Dolan was a Mtn. Lake Park resident at the time of his death. He was employed as a pilot by the Catbird Company of Lincolnton, N.C., hauling canceled checks. Friday's crash, which occurred on a flight between Lincolnton and Concord, reportedly occurred on what was supposed to be his last day of employment with Catbird, as he was scheduled to take a new piloting position in Kentucky shortly after Friday.

"It's certainly a tragic loss for his family," Garrett County commissioner Ernie Gregg said. "Our thoughts and prayers go out to the Dolan family."

See obituary on Page A-8.

DATES ADDED FOR FOOLS -- Because the tickets went like crazy for the Southern High School Department of Theatre's main stage production of Fools: A Comic Fable, director/teacher Jane Avery has announced that the run for the show has been lengthened. In addition to this weekend's performances (which are sold out), the show will be brought back on April 20 and 21 at 8 p.m., and again on Sunday, April 22, at 2 p.m. The play, written by the well-known playwright Neil Simon, is described by Avery as a "ridiculous farce," and is suitable for all ages. Seating reservations are strongly encouraged and can be made by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640. The cast is shown above. Pictured in front are Lacey Holtschneider (student director), Christie Hamliton, Allson Ulino (student director), and John Armstrong. Under the scaffolding, same order, are Ben Peracchio, Anthony Oliverio, and Abbie Getty. Seated are Suzanne Gilbert, Karen Gallagher, and Molly McGowan. Standing behind them are Kyle Snyder, Andrew Hill, and Brandon Mason.

L. Lauretta Van Sickle,

who passed away April 6, 2000

God's Garden Must Be Beautiful

God looked around the garden, and found an empty space.
He looked down upon the earth, and saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you,
and lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful
for He only takes the best.
He knew you that you were weary,
and he knew you were in pain.
He knew that you would never be well on earth again.
He saw the roads were getting rough,
and the hills were hard to climb.
So He closed your weary eyelids and WHISPERED "peace be thine."

In Loving Memory of Robert "Buzz" Glotfelty
who left us April 4, 1999

Even though you have gone away,
In our thoughts and hearts your memory will stay.

You stayed in our lives far awhile,
You left footprints on our hearts and we are never the same. That's the reason why we cry.

One day we will all be in heaven together with the Lord Jesus, and you at last we will see.

Sadly missed by,

Local Elementary Schools Aided By Phone Pioneers

The Bell Atlantic Telephone Pioneers have recently donated funds and books through three separate programs to local elementary schools. Three of the participating schools serve students who reside in areas of the county experiencing high poverty levels.

Crellin, Friendsville, and Kitzmiller elementary schools received stipends totaling $1,000 to help subsidize the purchase of clothing for needy children. Crellin Elementary School spent some of its money to purchase gloves and winter hats for each of the 98 students attending the school.

Principal Keith Harvey said that "the children were so excited to get their gloves — it was like getting a toy. The next day, probably 90 percent of the students were wearing their gloves and hats to school." The remaining money will be used in the spring to buy each child a pair of socks or a T-shirt.

Friendsville Elementary School used some of its money to purchase tennis shoes, jeans, sweatshirts, and socks for most of the children. The school has also targeted 31 students who have profound needs and require assistance with all basic clothing items, but especially coats, hats, boots, and gloves.

Kitzmiller Elementary School purchased a pair of winter gloves for each of the 95 students in kindergarten through fifth grade. The remaining money will be used to provide all students with a new pair of socks.

These three schools also participated in a program called "Kids Under Construction," sponsored by the Telephone Pioneers. This program allows schools to set up incentive programs to address targeted problem areas, such as attendance, work habits, and completion of homework.

The children are given pogs, which they can return in exchange for school needed items. Each school's incentive program varies.

At Crellin Elementary, Clarence Stem, the pioneer volunteer, has conducted a pog exchange every month since it began in November 2000. The children receive pogs for numerous things, such as having their homework planner signed, completing assignments, passing an Accelerated Reader test, making the academic honor roll, and many other reasons deemed worthy by the classroom teacher.

The students at Friendsville Elementary can redeem their pogs twice a year. The pogs are given out based on the Accelerated Reader program point clubs. Nicki O'Brien is the pioneer volunteer at Friendsville.

"Based on what I saw this morning at the store, students will be reading and testing in the Accelerated Reader program more this second half of the year," said Douglas Gaither, principal. "The items in the store are very useful."

According to Kitzmiller Elementary principal Sheila Miller, the Pioneer Program is a positive program for our school and students. The volunteer at Kitzmiller is Larry Cosner.

Once a month, students may bring their pogs to the store. "Students are beginning to save their pogs for an item that costs extra pogs, an economic lesson in action," Miller said. "We are very thankful for the time, effort, and expense given to the students at Kitzmiller."

All elementary schools in the county participated in the Book 'Em Program. This program allows every elementary school student to receive a book. There were 2,352 books ordered this year for students. The cost of the donated books was approximately $10,000.

Volunteers go to each school and read to the students. The volunteer readers are Shirley Higdon, Accident; Bea Miller and Freda Iden, Broad Ford; Clarence Stem, Crellin and Swan Meadow; Larry Cosner, Dennett Road and Kitzmiller; Nicki O'Brien, Friendsville and Grantsville; Buck Trautwein, Route 40; Na Wolfe and Helen Schroyer, Yough Glades.

Northern GOP Women Convene

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met March 29 at Hill Top Inn, Grantsville, for the club's first meeting for the year. This was primarily a planning meeting.

President Carolyn Ganoe and Lillian Crowe attended and helped to host the statewide Md. Federation of Republican Women's spring board of directors meeting held at Rocky Gap Lodge, Cumberland. They gave a report of that meeting.

The proposed budget was approved, and speakers for the meetings will be contacted. Get-well cards were sent to Leanna Layman, Mary Durst, and Hazel Klotz. Responsible for the fund-raiser fruit basket for April are Lorene Hafer, Lillian Crowe, Carolyn Ganoe, and Charlotte Sebold.

The next meeting will be held April 24 at Hill Top Inn at 7 p.m.

The following members were present: Mildred Husselbaugh, Lillian Crowe, Zeola Robeson, Carolyn Ganoe, Twila Mae Fike, Louise McKenzie, and Cleda Baker. Refreshments were served by the inn.

RAM Notes

- Southern High parents who want to help plan the 10th annual After-Prom event are encouraged to attend planning meetings that are held every Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the school. Parents with questions should contact Lisa Bender at 301-334-9447. This year's prom is slated for April 28.
- The guidance office has been informed that we can continue to mail in applications for the guaranteed access grant and HOPE Scholarships, even though the deadline was March 1.
- The school play, Neil Simon's Fools: A Comic Fable, will be presented to students at Our Town Theatre on April 5 and 6.
- The third term ended Wednesday, April 4.
- New members will be inducted into the National Honor Society this evening, April 5, at 7 p.m.
- The Tri-State Math Contest is being held today at Allegany High School.

Thank You

We would like to say thanks to all the people for all their love and prayers, also for the food, cards & flowers during the illness and after the death of our loved one, many flaws, restored some much-needed health care funding, including $30 million for mental health and $6.5 million for a prescription drug plan for the elderly, said Hoffman.

Senate Approves

The General Assembly also retained a controversial $5 million subsidy for private school textbooks, an allocation that troubled Sen. Delores Kelley, D-Baltimore.

"This budget, given some line items in it, causes me some great moral concern," she said, adding it should go to public schools instead.

Many senators dissatisfied with the budget focused their frustration on a $450,000 allocation for a State Police airplane in the governor's supplemental budget released Friday. The aircraft would be used to transport extradited criminals, but the governor also would have access to it. The airplane now used is 20 years old and is often in for repairs, said Hoffman.

The House opposed funding for the new airplane, but the Senate favored it. The money was retained after a joint conference committee reconciled the two chambers' differences.

Sen. Andrew Harris, R-Baltimore County, was upset the governor inserted the funding so late.

Sen. Thomas Bromwell, D-Baltimore, voted for the budget, but he objected to the joint committee report, saying he wanted more money for mental health and health care programs.

Bromwell disagreed with some of the House's positions on the budget, and he also felt his constituents would be outraged by spending money on an airplane.

"That airplane is going to be an albatross around my neck," Bromwell said.

Hoffman reminded the Senate the governor's budget was unbalanced at the outset, and the committees that cut funds from it had to work with what they were given.

"We did the best we could," she said.

As I am involved in genealogy and the heritage that has created these counties of Allegany and Garrett, I want to point out the valuable resource that we are losing. Our historical societies work very closely with buildings, and preserving and renovation of structures that are very important, but there have not been any funds directed to the preservation of the old, abandoned cemeteries throughout our counties. I know that we are visited by thousands of people every year who are looking for information on their genealogy and their ancestors who were living in this area long ago. Most of them are buried in what is now state owned forest, and there is limited access to them. Researchers are sad and upset when they look at the deplorable condition of these forgotten cemeteries.

I feel that there needs to be a program to preserve these old cemeteries. The labor would be easy to come by. using community service as a resource for this task. Also we could look within the communities, such as churches or non-profit organizations, just to start an "adopt a cemetery" program.

Most of the cemeteries that I am referring to are on the state-held lands and they are disappearing due to the undergrowth, falling timber and brush, and access to them. I am sure that the state knows where most of these are and the state would have to be involved in this program to ensure that it is done properly. Only by being done properly will this program work. The first part would take the most work, and that would be locating cemeteries and cleaning them up. We should be the first state to use global positioning of these cemeteries and the recording of them on future maps.

I talked to County Commissioner Fred Holliday, and he said that he would be in support of such a program if it were done properly. I know that State Forester Warren Groves had a study done to locate as many cemeteries as possible on the state-held lands. We need the public to get involved in this very important task before we lose this resource.

Two things that are sacred in these counties are church property and cemeteries. We cannot afford to ignore and lose these remaining markers of those early settlers (our heritage) in our counties.

Please, call the commissioners and state representatives to voice support for the locating, clean-up, and preservation of these forgotten cemeteries in our midst.

Old Frostburg Road

Editor's Note: The writer of the following letter to the Deep Creek Lake policy and review board requested that it be published in this column.

To: Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board

I attended the meeting between concerned Deep Creek Lake Property Owners and the DCL Policy & Review Board on Saturday, March 17, and listened carefully to both sides of the discussion. I came away insulted by the logic the proponents of the tour boat were attempting to sell.

To begin with, we should characterize this initiative as what it is. This is simply an attempt by an individual business owner to profit on a potential opportunity afforded by the existence of Deep Creek Lake. The insult to one's intelligence is the implication that this is an altruistic offering to all Maryland taxpayers.

Certainly, all Maryland taxpayers have the right to use Deep Creek Lake in any way the state makes access to the lake available to them. But taxpayers already have access to rides and tours of the lake, both through use of the state operated facilities on the lake and through the many commercial marina operators who are willing to rent boats of any size currently within the allowed limits. And if one chooses not to rent a boat, opportunities to tour the lake on boats that meet existing regulations can easily be accommodated.

What this new proposal is about is increasing the size of boats to the point where individual groups that are too large to have "floating parties" within the existing rules and regulations can be accommodated.

Mr. Eiswert (lawyer representing Bob Browning) stated "this is the state's lake and everyone has the right to reasonably use it." Well, everyone does have a reasonable right to use the lake under the current regulations, including anyone who wants to charge for tours. Mr. Eiswert is not arguing for every taxpayer's rights, he is arguing for one person's desire to change reasonable regulations.

An additional problem is the six year sunset clause needed by the business venture to justify its capital investment. Why is the business venture the only benefactor of a sunset clause? Those who may have legitimate objections based on safety, noise, and other concerns ought to be protected by a sunset clause as well. It is reasonable for everyone to have fair protection under any sunset clause. Six years is not fair to those who may raise a legitimate concern in the first year of operation. Why should they have to tolerate legitimate concerns or objections for six years?

I don't understand why the board seems almost unanimous in support of a proposal that demands changing regulations simply to accommodate an individual business venture. Their primary consideration ought to be a determination of whether or not the existing rules and regulations are proper for the safety and reasonable use of a facility that can easily be overstressed. The board should decide if the existing rules are inappropriate, then change them for all boats. But don't buy the argument that one or two boats deserve special consideration. If Mr. Browning gets an exception, then why not me and everyone else?

And finally, for the realtors, Chamber of Commerce, and others who seem to be buying into the concept that increased tourism is the answer to all of Garrett County's problems, I would point out that excessive commercialization in the lake area is an important issue. It may already be out of control, and if we continue to view the lake as a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, we may soon find we have killed the goose that laid the golden egg.

Sincerely,
John F. Canavan

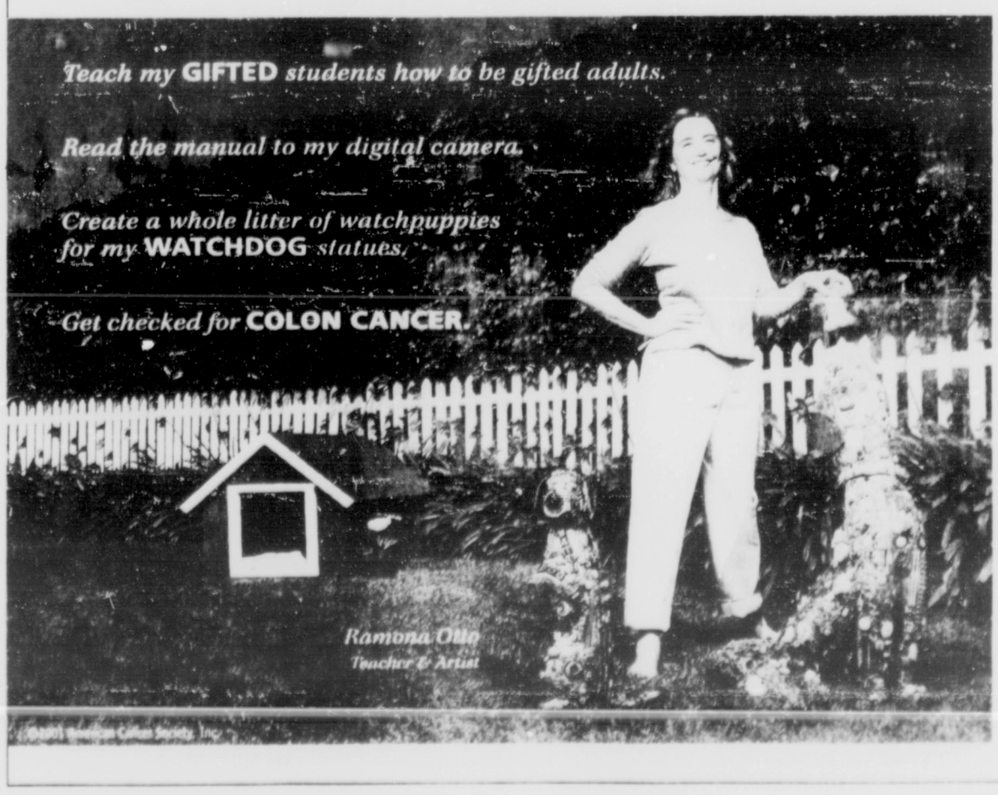
Things to do now that I'm 50.



Colon cancer is the second leading cancer killer in the U.S. And it affects women just as often as it affects men. But if it is caught in its early stages, colon cancer patients have a 90% survival rate. Make it a personal goal to get checked when you turn 50. That way, you'll have plenty of time to get to everything else on your list. Call your American Cancer Society any time, day or night, for free information on colon cancer.

Huskies Walk Over Westmar; Tripped Up By Allegany, FH

Neither the lone win nor the two losses sustained by Northern High School's varsity baseball team this week were a pretty sight, in action that leaves NHS with a 1-3 record and still in search of consistency in all phases of the game. The Huskies took a 13-8 victory over Westmar Friday via five errors and numerous walks, fell to a powerhouse Allegany squad 12-2 Tuesday in Cumberland, and committed six errors in yesterday's 8-5 loss at Fort Hill. NHS's offensive production was limited to three hits against the Wildcats, and four hits against both the Campers and Sentinels.

Friday's contest was the second half of a twilight twinbill for host Westmar that day. The cold, damp environs of the Lonaconing field made for a miserable climate for baseball, and both teams' pitchers and fielders struggled to keep hands and throwing arms warm enough to carry out their assignments.

Westmar scored three runs in the opening inning under starting pitcher Greg Speicher's watch, but the Huskies crossed the plate for seven runs in the top of the third with the help of seven walks and two Westmar errors. Things got out of hand in the bottom of the third inning as well, when Westmar scored four times to knot the score at 7-all.

Northern grabbed the lead permanently with a five-run sixth inning that took the score to 12-7 as Speicher singled and Bryan Lenhart stroked a three-run double. Both teams scored once in the seventh inning to finish up with NHS on top by five.

Both teams sent a parade of pitchers to the mound, as Speicher was relieved by Lenhart after four innings of work, and Lenhart in turn was replaced by Dan Vagnetti. Westmar's Chad Kroll pitched the first three innings, then Andrew Nichol, Bobby Alkire, and Jarrett Rishel were each summoned for duty during the 'Cats walk-plagued fourth. Bud Fazenbaker was the fifth and final Westmar moundsman.

As mentioned earlier, Northern mounted only three hits for the contest, a double and a single by Speicher and Lenhart's double that drove in three runs. Westmar had 10 hits on the day as Fazenbaker punched out three singles, Sid Bittinger singled twice, and Rishel stroked a double. Neither team's defense had a good day, as the Huskies committed a glaring seven errors and the Wildcats muffed the ball five times.

Tuesday's sun made for a much better day for baseball in Cumberland, but the host Campers made much more of the springlike conditions by putting together an almost flawless performance.

Wolf put the Huskies on the board first when he cracked a two-run home run off Alco starter Aaron Laffey in the top of the first inning. Allegany answered with a pair of runs in the bottom half of the stanza to knot the score at 2-all.

It was all Alco from then on out, as the Campers scored once in the second and three times in the third before forcing starter Lenhart from the mound. The relievers fared no better, for Elliott Perfetti and Aaron Mitchell shared fourth inning duty that resulted in five Allegany runs. Two of those scores came on walks and two more resulted from a Jon Irons RBI single. Allegany added another run in the bottom of the fifth inning for the final 10-run margin.

Wolf added a single to his home run to account for two of NHS's four-hit output, while Ryan Strother paced Allegany by going 2 for 2 with a single and a triple, Chris Smith homered, and Irons drove home three runs. The Campers had nine hits overall.

Yesterday at Fort Hill the Huskies scored three times in the top of the first inning to take a quick 3-0 lead. The Sentinels answered with a run in the bottom of the stanza. Northern scored twice in the top of the third to go up 5-1, but FH struck back with three runs in the bottom half of the inning to pull within one run.

Neither team crossed the plate again until the bottom of the fifth, when Fort Hill scored a run to knot the score at 5-all. The Sentinels took control in the sixth by scoring three times to go up by the final 8-5 margin.

Rams Downed By Bishop Walsh In Tennis Opener

The Southern High School varsity tennis teams were both tripped up by Bishop Walsh in the Rams' weather-delayed season opener Tuesday in Cumberland. The girls fell in a 4-3 squeaker, and the boys were downed 5-2.

The girls' match was decided after the first four singles battles, as BW took each of those four, including a top-seed match-up between SHS's Britney Ashby and BW's Jen Tola that ended with Tola nipping the Ram by 9-7 margin. Southern turned the tide in the fifth singles match when Kristen Stanton eked out a 9-7 victory, and her effort inspired her Ram teammates, who went on to claim both doubles matches. Ashby and Maria Watkins mopped the court for an 8-0 triumph in the first doubles match-up, and Tasha Seilhamer and Stephanie Smith did likewise in their 8-1 win.

The SHS boys got off to a good start when Josh Stephens took an 8-5 win in the battle of top singles seeds, but BW claimed each of the four remaining singles matches by fairly convincing margins. The Spartans also took the opening doubles match, but Kody Morfoot and Steve Teagarden prevailed in an 8-2 finale over their opposing BW tandem.

Southern's home opener will take place Monday in Oakland when the Rams host Beall. SHS travels to Northern on Thursday for a 4:30 p.m. cross-county match-up.

MT. VIEW WINS VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT - The high school girls from Mountain View Christian School participated in a volleyball tournament at Oil City, Pa., on March 9. In its first match against Huntingdon Christian Academy, Mt. View came away with 15-1 and 15-4 victories. The teams second match was against Faith Christian Academy, which was the home team. Mt. View defeated the girls, 15-3 and 15-4, which put them in the championship. Next Mt. View again faced Faith Christian Academy. This time the team also won in the best-of-five final round. The scores were 15-8, 15-10, and 15-5, which made Mt. View the undefeated champion of the tournament. Michelle Yoder, Grantsville, made the all-tournament team, and Crystal Yoder, Grantsville, was the MVP of the tournament. Team members pictured above are, front row, left to right: Melody Sommers, Michelle Yoder, Crystal Yoder, and Monica Sommers. In the back row, same order, are: Crystal Dornburg, Angela Yoder, coach Rachel Petersheim, Rose Beachy, and Chrystal Beitzel.

NHS Falls To Sentinels In Softball Play

Northern high school's varsity softball team is being tested with adversity early this year, as the Huskies' record fell to 0-2 after a 12-1 defeat at the hands of Fort Hill in Cumberland Tuesday. The Sentinels walked their way to victory, as they drew 15 bases on balls while recording just one-hit, a two-run double by Jennifer Vance. In turn, NHS's offense managed only three hits off FH's Vance, who struck out 11 batters.

Fort Hill scored twice in the first inning, four times in the second, and once in the third before Northern got on the board with a run in the fourth to make the score 7-1. The Sentinels scored five times in the bottom of that stanza before the game was called on account of the 10-run rule.

NHS shortstop Bridget Frazee singled twice and backstop Amanda Frantz whacked a double for all three of Northern's hits. Jolene Brenneman worked all five innings on the mound for the Huskies.

Northern (0-2) visits Westmar Monday and Salisbury Thursday.

Rams Hammer Alco Before Embarrassing Preston, 33-1

The varsity baseball team of Southern High School upped its season mark to 3-0 this week, as the defending regional champion Rams blasted host Allegany, 11-1, on Monday in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League clash, and then embarrassed visiting Preston High School yesterday, 33-1. Scheduled games against Preston and Hampshire on Friday and Saturday, respectively, had to be postponed because of weather conditions.

Chad Panther rapped a double and two singles in the Rams' 14-hit effort against Allegany on Monday, while Justin DiSimone smacked a three-run homer and a single. Ricky Reams and Chris Remley each singled twice for the Rams, and Jared Fike and winning pitcher Bryson Meyers each contributed a double.

Meyers pitched six innings for Southern, scattered four hits, fanned seven batters, and walked just two before being relieved by Josh Fitzwater, who allowed one hit and struck out three batters in the seventh inning.

It was an RBI double by Fike that gave the Rams a 1-0 lead in the first inning. After Allegany tied it in the bottom of that frame on an RBI single by Matt Miller, the Rams took the lead for good with a run in the second on Panther's run-producing double.

Southern's four-run fourth inning was highlighted by DiSimone's two-out, three-run blast. The Rams added three insurance runs in the sixth and two more in the seventh.

Smith hit a pair of singles for the Campers, and Chris Smith had a double.

The Rams scored a record 24 runs in the second inning against visiting Preston yesterday and finished with a total of 21 hits to up their record to 3-0.

Southern's half of the second inning featured a two-run homer by Tobi Stoner and a solo blast by Chris Remley.

The Rams added nine more runs in the fifth frame, in which Josh Fitzwater ripped a solo homer.

Joel Helbig led the slaughter at the plate, as he finished with four singles.

The Knights, who finished with just one hit off Ram pitchers Tobi Stoner, Bryan Houser, and Jared Fike, were also plagued by nine errors. The trio struck out a total of 11 batters and issued just three walks, with Stoner getting the win.

The Rams are scheduled to play at Bishop Walsh this Friday, travel to Fort Hill on Monday, and meet Westmar next Wednesday in Lonaconing.

"KISS IT GOODBYE!" Southern High Ram Chris Remley makes perfect contact with the ball (see ball upper left) against a Preston High pitcher in yesterday's game between the Rams and the Knights, which ended in an incredibly lopsided, 33-1, victory for undefeated Southern. Remley's blast, a solo shot, came in the Rams' record-setting 24-run second inning. Stroking a two-run homer in that same frame was winning pitcher Tobi Stoner, who is pictured below left on the mound. Playing first base (far right) is Southern's Jared Fike. Southern's Flawless Softball Earns 3-0 Win Over Sentinels

The varsity softball squad of Southern High School put in seven near-perfect innings of play Saturday afternoon to take a 3-0 win at Fort Hill. Autumn Uphold, Jennifer Bosley, and Ashley Liller each scored, Bosley gave up only three hits in a complete-game,20-strikeout performance, and the Rams' defense did not commit a single error. SHS coach Dave Bosley's 2-0 squad was slated to host Preston in yesterday's home opener, but that contest was postponed.

The Rams jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first when Uphold scored on a fielder's choice, followed by Bosley's score from third on another fielder's choice. Liller scored the third and final run from the same location in the third inning.

SHS's offense mounted a total of six hits, including two singles apiece by Uphold and Liller. Fort Hill (2-1) managed to punch out three singles off Bosley, who sent 20 of the 24 batters she faced overall trudging back to the dugout after striking out.

The junior varsity contest was a different story, however, as Southern's jayvees fell by a 16-6 margin in five innings. Melissa Flanagan and Theresa Lucas each singled twice for the Rams.

SHS will get a big test Saturday in a trio of contests at Martinsburg, W.Va., when they challenge some much larger schools, including Martinsburg and University High of Morgantown, W.Va. The Rams' schedule reports that Southern will take the field at 10 a.m., noon, and 2 p.m. The third opponent has yet to be named. The Rams then visit Beall Tuesday and Westmar Thursday in a pair of 4:30 p.m. contests.

Lakers Drop Four Of Five, Watch Record Dip To 8-9

It was not a great week on the baseball diamond for the Garrett Community College Lakers, who split a doubleheader last Thursday with CCAC-South in Pittsburgh, winning the first, 5-3, and losing the second, 7-2; lost a doubleheader to Essex on Tuesday, 7-1 and 1-0; and then let a 6-0 lead against visiting Potomac State College evaporate into a 7-6 defeat. The 1-4 results left Coach Ed Wildesen and the Lakers with an 8-9 record.

The Lakers scored all five of their runs in the fifth inning of the first game against CCAC-South last Thursday, as Dan Kochenderfer ripped a three-run homer in that frame to wipe out the home team's 3-0 lead going into that inning.

The Lakers' half of the fifth began with back-to-back walks drawn by Joe Carper and Chad Cooper, followed by RBI singles by Tim Casey and Craig Barkey. Then Kochenderfer homered down the left-field line to play Casey and Barkey.

Kochenderfer also recorded a pair of singles to account for a third of the Lakers' nine hits. Casey finished with two singles.

Going the distance and getting the win on the mound was former Southern Ram Josh Bosley, who scattered eight hits, allowed only one earned run, struck out two, and walked two. The win upped his personal record to 2-1 for the season.

The Laker defense helped Bosley in his effort by turning a pair of double plays in the early innings. After scoring single runs in the first, third, and fourth innings, CCAC-South was held scoreless over the final three frames.

The GCC defense faltered in the third inning of the second game, however, by committing four errors and allowing the South players to score all seven of their runs in that frame.

The Lakers were out-hit by just a 7-6 margin, with Cooper and Bosley each getting two singles.

Details of the twinbill loss to Essex on Tuesday were not received.

The Lakers built a 6-0 lead in yesterday's contest with visiting Potomac State, scoring two runs in the first inning, two in the second, and one each in the third and fourth, but the Catamounts broke a six-inning scoreless streak with four runs in the seventh and three more in the ninth to get their 12th win in 17 starts.

Adam Skocik's two-run homer in the first inning gave the Lakers a 2-0 advantage, and Josh Bosley put GCC's fifth run on the board with a solo shot in the third.

The Catamounts' four-run seventh was highlighted by a two-run single by Wayne Sager, and Morgan Clendenin smacked a three-run homer in the ninth to give PSC the victory.

Skocik had a single and a double to go with his two-run homer, while Kochenderfer added two singles in the Lakers' 10-hit effort.

Sager had two singles for PSC.

Jason DiAngelo had to take the loss on the mound, despite striking out a dozen batters. Relievers Mike Berry and Jeff Earley combined with DiAngelo for a total of 16 strike-outs, while allowing a total of seven hits.

The Lakers' next encounter will be a doubleheader this Saturday at Penn State Fayette. They will travel to Ohio on Sunday to play a twinbill with the Marietta junior varsity, host Hagerstown CC next Tuesday in a doubleheader, and then play another single game against Potomac State next Wednesday in Keyser.

PITCHING AN EXCELLENT GAME in a losing cause yesterday for the Garrett Community College Lakers was Jason DiAngelo, shown above firing a pitch to a Potomac State College batter. DiAngelo pitched six scoreless innings and struck out 12 batters, only to see his team give up a 6-0 lead and have to accept a 7-6 defeat. The Lakers, who are 8-9 this season, will attempt to get back above the .500 mark this Saturday in a doubleheader with Penn State Fayette.

Road Trip Nets Husky Tennis Teams 4-3 Wins Over Campers

Northern High School's boys' and girls' tennis squads both recorded their first wins of the young season as each unit downed their Allegany counterparts 4-3 Monday in Cumberland. The action gave both NHS programs a 1-2 record heading into this afternoon's match at Frankfort.

The Northern girls' win was especially sweet as the Allegany girls had brought an undefeated record into the match. The Huskies ran up a 3-0 lead at the start as top seed Ashley Robinson recorded an 8-6 victory, Heather Lander netted a big 8-2 win, and Renee Meyers staved off her opponent in a hard-fought 9-8, 7-5 match. Alco then struck back with two singles and a doubles win, but with the match deadlocked at 3-all the NHS doubles team of Amber Weimer and Emily Downton recorded an 8-4 triumph to seal the Northern victory.

NHS's boys' team took Allegany down to the wire before falling by in the doubles final. The Campers had opened the match with a singles victory, then Northern's Woody Kenner answered with an 8-6 win that sparked Mark Bergstrom and Adam Brenneman to crushing 8-1 triumphs in their respective matches. The Huskies closed out singles play with a loss, but rebounded as the doubles team of Mike Fletcher and Kenner destroyed their opponents 8-2. The match went to the final doubles competition, where the NHS tandem was downed in an 8-6 nail-biter.

After today's outing at Frankfort, Northern will return home to host a rematch with Allegany at 4 p.m. Tuesday. The week's action closes out with a Thursday, April 12, visit to Southern. The first service of the cross-county match will be fired across the net at 4:30 p.m.

Rams Place Second In Season-Opening Track Meet At Keyser

The boys' and girls' track and field teams of Southern High School opened their 2001 seasons this week by competing in a tri-meet at Keyser on Monday and in the Fort Hill Invitational yesterday.

At Keyser, both Ram teams placed second behind the host school, while Allegany's teams finished third. The Keyser boys earned 71 team points, Southern finished with 61, and Allegany recorded 37.

The Keyser girls amassed 93 points, followed by Southern with 67 and Allegany with 12.

Kyle Snyder, Matt Stephens, and Matt Frederick each won an individual first place for the Rams. Snyder won the shot put with a throw of 42'4", and also placed third in the discus. Stephens captured first place in the long jump with a leap of 19'7", and was second in the high jump and 110 high hurdles. Frederick won the 3,200-meter run with a time of 11:13.

Also placing first for the Rams were the 400-, 800-, and 1,600-meter relay teams. Brandon Heselbach, Jeremy Lear, Keith Steyer, and Mike VanBogelen won the 400 in a time of 47.2 seconds. Karl Hillen, Lear, Steyer, and VanBogelen captured the 800 race in 1:40, and Hillen, Lear, Bryan Schwalm, and Josh Sharon won the 1,600-meter relay in 3:46.6.

Sharon finished second in the 800 run, and Steyer was second in the 200 dash.

Leading the Southern girls was Justine Pagenhardt, who won the 800 and 1,600 runs in respective times of 2:48 and 6:06, and was also a member of the winning 3,200 relay team.

Melissa Durst won the high jump with a leap of 4'4" and was also on the winning relay team. Brittany Naylor was also a double winner, as she captured first place in the 3,200 run with a time of 12:53 and was on the winning relay team.

The fourth member of the 3,200 relay team, which won with a time of 10:55, was Natalie Domenick.

Domenick also placed second in the 800 and 1,600 runs, while Durst was second in the 400. Jenny Hickman earned second places in the 100 and 300 hurdles, while Nikki Ravenscroft was second in the high jump.

The Fort Hill Sentinels won both the girls' and boys' titles in their own invitational yesterday, but details of that event were not received by presstime.

Railey Realty Waffle Run Set For Saturday

The annual Railey Realty 5-kilometer Waffle Run and 2-mile fun walk will be held this Saturday, April 7, at 9 a.m. at the Wisp Resort, McHenry. The event is co-sponsored by Wisp and the Queen City Striders.

The race is held along Marsh Hill Road, starting and finishing in the Wisp parking lot. A waffle breakfast is served following the race in a restaurant at the Wisp. Awards will be presented to the overall male and female winners of both the run and the walk, plus random prize drawings will be held.

Registration will be held from 7:45 to 8:50 a.m. on the day of the race. The registration fee is $10, and all proceeds benefit the Queen City Striders' Finish Line Clock Fund. Persons may also pre-register by sending a check to: Queen City Striders, P.O. Box 36, Cumberland, MD 21501.

For more information about the event, persons may telephone Mike Kozier at 301-387-7114.

Youth Turkey Hunt Set For April 14

Maryland will hold a youth turkey hunt on Saturday, April 14. The one-day hunt allows young people up to age 16 to hunt wild turkeys when accompanied by an unarmed, licensed adult 21 years old or older.

To participate in the one-day hunt, each young hunter must possess a valid resident junior hunting license, resident hunting license, or a nonresident hunting license, or must be exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements. Each young hunter must be accompanied in the field by an unarmed adult, at least 21 years old, who possesses a valid Maryland hunting license or is exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements.

Each eligible young hunter can harvest one bearded turkey. The harvested turkey will count toward the spring season bag limit of two turkeys. Young hunters are reminded to practice safe hunting techniques, including making sure the target is positively identified before shooting.

The Maryland Chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation (NWTF) will acknowledge those young hunters who participate in this event by giving them a youth turkey hunter patch after they complete a registration form or an official turkey checking station.

The NWTF is a national conservation and education organization dedicated to conserving wild turkeys and preserving hunting traditions, and has sponsored similar events around the country. "The NWTF strongly supports the introduction of our youth to turkey hunting," said Robert Abernathy, director of agency programs for the NWTF. "Hunting is an activity that brings generations together in the outdoors."

For additional information concerning Maryland turkey hunting regulations, interested persons may consult the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 2000-2001. For further information about turkey hunting opportunities on public lands, persons may consult the Guide to Public Hunting Lands in Maryland 2000-2001. Both publications are issued to hunters when they purchase a 2000-2001 hunting license; they are available at all DNR Service Centers and can be found on DNR's web site at www.dnr.state.md.us.

Volunteers Adopt 3-D Bow Range In State Forest

After a meeting in February, local bow shooters decided to adopt the 3-D bow range located in the Potomac-Garrett State Forest when they were told one of the reasons for the delayed opening last year was limited manpower.

The group, consisting of Ken Hardesty, Jay Tasker, Jim Sweitzer, Larry Hardesty, and Moonie Moon, met with the Potomac-Garrett State Forest manager, John Denning, and Stan Ford, maintenance supervisor, to discuss the adoption.

Denning explained that the range was not opened on time last year, as funding was not available to rehire the seasonal staff until later in the spring. Without regular seasonal staff in place, facilities were not opened until two weeks into the season.

The shooters were aware that there were sufficient targets to set out, as the range was in full operation upon its scheduled closing last fall. The group decided on the name "The Bethlehem Bow Hunters" and would volunteer their manpower to assure the opening of the range for the spring season, which started April 1.

The range will be open seven days a week, with shooting hours ½ hour before sunrise to ½ hour after sunset until September 9. The cost is $5 a round.

In addition to an early opening, the bow hunters will be sponsoring a new, summer 3-D league, which is an "open-fun" league for everyone. The 16-week league will run from April 14 until July 28.

On August 5, there will be a free recognition tournament for all league shooters who qualify. Awards will be given to the top three tournament shooters in each class. The classes are youth, women, hunter, and open.

All proceeds from this league will go toward the maintenance and upkeep of the Potomac-Garrett State Forest 3-D Archery Range.

Persons wanting further information may call Ken Hardesty, 301-334-2017; Jay Tasker, 301-387-4050; Jim Sweitzer, 301-533-0203; Larry Hardesty, 301-334-2629; or Moonie Moon, 301-334-9113; or visit the bulletin board at the range.

ROTARIANS SUPPORT RAMS - The boys' and girls' varsity basketball teams received financial support recently from the Oakland Rotary Club to help finance the Rams' trips to College Park and Catonsville for the Maryland 1A tournaments. Both teams qualified as members of the state's "final four," with the SHS girls' team finishing with the state runner-up trophy. The Rotary club donated $250 to each program. Pictured from left above are: Don Stemple, girls' varsity coach; Ken Perrin, president of the club; and Tom Bosley, boys' varsity coach.

3-D RANGE ADOPTED AT POTOMAC-GARRETT STATE FOREST — A local sportsmen's group has volunteered and adopted the 3-D range at the state forest near Oakland. This group has also organized a new 3-D league at this facility. Pictured above are Larry Hardesty, Jay Tasker, and Jim Sweitzer setting up target platforms. See story on page A-15.

Budget Plans

Dwight Emory, roads engineer, and Fred Polce, superintendent of roads, met with the commissioners Tuesday to go over the request. They pointed out several major bridge projects, including the replacement of the Savage River bridge at a cost of about $393,245, and the replacement of the Avilton-Lonaconing bridge, for which the county is required to pay $136,000. Other bridges to be replaced are the Rabbit Hollow bridge across Little Bear Creek and the Glade Run bridge. The combined cost of these two replacements is about $90,500.

The county has agreed to work with the State Highway Administration on the installation of traffic lights on Rt. 219 at the intersections of Glendale and Mosser roads. This carries a price tag of $49,750 for the county.

The department also plans to upgrade the intersection of Rt. 495 and Sky Valley Road, a crossroads that has been deemed highly dangerous. Three dump trucks are needed, according to the budget proposal, as well as three bucket trucks and a power broom.

Polce said he is planning for another severe winter next year and has upped the allotment for snow removal costs. This year the county roads department has spent $1.5 million in this area.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Ken Wishnick, executive director of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, met with the commissioners last Tuesday to review the chamber's proposed budget. Several representatives of the chamber were present for the discussion.

This year the chamber is asking for $530,000 in county budget funds, up $130,000 from last year. The core elements for the increases are a payroll raise of 4% (from $170,000 to $178,150, plus added FICA and state/federal unemployment costs of about $3,750) and increased postage and shipping costs (Vacation Guide postage up from $70,000 to $90,000).

Wishnick stressed that the accommodations tax collections have been steadily on the rise in the county since 1991, with a 31% jump over the past few years. Last year the tax amounted to about $478,000 for the county.

Wishnick asserted that the chamber and its members, through collaboration, are largely responsible for this increase, so the entity should be allotted a large portion of this income. The chamber members said they would like to have a set percentage of the accommodations tax allotted to their organization each year.

New elements to be covered in this year's budget include a proposed joint marketing program between Allegany and Garrett counties. Each county is to put $25,000 into the effort, with another $50,000 to come from the state government. Advertising costs for the chamber are being increased by $25,000, and a web site reconstruction plan is coming in at about $20,000.

The chamber has reduced its expenses for the annual Autumn Glory Festival in its continuing effort to delegate responsibilities for various components of the festival. For example, the Dove Center recently agreed to take over the annual fiddle and banjo contest, which reduced the chamber's costs by about $14,472. Other cost savings within the chamber, including the use of a less costly paper for the Vacation Guide, equal over $30,000.

A $1.4 million construction project designed to provide water to the area is under way, with funding already secured in the form of grants and loans, also from the USDA. Additional money is expected to be given by the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Maryland Department of the Environment, and the State Highway Administration.

Petrella said this initial district creation will only serve those residences and businesses located north of I-68, but that as interest grows among the residents south of the highway, the addition of those properties can be pursued.

Lamonica explained that a district court commissioner is an officer of the court whose function is to accept applications for statement of charges from law enforcement officers and the public who wish to press criminal charges against someone. Additionally a commissioner conducts initial appearance hearings for persons who have been arrested, and determines the conditions of pre-trial release. Commissioners accept bail bonds for those persons held on bond and provide information about other court functions.

SPY KIDS

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:28 - Released 3/30/01

If you thought that all kids' movies except big-budget cartoons have to be of low quality, well . . . April Fool. Spy Kids, written and directed by up-and-coming filmmaker Robert Rodriguez (El Mariachi, The Faculty), is full of action and beautifully eye-catching effects, but it's also refreshingly well-written and intelligent for a film aimed at the pre-teen market. Its two young stars, Alexa Vega (who already has quite an impressive list of credits for a 13-year-old, including Ghosts of Mississippi and The Deep End Of The Ocean) and Daryl Sabara (in his big-screen debut) represent perhaps the film's weakest point; their performances are surprisingly dull considering the exciting spy/fantasy situations they repeatedly find themselves in. But their lackluster deliveries do not seriously hamper the film's overall effect, as there is enough heft to Rodriguez's script, not to mention cool gadgetry and colorful scenery, to keep the interest level high. Another point in its favor is the calibre of the adult cast, featuring some not-too-shabby names for a kids' movie: Antonio Banderas, Alan Cumming, Teri Hatcher, and even a surprise cameo by hot commodity George Clooney.

We meet bored pre-teenager Carmen Cortez (Vega) and her ineffectual little brother Juni (Sabara) during an average day in their suburban home. But we soon learn that their parents, Gregorio (Banderas) and Ingrid (Carla Gugino) are far from average; in fact, until they retired and settled down, they were the two hottest international spies in the business. What made it even more exciting was that they were on opposite sides. Despite having sworn off espionage, however, Gregorio and Ingrid can't resist taking one more case, and the kids are left with an uncle (Cheech Marin). But they soon find themselves captured by the maniacal Fegan Floop (Alan Cumming), producer and host of the hit kids' TV show "Floop's Flooglies," and only Carmen and Juni can save them from his bizarre island hideaway.

In many ways, this film resembles 1971's Willy Wonka & The Chocolate Factory, not only because it features a quirky recluse locked in a fantastic palace full of surprises, but because of its wildly colorful visual design which recollects the trippy, psychedelic styles of Peter Max or Yellow Submarine. Cumming's performance as Floop is lighthearted and fun, as is that of Tony Shalhoub as his minion, Minion, who turns out to be the real bad guy. Banderas and Gugino are sexy and savvy as the parental spies, but can do the schtick when the need arises. There are some rather dark aspects to the story, and younger children might be nonplussed by its occasionally nightmarish imagery, but as the final reel winds down we get the traditional message about those pure of heart succeeding in the end, including former villains who finally see the light. Overall, Spy Kids is suitably fun, exciting, and clever to appeal to moviegoers both young and old. ★★★★

Rated R - Running Time: 1:35 - Released 3/30/01

If your idea of quality entertainment is a line of groomsmen at a wedding all sporting massive fake erections under their tuxedoes, or a surgically-removed testicle bouncing down the hospital stairs like a Superball, or a roomful of scantily clad, giggling, twentysomething females lining up to have sex with the same guy, Tomcats is your kind of movie. Written and directed by Gregory Poirier, one of the 8-man writing team for See Spot Run (which should be enough said), the film reaches astounding new lows in boys-will-be-boys humor, not to mention pushing the envelope of gross-out gags. In his first turn as director, Poirer attempts to cash in on the tasteless comedy phase, but the only laughs derived from this sophomoric, misogynistic piece of trash are laughs of incredulity at how stupid it is. It's like a 1½-hour David Lee Roth video. What is most astonishing to me is that any woman, any woman, would sign on to this type of tittie flick. But as I have learned many times before, one should never underestimate the power of the paycheck.

The film begins with a flashback to seven years ago, during the wedding of one of the "Tomcats," a group of testosterone-overdosed bachelors from Las Vegas who pride themselves on how many women they can bed while avoiding serious commitment. Led by Michael (Jerry O'Connell), Kyle (Jake Busey), and Steve (Saturday Night Live's Horatio Sanz), the remaining members make a pact: they will all begin contributing to an investment fund, and the one who is last to marry gets the money. After several of the guys cave in and tie the knot, only Michael and Kyle remain. But when Michael gets in trouble with a casino (he loses $51,000 playing craps), the owner (Bill Maher, TV's Politically Incorrect) tells him he has 4 weeks to pay off the debt, or else. Knowing that the Tomcat fund is up to almost half a million dollars, he decides to reunite Kyle with an ex-girlfriend named Natalie (Shannon Elizabeth, American Pie), hoping that Kyle will pop the question and lose the prize. The trouble comes when Michael himself starts falling for Natalie, and she seems to return the affection.

This movie has all the intelligence of a panty raid. With brain-dead characters and trite, Three's Company-style situations, it barely registers a chuckle even at the most outrageous scenes. Moreover, although the premise (and the trailer) is overtly suggestive, there is very little bare flesh, and no sex, so the film must rely on foul language and gross comedy to achieve its R rating. Not to suggest that a film like this would be better if there were more nudity; rather that, lacking any adult situations, the language has to be really bad to get an R. It is.

With Tomcats, Poirier deftly pulls the rug out from under several decades of progress in the arena of mutual respect between the sexes. It disses women with broad strokes (pun intended), and implies that men prefer bouncing boobs and French-cut panties to any sort of intelligent dialogue. While O'Connell almost seems embarrassed (as well he should be) to be saying these lines, Busey revels in it. An actor can't help but be proud when his most memorable line in a film is "Get my nut."

One thing this film does, or attempts to do, that approaches cleverness, is to reference some recent big name films (Mission: Impossible 2, American Beauty), but this represents merely a splash of creativity in a vast bucket of sleaze. This is a movie teenage boys will watch together on late night TV, hoping and praying in their sexual inexperience that someday they will be able to have women like that. They'll eventually discover they have to pay for women like that. But no one should ever have to pay to see this movie. ★

SOMEONE LIKE YOU

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:35 - Released 3/30/01

I don't use the word "tripe" very often. But for some reason, during most of the running length of Tony Goldwyn's sappy romantic comedy Someone Like You, that word kept running through my mind. If this week's other release, Tomcats, represents the worst depths to which a "guy flick" could devolve, then Someone Like You is its perfect counterpart for the opposite sex. The third directorial effort for Goldwyn (A Walk On The Moon), who has appeared as an actor in films like Ghost and, more recently, The 6th Day, Someone Like You gives more evidence that Ashley Judd should never, ever be allowed in front of a camera, and though supporting performers Greg Kinnear, Hugh Jackman, and Marisa Tomei try their best to bring things up to par, it's like spraying cologne in a Woodstock Port-A-Pot: it's just not happening. Besides the utter putrescence of Judd's performance, the film springs from such a bad script (by Elizabeth Chandler, based on the novel by Laura Zigman), I can't imagine how anyone could make it watchable. Goldwyn is certainly not equipped. From the painfully insipid voiceover introduction, which Judd delivers like she's reading it for the first time, the dialogue is not practical, realistic, or even remotely clever, and the emotional permutations her character goes through defy credulity.

Judd plays Jane Goodale (pronounced "Goodall," like the famous scientist who studies gorillas — a very important point in this highly intelligent story), a talent coordinator for one of those yellow-journalistic TV talk shows. Early on, she introduces us to her theory about why men can't commit to real relationships: The New Cow Theory. Are you listening, Helen Gurley Brown? Bulls don't like to have sex with the same cow more than once, and men are the same way. That's about it. They are constantly seeking "the new cow" so they can fulfill their "copulatory imperative," and this forces them, beyond their control, to seek out a different woman after they've slept with the current one. Scientific, eh?

Jane's theory comes from her brief romance with co-worker Ray (Kinnear), the sensitive, romantic guy who represents one half of the male stereotype presence in the film. The other half is her other co-worker Eddie (Jackman), the cynical bastard and one-night-stand practitioner who regularly makes her "lose all faith in men." When she and Ray fall head over heels in love, like people do in these movies, she is ecstatic and fulfilled, confiding to her best friend Liz (Tomei) that everything is beautiful despite the fact that Ray already has a girlfriend whom he refers to as "the one." Then, when he inexplicably dumps her, like men do in these movies, she moves in with Eddie (who's been looking for a roomate) and comes up with her mad cow theory. As if this were not stupid enough in its own right, she then publishes her findings under a pseudonym, masquerading as an elderly female scientist named Dr. Marie Charles, and it is a runaway best seller, prompting Jane's boss (Ellen Barkin) to book the fictional Dr. Charles for an interview.

Beyond the fact that Judd is ill-equipped to do anything believable on the screen, despite that her fake giddy schoolgirl act is no more compelling than her fake man-hating pragmatist, and disregarding that she can't even pronounce the word "realtor" correctly, this film suffers from the larger issue of the poor quality text. Jane's dippy voiceovers continue ad nauseum throughout the film, explaining to us what we shouldn't need explained, and leaving us alone to fathom why the characters are doing and saying things no homo sapiens would ever do or say. Goldwyn is powerless to lift the finished product above its low-level foundation, and even if he were, he apparently lacks the clout, or the inclination, to find an actress able to handle the part. ★

GLADIATOR

Rated R - Running Time: 2:34 - Released 5/5/00
(Previously Reviewed 5/11/00)

After his Best Actor nomination for last year's The Insider, Russell Crowe has moved into the big leagues, assuming the title role in Gladiator, a star vehicle of astounding proportions. The bitter truth is that while Crowe does an excellent job impersonating fellow Aussie action-hero Mel Gibson, the film's writers (David H. Franzoni and John Logan, with William Nicholson) and director (Ridley Scott) have caved in to the temptation to produce one of those technically superlative, appallingly expensive, loud, sweeping, 2½-hour-long epics with lots of grit and bloodlust but very little soul.

In a story that borrows heavily from The Ten Commandments, with generous sprinklings of Braveheart and Spartacus thrown in, Crowe plays Maximus, the winningest Roman general since Julius Caesar. He is so beloved by the elderly emperor Marcus Aurelius (Richard Harris) that he is chosen over the emperor's own snotty son Commodus (Joaquin Phoenix) to succeed him. But before his wish can be made known, Commodus kills the old man and assumes the throne himself, ordering Maximus to be executed. With the kind of superhuman strength that makes action-movie stars what they are, Maximus eludes and kills his captors, only to be enslaved by Proximo (played by now-deceased Oliver Reed), a sort of 180 A.D. version of Don King, who trains slaves to fight to the death for the amusement of whoever pays to see.

With his uncanny ability to win carefully choreographed sword battles, Maximus ascends to the level of superstar, winding up in the Roman coliseum doing his thing for his old nemesis, Caesar Commodus. Although the emperor's first impulse is to re-execute the man he thought he already executed, he is forced by Maximus's huge fan following to adopt more subtle methods, like putting him in the ring against armed charioteers and hungry Bengal tigers. (Well, he's kind of dumb, so this is as subtle as he gets.) But that doesn't work, so Commodus finally has to take the rascal to the woodpile himself, not realizing until too late who's going to get the spanking.

To say this epic is predictable is to make an understatement of similarly epic proportions. Oh, it's not that it isn't pretty, and there are many clanking sword battles and tons of gore, if you're into that, but watching Crowe go into the rubbing-sand-on-his-palms schtick reminded me of Tom Laughlin carefully taking off his shoes in all those Billy Jack movies. One has to consciously supress the urge to shout out, "Oh-Oh! He's gonna open up a can of whoop-ass now!"

Connie Nielsen provides a credible performance as Commodus's sister, the woman of power who still loves Maximus and tries to subvert the plans of her own brother to protect him. And Phoenix is suitably effete and innefectual as the bratty young emperor. But from Ridley Scott, who directed films like Alien and Thelma & Louse, I would expect a film with more substance than this. ★★★

Arbor Day Noted By DNR; Oakland Ceremony Slated

The 118th annual observance of Arbor Day took place yesterday across the nation and the state of Maryland. "The first Wednesday in April is always Arbor Day in Maryland, and it's a good time to start thinking about spring and tree planting," according to Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Forest Service project forester Ernie Metz.

As part of the ongoing observance of Arbor Day, a PLANT (People Loving And Nurturing Trees) recognition ceremony has been set in Oakland for Friday, April 20. The town of Oakland is sponsoring the event in cooperation with the Maryland Community Forest Council. Sixteen communities in the four western counties will be recognized during the ceremonies for their tree-planting efforts, and four communities will be recognized as "Tree City, USA." The Garrett Forestry Board will present the mayor and county commissioners with an Arbor Day proclamation as part of the ceremonies. The ceremony is open to the public, and refreshments will be available.

Each year to help commemorate Arbor Day, DNR's Forest Service gives pine seedlings to public school third graders. Working with the cooperation of the county school system, the seedlings are distributed to the children with the hope that the young pine trees will be planted, nurtured, and recognized as important renewable resources.

"Trees planted on Arbor Day help bring attention to a resource essential to our quality of life," Metz remarked. "The many trees and seedlings that are planted on Arbor Day focus attention on the values of our trees and forests. It's important to plant trees every year so that future generations can enjoy their beauty, appreciate their ability to reduce soil erosion, moderate temperature and wind, and provide wood fiber, wildlife habitat, and recreation opportunities. For both adults and children, Arbor Day is a good time to reflect on the importance of planting trees for the future."

Interested forest landowners may contact the DNR Forest Service at Mt. Nebo at 301-334-3296 for free information about how managing forest land can benefit them and the environment.

LIONS DISTRICT GOVERNOR VISITS — Lions Club District 22W governor Margarito "Och" Ochoa, made his official visit to the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club during a club meeting held recently at Uno's restaurant. Ochoa gave a presentation titled "Lionism — A Reflection of Ourselves," during which he stated that all meetings, fund-raisers, and service projects should reflect the Lions Clubs' goals and reflect a caring attitude. The district governor will return to Garrett County for the DCL Lions-sponsored McHenry Highland Festival, set for Saturday, June 2, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., with the ceilidh following at 7 p.m. that same evening. The festival and ceilidh will both take place on the Garrett County Fairgrounds. Pictured from the left are DCL Lions Club president M. Sue Shockey, Ochoa, Lions' Region 1, Zone 1 chair Barbara McKenney, and District 22W cabinet secretary Shirley Long.

Weekend Traffic Stops Result In DWI Arrests

Garrett County sheriff deputies made two separate traffic stops that resulted in driving while intoxicated (DWI) arrests Saturday evening.

Joseph Paul Graham, 40, Oakland, was stopped around 10 p.m. Saturday for a traffic stop along Crellin Underwood Road. Deputies arrested Graham and charged him with DWI, driving on a suspended license, failure to drive right of center, and possession of marijuana.

He was released from the Garrett County Jail on a $2,500 bond.

A Swanton man was also arrested and charged with DWI on Saturday.

Terry Alvin Lewis, 51, was stopped by sheriff's deputies along Hutton Road at Old Crellin Road around 7:20 p.m. Lewis was charged with DWI and failure to drive right of center.

He was released on his own recognizance.

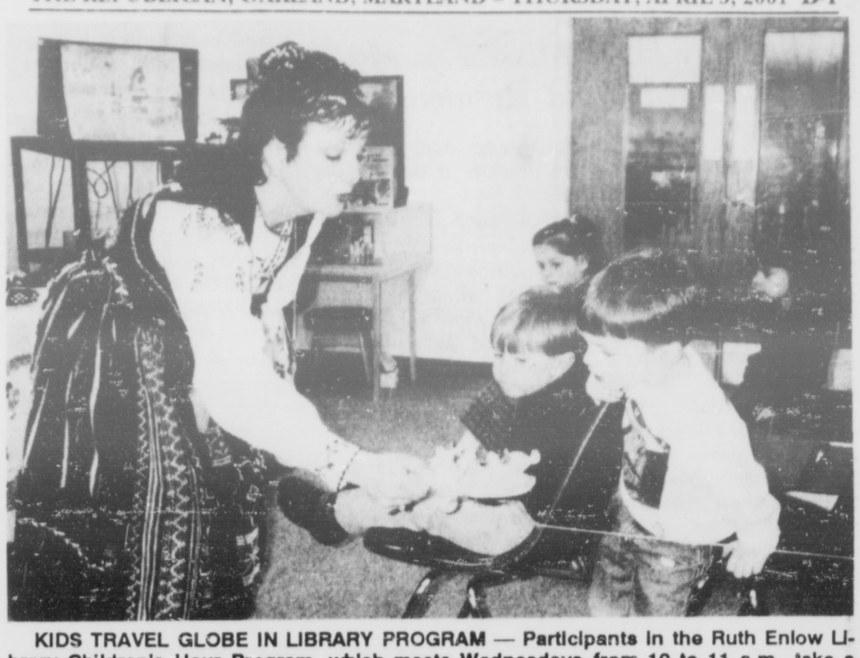
Seder Demo To Be Focus Of HOPE Service

A Seder demonstration will be the program for the HOPE (Hour Of Praise for Everyone) informal gathering for worship at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland on Tuesday, April 10, being held from 7 to 7:45 p.m. Donna Lee Shogren will lead those present through the ritual.

Shogren said that the purpose of this Seder is to afford the opportunity to recall the dramatic and miraculous events which led to the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt and the bondage of slavery more than 1,000 years ago. "The Seder is one part of the present-day Jewish seven-day Passover celebration," she said. "Christians are interested in this ritual because it was during a Passover celebration that Jesus instituted holy communion. The Seder observance is, however, entirely separate and predates the eucharist. It is a Jewish celebration of freedom useful in helping Christians understand Judaism. Since Passover and Easter observances frequently occur close together, the HOPE service committee thought it appropriate to have this program just prior to the Easter celebration for Christians.

The significance of the symbols — matzot, roasted shankbone, roasted egg, charoset, and karpas — of the Seder will be explained, and the participants will sample them.

The public is invited to share in this observance. St. Paul's United Methodist Church is located on the corner of Fourth and Oak streets in Oakland. The pastors are Roger A. Harrison Sr. and Ann W. Harrison.



KIDS TRAVEL GLOBE IN LIBRARY PROGRAM — Participants in the Ruth Enlow Library Children's Hour Program, which meets Wednesdays from 10 to 11 a.m., take a journey to a new land on the final Wednesday of each month with the assistance of local residents. A recent program featured a trip to Portugal led by Oakland's Linn Crowe, who lived in the Minho region of northwest Portugal for 11 years. Crowe and her husband, Rev. John Crowe, a native of Oakland, worked in an urban church as missionaries from 1985 to 1996 under the sponsorship of the Interdenominational Board of Evangelical Alliance Missions. The Crowes had three young children during their stay in Portugal, which gave them an insight into the daily habits and interests of Portuguese children of the same age as local library program participants. The Crowe children became fluent in Portuguese and French during their stay in the Iberian Peninsula nation. Crowe is pictured at the left in Portuguese dress, with program participants Cory Horner, left, and Benjamin Reichard, right, in the foreground, and Tonya Sanders and Holly Weissgerber in the background. The next travel program, set for Wednesday, April 25, will feature an outing to Russia.

Census May Have Missed As Many As 75,000 Maryland Residents

by Arheun Kim
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — More than 75,000 Maryland residents were likely missed in the 2000 census, according to one estimate, a shortfall that could cost the state millions in federal funds that are based on population.

The U.S. Census Monitoring Board said last week that the census missed 75,204 people in Maryland, the 13th-highest undercount rate in the nation.

The Census Bureau conceded in February that it may have missed about 3.3 million people nationwide in the census, results of which it began releasing in March. But while it concedes a nationwide undercount, the bureau warned against trying to break down that number by city and state.

The national undercount rate of about 1.2 percent is an improvement over the 1990 undercount of about 1.6 percent of the population.

For Maryland, the monitoring board's estimated undercount is also better than in 1990, when the census said it missed 100,000 people, or 2.1 percent of the population. The 2000 undercount rate in Maryland was estimated at 1.4 percent.

But the undercount could still mean millions of dollars lost, since federal funding depends largely on population.

"These numbers influence welfare programs, social services, and many other projects," said Elizabeth Humphrey, a spokeswoman for the state's planning department.

"Those undercounted are the people who need service assistance the most."

Humphrey said Baltimore City would likely be hardest hit by an undercount, because it is heavily populated with minorities who are most often overlooked by the census.

It is too early to predict how much money, if any, the state might lose from an undercount. But the state estimated that it lost more than $100 million a year in federal funds because of the 100,000 missed by the 1990 census. About 65 percent of that "lost" money would have gone to Baltimore.

"We know millions of people were missed, we know where they live, and for the most part, we know they are disproportionately minority," said Gilbert F. Casellas, presidential co-chair of the monitoring board.

Some of the federal programs tied to population include those that give federal dollars to high-poverty school districts, health care funding, and job training programs.

"Thousands of people who qualify for these services will never get these services because of the undercounts," said Charles Christian, an urban geography professor at the University of Maryland.

Allan Lichtman, an American University history professor who has done extensive research on undercounts, said the undercount will affect the state in many ways, "every way."

"Policies are affected by the census figures" in addition to the allocation of federal dollars, Lichtman said. "The 75,000 people not counted...will force the state to lose a substantial amount of money."

But Census Bureau officials said specific state and city undercount numbers, this soon after the release of the census, are not reliable.

"It is important to note that the Census Bureau is not in a position to release a final estimate for any state or city, and believes that the most accurate data currently available are the unadjusted data already released," said William G. Barron, the acting bureau director, in a prepared statement.

Barron said the methodology that the monitoring board used to calculate the undercounted figures was "seriously flawed," even though both parties came up with the same undercounted figure nationwide.

The bureau is doing its own analysis of the undercount, but is not ready to release that information yet, Barron said.

LIONS GET LAKE UPDATE — The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club hosted guest speaker Paul Durham, manager of the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area, at a recent club meeting at the Deep Creek brew pub in McHenry. Durham's presentation included updates on the lake's status, including the upcoming meetings of the DCL Policy and Review Board, set for April 10 and 20, and the buy-down schedule for lake property owners. Lions Club members also made plans for the 2001 McHenry Highland Festival, set for Saturday, June 2, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. Persons interested in either becoming a Lion or volunteering to assist with the festival may contact DCL Lions Club president M. Sue Shockey at 301-334-4287.

Northern High School Students Of Month Named

The Northern High School Student Council and M&T Bank (Accident branch) have recently announced the Students of the Month for January. They are Scott Buckingham, Jodi Fratz, Bridget Frazee, Kristin Lander, and Jamie Grove. Each student received a trophy from M&T Bank and the Northern Student Council.

Scott Buckingham, a freshman, is the son of Richard and Anna Buckingham. He is involved in church mission trips, and many other community activities. Some of Scott's hobbies are singing, acting, and dancing.

Sophomore Jodi Fratz is the daughter of Greg and Lisa Fratz. She is a member of the a cappella choir, chorus, and volleyball team. She helps with the Special Olympics, and attends Zion Lutheran Church. She has also received Minds in Motion awards two years in a row. Jodi is a waitress at Annie's Country Kitchen, and enjoys skiing in her spare time.

Bridget Frazee, a junior, is the daughter of Brenda Frazee and the late Tim Frazee. She is a member of the volleyball, basketball, and softball teams. She is also a member of Student Council, and is class president. She also enjoys participating in the Blind Skier program at her school. Bridget has also received Minds in Motion awards and is on the distinguished honor roll.

Senior Kristin Lander is the daughter of George and Joyce Lander. She is a member of the soccer, basketball, and track teams. She is president of her church youth group, and helps work with Blind Skier and the Special Olympics programs. Some awards that Kristin has received are Maryland Distinguished Scholar Honorable Mention, and a scholarship to Elizabethtown. She is on the distinguished honor roll.

Jamie Grove, also a senior, is the daughter of Terry and Donna Grove. She is a member of the tennis team, mock trial, Model UN, and Student Council. She is also the past president of WOW Youth Lodge, historian of 12th grade, and president of the National Honor Society. Some awards Jamie has received are certificates of academic excellence (three years), Who's Who Among American High School Students (two years), Student Council Leadership, and scholar athlete awards. Jamie has also been accepted for the fall semester at Frostburg State University, where she plans to major in psychology and justice studies.

All students selected for Student of the Month are eligible for the Student of the Year award and will be honored at the Northern High School Honors Banquet.

Stewart To Be Evangelist For Revival Series

Evangelist Rodney Stewart will be preaching the Resurrection Revival, beginning this Sunday, April 8, and continuing through Easter Sunday, April 15, at the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church, located at 1005 Broadford Road, Mtn. Lake Park.

Stewart is a graduate of Fairhaven Baptist College and conducts his ministry out of the Fairhaven Baptist Church in Chestertown, Ind. Rev. Stewart has preached across the nation in revival meetings for the past 10 years, along with his wife and three children. "Rodney Stewart is a powerful preacher, who is straightforward in presenting biblical principles for practical Christian living," stated Dennis Leatherman, pastor of the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church. "His preaching has the characteristics of the old-time revivalists of years gone by, like J.R. Rice, Billy Sunday, and Bob Jones Sr.

Each evening of the meetings will have a special emphasis, such as "Super Seniors" evening, youth evening, Sunday school evening, etc.

The entire community is invited, Leatherman said. A nursery is provided for all services, and transportation is available. Persons may call 301-334-3234 or 301-334-4042 for more information.

Read. Then Recycle.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park for this coming weekend, Saturday and Sunday, April 7 and 8. All programs will take place at or depart from the Discovery Center, and further information on these activities can be obtained by calling the center at 301-387-7067.

Saturday's activities will get under way with a 10 a.m. hike to the old Brant Mine. The 2-hour hike will be led by a park naturalist, who will present the history of the family-owned mine that operated during the 1920s. "Amazing Animals," a 1-hour nature program on Garrett County's wildlife, will get under way at 1 p.m. The nature film Out of the Egg will be shown at 1 p.m., and a 30-minute children's scavenger hunt will begin at 3 p.m.

Sunday's schedule begins with a 10 a.m. spring bird hike, a 45-minute guided outing during which participants will learn how to identify many different birds by sight and call. A 30-minute children's nature craft activity will take place beginning at 1 p.m., and Cuddly Cubs will be shown at 3 p.m.

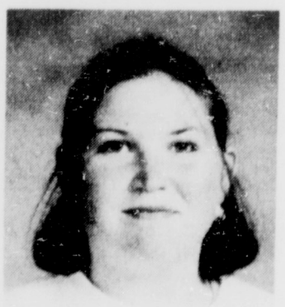
GC Native Earns Youth Citizenship Award In N.Y.



Former Garrett County resident Samantha Bargy received the Cattaraugus County (N.Y.) Youth Bureau Youth Citizenship Award recently. Winners are chosen from students in grades 10 through 12 based on factors such as community service and extracurricular activities.

Bargy, who lives in Salamanca, N.Y., with her parents, Ruby and George Jerread, has been an assistant youth group teacher for the past four years, and is a member of the Girl Scouts, 4-H, and the community's Youth Choir. She has performed volunteer work for neighbors, visited nursing home residents, and assisted at numerous school functions.

Bargy is a Student Council member at her school, where she works on the school newspaper and is a member of the National Honor Society, Art Club, Natural Helpers group, Bible Club, the Youth-to-Youth group, band, chorus, DARE program, and Junior Rangers. She has also assisted with decorations for homecoming and winter weekend.

Bargy is the granddaughter of Juanita B. Tichinel of Walnut Bottom Road, Swanton.

"Mom and Dad, look at that big funny lookin' boat. It's even got cars on it! Won't they make it sink?" Eight-year-old Jeff's eyes were wide with wonder.

"No, Jeff. It's not likely to sink," explained Dad. "It was built with the strength and power to bear the load. The passengers put their trust in the engineers and the workmen who designed and built it."

Likewise, God has created us with the strength to bear life's burden if we trust in His workmanship. Ephesians 2:8-10 explains this..."For by grace you have been saved through faith...it is the gift of God...for we are His workmanship."

As a ferry must refuel to maintain power, we must replenish our spirit with daily prayer and weekly worship as we learn more of God's power from His Holy Word. Visit your local church or synagogue this week. He who created you will sustain you. No burden is too heavy for God.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE 'GOOD NEWS' ON THE ROAD

April 8, 2001

Background Scripture: 8:4-40.
Devotional Reading: Micah 5:7-9.

While I do not think that God sends us hardship and persecution—it is easy enough to get that without Divine intervention!—I never doubt that he can use them for his purposes.

The first clear explication of this idea is found in Genesis 50:20 where Joseph comforts the brothers who had sold him into slavery: "As for you, you meant evil against me, but God meant it for good, to bring it about that many people should be kept alive, as they are today." The sinful act was that of the brothers, but God was able to use their sinful act for his good purposes. He was able to make something good out of evil.

Living a life of faith is not so much being protected from misfortune and evil, as in learning to read it as an opportunity for God to reveal the Good News of Jesus Christ. Scholars have speculated as to what might have happened in the course of Christianity had the earliest disciples continued to live as a community in the midst of Jerusalem, instead of taking the gospel on the road. The inertia to stay where they were and enjoy their congregational life together might have been a powerful detriment to the spread of the gospel.

A Closed Door

After the stoning of Stephen, however, there was a dramatic change in their situation: "Devout men buried Stephen and made great lamentation over him. But Saul laid waste the church, and entering house after house, he dragged off men and women and committed them to prison" (4:2,3). God was not the author of the turmoil that Saul unleashed on the church; Saul was able to do that without any Divine help. And this was no temporary, minor tribulation the church would experience at his hands. Many of the Jerusalem Christians were scattered into Judea and Samaria, so by the grace of God this tragedy was turned into an advantage for the gospel: "Now those who were scattered went about preaching the word" (4:5).

Samaria, if you will remember, was the home of those who were alienated from the Jews. Many of them had come to inhabit Samaria after the people of Israel were carried off into captivity. Although they presumed that they were worshipping the traditional God of Israel, they were a polyglot mixture of peoples. So, Jews and Samaritans despised each other, which is what made the parable of the Good Samaritan so poignant. The Samaritans were regarded as "the bad guys."

Yet, the Jerusalem

TV PIPELINE

Here's the title of Third Watch music

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Bobby Cannavale

Q: I was captivated by the music they played on the Feb. 26 Third Watch episode in which paramedic Bobby Caffey (Bobby Cannavale) died. What was it? –V.E. in Colorado.

A: I was swamped with requests for this title, and when I phoned the Third Watch publicist, she laughed and said, "You're calling about that song, aren't you?" She went on to identify the piece as "Only Time" by Enya, from her CD A Day Without Rain.

Q: In the TV show Topper, what was the name of the Saint Bernard who was always lapping up martinis? –E.B. via e-mail.

A: The soused canine answered to Neil.

Q: Whatever happened to Hal Sparks, the former host of Talk Soup? I haven't seen him for a long time, and I miss him. –Jean from Clearwater, Fla.

A: Sparks, who tells me he left E! Entertainment Television's Soup because he found the humor too mean-spirited, currently stars as gay Pittsburgh resident Michael Novotny in the Showtime series Queer as Folk, adapted from a hit British miniseries.

Q: Captain Kangaroo used to feature a cartoon called Lariat Sam. What was the name of Sam's horse? –Michael D. Johnson, Max Meadows, Va.

A: The Adventures of Lariat Sam, which the good Captain introduced in 1962, featured the idealistic title character and his faithful steed, Tippytoes.

Q: Who sings the theme song to Ed? –Kay Dondero, Concord, N.H.

A: The Foo Fighters sing "Next Year," which is available as a CD single.

Q: Where is Richard Chamberlain now, and why has he never been nominated for an award? He was excellent in The Thorn Birds. –V.R. Franklin, East Falmouth, Mass.

A: Chamberlain was, in fact, nominated for an Emmy for that performance. He also scored three other Emmy nominations for his work in Shogun, The Count of Monte Cristo and Wallenberg: A Hero's Story.

The actor, who recently turned 66, has been indulging his fondness for musical theater in recent years and has spent the past several months touring as Capt. Von Trapp in a major revival of The Sound of Music.

Q: I hear very little about Ryan Stiles (Whose Line Is It Anyway?). Is he married? Children? –E. Kress, Chicago.

A: Yes, Stiles, 41, has been married to Pat McDonald since 1989. They have two children, Mackenzie and Sam.

Q: Are Ben and Casey Affleck related? –Anthony Staropoli, Montvale, N.J.

A: Yes, Ben is Casey's big brother.

Local Realtor Achieves High Sales For Firm

Esther Friend of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty has been noted for achieving several sales category rankings in the top 10 among the 811 Coldwell Banker Affiliate sales associates in Maryland for the fourth quarter of 2000. Friend ranked seventh in Closed Revenue Units and Gross Commission Income, and tenth in Listings Sold. Friend also ranked among the firm's top 10 associates in the state for first quarter of this past year.

"Esther Friend exemplifies the standards of excellence for which Coldwell Banker sales associates are known," said Steve Bright, Northeast Region regional director for Coldwell Banker Real Estate Corporation. "It is an honor to recognize her as one of the top ten sales associates in the state of Maryland."

"Esther is an outstanding sales associate," said Robert Huebner, broker at the local office. "We're delighted to see Esther receive statewide recognition for her good work, but even more important is the praise she consistently receives from her clients and customers."

Friend has been a real estate sales associate since 1993. Her husband Jim and daughter, Kelly Bender, are also sales associates with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. The three operate the Friend Realty Group out of the Garrett Highway office of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, which is located in the McHenry Plaza.

ACE QUICK LUBE DONATES TO OVFD — Ace Quick Lube recently held a raffle for a Pennzoil pedal car, which was won by Troy Linn. The proceeds from the raffle were donated to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. Brenda Walker, owner/manager of Ace Quick Lube, presents Chick Ford, of the OVFD, with the $200 check.

Grove Awarded Scholarship To Attend Frostburg

Jamie A. Grove, Friendsville, recently received an Academic Achievement Award to attend Frostburg State University.

Grove, a senior at Northern Garrett High School, plans to major in justice studies and psychology at FSU with a minor in French, and hopes to become a behavioral psychologist. She serves as president of the National Honor Society, student council historian, chairperson of the Principal's Advisory Committee, teacher's assistant, school representative for the Mock U.N. and the Maryland Association of Student Council Conventions and Legislative meetings, and member of the mock trial team. Her awards include certificate of academic excellence, Student Council leadership, Certificate of Merit from the Maryland State Bar Association, and scholar athlete for tennis. Other activities include assisting with the American Red Cross bloodmobile and singing with Northern's a cappella choir.

Grove is the daughter of Terry R. and Donna J. Grove.

Garrett CC Fall Registration Set

Registration for fall semester 2001 at Garrett Community College will begin Monday, April 9, according to a college spokesperson. Returning students should contact their advisors for an appointment or come to the Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours. New students should call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044 for an appointment.

Annual schedules of credit classes will be at all branches of Ruth Enlow Library and at the Garrett County Schools next week. These include course listings for fall semester 2001, intersession, and spring semester 2002.

4-H Club News

RYAN'S GLADE
by Andrea Steyer
Reporter

The March meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club was called to order by president Wes Steyer. Roll call was answered by each member naming something green in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Cody Steyer presented a report on the recent sled riding party, which was enjoyed by all who attended.

The 4-H Achievement Night program is set for 6:30 p.m. this Saturday, April 7. Participants are asked to bring finger foods to share, and a canned food for the teen council to take for the upcoming Feed the Hungry program.

Ryan's Glade Club members will take part in a road clean-up activity along White Church Road on Saturday, May 5. Participants are to meet at the community building at 10 a.m. that morning.

Extension educator Ann Sherrard will present a smokeless tobacco program at a future meeting, and another meeting will feature a kite-making and kite-flying activity.

Club members are asked to contribute baked items for a benefit bake sale set for Saturday, April 14, at Browning's Foodland. The sale is being sponsored by the Ryan's Glade Community Building trustees, and all proceeds will go toward community building needs.

A record book workshop was held after the regular meeting adjourned. The next meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club is scheduled for Tuesday, April 17.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Justin E. Helbig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Helbig Jr., Oakland, is currently on a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the aircraft carrier USS Harry S. Truman, home ported in Norfolk, Va.

While on deployment, crew members from Helbig's ship participated in damage control olympics, a competition designed to train the crew to properly handle a crisis at sea. The events included a firefighting gear race, a hose-manning competition, a chemical protective overgarment suit dressout, and desmoking a compartment through the use of a smoke generator.

Carriers like the USS Harry S. Truman are deployed around the world to maintain U.S. presence and provide rapid response in times of crisis. They serve as a highly visible deterrent to would-be aggressors, and are equipped with the most versatile and powerful weapons and aircraft available.

Helbig is a 1997 graduate of Southern Garrett High School and joined the Navy in December 1997.

Buying electricity as a group.
Do you know what an "Aggregator" is? An Aggregator brings consumers together to form a buying group in an effort to find lower rates by buying energy in bulk. As Maryland's competitive electric market develops, more and more organizations may become Aggregators for their members. Business associations, civic and non-profit organizations, and other groups can apply to be licensed by the Maryland Public Service Commission to form buying groups on behalf of their members. And as Aggregators negotiate rates and contract terms for their members, they will also be helping the overall competitive electric market to grow and evolve, so everyone benefits. To find out more, simply call our Answer Center, toll-free, or visit our Web Site. Then, ask for your free Consumer Guide to Electric Choice, plus our free brochure on Buying Electricity as a Group.

Hospice, GCC To Host Annual Teleconference

Hospice of Garrett County and Garrett Community College will join 2,000 other organizations across the United States and Canada as a local host for the Hospice Foundation of America's eighth annual Living with Grief Teleconference on Wednesday, April 18, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. in Room 305 at the college.

"Caregiving and Loss: Family Needs, Professional Responses," a live-via-satellite video teleconference, will examine ways that professionals can better understand and respond to the needs of family caregivers.

"It is estimated that there are more than 25 million family caregivers in the country providing 80 percent of home care services. In many cases this valuable work is unrecognized," said Jack D. Gordon, chairman of the Hospice Foundation of America. "Caregiving is especially challenging for those coping with terminal illness and facing end-of-life decisions. It's important for health care professionals to understand the unique needs of family caregivers, and assist them in ways that will provide support and understanding."

This program will offer insight and practical suggestions for those assisting family caregivers as they respond to the challenges of caregiving, make critical end-of-life decisions, and cope with their grief. The program will be moderated by Cokie Roberts of ABC News and will feature a distinguished panel of experts, with a special message from former first lady Rosalynn Carter.

The teleconference is produced by Hospice Foundation of America, a nonprofit organization that works to educate healthcare professionals and the families they serve in issues relating to terminal illness, grief, and bereavement.

The program is sponsored in part by a grant from the Foundation for End of Life Care, Project on Death in America of the Open Society Institute, and in cooperation with the Association of Death Education and Counseling and the Compassionate Friends. The annual broadcast reaches an estimated live audience of 150,000 people nationwide.

Jane Sealing, Hospice director of bereavement, explained, "grief and loss issues, which are common to us all, can be especially difficult for those caring for a family member or other loved one. By understanding the unique demands that family caregivers must face, we can work to support them and provide them with effective coping skills."

Roberts will moderate the 2½ hour panel discussion. The panel will include Kenneth J. Doka, Ph.D., Lutheran minister and professor of gerontology at the College of New Rochelle; Bernice Catherine Harper, M.S.W., medical care advisor of the Health Care Financing Administration; Carol Leving, M.A., director of the Families and Health Care Project of the United Hospital Fund; Susan Reinhard, R.N., Ph.D., executive director of the Center for Medicare Education, Institute for the Future of Aging Services; and Myrl Weinberg, CAE, president of the National Health Council.

This conference is open to the public at no cost. Persons interested may register in advance by calling the Hospice office at 301-334-5151. Persons in the Grantsville area may call 1-800-521-5252.

A WALK FOR HOSPICE corporate sponsor this year is ACT Personnel Service, Oakland. The firm helped to purchase one of the three top prizes — a Panasonic 25" TV/VCR with many other special features. The walk is set for Saturday, April 21, at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the walk will start at 10 a.m. Pictured above, left to right, are Angela Flanigan, branch manager of ACT Personnel; Brenda J. Butscher, executive director of Hospice; and Sheri Sensabaugh, owner/president of ACT Personnel. The two other top fund-raiser prizes include a Hewlett Packard computer with a Hewlett Packard printer, and a Sony 8mm camcorder. Many other prizes will be awarded. Special drawings will be held for sports apparel and other items during the walk. Last year's event raised $20,000 to help provide clinical services, care, and comfort to 68 terminally ill patients and their families in Garrett County. For further information about the walk or Hospice of Garrett County, persons may call 301-334-5151 or 800-521-5252. Students are encouraged to walk, as the event qualifies as a Student Service Learning activity.

FSU To Host Health, Physical Education Expert

Dr. Leslie Lambert, a leader in the advancement of health and physical education standards, will speak at Frostburg State University Monday and Tuesday, April 9 and 10, as the 2001 Lillian Wellner Scholar, a program that brings nationally acclaimed scholars to FSU.

Lambert's programs will be "Assessment: Finding the Target" on April 9 from 9 to 10:15 a.m.; "Standards-Based Program Design: Planning with Learning in Mind" on April 9 from 1 to 2:15 p.m.; and "Future Perspectives: Ready or Not, Here it Comes!" on April 10 from 8 to 9:15 a.m. All programs will be in Lane Center Room 201 and are free and open to the public.

Lambert is a professor and chair of the Department of Education and Physical Education at Roanoke College in Salem, Va. Through her work on the committee developing program guidelines for Beginning Teacher Standards for NCATE/NASPE (National Council for Accreditation of TeacherEducation/National Association for Sport and Physical Education), Lambert had an indirect effect on FSU's health and physical education program, as well as others across the nation. FSU uses those guidelines as the benchmark for its program.

Lambert has been a member of the Physical Best Steering Committee for the past seven years. Physical Best is the educational component of a comprehensive health-related fitness education program designed to support existing curriculums and enable teachers to help students meet national health-related fitness standards. These standards are reflected throughout the entire undergraduate health and physical education program at FSU, and FSU education students study Lambert's publications on standards-based assessment in the "Evaluation and Assessment" course.

Lambert has been a presenter at local, state, regional, and national physical education conferences. She has been a model teacher, and administrator, a consultant, a grant writer, and a researcher contributing significantly to the advancement of the profession. Her professional pursuits have led to national recognition as one of the architects of the future of health and physical education.

The Lillian Wellner Scholar program was created from an endowment from Wellner to allow the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at FSU to host a series of lectures by nationally acclaimed scholars. It was named for the late Lillian Wellner, a former Frostburg State registrar and physical education instructor.

For more information, persons may call the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at 301-687-4461.

Events Set At FSU To Honor Martin L. King

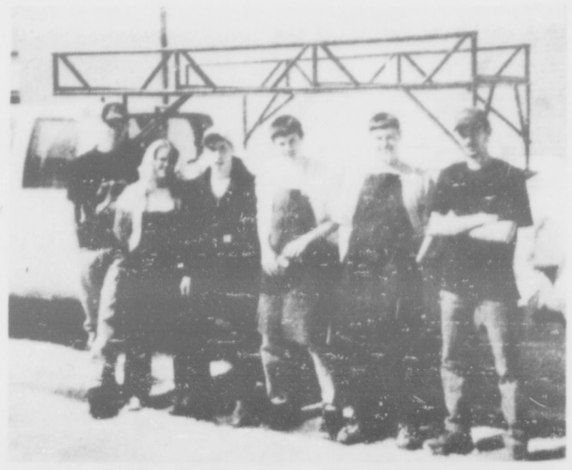
The Frostburg State University community will celebrate the life of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King with two events on Monday, April 23. Both events are free and open to the public.

At 11 a.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall will be the annual convocation in honor of the civil rights pioneer. The featured speaker will be Bruce Jacobs, a Baltimore writer and author of Speaking Through the Skin, a poetry collection, and Race Manners, an honest "guidebook" to "the minefield between black and white Americans." A Harvard graduate with a professional background in journalism and in advertising, Jacobs speaks and writes with candor about the impediments to healthy racial relations in America and about how to overcome those obstacles.

The convocation will also feature FSU students performing chorale and gospel music.

A demonstration of "Hip-Hop: a Cultural Expression" will be presented at 7 p.m. that evening, also in Pealer Hall, by a team of artists/lecturers from the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame Museum, part of Cleveland State University's Black Studies Program. The demonstration will include expertly performed examples of "DJ" rap music, break dancing, graffiti art, and slam poetry, followed by a panel discussion of the origins and characteristics of the culture, and an open session with the audience. The performers/panelists will emphasize linkages between the civil rights movement and hip-hop as a liberating culture.

For more information on the Martin Luther King celebration, persons may call 301-687-4141.



TOOL CLASS HELPS DNR — The Southern Garrett Machine Tool class and their instructor, Delbert Liller, have been assisting the Potomac/Garrett State Forest. The state forest provides materials and projects, and in return, the class provides quality, yet inexpensive fabrication. The class has been fabricating gates, registration posts, and rescue beds used by Maryland Department of Natural Resources Company 8 Search and Rescue Team. Liller said, "These projects are helpful because they are realistic, and students get a break from the traditional textbook projects. In addition, the materials and work support the class financially." Pictured above are class members with a pipe and ladder rack used by the maintenance staff. Class members are, from the left, Brian Reckart, Amber Gregory, Nick Sines, J.R. Gordon, Ryan Sines, and Matt Stieringer.

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

Important Notice to Taxpayers

In order to make real property tax bills simpler and easier to understand, the General Assembly, under Chapter 80 of the Acts of 2000, has required that property tax rates on real property be based on a full cash value assessment. As a result, on October 1, 2000, real property tax rates were reduced to 40% of the rate effective July 1, 2000. The county real property tax rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessment on July 1, 2000, was reduced to $1.036 per $100 of assessment on October 1, 2000. The change in method of assessment has no effect on actual tax liability for the taxable year beginning July 1, 2000.

Notice of Constant Yield Rate

The County Commissioners of Garrett County propose to increase property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 2001, the estimated real property assessable base will increase by 3.8%(a) from $1,559,528,510(b) to $1,619,509,257(c).
2. If Garrett County maintains the current real property tax rate, effective October 1, 2000, of $1.036(d) per $100 of assessment, real property tax revenues will increase by 3.8%(e), resulting in $621,401(f) of new real property tax revenues.
3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the real property tax rate should be reduced to $.998(g), the constant yield tax rate.
4. The County is considering not reducing its real property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The County proposes to adopt a real property tax rate of $1.036(h) per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 3.8%(i) higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $621,401(j) in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed real property tax increase will be held at 10:00 a.m. on April 17, 2001, in the County Commissioners' Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, MD. The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-334-8970 for further information.

There are certain municipalities within the County which have different county tax rates. The above revenues and tax rates are countywide, excluding municipalities with difference county tax rates. The following chart provides the corresponding information and tax rates for those municipalities.

Antiques
by Ralph and Terry Kovel

For centuries, flowers have been used to decorate homes. Bulbs were grown in special pots to bloom inside the house. In the 18th century, Josiah Wedgwood, the famous potter, designed several types of specialized flower containers. Often, the same vase or container was used with different tops to hold bulbs, flowers or branches.

A bulb pot has to hold the bulb in place in water and allow the leaves and flowers to grow. Usually, the section that holds the bulb is a small hole with a raised collar that keeps the bulb from tipping. The words "flower container" and "bough pot" are used today to describe the same type of vase. The vase, often shallow, has a cover pierced by nickel-sized holes to support the wooden stems of branches or the bunches of small flower stems.

The flower containers were decorated in many ways. Some were the famous blue-and-white jasper, and some were tricolor jasper. Others were solid-colored pieces of terra-cotta or white ware.

Q: My 98-year-old grandmother recently gave me a pair of 6-inch bronze urns that her aunt displayed in her living room more than 75 years ago. The urns are decorated with raised designs of dragons. I cleaned and polished them, but the cleaner turned them slightly green. How old are my urns, and can I remove the green tint?

A: The facing-dragon design was used extensively in Japan and China. Your bronze urns probably date from the late 19th century. Unfortunately, you should never have used a commercial cleaner on your antique bronzes. They were made with an original patina that you have destroyed. Of course, you can still use the urns as planters, and they will continue to have sentimental value.

Tip: Don't put pewter in a newly painted room until the paint smell is gone.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On April 14, 1865, at Ford's Theater in Washington, D.C., John Wilkes Booth, an actor and Confederate sympathizer, fatally wounded U.S. President Abraham Lincoln. The attack came only five days after Confederate General Robert E. Lee surrendered his massive army at Appomattox, effectively ending the American Civil War.

• On April 10, 1932, in German presidential elections, President Paul von Hindenburg, a conservative, was re-elected over Nazi Party candidate Adolf Hitler, a radical nationalist. Hindenburg received 19 million votes to Hitler's 13 million.

• On April 9, 1940, during World War II, Nazi Germany launched an invasion of Norway, overwhelming the Norwegian and British defenders of the country and capturing several strategic points along the Norwegian coast.

• On April 13, 1942, during World War II, the first sinking of a German submarine by a U.S. naval vessel in the Battle of the Atlantic occurred off Wimble Shoal, near Hatteras, N.C.

• On April 15, 1974, in California, a surveillance camera recorded kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst taking part in an armed robbery of a San Francisco bank after being kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

• On April 11, 1979, in Uganda, Tanzanian troops and forces of the Uganda National Liberation Front captured the capital of Kampala, driving Ugandan dictator Idi Amin into a permanent exile. It is estimated that up to 300,000 Ugandans were killed during Amin's eight years of rule.

• On April 12, 1981, the space shuttle Columbia was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., becoming the first reusable manned spacecraft to travel into space. Piloted by astronauts Robert L. Crippen and John W. Young, Columbia undertook a 54-hour space flight of 36 orbits before successfully touching down at California's Edwards Air Force Base on April 14.

Strange BUT TRUE
By Samantha Weaver

• Robert Stephenson Smyth Baden-Powell is well-known for founding the Boy Scouts of America. Less known is that he helped found the Ambidextral Culture Society, which promoted the training of both hands to perform fine motor tasks. It's believed his interest in ambidextrousness is the reason why the Boy Scout handshake is done with the left hand.

• Bears aren't the only animals that hibernate; so do bats, woodchucks, raccoons and many others. Skunks, for example, will sometimes hibernate in large groups. Can you imagine accidentally waking up 30 skunks in one place? Not very pleasant, I'd think.

• Censorship is nothing new; even Shakespeare was affected by it. In his time, every play produced in London had to be checked to be sure the audience wouldn't be corrupted by any "seditious material."

• In the 16th century, Jean Nicot was sent to Lisbon as France's ambassador to Portugal. He was supposed to arrange for Queen Catherine de Medici's daughter to marry the king of Portugal, but he failed in this task. However, he redeemed himself by introducing tobacco to France. Ground into snuff, it made Queen Catherine sneeze, clearing her sinuses and relieving her chronic headaches. For this great service to the state, tobacco's most important ingredient was named after him — nicotine.

• What does a "snoutfair" sound like to you? According to the "Glossary of the Works of English Authors," published in 1859, a snoutfair is "a person with a handsome countenance."

Donating Money to Protect Animals

Q. I'd like to donate some money toward protecting animals, but I'm not sure which charity or animal fund to give to. Can you recommend one?

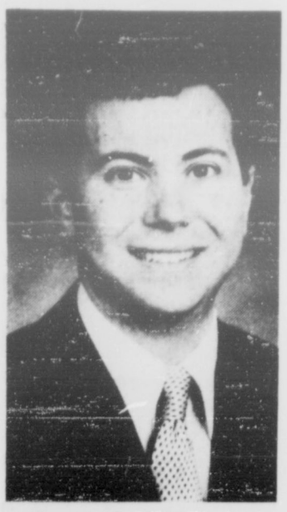
A. There are so many great charities out there supporting and protecting our animal friends, I hardly know where to start! Some organizations fund no-kill shelters, or support animal adoption, or pay for spaying and neutering. Many help rescue animals from the streets. And of course, there are wildlife rescue and supportive charities. So, where to send your money is up to you. Your veterinarian or the local animal shelter can give you information on several nonprofit organizations.

If you plan to donate a large amount of money (more than $10,000), some organizations offer ways to manage your donation effectively. The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) is one example: It offers a Planned Giving program and just launched its animal-friendly Donor-Advised Fund. For more information, visit its Web site at www.hsus.org, or write the Humane Society of the United States, 2100 L Street NW, Washington, DC 20037.

For those of you who don't have much money to give, you can always volunteer your time. Again, your vet or animal shelter can start you in the right direction.

I can point out that donating to a federally recognized charity is often tax-deductible. So, helping to protect animals not only makes you feel good, but it can also fatten your wallet next year at tax time!

Rodeheaver Joins F&M Staff As Lender, Manager



James G. Pierné, president and chief executive officer of Farmers & Merchants Bank and Trust, recently announced that Philip L. Rodeheaver has joined the bank as a commercial lender and branch manager in Garrett County.

Rodeheaver has extensive experience in relationship banking and a diverse professional background, including knowledge of commercial lending, credit analysis, accounting, and investment services. Before coming to F&M Bank, Rodeheaver worked for M&T Bank (formerly Keystone Financial Bank) in Oakland as a commercial lender.

In his new capacity with F&M Bank, Rodeheaver will be responsible for providing services to retail and commercial clients from the new McHenry office.

Rodeheaver is currently a member of the Garrett Community College Foundation board of directors, the Microworks Microloan Committee, and the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, where he served as treasurer.

Rodeheaver is a graduate of Garrett Community College and Frostburg State University. He is currently completing his M.B.A. degree at FSU. He resides in Oakland with his wife Sherry.

ELEMENTARY STUDENTS DISSECT LUNGS — As part of the fifth grade science health curriculum, students at Accident Elementary School dissected pig lungs as a culminating activity for their study of the respiratory system. Under the guidance of the school health nurse, Sharon Bogard, students explained the process of respiration and traced the path of oxygen throughout the body. Students were given the opportunity to cut into the lungs, identify the parts, and inflate and deflate lung segments using straws. Pictured, left to right, are Mrs. Bogard, Angela La Masters, Clint Suter, Mitchell Hall, Taylor Cabe, and Stephen Younkin.

GCC Sets Three Summer Sessions

Garrett Community College will again offer three summer sessions of credit courses this year, according to a college spokesperson.

The Early Summer Session, slated for May 10 through June 15, will feature several Adventure Sports courses and several math courses. Back Country Living (AVS 101) will meet for one week, May 20-26; Introduction to Sea Kayaking (AVS 146) will be presented on location along the Eastern Shore May 31-June 3; and Swiftwater Rescue (AVS 280) is set for the weekend of June 8-10.

Five developmental math courses will be given in the early session, all meeting five days a week from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., beginning May 15 and ending June 8. At this time Math 89, 90, 95, 97, and 98 will be offered. Other math courses scheduled during the same weeks are College Algebra (MAT 105) from 1 to 3 p.m. each weekday, May 15 to June 12; and Calculus I (MAT 190) from 8 to 10 a.m. each weekday, May 10 to June 15.

During the Summer Day Session, set for June 11 to July 30, five courses will be offered at arranged times. These are Adventure Sports Practicum Internships (AVS 295); Supervised Work Experience (AGEC 114); Integrated Pest Management (AGRO 109); Plant Systematics (BIO 210); and Herbaceous Plant Identification (NRW 180). Two courses will meet Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays: General Psychology (PSY 101) from 9 to 11 a.m.; and Expository Writing (ENG 101) from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Two math courses will meet every day during the session: Introduction to Algebra (MAT 95) from 8:30 to 10 a.m.; and Geometry (MAT 97) from 10:30 to noon.

Summer Evening Session will offer five courses this summer. Principles of Biology and Lab (BIO 104) will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 10 p.m. Principles of Sociology (SOC 101) will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 5 to 8 p.m. Two courses will meet at the National Guard Armory in Oakland — Introduction to Computers (CS 105) on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 to 9 p.m., and Windows 98 (CA 114) on Wednesdays from 6 to 9:35 p.m. Computer Repair Technician (CIT 263) and A+ Certification course will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:30 to 10 p.m., June 18 to August 22.

Students may now register for these summer courses at the Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours. Further information is available from that office at 301-387-3044.

Water Hydrant Flushing Set

Crews with the Garrett County Sanitary District will be flushing water hydrants in the town of Friendsville next Thursday, April 12. Residents are advised to be aware that their water may be dirty and cloudy for a short period as a result of the routine maintenance procedure, and are asked to refrain from doing laundry until tap water runs clear.

For further information, persons may contact the Sanitary District office at 301-334-1980.

Catholic Church Sets Holy Week, Easter Schedule

The Roman Catholic community of southern Garrett County has slated its Holy Week and Easter schedule of masses and special services at several locations in the county.

Holy Week begins this Saturday, April 7, with two Palm Sunday vigil masses. The first is set for 4 p.m. at the McHenry Methodist Church, located at the intersection of Mosser and Bumble Bee roads, and the second for 5:30 p.m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church, located at 208 South Fourth Street in Oakland.

The schedule for Palm Sunday, April 8, begins with a 9 a.m. mass at St. Peter's Church, followed by a noon mass at the Immaculate Conception Church in Kitzmiller, located along Kitzmiller Road.

Holy Thursday, April 12, will get under way with an 8:15 a.m. prayer service in the daily mass chapel of St. Peter's Church social hall, located next to the church. A 7 p.m. mass at St. Peter's Church will commemorate the Last Supper, followed by an adoration service in the daily mass chapel from 8:15 to 8:30 p.m.

An 8:15 a.m. prayer service is set for Good Friday, April 13, in the daily mass chapel. A noon ecumenical service will take place at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, located at South Third and Center streets in Oakland. The celebration of the Lord's Passion, with the Stations of the Cross service, is set for 7 p.m. at St. Peter's Church.

The Easter vigil mass will take place at 8 p.m. at St. Peter's Church on Saturday, April 14. This will replace the regularly scheduled 4 p.m. mass at the McHenry Methodist Church and 5:30 p.m. mass at St. Peter's.

Easter Sunday, April 15, will get under way with 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. masses at St. Peter's Church. A noon mass will take place at Immaculate Conception Church in Kitzmiller.

For further information on any of these services, persons may call the St. Peter's Church office at 301-334-2202.

Senator Mooney To Be Speaker At GOP Dinner

The Garrett Republican Central Committee has announced that the 29th annual Lincoln Day Dinner will he held April 26, beginning at 6 p.m., in the McHenry House at the Wisp. The speaker will be Alex Mooney, Maryland Republican state senator. Senator Mooney represents District 3, which includes parts of Washington and Frederick counties.

First elected in 1998 with 56% of the vote, Alex Mooney is the youngest Republican ever elected to the Maryland Senate. He serves on the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, to which all the bills on "hot-button social issues" are referred: crime, abortion, gun control, gambling, etc. "This session, as the governor forced his gay-rights bill through that committee, Senator Mooney led the opposition," stated a central committee spokesperson. He organized a filibuster against the bill on the senate floor. When the battle was done, our out-numbered Republicans at least preserved the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts from the requirements, thanks to amendments sponsored by Alex Mooney."

Mooney is also a member of the Federal Relations Committee, as well as the Forum for Rural Maryland, which deals with farming and agriculture issues. "The cornerstone of his role in the state senate is to stand up for family values against the agenda of the big-city liberals," the spokesperson said.

Mooney began his service to Maryland right out of college, when he was a staff aide to Congressman Roscoe Bartlett. During the 1994 re-election campaign, he traveled extensively with the congressman throughout western Maryland. From 1995 to 1998 he was vice president of the legislative arm of the conservative Council for National Policy. In that post he led the "Truth in Testimony" project, requiring groups that lobby Congress to reveal the amount of taxpayer dollars they receive.

Mooney received a B.A. degree from Dartmouth College in 1993. He played football and rugby, earning a berth on the East Coast rugby all-star team. He was a member of the Republican Club, and was president of the Dartmouth Coalition for Life.

A Maryland native and resident of Frederick, he is a member of the Frederick County Farm Bureau and the Knights of Columbus.

Dinner tickets are $25 each and may he purchased from any Republican elected official or by calling 301-334-4500.

Former Trauma Patient Speaks Out About EMS

Roberta Markley learned first-hand about Maryland's Emergency Medical Services (EMS) System on January 27. Along with four companions, the resident of Severn was more than 200 miles from home, looking forward to skiing at Wisp in Garrett County, when the vehicle in which she was riding was involved in a head-on collision.

Two months later on March 21, she was in Annapolis, telling her story to Maryland legislators, worried about the $7.2 million deficit projected for the EMS system next fiscal year and urging legislators to support the bills introduced to prevent the EMS funding shortfall.

Melissa Meyers, R.N., is the trauma nurse coordinator at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where Markley and seven other patients were transported from the scene of the crash. According to Meyers, the families of the crash victims initially were anxious about being in a rural area, in a "small-town hospital."

"It was a challenge to convince them that because of our state trauma center designation process, we had the capabilities to handle their injuries and that if we did not, we were in a system that would facilitate them getting to where they needed to be," Meyers stated. "In the end, they came to trust the system. They were very grateful for care provided at the scene and the care received at our facility."

Markley's experience shows how a statewide EMS system should and does work. Two vehicles, one with three occupants from Silver Spring, and one with five occupants from Severn, collided head-on on snow-covered I-68 in Keyser's Ridge. The entire crash scene was managed by Garrett County ambulance volunteers.

All eight patients were severely injured and admitted to the trauma center at Cumberland's Memorial Hospital. Four were taken immediately to the operating room and two were later transferred to the R. Adams Cowley Shock Trauma Center in Baltimore. One had a severe spinal cord injury and another had complicated orthopedic injuries.

REPRESENTATIVES SPEAK TO LEGISLATORS ABOUT TRAUMA SYSTEM — Various representative were in Annapolis recently to explain Maryland's EMS, trauma, and specialty care systems to state legislators. Pictured, from the left, are Dave Ramsey, regional administrator for the Maryland Institute for Emergency Services Systems; Roberta Markley, former patient admitted to the trauma center at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland; Melissa Meyers, trauma nurse coordinator at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland; and Del. George Edwards, representing Garrett County and western Allegany County.

Markley had liver and spleen injuries, as well as numerous fractured ribs. She stayed at Memorial Hospital several days. She is now fully recovered.

Markley, speaking from her experiences, said she is grateful that Maryland had a statewide EMS system in place. It ensures that no matter where people might be injured in the state — metropolitan areas or rural areas — they are guaranteed that they will receive the same high quality of care needed to survive and affect the quality of their lives, she added.

Because of her experience, Markley was in Annapolis with Maryland EMS and trauma center representatives at informational displays on the various components of the EMS system.

She expressed concern that the emergency services that people in Maryland are now guaranteed will be cut as a result of the projected deficit. Senate Bill 292 and House Bill 1148 would increase the vehicle registration fee surcharge from $16 to $22 every two years. There have been no increases to that fund since it was established in 1992.

Healthy-O-Living
in Garrett County

Health Dept. Now Providing Dental Services

The Garrett County Health Department recently began seeing patients in its dental clinic, located at 1426 Memorial Drive in Oakland. The dental clinic offers preventtive and restorative dental services to children and pregnant women who are covered by the Maryland Children's Insurance Program (MCHIP).

The dental clinic complements a network of community dentists who have been providing dental services to children for a number of years. Rodney Glotfelty, health officer, stated, "The decision to open a dental clinic for this population was made after community dentists urged the health department to hire a public health dentist. With the increase in the number of children who are covered by MCHIP, it was apparent that community dentists could not keep up with the demand for dental services."

Dr. George Papadimitriou is providing services in the clinic. Papadimitriou received his doctor of dental surgery (D.D.S.) degree in 1999 from the University of Maryland Dental School. Since graduating, he has practiced dentistry with his father, Dr. Nicholas E. Papadimitriou, in Baltimore, and with the dental practice of Dr. Frank LaParle in Cumberland. Dr. Papadimitriou has also provided dental services at Allegheny Dental Care since last summer.

"I am thrilled to be providing dental services in Garrett County," Papadimitriou said. "My goal is to give children a pleasant first experience with a dentist. The patients have been extremely friendly, and I believe that this is a great service to the community."

Other staff for the clinic include Cynthia Bowman, registered dental hygienist; Amanda Cassidy, AmeriCorps; Michelle Harvey, office assistant; and Jessica Warnick, dental assistant.

For information about the Garrett County Health Department's Dental Clinic and the network of community dentists, persons may call 301-334-1319 any weekday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Health Department Updates Web Site

The Garrett County Health Department is marking National Public Health Week (April 2-8) by unveiling a newly updated web site, www.garretthealth.org.

The web site now features an easier-to-use menu that will help users locate the services that they desire. An addition to the web site are pages on the "Status of Health" in Garrett County. These pages will feature charts and tables that depict how Garrett County is doing compared to state, regional, and national health indicators.

Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County health officer, stated, "The public should have easy access to this type of information. It will help us see how we are doing and assist us in making decisions on how to improve the health of the county." The site will also be linked to other helpful health-related sites.

Other local health-related web sites include Garrett County Memorial Hospital at GCMH.com and the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families at garrettpartnership.org.

NATIONAL PUBLIC HEALTH WEEK — The Garrett County Health Department has marked April 2 through 8 as National Public Health Week by showcasing an informational booth in the Oakland Wal-Mart. The booth features blood pressure screenings and a game that tests the participant's knowledge of the health department's programs and services. Participants in the game are eligible for various prizes. Kendra Todd, director of Community Health and Outreach, said, "Our goal is to inform the public of the many beneficial programs and services available through the Garrett County Health Department. By knowing about our programs, we hope that more people will take advantage of them and increase their quality of life." Alzheimer's Epidemic Will Overwhelm Families And Healthcare, Study Says

A new 50-state study shows a jump of 54 percent in Medicare costs for people with Alzheimer's disease by the year 2010, raising "dire questions about the survival of the current U.S. healthcare system unless a way is found to prevent or delay the disease," according Barbara Pilgram, executive director of the Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association.

"We must act now and invest in research programs," Pilgrim said. "This increase in cost comes even before a real epidemic of Alzheimer's hits. Between 2010 and 2050, the number of people with Alzheimer's will increase from an estimated 5.5 million up to 14 million, as the baby boomers enter the age of highest risk. This imminent epidemic of Alzheimer's disease threatens to bankrupt Medicare and Medicaid."

During meetings on Capitol Hill with members of the Maryland congressional delegation, representatives from the Alzheimer's Association called on Congress and President George W. Bush to make conquering Alzheimer's disease an immediate top federal health priority. "Congress must increase Alzheimer research funding at the National Institutes of Health to $1 billion, with a minimum down payment of an additional $200 million this year," stated Pilgram. NIH is now spending about $515 million on Alzheimer research.

The study, prepared by the Lewin Group, shows that the cost to Medicare of treating people with Alzheimer's disease will soar from $31.9 billion in 2000 to $49.3 billion in 2010. The report shows a similar impact on Medicaid, with program expenditures for nursing home care for people with Alzheimer's increasing from $18.2 billion in 2000 to an estimated $33 billion by the end of this decade.

Maryland's Medicare expenditures for people with Alzheimer's will increase from $630 million today to $981 million in 2010. Medicaid expenditures for people with Alzheimer's will increase from $288 million today to $522 million in 2010.

"Scientists now know that the process that destroys brain cells begins in the brain at least 10 years before the symptoms of Alzheimer's appear," said Pilgram. "If we haven't found a way to slow down or stop that process before the baby boomers start turning 65, it may be too late to save most of them from the disease."

Currently, Maryland has 79,969 people with Alzheimer's. That number will increase to 129,986 in 2025. "Our health care system is struggling today to care for the people with Alzheimer's. What is going to happen when millions more people need help?" asked Pilgram.

The payoff on a $1 billion research investment could be enormous, according to the Alzheimer's Association. "By delaying the onset of Alzheimer's for even five years, we can keep half of the baby boomers who are now at risk from ever suffering the devastating effects of the disease," Pilgram stated. "The savings to Medicare and Medicaid will be dramatic. Even a one-month delay in nursing home placement is estimated to save $1 billion a year."

The study shows expenditures for persons with Alzheimer's make up approximately 14.4 percent of total Medicare spending, even though such persons represent only about 10 percent of all Medicare beneficiaries. The share of Medicare spending devoted to beneficiaries with Alzheimer's rises to 15.7 percent in 2010, when total Medicare spending is estimated to be $314 billion.

Most persons who get Alzheimer's disease or related disorders are Medicare beneficiaries. Even though Medicare does not pay for what they need most—long-term care and prescription drugs—it spends a lot on their basic health care. Alzheimer-related health care costs are not limited to those with the disease. Care-givers—one-third of whom are Medicare beneficiaries themselves—have more health problems than others their age.

Medicaid expenditures for people with Alzheimer's disease are high because of the uninsured cost of long-term care. Nearly half of Medicare beneficiaries with Alzheimer's disease also qualify for Medicaid, because they have exhausted their own resources paying for long-term care. At least half of all nursing home residents have some form of dementia. They are the residents with the longest stays and the ones most likely to spend down to become Medicaid-eligible.

The largest private funding source for Alzheimer research, the Alzheimer's Association has committed over $100 million to research into the causes, treatment, prevention, and cure of the disease. For more information, persons may contact the Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association toll-free at 800-696-6830.

Oakland Woman Handed Month In Garrett Jail

An Oakland woman was sentenced to a month in the local detention center after she pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated (DWI) and making a false statement to a police officer. Visiting judge Timothy Finan handed down the sentence during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing.

Julianne Elizabeth Hesson, 23, was arrested by sheriff's deputies in November after a traffic stop near Deer Park. She provided another person's name and identification when asked to identify herself. Judge Finan gave Hesson a six-month sentence, all but one month of which was suspended, fined her $700, and placed her on three months' probation. Several additional traffic offenses were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

In other district court news, a Prince George's County man received a month-long jail sentence after pleading guilty to illegal possession of a firearm and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

Robert Alvin Murphy, 42, Upper Marlboro, was handed a 90-day sentence with all but one month suspended, fined $555, and placed on three years of supervised probation by GC District Court judge Ralph Burnett. Sheriff's deputies stopped Murphy in his pick-up truck in Oakland last August, and an ensuing search uncovered a loaded handgun concealed under the driver's seat.

Murphy has a criminal record that includes a 1985 felony conviction for distribution of cocaine and marijuana in Virginia. When the gun was discovered, Murphy was charged for being a convicted felon in possession of a firearm. Additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, reportedly discovered during the search, and several traffic offenses were not prosecuted.

John Charles Gillespie, 40, Oakland was handed two days in jail by Judge Finan for a marijuana possession conviction. Gillespie pleaded guilty to the charge that had stemmed from his April 1999 arrest by sheriff's deputies in the wake of an Oakland traffic stop. A search revealed a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe with burnt marijuana residue. Gillespie received a one-year sentence with all but two days suspended, and was placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Robert Smith, 32, Oakland, pleaded not guilty to a second degree assault charge, but was nonetheless handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) ruling by Judge Burnett. Smith was arrested by sheriff's deputies in December for allegedly striking a juvenile. Smith was also fined $30 and placed on six months' supervised probation. An additional charge of child abuse was not prosecuted.

Mark Kevin Hitt, 18, Westernport, pleaded guilty to possession of drug paraphernalia and was handed a PBJ and a $200 fine, while an additional charge of marijuana possession was not prosecuted. Arrested in the wake of a December traffic stop by sheriff's deputies, Hitt was charged when a pack of rolling papers were found on his person and a suspected burnt marijuana cigarette and a bag filled with suspected marijuana seeds were discovered next to his car seat.

Although Misty Dawn Bailey, 23, Glenside, Pa., was not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, she did plead guilty to speeding and received a PBJ ruling. Bailey had been stopped in October along Route 40, and she voluntarily turned over a bag of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe.

Philip Alvin Bosse, 44, Pasadena, was handed a stet ruling on charges of child abuse, second degree assault, and reckless endangerment. His December arrest by Baltimore County police came after a warrant was issued for his arrest in Garrett County based on a July incident during which he allegedly forced a local juvenile to drink whiskey until the youth passed out.

Kimberly Dawn Rand, 37, Grantsville, was handed a stet ruling on a felony theft charge filed by state troopers, who arrested her in August. Rand admitted to taking her boyfriend's rifle and pawning it at a Frostburg pawn shop.

James Wayne Marshall, 21, Newport News, Va., was not prosecuted on a variety of charges that stemmed from his September arrest by state troopers after a traffic stop along Interstate 68. A search located what was described as a large quantity of suspected marijuana in a freezer bag in the trunk of Marshall's vehicle, along with three small weighing scales and a box of plastic bags. A loaded .38-caliber handgun was also retrieved from the car's glovebox.

Marshall faced charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and illegally transporting a handgun in his vehicle, each of which was not prosecuted, along with a charge of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, which was dismissed.

Jason Patrick Donchoo, 24, Sykesville, was not prosecuted on marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges that resulted from a traffic stop by state troopers, who located a bag of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe in the car in which he was riding.

A "not guilty" verdict was recorded in the domestic assault case of Douglas Guy Yencho, 35, Friendsville, when the alleged victim refused to testify against him. Yencho had been arrested by state troopers on a second degree assault charge after a December incident at his residence.

Larry Wayne Schroyer, 39, Oakland, was exonerated by Judge Finan of charges of influencing a juror and violating an ex parte order.

DWI/DUI Hearings

Several DWI and DUI hearings took place in district court recently.

Francis Wade Hinebaugh, 52, Md., was sentenced for a DUI conviction, and was fined $2,055, handed a one-year suspended sentence, and placed on three years' supervised probation by Judge Finan.

Arnold Wayne Lipscomb, 36, Md., was sentenced on a DWI conviction by Judge Burnett, who handed down a six-month jail term with all but one month suspended, levied a $500 fine, and imposed a two-year supervised probation order.

Ronald Elroy Lilley Jr., 37, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but six days of which was suspended, fined $455, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Charles Anthony Wyrick, 42, Tenn., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ and a 30-day sentence, all but 4 days of which was suspended, fined $355, placed on one month of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Billy Joe Harvey, 20, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 30-day sentence with all but two days suspended, fined $355, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Teddy Earl Dugan, 44, Md., was deemed to be in violation of his DWI probation order, which resulted in a 45-day jail term ruling by Judge Finan.

Jamie Edward Dropplemman, 21, Md., was deemed in violation of his DWI probation order and was handed two days in jail.

Leroy Erwin Friend, 35, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $555, handed a six-month suspended sentence, and placed on two years' supervised probation by visiting judge Paul Stakem.

Charles William Booker, 43, pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $305, handed a 60-day suspended sentence, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation.

Jared Gale Paugh, 62, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $355, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation by Judge Finan.

James John Hoffman, 44, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $355, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service by Judge Burnett.

Kenneth James Murphy, 20, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, fined $405, and placed on one year of supervised probation by Judge Finan.

Frederick Allan Turner, 29, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, a $355 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service by Judge Burnett.

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

●Let's start off with the news about the big Easter egg hunt sponsored by WKHJ and WWHC radio, scheduled for 11 a.m. this Saturday, April 7, at Broadford Lake Park. Both radio stations and Garrett County Community Action's Community and Emergency Services office (AmeriCorps) are again teamed up after last year's, which attracted around 250 egg hunters.

●As spring comes there's increased use of Broadford, Rotary, and Yough Glades parks. So here's a reminder of some rules that are designed to make visiting these places a better experience for everyone: dogs are not allowed at the beach area at Broadford or anywhere at Yough Glades; fishing at Yough Glades is restricted to those under 16 years of age; and in-line skates and skateboards are not allowed in the parks or on any town property.

●I'd like to thank the groups that volunteer to pick up trash from time to time. Volunteering their time between pickups are the individuals who take it upon themselves to pick up trash on their own. Thanks also to them. These efforts are all appreciated and go a long way to keeping our community the beautiful place that it is.

●This is a reminder that with the warming weather more people are walking outside, so motorists need to be more cautious and maintain the speed limit, which is 25 miles per hour in Oakland unless posted otherwise.

●The response to the sale of engraved bricks was overwhelming. We more than met our goal by selling a total of 1,555 bricks. The order has been placed, and it will take 12 weeks for this last batch to be finished. Installation will take place after that (weather permitting).

ALWAYS A LEARNING CLIMATE AT HICKORY — Hickory, Garrett County Schools' Environmental Education Center, has had a busy schedule this school year despite several weather-related interruptions, according to center coordinator Joseph L. Winters. The year began with extended activity sessions for the Northern Middle School seventh grade science classes of Darren Wilburn, which were followed by the annual extended activity session of the entire student body of Swan Meadow School. The fourth grade pen pal classes of Accident and Broad Ford elementary schools of Twylah Stewart and Rhonda Savage took part in an overnight "colonial living" program. Friendsville's fourth graders will be at the camp for an overnight visit this month, as will Yough Glade's fourth graders in May. Dispersed around the extended activity and overnight experiences are elementary day classes scheduled by their teachers. Dates remain to be finalized for this summer's five-week residential program for upper elementary students. So far this school year alone, more than 2,000 local elementary school students have taken part in science curriculum activities at Hickory that either introduce, reinforce, or serve as a follow-up to their classroom natural science studies. For general information about Hickory, as well as class visit schedules and weather information, interested persons may consult the center's web page at www.ga.k12.md.us/schools/hickory. Persons may also call Hickory at 301-746-8461 or e-mail the center at heec@excite.com. As the photos above and below show, the center's setting provides a learning environment for groups and individuals in the best classroom of all — the great outdoors.

THE WISHING WELL

In the hopes of letting people in our area and out of town know when someone is ill or recovering from an accident or illness, I would like to be able to include names in The Wishing Well to give friends and loved ones the opportunity to send them a card, visit them, or call them. If you know of anyone who you would like to have included in The Wishing Well, please contact me at 301-746-5933.

Abigail Sisler, youngest daughter of Tim and Bobbie Sisler, recently was hospitalized with an upper respiratory infection called RSV. She is now home recuperating. Her address is 13088 Friendsville Road, Friendsville, MD 21531.

Mary Suter is undergoing radiation treatments. Her address is 608 Water Street, Friendsville, MD 21531.

Ellen Taylor is home recuperating after a six-day stay in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Her address is 33 Paul Fisher Road, Friendsville, MD 21531.

ON A PERSONAL NOTE

I would like to thank everyone who sent my son, Chris, birthday greetings. He just loved opening all of his cards. I had a feeling some of you would be just as surprised as I am to realize that he is 22 years old. That's old for my baby boy! He really did have a special day.

I would also like to thank everyone for their encouraging words about the Friendsville News and my "Wishing Well." It means a lot to know that something that I love to do is very appreciated. Thank you.

In Memory Of My Precious Mom,
Bessie Bowers, who went to be with our Lord on April 7, 2000

Has it already been a year since I had to say goodbye to you? I miss you so much, Mom, our daily phone calls, our days out shopping, and yes, our visits with each other. You are still such an important part of my life and I talk to you all the time. Sometimes it seems you are away on a trip and you'll be back, but then reality sets in and I know if I'm to see you again, I'll need to go to where you are.

So Mom, although I still cry because I miss you so much, I'm looking forward to someday....

I'll love & miss you forever,
Sue

GCC Unveils Offering In Horticulture

LAAH BROADWATER

A new emphasis in environmental horticulture will be available to students in the Agricultural Management program at Garrett Community College this fall. Spearheading this effort is horticulture program coordinator Laah Broadwater, a graduate of Southern High School and the GCC agriculture management program and of the agricultural management education programs at West Virginia University.

Broadwater's position has been funded through a research internship grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission to study the economic feasibility of hydroponic plant production and the extent to which horticulture can be a factor in preserving the environment.

Broadwater is visiting high schools in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania to interest students in the new program. When the greenhouse now under construction is completed, she will supervise students as they learn to propagate native plants, grow bedding plants, and grow plants such as lettuce and basil using the hydroponic techniques of recirculating water from the fish tanks. She is also working with agriculture instructor Willie Lantz and director of technology Jim Allen to plan curriculum for the program.

A new Introduction to Horticulture course will be offered by the college in the fall semester, along with other horticulture courses. Persons interested in further information may call Allen at 301-387-3006.

Maryland Week With Pride

Farmers Union Urges Reform Of Estate Tax

The National Farmers Union urged congressional leaders to adopt responsible estate tax reform that provides immediate help to families, farmers and small business owners.

"Congress has a real opportunity to address meaningful tax reform that helps our hard working family farmers and ranchers and small-business owners with relief immediately, rather than waiting for possible repeal down the road that may still subject their heirs to capital gains tax. The other proposals also provide a windfall to America's wealthiest families, jeopardizing our ability to address other national priority issues such as education, health care and the rural economy," said NFU president Leland Swenson.

Farmers Union urges Congress to adopt an estate tax reform package that immediately:

· increases the exemption to a minimum $4 million of net estate value per individual ($8 million per couple, indexed for future inflation);

· retains stepped-up basis;

· simplifies the exemption qualification rules;

· modestly reduces current rates on the non-exempt portion of estates; and · expands the current annual gift allowance to $25,000.

"Our plan will maintain fiscal responsibility and ensure the availability of resources necessary to address our many national priorities. We urge Congress to accomplish this goal," said Swenson.

The public is invited to attend an open house at the NEW Kingwood USDA Service Center that will be held on Wed., April 11, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The new service center is located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Shopping Plaza down the hall from the Preston County Health Department. Customer parking is available both in the front and the rear lots; however, our barrier-free access is in the front.

Manure Transport Project Is Expanded To All Operations

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister has announced that Maryland's newly expanded Manure Transport Project—an outgrowth of the Poultry Litter Transport Project—is now available to help all types of animal operations cover the costs of transporting excess manure off their farms.

"The Poultry Litter Transport Project has been extremely successful among poultry producers with high soil phosphorus levels and producers with excess litter," said Secretary Mister. "We are delighted to expand this project to other animal producers who are working to make the transition to phosphorus-based nutrient management required by the Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998."

The Maryland Manure Transport Project provides farmers with cost-share assistance of up to $20 per ton to help pay for costs associated with moving manure away from poultry, dairy, swine and other animal operations. The project is available to animal producers with high soil phosphorus levels or insufficient land to apply manure. Receiving or sending farms may be eligible, and a nutrient management plan is required. The transport project is administered through the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share (MACS) Program.

To date, participating farmers have received approximately $800,000 in payments to move over 43,000 tons of poultry manure away from areas with high soil phosphorus levels. Delmarva poultry companies paid 50 percent of these costs.

The Manure Matching Service supports the transport project by linking farmers with excess manure with those farmers who can utilize the manure safely as a nutrient source. The goal of the service is to protect water quality by fostering efficient land application and alternative animal waste management technologies. Since its inception in 1999, farmers registered with the service have requested more than 50,000 tons of manure.

The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 requires that a nutrient management plan be written and implemented for all agricultural operations with gross annual incomes in excess of $2,500 or livestock operations with 8,000 pounds or more of live-animal weight. Farmers using chemical fertilizers are required to have a nitrogen and phosphorus based nutrient management plan by Dec. 31, 2001. These plans must be implemented by Dec. 31, 2002. Farmers applying animal manure or biosolids must have a nitrogen-based plan developed by Dec. 31, 2001, and implemented by Dec. 31, 2002. Development of a nitrogen and phosphorus-based plan is required by July 1, 2004, with implementation due by July 1, 2005.

Farmers interested in participating in the Manure Transport Project should contact their local soil conservation district or call the Maryland Department of Agriculture's toll free number 1-877-7MANURE.

Local 4-H Plans Swine, Sheep & Goat Workshop

Red House 4-H Club will sponsor a swine, sheep and goat workshop on Sun., April 8, beginning at 2 p.m. There will be qualified individuals in each species talking about grooming, showing, and feed management. All 4-H and FFA members are invited to attend. No animals will be brought by members.

The workshop will be held at a location on White Church Road. Those attending should watch for a sign on the left. For more information, interested persons may call 301-334-5978.

Beef Workshop Draws Good Crowd Of Youth

A beef workshop/show sponsored by the Red House 4-H Club was held Sat., March 24, at the Western Trails arena. A grooming session was held first with Adam Hayes grooming Marcella Moreland's market beef. Hayes went through step by step on how to fit and show beef, including heifers. Hayes recently attended beef workshops and judging in Texas and New Mexico.

Later in the day, a beef show was held. Those 4-H'ers attending were Becky Berkebile, Tracy Bowman with his steer, Jodie Brenneman, Sarah and Stephanie Brenneman, Brandon and Cecalie Georg with their steers, Stacey and Shelby Glover with their steers, Aliza, Eli, and Levi Green Charlie, Nichole and Sharon Harvey, Christopher Jayhurst, Michelle, Sara and Stacy Holler, Darrick Lowdermilk, Marcella Moreland with her steer, Andrew Rodeheaver, Ashley Rodeheaver with a heifer, Randi Rodeheaver with her steer, Abby and Ester Schmuck, Rachel Schmidt, Daniel and Rachel Skipper, Cindy and David Smearman, Nathan Sines, Amanda Uphold, and many parents and families.

Hayes and Gene Schenk served as beef judges and picked Ashley Rodeheaver as Overall Grand Champion and Randi Rodeheaver as Overall Reserve Grand Champion. They both received a movie pass, a meal certificate from McDonald's, and a certificate from Red House 4-H Club.

Leaders of the club said the workshop was "very successful," and extended appreciation to Gene Schenk of Western Trails, Adam Hayes, McDonalds, Ducky's Restaurant, Action Towing, L. Gregory & Sons, Southern Auto Supply, Allegheny Welding and Machine, The Board Room Family Restaurant, Josie's Family Restaurant, Uno's, Durst Funeral Home, Stewart Funeral Home, State Farm Insurance, and Team One for making the learning experience a success for all who attended.

Udderly Awesome Adventure Set For Md. Youth

The eighth annual Maryland Dairy Youth Weekend will be held Fri. through Sun., June 15 to 17, at the Frederick County 4-H Camp and Activities Center.

The workshop is open to all Maryland dairy youth 8 to 18 years old. Registration will be from 6 to 7 p.m. on Friday, and departure will be at 1 p.m. on Sunday.

Workshops will include: Budgeting, Alternative Ag Careers, Team Building, Stress Management, Ag Science, and the Junior Dairyman's Contest with $1,000 in prize money.

The three-day self esteem-building program also includes meals, snacks, swimming break, dairy commercials, pizza party, secret dance and movie.

The cost for the all-inclusive dairy adventure is $20 per youth. Families with three or more children attending pay $20 for the first two and $15 per child for any others. Registration is limited to the first 100 campers, and must be postmarked by May 19. Late registration is $25 per person. The fee includes a T-shirt, food, materials and much more.

For a registration form, interested persons may call Susan G. Summers at 301-865-1045 or Becky Long Chaney at 540-829-7907.

Report Released On Poultry Types And Numbers

All layers in the U.S. on March 1 totaled 336 millions up 2% from a year ago, according to the National Ag Statistics Service (NASS). The 336 million layers consisted of 276 million layers producing table or commercial type eggs, 56.8 million layers producing broiler-type hatching eggs, and 2.78 million layers producing egg-type hatching eggs. Rate of lay per day on March 1 averaged 69.5 eggs per 100 layers, down slightly from the 69.8 eggs a year ago.

Laying flocks in the 30 major egg producing states surveyed by NASS produced 6.11 billion eggs during February, down 2% from February 2000. The average number of layers during February, at 315 million, was up 1% from a year earlier.

Egg-type chicks hatched during February totaled 38 million, up 8% from February 2000. Eggs in incubators totaled 35.5 million on March 1, down 2% from a year ago.

Domestic placements of egg-type pullet chicks for future hatchery supply flocks by leading breeders totaled 302,000 during February, up 20% from February 2000.

The February 2000 hatch of broiler-type chicks, at 670 million, was down 4% from February of the previous year. There were 627 million eggs in incubators on March 1, up 1% from a year earlier.

Leading breeders placed 6.75 million broiler-type pullet chicks for future domestic hatchery supply flocks during February.

The Ban on Mammalian Protein Feed for Livestock

Several producers have called me concerning the U.S. Food and Drug Administration regulation CFR 589.2000, which prohibits feeding protein derived from the tissues of mammals to ruminant animals such as cattle, sheep, goats, deer, elk, bison, and buffalo. Dr. James Fearer, Maryland state veterinarian, provided the following information.

Purpose: The purpose of the regulation is to prevent the establishment and amplification of bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE) in the United States through feed, and thereby minimize any risk to animals and humans.

· What is Included in the Ban?

Feed ingredients derived from tissues of mammals that supply protein are included in the ban. Examples of prohibited materials include meat, glandular meal, meat and bone meal, meat by-products, meat and bone meal tankage, hydrolyzed hair, cooked bone meal, bone marrow, and leather meal.

· What is not Included in the Ban?

Feed ingredients specifically exempted by the FDA are protein tissues from other animals like fish and poultry. Non-protein tissues from mammals like beef tallow are exempt from the ban. Examples of feed ingredients that may be fed to cattle and other ruminants include protein from poultry, fish, swine, horse or vegetable sources. Also, blood and blood products, gelatin, milk and milk products, feather meal, tallow, oil and fats are not prohibited.

· Requirements for On-Farm Feed Mixers

Avoid commingling or cross contamination of prohibited and non-prohibited material by:

1. Maintaining separate equipment to store and mix feed, or
2. Using equipment clean-out procedures adequate to prevent carry-over of prohibited material into ruminant feed.
3. Maintain written procedures to document the above and maintain records sufficient to track prohibited material throughout their receipt, mixing, and feeding.
4. Label all feeds (except pet food) that contain prohibited material with the statement "Do not feed to cattle or other ruminants."
5. Maintain records for a minimum of one year after feeding and make records available to FDA for inspection and copying.

· Requirement for Individuals Feeding Ruminant Animals

* Maintain copies of all purchase invoices and labels for feeds that contain animal protein.
* Make copies of the invoices and labeling available for inspection and copying by the FDA.
* FDA requires all size operations feeding ruminant animals (even one animal) to maintain the above records for a minimum of one year.
* Good record keeping will prevent problems from occurring.

If you have additional questions, you may contact Dr. Fearer at 301-334-2185 or me at 301-334-6960.

Is It Time For Corn Growers To Cash In Alfalfa Nitrogen Credits?

by Les Vough, Extension Forage Specialist, University of MD

The costs associated with growing a corn crop will increase significantly this year due to higher nitrogen fertilizer costs. Natural gas, the primary source of hydrogen for producing ammonia and the raw material of most all commercial nitrogen fertilizer, has risen dramatically in price since last summer, from about $3 per thousand cubic feet to near $10 per thousand cubic feet. A ton of ammonia requires about 33,000 cubic feet of natural gas for its hydrogen requirement. This translates into anhydrous ammonia fertilizer that could cost $420 per ton come planting time. In some cases farmers may not be able to secure adequate fertilizer N for their 2001 corn crop at any price. Farm advisors are suggesting that farmers with limited N fertilizer for spring 2001 either plant fewer acres of corn or apply less fertilizer N per acre of corn planted. But farmers who grow alfalfa have a third option — cash in alfalfa N credits by plowing under older stands and gaining up to 200 lb. N per acre for the corn crop.

Over the past 20 years, the easy availability and relatively low cost of manufactured N has reduced the importance of forage legumes as sources of fertilizer N to subsequent corn crops. Alfalfa is one of the best N producers in the legume family, with some states reporting up to 300 lb. N fixed per acre from high-producing alfalfa stands. An average figure suggested has been 178 lb. N produced per acre.

Several studies have shown that a productive stand of alfalfa may provide a succeeding corn crop with enough N for economic yields without the need for additional commercial N fertilizer. Research at the Central Maryland Research and Education Center, Clarksville Facility, showed yields in excess of 190 bu/acre without supplemental N fertilizer when corn was planted behind good productive stands of alfalfa. On poorer stands of alfalfa, corn yield was 130 to 140 bu/acre. Research at Iowa State University showed that a full stand (50-100% ground cover) of alfalfa can increase yields of the following corn crop as much as an equivalent of 140 lb. fertilizer. A thin (20-50% ground cover) stand of alfalfa can increase corn yields equivalent to 100 lb. of N. Cornell University researchers have found that alfalfa plowed down provided adequate N for maximum economic corn yields when 10 to 20 lb/acre of starter N were applied in the fertilizer band. They also showed that the contribution from plowed down alfalfa was significant in the second year, which could be important if fertilizer N prices remain high into 2002.

Should you cash in your alfalfa nitrogen credits and invest them in this year's corn crop? Well, you want to be sure to maintain an adequate number of alfalfa acres to meet your 2001-02 feed needs. However, if you have "expendable" older stands of alfalfa and are faced with limited supplies of very high-priced fertilizer N for your 2001 corn crop, "cashing in" alfalfa credits might be a management option worth considering this spring.

Pork Quality Assurance Seminar

Dr. Tom Hartsock and Dr. Niki Whitley, Maryland Cooperative Extension livestock specialist, will be conducting a Pork Quality Assurance (PQA) Level III re-certification seminar and swine herd health seminar on April 11, at 7 p.m. PQA certification at Level III is required for anyone selling market animals to Hatfield Quality Meats. The presentations will be held at Garrett Community College Center for Adventure and Outdoor Studies (behind the student dormitory) in McHenry. There is no cost involved, and the PQA seminar will consist of a 30-minute video presentation. The herd health seminar is optional and will follow the PQA seminar. For more information, please contact Willie Lantz, Agriculture instructor at 301-387-3334.

Crop Progress Is Behind As Season Begins

The Maryland Ag Statistics Service reports that continued rains in Maryland monopolized much of the week, allowing for 2.8 days suitable for field work for the week ending April 1. Because of these showers and cool temperatures, farmers are behind on spring tillage and planting of early crops. Planting is behind a considerable amount from last year.

Very little if any amounts of potatoes, tomatoes, cantaloupes, watermelons, snap beans and sweet corn have been seeded. Equally small percentages of peaches, apples and strawberries have bloomed. Some areas have reported that the late spring has set farmers about a week behind schedule.

FRIEND'S STOCKYARD INC.

Market report for Monday, April 2, 2001.

Stock Steers & Bulls (200-500 lbs.), $50-112. Stock Heifers (200-500 lbs.), $66-93. Slaughter Steers, good to choice, $75-80; medium to good, $64-74.50; heavy choice over 1,450 lbs., $68-77. Holstein Bull Calves, return to farm (90-120 lbs.), up to $202. Holstein Heifer Calves, return to farm (90-120 lbs.), up to $400. Beef Cross Calves, return to farm, up to $200.

Hogs, top quality, up to $45.75. Sows, up to $38.

Lambs, choice, up to $82.

Livestock prices are all given per hundredweight.

The cool weather has also delayed small grain growth; however, favorable conditions are being maintained for the most part. Winter wheat is rated 1% very poor, 6% poor, 24% fair, 62% good, and 7% excellent. Barley condition is 1% poor, 22% fair, 69% good, and 8% excellent. Rye is rated at 1% very poor, 15% poor, 19% fair, and 65% good.

Pasture conditions are rated in mostly good condition. Pasture is rated 13% poor, 26% fair, 49% good, and 12% excellent. Hay supplies are rated 1% very short, 4% short, 82% adequate, and 13% surplus.

Showers have replenished ground waters to adequate and surplus levels. Topsoil moisture is 1% short, 44% adequate, and 55% surplus. Subsoil moisture is 83% adequate and 17% surplus.

Maryland's crop progress for the week ending April 1, listing percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, are:

Planting progress: potatoes 1, --, 21, 23; green peas 15, --, 32, 22.

Fruit Crops Blooming: apples 2, --, 18, 8; peaches 4, --, 60, 24; strawberries 2, --, 18, 6.

Soil moisture condition for the week ending April 1, listing the percentages for very short, short, adequate, and surplus, in that order, are: topsoil moisture 0, 1, 44, 55; topsoil (2000) 0, 11, 71, 18; subsoil moisture 0, 0, 83, 17; subsoil (2000) 1, 18, 72, 9.

Some Crop Acreage May Be Down; Some Up

Corn growers intend to plant 76.7 million acres of corn for all purposes in 2001, according to the National Ag Statistics Service (NASS). This is down 4% from 2000 and down 1% from 1999. Expected acreage is down in almost all areas of the United States.

Plantings are down throughout the Corn Belt due mostly to the high cost of inputs and low price prospects. Farmers' intentions shifted away from corn in Texas and Louisiana as planting was hampered by frequent rains during the spring. Dry soils and lack of water reserves in the Southeast reduced intended corn plantings. The only region where farmers intend to plant more corn is in the Northeast, where cool, wet weather last spring prevented many corn acres from being planted.

Soybean producers intend to plant 76.7 million acres in 2001, up 3% from last year. If realized, this will be the largest planted area for soybeans on record. Of the 31 soybean producing states, producers in 22 states intend to plant more acres this year, while producers in 8 states intend to plant fewer acres than in 2000. Oklahoma is expecting no change from the previous year.

Sorghum plantings are expected to total 9.37 million acres, up 2% from last year.

All wheat planted area is expected to total 60.3 million acres in 2001. This is down 4% from 2000 and the lowest level since 1973.

Area planted to durum wheat is intended to total 3.46 million acres, down 12% from 2000.

The 2001 other spring wheat planted acreage is estimated at 15.5 million acres, up 2% from last year. Of the total, about 14.6 million acres are hard red spring wheat.

All cotton plantings for 2001 are expected to total 15.6 million acres, up less than 1% from last year. If intentions are realized, this would be the largest acreage since 1995 and the second largest since 1962. Low cotton prices and high energy costs have limited any significant increase in planting intentions. Upland cotton acreage is expected to total 15.4 million acres, 29,000 acres above 2000. Growers intend to plant 220,000 acres of American-Pima cotton, up 28 percent from last year.

All My Sons Final Offering Of FSU Season

The final production of the 2000-2001 University Theatre season, Arthur Miller's All My Sons, will be performed on April 20, 21, 26, 27, and 28 at 8 p.m., and April 21 at 2 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre at Frostburg State University.

Considered Miller's first successful work, All My Sons is a classic tragedy set during wartime that deals with family, loyalty, greed, self-deception, cowardice, and remorse. The play reflects the celebrated playwright's response to the "official optimism" throughout the United States during and after World War II.

The Kellers seem like the perfect Middle-America family, living happy and ordinary lives — that is, until a secret is exposed. During World War II, Joe, the family patriarch, authorized shipment of cracked P-40 cylinder heads that caused the deaths of 21 pilots whose planes crashed as a result. Each family member must struggle to accept painful truths and examine his and her own concepts of honor and loyalty.

All My Sons has been described by Brooks Atkinson as "an honest, forceful drama that showed unusual understanding of the tangled loyalties of human beings."

For reservations and information, persons may call 301-687-4145 between 1 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tickets are $7 for non-students and $3 for students.

Focus of Edna Bender's Life Is Creating, Enjoying, Teaching Art

by Jeremy Carr

From an early age, Edna Bender, Accident, has had a love for art, particularly painting. She first discovered her chosen form when she was ill as a child. Though mostly self-taught, Bender also received instruction from her mother, who was also an artist. "I am a middle generation artist. My mother was an artist and I have an artist daughter," she said.

Bender began to receive commissions for her work as early as her teenage years. "From childhood, creating and enjoying visual art has been an integral part of my personality," she explained.

She went on to attend the Waller School of Art, Baltimore, and Famous Artists, Westport, Conn., as well as Frostburg State University.

Since 1963, Bender has been self-employed, and has hundreds of commissioned paintings in public and private collections throughout the United States and other countries.

Bender teaches art enrichment programs for all ages at a variety of community locations, including Garrett Community College. "I have a special interest in helping developing artists from the time they begin as a child, through the amateur stage, and finally as accomplished artists. I guess that's one reason I enjoy teaching," noted Bender.

She has also created full-color illustrations for children's books written by Esther Bender of Grantsville, including April Bluebird, which received the 1996 Award of Merit by Excellence in Media.

"I love to do portraits," commented Bender, "but when I paint for enjoyment I do not necessarily choose people with unusual beauty but those with unusual character." Many of her pieces include pictures of a variety of individuals, especially the elderly, children, and those with disabilities.

Bender has been the coordinator of the annual IDEA art exhibit and competition in Accident since 1991, and has commissioned and/or donated numerous design projects for the town of Accident, including the town seal and other official documents. She is also currently a member of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators and the Garrett County Arts Council.

Through her teaching experience, Bender has noticed a lot of interest in the arts in the community. "In Garrett County, we are surrounded with created visual beauty. It's not surprising that many of us are creative people, using our abilities in different ways," she said.

This teaching experience has also brought her the honor of being listed among Who's Who Among America's Teachers for 2000.

"Over the years, I have found that creating art is an unending process of growing and brings with it a constant stream of exhilaration, frustration, and fascination. I can't imagine life without that challenge," she summarized.

Bender credits her family as a constant source of support. She and her husband Gordon reside near Accident. They have two married daughters and four grandchildren.

The Maple Spring Church of the Brethren on Rt. 24, south of Eglon, will be the site of an all-you-can-eat dinner on Saturday, April 7. The meal includes beverages, bread, and dessert. Donations asked are $5 for adults, and $3 for children. Serving is from 4 until 8 p.m. All are welcome.

Terra Alta To Hold Easter Egg Hunt April 14

The Terra Alta Wesleyan Church and Terra Alta Foodland will sponsor an Easter egg hunt from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 14.

The hunt will be held along Route 7 west of Terra Alta and beside Foodland. The age categories are newborn to 4, 5 to 8, and 9 to 12. Prizes will be awarded, and refreshments will be served.

All children of the community are invited to attend.

Alzheimer's Group Schedules Meeting

The Preston County Alzheimer's Caregiver Support Group will meet for an evening of open discussion on Monday, April 16, from 7 to 8 p.m. at Heartland of Preston County. The group's meetings are open to any persons caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's disease. Free on-site supervision is available for Alzheimer's patients during the meetings, which are held on the third Monday of each month at Heartland, which is located at 300 Miller Road in Kingwood.

For further information interested, persons may call 304-329-3195.

AVFD BREAKFAST

Because Easter falls on the third Sunday in April, the regular monthly breakfast at the Aurora Volunteer Fire Department hall will be held next Sunday, April 8, with serving from 7 a.m. until 2 p.m. All the hot cakes, eggs, sausage, sausage gravy, beverages, and biscuits, cost $6 for adults, and $3 for children under 12.

25TH ANNIVERSARY OPEN HOUSE SET

An open house is planned for Dick and Connie Knotts, Horse Shoe Run, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. It will be held from 3 until 6 p.m. at the William Slaubaugh Memorial Building at Mt. Grove. Everyone is invited.

LENTEN DRAMA

Two performances of Vinegar Boy, this year's Lenten drama, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. each evening at the Maple Spring Church, Sunday evening, April 8, and Wednesday evening, April 11. The public is invited to see a new version of the familiar Easter story.

EASTER SUNRISE AT AURORA UMC

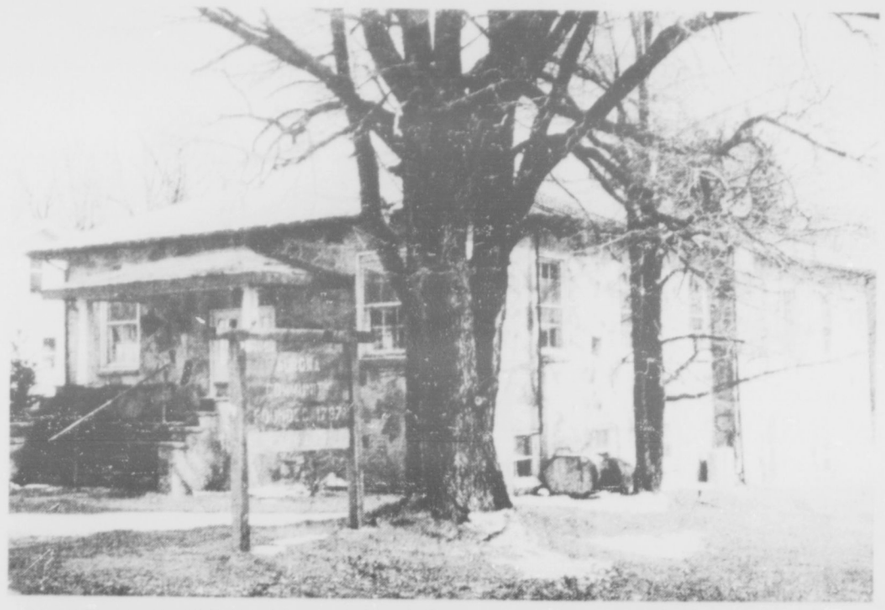
The union Lenten services conclude with a 6:30 a.m. sunrise service to be held at the Aurora United Methodist Church on April 15. The district choir is preparing for this conclusion to the Lenten period. All are invited to stay for breakfast, which will be served following the services, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building.

UNITED METHODIST MTN. TOP REVIVAL

The United Methodist churches of the area are sponsoring a three-day revival just prior to Palm Sunday. Friday evening, April 6, services will be held at 7 p.m. at the Aurora United Methodist Church. Everyone is invited.

BRIDAL SHOWER

Stephanie Childers, bride-elect of Joe Hauser, was honored Sunday afternoon with a bridal shower at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, Eglon. The wedding will take place in May. Hosting the shower were Beth Bishop, Paula Cummings, and Sandra Hauser.



RESTORATION PROJECTS ON THE AURORA COMMUNITY BUILDING, built in 1939, are proceeding on schedule, according to Alice Penzo on behalf of the Aurora Area Historical Society. "Grant funds of $10,000 received by the society are paying for the total rewiring of the building," Penzo said, "and replacement of the dropped ceiling and water damaged wood are also necessary. Remaining projects include building a ramp, replacing the porch, placing new blinds in the large windows, and interior painting." Persons who wish to donate to this project may send checks to The Aurora Community Building Association, Ressie Conrad, Treasurer, Rt. 1, Box 231, Aurora, WV 26705; or AAHS, c/o Joan Helton, Treasurer, Rt. 1, Box 177, Aurora, WV 26705 (earmarked for restoration). Persons who can donate their time to help with the restoration are also needed, Penzo added. An open house and an exhibit of Volkmar Wentzel's West Virginia photographs are planned at the community building in the summer.

MASTER GARDENER MINI COURSE

A master gardener minicourse is being offered on Tuesday evenings, between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m., at the Aurora School. There will be a fee of $5 to cover the cost of materials. For further information, persons may call the school at 735-3781. Ten are needed to hold the class. Response is needed prior to April 24.

CEMETERY ASSN. MAKES REQUEST

The Aurora Cemetery Association is requesting that all those who have winter or other old decorations on graves to please remove and dispose of them by April 15.

OPEN HOUSE AT EGLON FARM SERVICE

An open house is planned for April 28 at the Eglon Farm Service Southern States Cooperative Agency in Eglon. A newly remodeled store room will be on display, and there will be food and prizes. Hours will be 8 a.m. until 2 p.m.

AURORA CEOS TO OBSERVE 75 YEARS

The Aurora area founded its first Home Demonstration Club in 1926, became Farm Women's Clubs, then Extension Homemakers Clubs, finally evolving into the present day CEOS (Community Educational Outreach Service). A celebration of its 75th anniversary is being planned for Sunday, Sept. 9, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building.

Crafts and home furnishings made by early members in workshops and as projects are being sought. Persons who have such items to lend are asked to contact Virginia Martin at 735-3402.

MORE WINNERS

Names omitted from the list of local students who were winners at the Preston County Social Studies Fair include: Div. II, first in local and state history, Angela Thomas and April Mayne; and Bethany Tasker and Jessica Sisler, second place in Div. I, political science.

CORDRAY-WARNER COUPLE WEDS

Scott Warner and Sarah Cordray were united in Marriage, March 31, at First United Methodist Church in Fairmont. Scott is the son of Janet "Susie" Warner of Bristol and the late Sam Warner.

SMORGASBORD, APRIL 21

A spring smorgasbord will be held on Saturday, April 21, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building, with serving from 4:30 until 6:30 p.m. Donations of $6 for adults, and $3 for children will go toward the parking lot paving fund.

PERSONAL NOTE

Paul Stemple was taken last Thursday to Cortland Acres Nursing Home, where he will be a temporary guest for rehabilitation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Teets of Silver Lake were visitors last week in Harrisonburg, Va., with their daughter and family, Martha and Merlin Reish and children.

Richard, Mary, and Caitlin Norwish of Eglon were weekend visitors in Harrisonburg, Va., and while there were met by Richard's mother and sister, Peggy and Louise Norwish of Staunton.

Jim Bolyard of Amboy remains a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A spring meeting for United Methodist Women of this district was held Saturday at the First United Methodist Church in Keyser, with Alma Snyder, Jessie Fedrow, Mary Radford, Wilda Stemple, and Opal Myers attending from Aurora.

Several from this area joined a bus tour Wednesday to Sight and Sound theater at Lancaster, Pa., for a performance of Abraham and Sarah.

Arvin and Rita Harsh accompanied a Sunday bus tour to Washington, D.C., which included a tour of the Roman Catholic Basilica.

Attending the ceremony from this area were Scott's grandmother, Ruth Parks, his sister and family, Michelle, Dowain, and Samantha Ford, and other relatives, Jim and Cheryl Parks, Cynthia Parks, Mike and Tammy Markwood and daughters, Doris Crawford and family from Virginia, John and Shirley Parsons, and Carlton and Jean Skipper of Kingwood.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Well, the calendar says that spring begins on March 20, but what Mother Nature is giving us today is April Fool, with this sleet, freezing rain, and snow, making the idea of spring a real joke. But I did not laugh much about it the same as all those Maryland Terrapin fans did not laugh last night when we watched our dear Terps blow a 23-point lead and lose to the Duke Blue Devils. In fact, I guess it was pure coincidence that at the same time a young man walked in the "game-watch" party that was packed with Bittinger Maryland alumni wearing a Duke cap. That was Brook DuBose, who, along with his dad Jack (Maryland) and his mother Carolyn, whose family has many connections with Duke. She told him not to wear it in the house, but of course he wanted to drive the rest of the young boys who were rooting for Maryland crazy. It was the same time as when the game turned ugly, at least for Rodney Glotfelty (the host) and his kids, his sister Carol, his cousin, Courtney Englar, his mother, Ruth DiPaolo, my girls, and I, and a non-hoop fan, Steve Diehlman, who went along with the crowd, since he grew up in Maryland. When it was over, Brook and his family departed safely.

This item is partially previous knowledge and a couple rumors, plus what I know from the Pittsburgh news and a few facts. Of course, I like to get a jump in this column on Sunday, but I couldn't get in touch with the newsmaker today and only got the answering machine. That could be interpreted in two ways. I heard that Sally Poholsky was missing from church this morning and her sister Cindy was also MIA, and supposed they were both sick. A cold bug is going around in this part of Bittinger. Anyway, I had one for the last week or so. Maybe Sally was in bed yesterday with it or else (what I believe) she was out of action by Pirate fever. Since we talked about the new season and the new stadium a few weeks ago, I know that Lenny was very eager to go up to check it out as soon as possible. I suspect that either they went up on Saturday or today to catch a pre-season game with the Mets. I needed to check this out with my most dependable source of news for Bittinger notes, Sally. I left a message and urged her to get in touch before going to work on Monday morning so I could get the true story.

Well, sure enough, she breezed in this morning and confirmed my guess that, sure enough, Sally, Lenny, and Torrey went to the Saturday game, which was the first game in the new stadium. She said the new stadium is "awesome." Besides watching the Bucs lose to the Mets, they enjoyed the view of the bridge named after "The Great One" (Roberto Clemente) and dined in an Outback Steak House at the stadium. If Sally had the same cold as I do, she did not spring forward with much energy on Sunday morning, so that was plenty of an excuse not to be in church on Sunday, which was one hour earlier than usual.

Sally's little goats arrived home after wintering at their original home at a Grantsville farm. They were not happy about our new snow cover in Bittinger, any more than my wild birds enjoyed it. In fact, while Sally was here this morning a pretty big one flew into my picture window. It made a big thump and I suspect it was knocked out cold. At least its fall was broken by a few inches of soft new snow under my window, which covered a few little spikes of daffodil sprouts that appeared last week in my flower bed. They are still far from blossom stage.

A famous poem by T.S. Eliot starts with a memorable line: "April is the cruelest month..." I had plenty of experience that confirms the truth of that line. So many times in Bittinger we had a few nice days in March, then back to winter in April. March usually comes in like a lion here and goes out the same way. I only remember a few Marches in Bittinger that went out like a lamb. Many ugly shocks in "March madness" (college basketball tournament), but nothing as bad as this year when the Bittinger Terp fans were thrilled by the fact that at long last they made it into the Final Four, and then on the last day of March bowed out to their perennial nemisis Duke. The disappointment lingered on Sunday. Marci Glotfelty said that Rodney and Robbie recovered better from this loss to Duke than they did when they were there in person at College Park about a month ago. But we were pretty disappointed that the Glotfelty clan and the Housley family did not get a chance to have a really good party for the championship game with the Terps in it. Not this year. We really thought this would be our year. I always think it is better to lose to the best. I guess we will have to cheer Duke on to the win. It is not different from my other team, GCC, that they could sometimes beat ACC.

Nothing compares to a real cruel tragedy that March brought to me, first, the death of my little brother Scott in Africa. Then again in 1994, when an aneurysm blew up in my brain and destroyed my life forever. But even this year when my personal life has been shattered, nothing can compare to losing our Scott just when spring was in the air. But enough about myself.

What would April be without spring soccer, featuring freezing and snow for practices and game? Last Saturday morning, Claire and Tera Sines braved weather (only fit for mid-winter) for the second Saturday morning practice for their soccer team, the Northern Ice — just when I thought it was safe to stop worrying about my girls' supply of gloves. Claire is not the only young Bittinger athlete sick of the snow, but Sally said that Torrey is dying to get a chance to get on the baseball diamond for a game with the Northern junior varsity team. So far there has been too much snow.

I know that Greg Whittemore is busy with NHS varsity team. I bought a bunch of subs for the fund-raising for the baseball team from him. I don't know whether he will also do the golf team this year, because I have not talked to his mother recently, as she is in Las Vegas to visit her parents, both of whom are ill. Meanwhile, David is here in Garrett County enduring the snow, winter, etc., instead of the 80-degree weather in Last Vegas, plus the weather here is not good for him to hit the golf course with Greg. But this is spring in Garrett County, and not Las Vegas by any means.

The group of band members and parents back from the Southwest were just recovering from "jet lag" and now have to deal with the time change. What a joke calling it "spring forward," as it is more like "dragged forward" and not awakened by bird singing, but more like wind howling, and not a good reason to spring up from a warm bed. I did enjoy a symphony of bird songs for a few minutes on Saturday afternoon during a brief period of mild weather, enough so that I could sit on my front porch for a few minutes without being forced inside by icy winds.

Patty Diehlman took a break from the cold weather for a trip to North Carolina with a friend from high school to visit another of their friends living south. I doubt she endured any snow down there. While she was away, Steve took advantage of the Bittinger 4-H buckwheat dinner Saturday evening and lent a helping hand in the kitchen. My girls, the Bass kids, the Glotfelty family, Steve, Hannah, and Gretal, and other 4-H club members were busy serving a good crowd of hungry people. As usual, the buckwheat cakes were delicious and the serving was excellent.

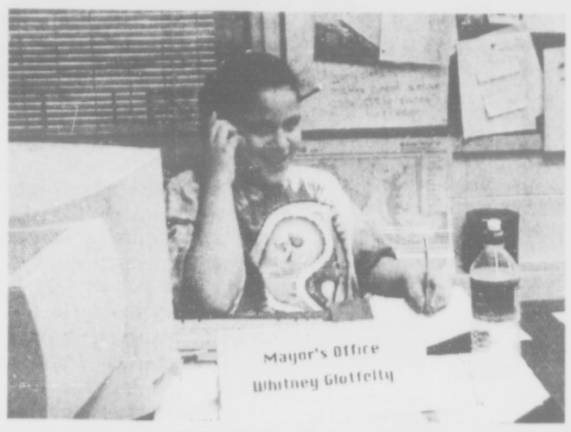
Then on to the next big event, and our kids were certainly excited about the "big game." My girls used the computer to print out the Maryland roster and a few signs, "Go Terps!" Steve and Patty's little one, Gretta, used the game to crawl up on my mother's lap for a cuddling, as she missed her mother's lap. She soon went to sleep and slept through almost the whole game, in spite of a whole bunch of cheers when the Terps were up as much as 23 points, and then lots of gasps and groans when the game turned ugly for us.

The only one from that party to attend the next big event, Mike Halls's annual semi-formal party in McHenry, was Courtney Englar. Not even the ladies, who most of the time enjoy a party to dress up for, attended this year. Not the Bittinger gals this year. If the Terps won, Carol and I were planning to go on to that party, but as it turned out we were not in that good a mood. We preferred to go home and go to bed.

During the time I was teaching at GCC, I put a cartoon from the New Yorker on my bulletin board titled "Disappointed Fans," which featured a slumping, sagging, muddled man with a glum expression. That about summed up the mood at Rodney's house on Saturday night.

Harriett and Ken Buckel visited Neil and Bertha Rodamer in Springs, Pa., and Mary Ollis Brenneman at Goodwill Nursing Home on Sunday afternoon.

The Bittinger Fire Department held its annual Appreciation Dinner at the Pleasant Valley Recreation Building on Friday night. Approximately 90 firemen, auxiliary members, and guests attended.



FOURTH GRADER WINS ESSAY CONTEST - Whitney Glotfelty, a fourth grader at Grantsville Elementary School, recently won the Maryland Municipal League's "If I were mayor, I would..." essay contest. The contest was open to all Maryland public school students currently enrolled in fourth grade during the 2000-2001 school year. Eleven winners were chosen, one from each of MML's eleven districts in the state. Glotfelty was the only winner from the Garrett/Allegany County area. Essays were judged on creativity, clarity, knowledge about the role of a real mayor, and proper use of grammar. Each winner will be recognized by Governor Parris Glendening during the Municipal Government Week proclamation ceremony on April 19, to be held at the state house. Each winner will be presented with a $250 savings bond during the pre-game activities at the Bowie Baysox ballpark on April 28, Municipal Night at the ballpark. Every student who submitted an essay will receive a free general admission ticket to this event.

If I were mayor, I would make a few changes to Grantsville that would create more jobs and make Grantsville a better place to live.

First, I would put in a center where kids can go if they are getting abused or just need to talk to someone about something personal.

This is another change. I would make a huge gym where you could play almost any sport you wanted.

If I were mayor of Grantsville, I would make sure the school would have everything it needed to be successful. More factories are coming into our town, and we will need a bigger school for the children of the workers. This means more books for the library and more computers for the lab. I would also make sure our school is safe inside and out.

As mayor, I would make sure everyone has enough clean water to drink and use. I would have emergency crews to take care of floods, downed power lines, and other damage. I would also listen to any complaints from residents.

All these things may seem difficult to do, but if we stick together, we can do it. I would talk to the town council at our monthly meetings. After everything is discussed, we could have a vote on these plans. This is what I would do as mayor to make Grantsville a better place.

Marketing For Small Business Class Scheduled

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College is offering a class designed for the small business owner, as well as entrepreneur, to develop and implement a successful marketing program. Topics to be covered during the two-session course include: providing detailed examples of the marketing process, how to advertise on a limited budget; and how to get more for one's dollar.

Marketing for Small Business will meet Monday, April 23, and Wednesday, April 25, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the McHenry campus. For registration information, persons may contact the GCC Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080.

4-H Club News

SNOWY CREEK

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on March 8, with 28 members answering the roll call question "What do you like best about 4-H?" Nathan Glass, vice president, opened the meeting. Gary Suder and Drew Glover led the pledges.

Michael Guard, Darrick Lowdermilk, Will Gallagher, Madison Gallagher, Tammy Gallagher, Jennifer Lowdermilk, Lincoln Lowdermilk, Robin Lowdermilk, Randi Rodeheaver, Michael Wolf, Lindsay Wolf, and Kristie Brenes attended the 4-H Ski Day on Feb. 9. The club livestock workshop will be held at the Glover farm on May 13 at 2 p.m.

4-H Achievement Night this year will be at Northern High School on April 7 at 6:30 p.m. Snowy Creek will be in charge of set up at Achievement Night. Jennifer Lowdermilk will purchase the door prize gift for that evening. The club planned to go bowling on April 2 at the Bowler in LaVale. The leader reminded the members that the Broiler Registration was due March 15 and that everyone should participate in the public speaking contest on March 24 at GCC.

The next regular 4-H meeting is scheduled for April 19 at the Guards' farm. The program that evening will be a police dog demonstration.

Photography To Be Class Topic

The Continuing Education & Training Division at Garrett Community College is offering a series of introductory photography courses this spring for beginners.

The third in the series, Let's Take Pictures, will be offered beginning Thursday, April 12, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the McHenry campus. Topics to be covered during this six-session class include: capturing color in photos; taking photographs of landscapes and waterscapes; and sunsets, animals, still life, and people. Students need their own camera and six rolls of film.

For registration information, persons may call 301-387-3080.

investigations — more MS research than any voluntary health organization in the world — to cure, treat, and better understand this unpredictable disease of the central nervous system.

The Maryland Chapter contributes funds toward this research effort. "We're excited by the promise these new projects hold for bringing answers to MS," said Stephen C. Reingold, Ph.D., vice president of research programs. "We've invested $290 million to find the cause and cure for MS since our founding 55 years ago — an investment into basic and clinical research that is responsible for the rapid progress we're seeing now."

There are four drugs on the U.S. market (Avonex, Betaseron, Copanxone, and Novantrone) that can impact the underlying disease course in people with more common forms of MS. But none of these drugs can stop or reverse the disease.

The society funded basic research that led to the development of several of these drugs, and continues to advance research that will help end the devastating effects of MS.

Two of the newly funded projects are part of the society's multi-million dollar targeted research initiative to determine what gender differences in MS can tell scientists about the cause and better treatment of the disease. This targeted effort was initiated in part because MS is more than twice as common in women as in men. Another of these new projects is part of the society's targeted research effort to discover which genes make people susceptible to developing MS.

Funds for research awards are provided in large part by contributors to the nationwide network of local chapters of the National MS Society, which also provides programs in communities across the U.S. Locally, the Maryland Chapter serves 4,000 people with MS and their families in the Maryland area.

Multiple sclerosis is a chronic disease of the central nervous system. It is devastating because it strikes during the younger adult years, and slowly steals physical functioning in unpredictable ways. MS affects nearly one-third million people in the U.S.

Persons wanting more information about MS research or to contact the local National Multiple Sclerosis Society chapter may call 1-800-FIGHT MS, select option 1, or e-mail info@nmss.org.

KNOWN AS NO. 3496 OLD MORGANTOWN WEST ROAD
FRIENDSVILLE, MARYLAND 21531

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Kim Renee Lewis and Michael Bean to Derrick M. Quick, Trustee(s), dated June 18, 1999, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber No. 776, folio 641, and Declaration of Substitution of Trustees dated November 16, 2000, and recorded among the aforementioned Land Records substituting F. Vernon Boozer, Edward C. Covahey Jr., Thomas P. Dore and Michael T. Pate as Substituted Trustees under the Deed of Trust aforesaid, the Provident Bank being current holder of the Note(s) secured thereby, and default having occurred under the terms thereof, the undersigned Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, at the Courthouse door, Alder Street entrance, Oakland, Maryland, on Tuesday, April 24, 2001, at 5:00 p.m.

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon situate in Garrett County, State of Maryland, and described as follows:

BEGINNING for the same at a stake standing South 57 degrees 710 feet from an existing iron pipe, which said pipe is also in the southern margin of the old Morgantown County Road, at a point, which is 595.89 feet from an existing corner of the larger tract of which this is a part, and at the northwest corner of Lot No. 1 as described in a deed from Thomas G. Davis Jr., et ux, to David C. Humberson, et ux, and which was executed in a deed from the said Thomas G. Davis Jr., et ux, to Marline R. Lawson (et ux, dated August 8, 1972, and recorded in Liber No. 327, folio 392, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and running thence with the western boundary of said lot, South 33 degrees East 264 feet to a stake thence South 57 degrees West 165 feet to a stake, thence North 33 degrees West 264 feet to a stake in a fence line and with it, North 57 degrees East 165 feet to the place of beginning, containing one acre, more or less.

The improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to any existing building violations, etc., and also subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any. Neither the trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representation or warranties, either expressed or implied, with respect to the property including without limitation, description, use, recorded or unrecorded leases or other occupancy agreements, if any, operating and management agreements, physical conditions or to the environmental conditions of the subject property.

A Statement of Mortgage Debt has been filed in the foreclosure case in the approximate amount of $53,000.00.

TERMS OF THE SALE: Cash or certified check deposit in the amount of $8,000.00 will be required of the purchaser (other than the above-named Holder) at the time and place of sale, balance in cash, immediately within thirty (30) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, time being of the essence, and to bear interest at the rate of 12.85% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. In the event the above-named Holder purchases the property at the sale as the high bidder thereat, no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of the interest. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to all other remedies including but not limited to attorney fees, the Substituted Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees, and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages. Taxes, water rent and ground rent, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property. In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of deposit.

All bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in, typewritten, or in ink, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted. The Owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, or to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No Bidder may withdraw a Bid within 30 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the Contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope-of-work by examination of the site and a review of the Contract Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Contract Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner, or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

An acceptable Bid Bond, payable to the Owner, in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total bid must accompany each Bid. A certified check in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total bid, drawn on a solvent bank chartered in the State of Maryland, and payable to the Owner, may be substituted for the Bid Bond.

Attorneys-in-fact who sign Bid Bonds, Performance Bonds, Payment Bonds, or Defective Materials, Workmanship and Equipment Bonds must file, with each Bond, a certified and effective dated copy of their power of attorney.

The Bid Bonds of all bidders, except the bonds submitted with the three (3) lowest acceptable bids, will be returned within a fifteen (15) day period following the time of opening of the bids. Tshe Bid Bonds accompanying the three lowest acceptable bids will be returned after the Contract has been awarded to and executed by the successful bidder. Provided the Owner, for any reason whatsoever, determines that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Owner will not then be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the thirty (30) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner, the Bidder and the Bidder's Surety.

The party to whom the Contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be accompanied by the necessary Agreement and contract forms. In case of failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may, at his option, consider the Bidder in default, in which case the Bid Bond accompanying the proposal shall become the property of the Owner.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of an acceptable Agreement signed by the party to whom the Contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the Agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the Bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

The successful bidder will be required to fully complete all contract work within one hundred twenty (120) consecutive calendar days from and including the date of receipt from the Owner of formal notice to proceed.

The award of any contract will be made by the Owner.

Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalanced may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Contract Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals, or to award a contract or contracts, which in its judgment is in the best interest of the Owner. The Owner is an equal opportunity employer.

Greenville to Sandy Spring National Bank Of Maryland, dated the 22nd day of January 1990 and duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 544, at Folio 169, docketed for foreclosure in Civil No. C-01-6684, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Mortgage having assigned the Mortgage to Martin L. Goozman, as Mortgage Assignee, by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the said County, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the holder of the Note secured thereby, the undersigned Mortgage Assignee will offer for sale in "AS IS" condition at public auction in front of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, Courthouse, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on at 2:00 p.m.

all that property described in the said Mortgage as follows:

PARCEL 1: All that piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in Election District No. 12, Garrett County, Maryland, which is particularly described as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING for the part thereof hereby intended to be conveyed at a bounded double chestnut tree standing at the end of the fifth line of the second parcel of land described in the said deed from Edward Pritts and wife to Arthur Pritts and Peter Bickford and running thence reversing said fifth and part of the fourth line thereof, North 28 1/4 degrees West 66 perches, South 61 3/4 degrees West 66 1/2 perches to the end of the fourth line of Arthur Pritts part of said second parcel of land, then with the fifth line thereof South 43 1/2 degrees East 74 1/2 perches, to the sixth line of the aforesaid second parcel of land thence reversing said sixth line North 54 1/2 degrees East 48 perches to the beginning, containing 25 acres.

EXCEPTING, however, one acre 104 perches conveyed by Peter Bickford, et ux., to Carl D. Perrin, et ux., by deed dated March 25, 1946. and recorded in Liber No. 139, folio 186, one of the said Land Records.

TOGETHER WITH a right of way from the property hereby conveyed to the Dry Run Country Road which was granted to the parties of the first part by the First National Bank Of Oakland, et al., by instrument dated September 17, 1977, and to be recorded among said Land Records.

PARCEL 2: All of that lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in Election District No 2, Garrett County, Maryland, and is more particularly described as follows:

BEGINNING for the same at a 3/8 inch rebar set in the northwestern limits of Dry Run Road said rebar marks the northern most corner of lands of Donald Richard King Jr., thence from said beginning, South 36 degrees 58 minutes 55 seconds West, 314.34 feet along the northwestern limits of Dry Run Road to a 3/8 inch rebar set, thence North 53 degrees 01 minutes 05 seconds West, 102. 04 feet through the lands of Donald Richard King Jr. to a 3/8 inch rebar set, then North 54 degrees 58 minutes East, 330.48 feet along the lands of George W. Greenville and Esther M. Greenville to the beginning, containing 0.37 acres of land, more or less.

Said property is improved by contemporary style family home with 4BR, 2B, F, LR, and K on first level, with 1BR, 1B on basement level, attached 2 car garage.

The property will be sold subject to all conditions, restrictions, easements, covenants, rights-of-way and agreements of record affecting the property, and subject to whatever an accurate survey or inspection of the property would disclose, in "AS IS" condition, without any express or implied warranty as to suitability, quality, condition or description, including any contained herein.

A deposit of $10,000.00 cash, certified or cashier's check, payable to the undersigned Mortgage assignee, shall be required at the time and place of sale. The balance of the purchase price shall bear interest at the rate of 10% per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement. No deposit shall be required of the noteholder where the noteholder bids on the property at sale, and payment of the purchase price by the noteholder shall be made by crediting the purchase price against the foreclosure costs and expenses and the indebtedness secured by said Mortgage.

Adjustment on all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments, annual front foot benefit charges and deferred connection fees, homeowner's association fees and condominium association fees, if any, shall be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, transfer tax, recordation tax and all other costs incident to settlement shall be paid by the purchaser.

The premises are sold subject to the right of any persons in possession of all or any part of the premises under recorded or unrecorded leases or rights of occupancy, if any. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the premises.

Compliance with the terms of sale shall be made within ten (10) days after final ratification of the sale unless said time is extended by the undersigned Mortgage Assignee in his sole discretion for good cause shown, time being of the essence; otherwise the deposit shall be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser.

The Mortgage Assignee is not liable, individually or otherwise, for any reason. If title to the property is not or cannot be transferred consistent with the terms hereof for any reason, the Mortgage Assignee's liability is limited, at its sole discretion, to return any deposit, thereby rescinding the sale, and there is no other right or remedy against the Mortgage Assignee at law or in equity.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County
Application for State Discharge Permit 93-DP-1814:

Maryland Department of Transportation, State Highway Administration, 3876 National Pike, Accident, MD 21520, applied for renewal of a permit to discharge vehicle wash water from a highway maintenance facility, located at Routes 40 and 219, Keysers Ridge, Maryland, to ground water, via a subsurface disposal system.

A tentative determination has been made by the Department to issue the permit requiring monitoring of flow without limits, total petroleum hydrocarbons limited to a daily maximum of 15 mg/l, volatile organic chemicals limited to their drinking water maximum contaminant level and a daily maximum of 100 µg/l, and operational and maintenance requirements to protect waters of the State.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by April 18, 2001. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224, Attn.: Dr. Ching-Tzone Tien, and must include the name, address, and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by April 18, 2001 will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Dr. Tien at the above address, on or before April 30, 2001. Any hearing impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Dr. Tien at 410-631-3662 or by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Dr. Tien at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Dr. Tien at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.30 per page.

TERMS OF THE SALE: Cash or certified check deposit in the amount of $4,000.00 will be required of the purchaser (other than the above-named Holder) at the time and place of sale, balance in cash, immediately within thirty (30) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, time being of the essence, and to bear interest at the rate of 10.8% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. In the event the above-named Holder purchases the property at the sale as the high bidder thereat, no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of the interest. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to all other remedies including but not limited to attorney fees, the Substituted Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees, and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages. Taxes, water rent and ground rent, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property. In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of deposit.

EMERGENCY ORDINANCE 2001-1

WHEREAS, the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council find it prudent to make additions to existing regulations regarding municipal elections; AND

WHEREAS, the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council are desirous of adopting regulations to assist the Friendsville Board of Elections in determining the voter's intent in municipal elections;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the Mayor and Town Council of Friendsville that, when the Friendsville Board of Elections is reviewing ballots following the closing of the polls of said election, the following technical points shall be considered when judging the validity of a questioned vote:

1. If any portion of the cross mark extends beyond the square, the vote is valid as long as the intersection of the cross mark is within the square.

2. In reference to a write-in vote, when the voter's intention is noted, it shall not be defeated by the fact that the name of the candidate is misspelled, that the wrong initials are employed or that some other or slightly different name of similar pronunciation has been written instead of that of the candidate actually intended to be written in.

Introduced and adopted this 5th day of February 2001.

The effective date of this ordinance is February 5, 2001.

Sara J. Sines
Clerk-Treasurer
Spencer Schlosnagle

BLASTING NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that G&S COAL COMPANY INC., 21557 Maryland Highway, Bloomington, Maryland 21523, 301-359-3003, having been issued Permit No. SM-98-430, on the property of Roger Brashear and Campbell Coal Company in Election District 8 of Allegany County, at Maryland Grid N:614,000/E:229,000 shall conduct blasting activities in accordance with all applicable Federal and State laws. Such activities shall commence and continue in accordance with the following schedule and approximate times, as approved by the Maryland Department of the Environment (Bureau of Mines).

Blasting shall be conducted Monday through Saturday from January 1, 2001, to December 31, 2001, from 8:00 a.m. to 12 noon and 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., except Sundays and Holidays. At least ten minutes prior to each blasting activity, all accesses to the areas shall be controlled to prevent unauthorized entry and a warning signal shall be audibly indicated by three (3) five second blasts of an air horn at two (2) second intervals, with the "all clear" signal being indicated by one (1) twenty second blast with an air horn, in accordance with applicable Federal and State laws. Also as approved by the regulatory authority, blasting activities shall not be conducted at times other than those announced with appropriate notification, or in the event of an emergency situation where rain, lightning, adverse atmospheric conditions, personnel or public safety would dictate an unscheduled detonation.

Head Start Notes Month Of Young Child Observance

April is the Month of the Young Child, and the Garrett County Community Action Committee Head Start Program is underscoring the observance through a variety of educational programs, activities, and displays at locations throughout the county.

"Quality early childhood education is one of the best investments Garrett County can make for our children's future," said Head Start director Mary Beckman. "Research shows that children attending high quality programs are more likely to develop the language, premathematics and social skills they need to succeed in school."

The local observances of the Month of the Young Child are designed to build broader support for early childhood programs that nurture young children's early learning and growth. For instance, the Garrett County Health department Outreach program will be presenting a program on "Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention" at each Head Start center's monthly parent meeting.

Children are active participants in the monthlong observance as well. Each Head Start classroom also has a "storyboard" with questionnaires on child abuse and neglect prevention for parents to complete. The children from each class also decorated a carousel horse for display in the window of Mark IV Office Supply in downtown Oakland. (See photo.)

"Early childhood is where our future begins. If we value our children, our families, our schools, and our community, we must make accessible, affordable, high-quality early childhood education a priority," Beckman, said as she invited all interested persons to stop at the display created by Head Start children.

GCCAC Head Start advocates a comprehensive effort to improve the quality of early childhood education, including: providing professional development opportunities and adequate compensation for teachers and staff; improving the health and safety of programs; using developmentally appropriate practices to encourage literacy and learning from birth; and supporting the family's crucial role in early education.

Head Start has 67 early childhood professionals working together to improve professional practice and working conditions in early childhood education, and to build support for high-quality early childhood education programs. Head Start is dedicated to improving the quality of early childhood education programs for children from birth through age 5. For information about GCCAC Head Start programs, interested persons may call 301-334-9431, ext. 126, or 1-888-877-8403.

Round-Table Discussion Set At GCC Campus

A number of local groups and organizations have combined their efforts and resources to arrange a round-table discussion, which is designed to promote sharing ideas that will enable participants to "take charge of their world." The discussion, featuring Sandi Flockhart as facilitator, will take place on Tuesday, April 17, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College. This event is open to the public.

Numerous issues will be addressed during the course of the evening, including: accepting success; juggling responsibilities; creating life balance; acknowledging barriers encountered along the way; acknowledging and accepting accountability for one's life; and determining what one wants, and what one is willing to sacrifice.

This event is being planned and co-sponsored by the following: Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College; Women's Business Institute; Garrett County Business and Professional Women; Civic Club of Oakland; Junior Woman's Civic Club; Grantsville Business and Professional Women; American Association of University Women; Garrett County Commission for Women; and League of Women Voters of Garrett County.

For more information, or to register for the seminar, persons may telephone the Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080.

A PROMISE KEPT — Spring has come at last to Garrett County, and much deserved it is by all who have shoveled mountains of snow and scraped acres of windshield ice. But we knew it was coming, eventually, because it always does. The flowers always open and the birds always come back. To those who believe in the pilgrimage of Jesus, other promises made in human life are also fulfilled, and we are reminded of these promises as we observe Good Friday and celebrate Easter Sunday. But however one finds peace in this life, we wish for success in that quest. Happy spring!

Liller Receives Prison Sentence Of 20 Years

Donald Wayne Liller Jr., 37, of the Bloomington area, faced Judge James Sherbin of the Circuit Court of Garrett County last week, who sentenced him to 20 years in jail for charges of child abuse and sexual offenses. Liller was indicted by the September 2000 Grand Jury. A number of defendants faced Sherbin last week and received varying sentences.

Liller was sentenced to 10 years in the Department of Corrections (DOC) for a charge of child abuse, with a sentence of one year running concurrently for a charge of third degree sexual offense, and another sentence of five concurrent years for a charge of second degree rape.

Liller was also sentenced to 10 years at the DOC for a second charge of child abuse, with this 10-year term running consecutively to the first 10-year sentence. He was given a concurrent sentence of five years for second degree sexual offense, and a concurrent sentence of five more years for second degree rape.

The defendant had entered an Alford plea of guilty to the charges in January. At that time, Sherbin requested a pre-sentence investigation.

Liller was arrested last year after officers of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) and caseworkers with the Department of Social Services determined that he had committed a number of violations against two juveniles over a period of several months, spanning from late 1999 into August 2000. This arrest led to the Grand Jury indictment.

Under the Alford plea, the defendant did not admit guilt, but did acknowledge the state's evidence against him would most likely lead to a conviction, noted a state's attorney spokesperson. In addition to reports from the victims in this case, the evidence included corroborating items seized from a residence near Bloomington. There were also incriminating statements and admissions made by Liller to investigators, the spokesperson reported.

Upon his release from prison, Liller will be required to register for the rest of his life as a sexually violent offender.

County Residents Return With Mammoth Medals

Seven Garrett County residents traveled recently to Mammoth Mountain in California and brought home 10 medals and eight trophies — including several first place awards — from the United States of America Snowboard Association's national championships.

The five-day event was the largest amateur snowboarding competition in the country, drawing about 1,000 "riders." Before making the trip to Mammoth, the local residents had spent the winter competing in the Mid-Atlantic division of the snowboard association, which took them to ski resorts in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and West Virginia.

Among those competing at the nationals in Mammoth was Jimmy Railey, McHenry, who took first place in the giant slalom event in the master men's division and fourth place in the slalom event. His scores earned him a first place in the Alpine Overall classification in his division.

Jimmy is sponsored by Railey Realty, High Mountian Sports, and Wisp Mountian Resort.

Holly Kuhn, 17, took a second in the slalom event and third in the giant slalom event, earning her a first place in Alpine Overall in the junior women's division. Holly, who has been competing for four years, is the daughter of Diane and Dennis Kuhn, Oakland.

Glendening Touts Productive Session; Death Penalty Ruckus Mars Closing

by Eric Kelderman
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Gov. Parris N. Glendening heralded the successes of the 2001 General Assembly at a bill signing session Tuesday morning at the State House, just hours after the legislature closed for the year.

The governor, flanked by House Speaker Casper R. Taylor Jr., D-Allegany, and Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, signed 101 bills, including several to strengthen laws against drunk driving. Election and campaign finance laws, local bond bills, and a bill to create a regional coalition to submit a bid to host the 2012 Olympics were among the other bills signed.

All of Glendening's major initiatives were passed by this year's legislature, including controversial bills to prohibit discrimination against gays, bar race-based traffic stops, and allow University employees to collectively bargain for wages and working conditions. Those bills will likely be signed later.

"Working with the legislature, we have built a solid foundation for a safer, more prosperous and more inclusive Maryland," Glendening said.

The governor's other funding priorities — education and the environment — were well received, although spending on those issues was trimmed by the lawmakers.

Even Republican leaders had a hard time criticizing the governor's aims.

"They're all worthy programs," said Senate Minority Leader Martin Madden, R-Howard, "but there's no fiscal discipline."

Legislators were generally positive about the 90-day session, but some felt bruised over the abrupt and unusually early ending of the Senate Monday night. Debate was cut short on a hotly contested death penalty moratorium bill, which was killed in exchange for passage of a DNA evidence bill.

The Maryland Legislative Black Caucus had worked very hard to pass both the DNA and moratorium bills. But the moratorium faced long odds from a lack of votes and a likely filibuster by Sen. Walter Baker, D-Cecil, the bill's chief opponent.

So, a deal was struck. In return for the demise of the

GCC Recognized For Support Of Local Economy

Garrett Community College has been recognized by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Education as one of 43 "Benchmark Practices" for Local Economies selected worldwide. The college's Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC) was saluted in a congratulatory letter from Regional Technology Strategies Inc. to president Dr. Steve Herman that stated that GCC was among 43 community colleges selected from 122 nominations by an international panel of experts.

The goal of the Benchmark Practices project, which was supported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture Fund for Rural America, was to identify and disseminate information about exemplary programs and practices at community colleges in non-metropolitan areas that have had a positive impact on their regional economies.

The efforts of Don Storck, GCC's director of Information Systems, and his staff were saluted by Herman, who said, "This honor belongs to you, Don, for you were the visionary and inspiration behind GCC's efforts to bring an advanced digital capability to Garrett County. The

Woman Dives Into Frigid Lake To Rescue Swamped Canoeist

A Glendale Shores woman dove into 38-degree waters in Deep Creek Lake last Wednesday, April 4, to rescue a man whose canoe had capsized near the Glendale Bridge, according to Maryland Natural Resources Police. The man and a female companion who was canoeing with him at the time of the mishap were both treated for exposure and released from the hospital that same day.

At approximately 2:15 p.m. the two canoeists, David James Hancharik, 24, and Kathleen Kelly Collmann, 21, both of the Oakland area, were paddling 200-300 yards from shore when their 15-foot canoe capsized. The vessel reportedly flipped because of improper weight distribution and because both passengers were attempting to paddle on the same side of the canoe. Neither individual was wearing a life preserver, and had neglected to stow any personal flotation devices (PFDs) in the canoe, which was owned by the Carmel Cove Inn Bed and Breakfast of Monastery Road.

The pair attempted to right the swamped canoe, but after five minutes gave up and began swimming for shore. Collmann reached shore in 30 minutes, but almost 45 minutes after the accident Hancharik was still nearly 100 yards out when a bystander, Georgia Ann Holler, 48, of Glendale Road, saw the swimmer struggling in the water.

"I first noticed two objects in the lake that looked like ducks, you couldn't tell at first that it was people's heads," Holler recalled. "A short time later I looked out to the lake again and saw an arm raised into the air. I ran down to the water, and right about then the girl was getting closer to shore and she yelled for help and said that her friend wasn't going to make it. I called 9-1-1, and got a pair of life vests from our neighbors and started swimming out to him."

Wearing one of the PFDs, Holler swam out and put the other one on Hancharik and swam back to shore with him in tow. "When I got to him I recalled a movie I had seen about a water rescue, so I stayed behind him so he wouldn't dunk me under the water. I helped him get the life jacket on. We swam in with me pushing from behind. When we got to shore the neighbors had blankets there for us, and we wrapped the gentleman in the blankets and began rubbing his skin, which was extremely cold and red."

Both Hancharik and Collmann were transported

Tax Amnesty Bill Will Benefit County Schools

A tax amnesty bill recently passed by the state legislature will benefit the Garrett County Board of Education's 2002 budget.

This bill allows $8 million to be divided among nine school jurisdictions in the state. Garrett County will receive $842,738, which will cause the requested amount from the Garrett County commissioners to be reduced, according to Ervin Fink, director of finance and human resources for the school system.

The board asked the commissioners last week to fund $1,754,660 toward the

Northern Rescue Squad Postpones McHenry Move

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad held a regular monthly meeting of its general membership at its Grantsville headquarters Tuesday night, and the three-hour meeting resulted in a resolution to table the purchase of a McHenry site for a new squad station. The matter will be taken up again at the next meeting of the NGCRS membership, set in Grantsville for Tuesday, May 10.

Tuesday's 21-19 vote serves to keep the Friendsville and Accident rescue squad stations open until the issues surrounding the proposed relocation of those two stations to a new McHenry site is settled. At this point it remains to be decided whether any stations will be closed or a new station will be opening in McHenry.

Renovation work to the McHenry building, located along Friendsville Road north of the Maryland State Police barrack, was nearly complete by the time of the Tuesday vote. Those renovations would make the space suitable to house a rescue squad crew, and were reportedly included in the $440,000 purchase price of the parcel and several buildings which had been agreed upon between the squad's board of directors and the site owners in late February.

Nearly 100 persons attended Tuesday's NGCRS membership meeting, approximately half of whom who were members of the squad.

A GLOBAL HONOR FOR LOCAL EFFORTS was bestowed upon Garrett Community College recently by the federal government recently for its efforts in strengthening the local economy. The Garrett Rural Information Cooperative was recognized by an international panel of experts as an exemplary community college program that has made a positive impact on a regional non-metropolitan economy. Shown with the award plaque denoting the achievement are, from the left, Kevin Bass and Dave Slagle of GCC's Information Systems office, college president Dr. Steve Herman, Information Systems director Don Storck, and Information Systems staff member Randall Harman.

BREAKING GROUND FOR THE THIRD TIME — A visible sign of a thriving business is the expansion of its facility, and Total Biz Fulfillment (Hobby House Press) in Grantsville is indeed growing. The ground was broken yesterday afternoon for a third expansion of the business. First to open its offices and warehouse in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park in Jan. 1994, Hobby House Press started with 24,500 square feet of space. In just two years the company added a second warehouse of 10,000 square feet, and in 1999 the building was expanded from 34,500 square feet to 49,500. This latest warehouse addition will consist of another 35,000 square feet, including four loading docks and 5,000 individual storage bays. A number of county and state officials were on hand for the ground-breaking ceremony Wednesday. Pictured from left are Julie Hill, commercial loan officer of First United Bank & Trust; Commissioner Wendell Beitzel; Rod Hamilton, director; Delegate George Edwards; Tim Bender, BYCO Construction; Gary Ruddell, president of Hobby House Press/Total Biz Fulfillment; Luanne Ruddell, director; Mike McKenzie, warehouse building project manager and warehouse manager of Hobby House Press/Total Biz Fulfillment; U.S. Congressman Roscoe Bartlett; Commissioner chairman Fred Holliday; Gerry Beachy, mayor of Grantsville; and Jason Rush, community office manager of First United Bank and Trust.

Oakland Blooms Festival About To Blossom

The annual downtown Oakland Blooms festival is being planned for Saturday, May 19, from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Besides the mixture of plants, flowers, lawn furniture, birdhouses, and other outdoor-oriented tables and activities, the whole town can participate in a town-wide yard sale.

The main activities will be concentrated at the Front Page Stage and parking lot along Green Street. Yard sale tables, food vendors, and other activities will spread from there throughout the town. Town residents may have their displays at their homes.

This is a chance for the whole town to get involved, Oakland mayor Asa McCain said.

Businesses and civic organizations are welcome to have sale tables. Businesses are encouraged to have specials and themes to complement the spring sale.

A petting zoo, musical entertainment, and activities for children are being planned for the one-day festival, said Main Street manager Glenn Tolbert.

Anyone wanting additional information or to participate as a vendor or entertainer may call Tolbert at 301-533-4470.

WKHJ'S EASTER EGG HUNT SUCCESSFUL AGAIN — Despite a threatening weather forecast, the clouds broke on Saturday in time for nearly 350 local children to search for Easter eggs at Broadford Park. The second annual WKHJ Easter egg hunt, sponsored by both 'KHJ and 92.3 "the train" radio, along with AmeriCorps, was a huge success, according to Pam Trickett, organizer of the event. The children, ages 2 to 10, looked for 2,600 plastic eggs that contained candy, gift certificates, or savings bonds. About $1,000 in prizes were handed out to the children, as well as three $50 U.S. savings bonds. Trickett and the rest of the radio staff members expressed thanks to all who donated to the event and who helped in any way. The 5- to 7-year-old group is pictured above as they find their booty. A special guest of the day, the Easter Bunny, is pictured at right with Kelsey Eichorn, winner of one of the bonds. Below, the EB is pictured greeting one young man while others in the background pick up their various prizes.

GBI Investigating Burglary At Red House School Mall

Garrett Bureau of Investigation is currently investigating a burglary that occurred at the Red House School Country Mall sometime during the early morning hours of Monday, April 9.

The Country Mall is located along Garrett Highway just south of the intersection of George Washington Highway.

Unknown suspect(s) broke into the building, stealing a cash register and an undetermined amount of cash, according to GBI.

Persons with information regarding this case are urged to contact GBI at 301-334-1909 or the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911. Persons providing information may remain anonymous and are eligible to receive a cash reward if information leads to an arrest.

Cumberland Man Faces Burger King Theft Charges

A Cumberland man was arrested recently for the theft of an undisclosed amount of money from Burger King, Oakland, according to Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Philip Thomas Brumback, 32, was charged with two counts of felony theft and two counts of misdemeanor theft. He is currently incarcerated in the Washington County Detention Center on bond.

The warrants were served by the Maryland State Police in Hagerstown.

The felony theft charge carries a penalty of $1,000 and/or 15 years in prison, and the misdemeanor theft charge has a penalty of $500 and/or 18 months.

to go up over Elder Hill, through McHenry, Oakland, and so on to get to work. There is no way that someone can drive from Deep Creek to our part of the county in 6-7 minutes.

I could not begin to tell you how many mornings that I thought I would be late for work because of following a truck up over Elder Hill. There weren't any areas for a vehicle to pull over to let an ambulance go by. Besides that, everyone does not live in the town of Friendsville. Remember that Frazee Ridge and the state lines at West Virginia and Pennsylvania have family residences to go to if an emergency becomes crucial, farther away yet.

If my memory serves me right, if it weren't for the ambulance service out of Friendsville and the great staff they have, my cousin, Jack Thomas, might not be with his family today. Time can be extremely crucial!

Although some of us former residents have moved away, we still have friends and relatives that we grew up with, lived near, went to church with, etc., whom we love and are concerned about. I could name a considerable number of people who are sickly or elderly in the area who would be left with fear and uncertainty if the service were changed. (Do not exclude children or healthy people, as accidents do happen. They are not planned.)

Not only that, with all the winter and summer sports, plus the large number of visitors coming to Deep Creek, shouldn't they have a service of their own there? Please do not take the availability of the emergency service, or even limit it, away from the Friendsville residents. Perhaps this will be a wake-up call and more local citizens will give of their time so this service is not taken away.

Sincerely,
Renelda Anne Thomas

Local Resident Takes Part In Model Search

Tanya Devine, age 9, of Accident recently participated in a face model search held in the Pittsburgh area.

The competition was presented by the Face Modeling Agency of North Carolina. Over 1,000 applicants were present. She was one of only 50 individuals chosen.

Face models have taken part in such activities as commercials for Kids Gap. Tanya will be represented by an agent of Face Models and Talent.

Tanya is a 4th grade student at Accident Elementary School and is the daughter of Ray and Tina Devine.

Worship Service Schedule Noted For St. Paul's

The Holy Week worship service schedule for St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland is announced.

A Maundy Thursday service will be held this evening, April 12, beginning at 8 p.m. It is titled "Upper Room Meal."

There will be a Family Singers Easter music presentation at 8:30 a.m. on Easter Sunday, April 15, followed by a special Sunday school program at 9:30 a.m. and the regular worship service at 10:45 a.m.

St. Paul's is located at the corner of Oak and Fourth streets. Persons desiring more information about the church or worship schedule may telephone 301-334-2391.

Grantsville Man Jailed For Theft From Pawnshop

Maryland State Police troopers made a quick arrest of a Grantsville man yesterday who had fled the Pawn-It pawnshop store at the Dry Dock Plaze after allegedly stealing a car stereo.

Ronald Eugene Mitchell, 19, was in the pawnshop at approximately 11:45 a.m. when a clerk reportedly observed him hiding a car stereo under his shirt and leaving the store. The witness was able to provide a description of Mitchell's vehicle to police by phone, and the vehicle was stopped a short time later along Route 495 at Rock Lodge Road by Tfc. R. Sharp.

Mitchell was taken into custody without incident, and the missing car stereo was located in his vehicle. He was charged with misdemeanor theft and later released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance.

In loving memory of our precious Mother and Grandmother,

Mabel Greaser,

on her birthday, April 15

I've found a place where I can be free;
I've found a whole new beginning made just for me;
I know only peace and I never feel pain
Days are full of sunshine and never the rain.
I'm no longer old, I've recovered my youth,
And all my dreams have become the truth.
I can smile, I can laugh, I can walk, I can run.
I can hear every whisper. I can see past the sun.
My body is whole and my mind is clear;
I know all the answers and I'm free of all fear.
I know why you mourn me. I see how you weep;
Your heart's full of aching from a love that is deep.
And I'm grateful for loved ones that hold me so dear,
But remember, I've found a better place here.
I know the road of life seems long as you travel through the years.
And with a heart that's broken and eyes full of tears,
You might falter in your weariness and sink beside the way,
But I know God will lean down and whisper,
"Child, there will be another day."
So don't mourn me too long, nor forever cry.
And whenever your sorrow bears down on your heart,
Think not of my ending but of my new start.
For on earth there's no joy that I'd ever see
To compare with the joy of God smiling at me.

Still sadly missed and loved so much,
Milly and Kaye

In Memory of Ellis (Chop) Cogley
on April 17

It's birthday time again, Son,
let's go down memory lane.
In this garden there's a plaque and on it is your name.
They say that you're at rest here, but I can't believe that's true.
God had a better place and bigger plans for you.
With tear filled eyes and heavy heart
I turn to walk away.
The breeze seems to whisper,
a voice seems to say,
"I'll always be there with you, Mom,
I'm in your heart to stay."

Forever loved and missed,
Mother

Our Thanks to all the family, friends and neighbors of

Mildred M. Skipper

We have been overwhelmed by the love and support you have given us in our loss of Milly. The flowers sent, food cooked, cards delivered, phone calls and visits made to us have been a tremendous comfort, and a beautiful tribute to her. We also thank you for the generous donations made to Oak Grove Church of the Brethren Relay for Life team, Oak Grove Cemetery fund, Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and Deer Park Vol. Fire Co. Your kindness has been remarkable and truly touches our hearts.

We offer special thanks to Dr. Richter, nurses and aids on the 3rd floor at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Home Health, Stewart Funeral Home, and to Rev. Don Matthews of Oak Grove Church of the Brethren for his love, comfort and support during this time. We will remember everyone's support always.

"Cool Tools" Technology Fair Slated At GCC

"Cool Tools," Garrett County's second annual technology fair, is set for Saturday, April 21, from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College. The free event, which will take place in the college's Continuing Education building and computer labs, will feature a variety of displays and interactive exhibits of the latest in computer and information technology suitable for use both at work and in the home.

The Cool Tools showcase and exhibit areas will feature "short but exciting demonstrations on a variety of topics that will be helpful in using the Internet and today's technology for fun or for work," according to fair coordinator Sandy Major of GCC's Small Business Development Center.

Showcase presentations will include: "E-Mailing for Fun and For Business," with Don Einolf; "An Introduction to the new Garrett Information Enterprise Center," presented by Major; "Internet Tools for Living in Garrett County and Working for Businesses Throughout the Country," with Bonita Winters; "Garrett County Resources on the Web," with Lucia Biers; "Creative Web Page Designing," with Geni Uphold of Kreepygirl Grafix and Jay Shoup of Shoup Design; "Ways to Showcase Your Business on the Web," with Mimi or Dave Demaree of Demaree Inflatable Boats; "Making Word Tables Work for You," and "Ten Things You Don't Know about Excel but Should," with Chuck Trautwein; "Making an Impression with Power Point and Operating a Technology Business in Garrett County," with Dusty Huxford of Financial Computer Support Inc.; "Keeping Your Business/Personal Records with Quicken," with Major; and "Taking Digital Photos and Making an iMovie," with representatives from Apple Computer.

The exhibit area will offer demonstrations of computers and related technology products and services. Exhibitors include: Apple Computer; Broadway Computers LLC; Micro-Integration Inc.; ACT Personnel Service; the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC); VITALink; DeepCreekMall.com; Garrett County Board of Education; Garrett County Health Department; Garrett Memorial Hospital; Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families; Sky Tech Services; Ruth Enlow Library; Garrett County 4-H programs; and the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative.

The Cool Tools fair will also include a midway area consisting of computer games for all ages, Lego Dacta, Turtle Target, button making, high-tech face painting, and a computer scavenger hunt with prizes.

A PC clinic will be held on-site during the event for community-based non-profit organizations that wish to evaluate and upgrade older 486, Pentium and Macintosh computers. Parts for upgrades will be available at cost. This will provide an opportunity for organizations to begin the upgrade process of donated computers. Non-profit representatives may call 301-334-8926 to reserve a time slot. Computers will be evaluated and upgraded by high school students who are participating in I-Tech training at GCC during this school year. A gallery of computer-generated projects created by Garrett County students will be also be on display during the fair.

There will be a drawing for free door prizes and an i-raffle to win an iMac and an USB Hewlett Packard printer. A purchase of a $1 raffle ticket will qualify Cool Tools attendees to participate in the drawing to win the printer plus an iMac.

Cool Tools sponsors have made financial and in-kind contributions in order to make it a free event for Garrett County community members and visitors. Current sponsors include: the Technology Team of Garrett County; GIEC; the Board of Education; GCC Small Business Development Center; Garrett County Economic Development Department; Garrett County Chamber of Commerce; Garrett County Development Corporation; Demaree Inflatable Boats; DeepCreekMall.com; GRIC; F&M Bank; Mettiki Coal, LLC; MicroWorks of GC Community Action; VITALink; GCC; and Windfall Resources Inc.

"Cool Tools" is being spearheaded by the Technology Team of Garrett County, which has the mission of supporting economic development and stable families in the county by creating new employment opportunities in information technology. One of the Technology Team's goals is to implement new awareness and training opportunities in order to evolve a computer literate workforce, and Cool Tools is the second awareness event. Members of the Technology Team are Cathy Ashby, Lucia Biers, Jim Hinebaugh, Dusty Huxford, Sandy Major, Dr. Brenda McCartney, Terry Norris, Dusty Stanton, Crystal Schaffer, Bob Stephens, Don Storck, Chuck Trautwein, JoAnn Vent, Peter Versteegan, and Julie Yoder.

For more information on Cool Tools events, persons may visit the fair's web site atDeepCreekMall.com/CoolTools, consult the newspaper advertisements in this week's Republican, or call 301-387-3167.

TECHNOLOGY WEEK TAKES OFF — The Garrett County commissioners proclaimed April 15 through 21 as Technology Week in the county to recognize two important technology events and the growing importance of technology for Garrett County. The first event, the groundbreaking ceremony for the new Garrett Information Enterprise Center building, will occur on Tuesday, April 17. The GIEC building will provide modern, affordable space for start-up technology businesses, thus attracting new businesses to the county. The second event, Cool Tools, is Garrett County's second technology fair and will include learning experiences for children ages 2 to 102. Seated, from the left, are Commissioner Wendell Beitzel, Commissioner Fred Holliday, and Commissioner Ernie Gregg. Standing, from the left, are Sandy Major, Chuck Trautwein, Jim Hinebaugh, and Dr. Wendell Teets. (Photo was supplied by GCC.)

Groundbreaking Set For Garrett GIEC Facility

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Garrett Information Enterprise Center at the Garrett Community College campus have been set for Tuesday, April 17, at 1:30 p.m., according to college president Dr. Steve Herman. A number of elected officials and other dignitaries are expected to attend the event, which will begin in Room 305 of the Continuing Education Center with brief remarks by Herman and Rob Michael, chairperson of the college's board of trustees, and Sandy Major, director of the new center.

The GIEC is designed to support the economic growth of Garrett County by creating an environment for facilitating the successful development of information intensive companies. When completed next spring it will house 20 technologically equipped office areas for start-up and recently founded information technology businesses. In addition to providing office space for the new companies, the GIEC will offer access to high speed Internet service, conference rooms, a campus library linked electronically with libraries across the globe, computer labs, free business counseling, and a network of technical and financial resources.

Such business incubators are a growth industry across North America, according to Major, and have increased from 12 in 1980 to 800 today. Statistics released by the National Business Incubator Association indicate that incubators in North America have created more over 500,000 jobs since 1980 at an average cost of $1,100 per job, compared to $10,000 for jobs spawned by other public job creation mechanisms.

Major brings extensive managerial and technological experience to her role as works coordinator of GIEC. Since 1988 she has been administrator, coordinator, and consultant for the Small Business Development Center. She is co-founder and co-owner of Windfall Resources Inc., a small business that provides paperless Internet-based ISO 900 certification services for companies throughout the country. She has provided counseling to businesses regarding marketing, financial management, business plan development and personnel management.

Before moving to Garrett County, Major served as director of the Stepping Stones Children's Center in Gibsonia, Pa.

Veterans Can Enroll At GCC For Health Care

The Martinsburg VA Medical Center Outreach will enroll veterans in VA Health Care and provide blood pressure screenings April 17 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. in Room CE 312 at Garrett Community College

Interested veterans who are not receiving care from the VA are invited to make an appointment to meet with VA staff to receive more information on VA health benefits. Veterans are asked to bring a copy of their DD214 with them.

For more information, interested persons may call 1-800-817-3807.

May Dinner Set To Honor Local Military Vets

A Garrett County heritage preservation dinner and program in honor of all local veterans is set for 6 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, May 24, at Proctor Kildow American Legion Post 71 in Oakland. The proceedings are open to the public, but seating is limited and early ticket purchases are strongly encouraged (see below).

The event is being sponsored by students of Southern High School and the Garrett County Historical Society. The students have been interviewing World War II veterans for the last three years and next year will begin interviewing veterans of other conflicts, particularly the Korean War.

The focus of the May 24 dinner program is the recognition of the many sacrifices of all Garrett County veterans, living and deceased, and their families. Among the various activities set to take place will be a memorial ceremony to commemorate Garrett County veterans who lost their lives in service to the nation. There will also be a special ceremony during which two WWII veterans who left high school in their senior year for military service will be awarded high school diplomas.

Southern High student artworks illustrating some of the stories of local WWII veterans will be exhibited, along with a display of WWII and Korean War uniforms and equipment. A short program of patriotic songs and music will be performed by the Southern High School band. Award-winning student projects relating to local history will also be recognized during the evening.

Students who participated in the oral history project, as well as all persons who were interviewed, will have their meals provided by the Garrett County Historical Society. The dinner is open to all other members of the community at a cost of $15 per ticket. Seating will be limited to the first 175 people, so early ticket purchases are advised. Tickets are available from Matt Novak, 281 Shady Dell Rd., Oakland, MD 21550. Novak may also be reached by phone at 301-334-3413 or via e-mail at mattnovak@gcnetmail.net.

Rt. 135 Crash Injures Four

A rear-end collision on Rt. 135 on Backbone Mountain yesterday afternoon slightly injured four persons. One of the drivers was charged for the accident by Maryland State Police troopers.

At 3:19 p.m. a 1989 Ford F-150 was stopped behind a school bus in the eastbound lane of the highway just east of Chestnut Grove Road. A 1994 Ford Ranger operated by Jacob Allen Miller, 24, Swanton, approached from the rear and struck the stopped F-150.

Miller and his passengers, Tonya Miller, 24, and a 4-year-old boy, were transported by Medic 351 of Tri-Towns Ambulance Service to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where all three were treated and released. The driver of the F-150, Marvin Eugene White Sr., 52, Oakland, was transported by Medic 135 to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Miller was cited for failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Wednesday, April 11, 1990. Eleven years ago. You went to work and we didn't know the heartache we would receive that night. You were tragically taken away before you could say goodbye to anyone. Only God knows why. You left us with loving memories we could never erase and a beautiful grandaughter to carry on the smile that was always on your face.

God saw she was getting tired, and there was no cure to be.
So he put his arms around her,
and whispered come with Me.
With all eyes filled with tears,
we watched her fade away.
Although we loved her deeply,
we could not make her stay.
A heart as good as gold stopped beating, hard-working hands were put to rest.
We all miss her very much,
but only God knew what was best.

A Brother is...

A Brother is someone who's special
He's also very unique.

When you're troubled or in a bind,
It's his advice you'll seek.

He'll be there for you to talk to,
He'll keep your secrets dear.

He'll teach you many things,
And help you face your deepest fears.

The friendship brothers share is eternal,
Their bond can never be broken.

The emotions they share between them
Are so strong they need not be spoken.

He's there through the best of times,
He's there through the worst ones too.

But best of all he is— forever a part of you.

Today would have been your 38th birthday. We wish we could celebrate this day with you. Even though we know you are celebrating in a better place, you are forever missed. So sorry we never got the chance to tell you what we always wanted to say, now you've flown so far away. I can only hope, if only through Heaven's eyes you will see you were, you are, and you will always be Everything Precious To Me.

Happy 38th Birthday Junior, we love you, miss you and think of you each day.

A Flash on the Screen...

The writer of this column was in the shower this morning when he began his 50th year of life (outside the womb, that is). His 49th year was completed at 7:15 a.m., just about five minutes after receiving a call about the death of a dear uncle. These two events, coupled with the message and history of Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, and Easter, have spawned a swirling, complex mixture of emotions, reflections, and general contemplation about life.

Uncle Jack was the one who brought three big stuffed dogs to his young nephews one Christmas, one for each of us, seated beneath our corresponding stocking hanging on the mantel. Another Christmas he gave us our very first color television; another, our first stereo system; and another, a beautiful Seth Thomas clock. He had no children of his own, so we and many other nephews and nieces were "his kids."

He's also the one who gave us jobs at his extremely busy flower shop at Christmas time and during other holiday periods, so crucial to our being able to afford college and other worthy pursuits at the time. And the jobs were graciously extended to several of our good friends as well.

He was generous, he was so artistically gifted, he loved family, and his sense of humor was so incredible that he regularly brought tears of laughter to the eyes of those around him. He will be missed.

But his passing, and the relentlessly advancing age of each of the rest of us, remind us how brief our lives here on earth really are. In the cosmic calendar, the life of one human being, whether it spans only five years or 105 years, is barely a flash on the screen. It is a crucial flash of time for each of us, however, because it is during those relatively few years that we become the unique individuals that we are. It is our one opportunity to try to make a positive difference in our world. It just doesn't seem right that it all comes to an end with the death of our bodies.

The Easter message offers assurance that, in fact, our lives here really are just the beginning, that while the physical body ceases to function and returns to dust, the soul, the spirit, that aforementioned individual lives on, and lives on for eternity in a far better environment.

Jack Wagoner endured great suffering these past several days before finally gaining total peace, just as many have done before him, including one extremely special person who lived some 2,000 years ago in the Middle East. It is because of His death, His promise, and His resurrection that we can endure suffering and loss, and yet continue to live on with great hope for the future.

VINYL MUSINGS
by Mary Sincell McEwen

The warmth and rejuvenating sunshine of this past Saturday prompted me to perform a personal tradition. I turned on the oft-neglected turntable and put on my "spring" album. The record is Todd Rundgren's Hermit of Mink Hollow and I'll bet the vast majority of the three people reading this column have never heard of it. But for me, the tunes on that record — just those on one side — mean spring has come, officially, whether or not we get a few more days of cold. I startled myself when I realized I have been playing this record every spring for about 20 years. Wow.

I first heard the album at my beloved Camp Luther, which was another early summer tradition in my young life from age 9 until 18. Camp always happens in June. When I was a senior camper at the end of my junior year in high school, I stayed up almost the entire last night of the week, along with many other teens my age, and we talked of our teenage angst (which, by the way, is very real). As we huddled together and exchanged wisdom, an 8-track tape played over and over and over. It was Hermit of Mink Hollow. When I came home that year, I hurried to the record store in town and bought the album. From that time on, the songs take me back to those days in my life, that place, those people. And because I like to play it around the same time I first heard it, I got into the habit probably 15 years ago of playing it on the first real day of warm weather. The first song, titled "All the Children Sing," is a joyous tune that just fits that exhilaration most of us felt Saturday, brought on by 75 degrees and blue skies. The second song, "Can We Still Be Friends," is just rife with desperation that I think is only felt by those on the threshold of adulthood. The playing of the album is sweet to me now.

That brings me to albums. They're dinosaurs. In this age of CDs and DVDs, the record album is unwieldy and fragile. I remember how important one's record albums were in the 1970s. My very first album was Calypso by John Denver, followed closely by Captain and Tennille's Song of Joy. (Quit groaning — it was the '70s, for pete's sake!) Soon I was collecting Billy Joel albums, one of my long-time faves, along with Elton John, America, ELO, CSNY, Simon and Garfunkel, Seals & Crofts, and soundtracks from Rocky, Star Wars, and Close Encounters of the Third Kind — ♪ re, mi, do, do, so.♪

I was given my very own record player when I was about 14, I think. I remember my brother Ben showing me how I should care for my albums by wiping them carefully before playing them, and then by inserting the paper sleeves in such a way that the records wouldn't inadvertently fall out of the cardboard covers. Of course you only heard about five to seven songs per side of an album, and then you had to turn it over. Exhausting. And there were those inevitable scratches. It didn't matter how careful you were — it was only a matter of time before your records got scratched. You socked your brother for stomping through the room and causing a skip, and you danced with some restraint to keep from sending the needle awry yourself. Even now on the rare occasion when we play albums, we have to explain to our sons about skipping and scratches. They are confused by the idea. They are used to just sliding the CD in and touching "play." The entire album is heard, with as many as 20 or 30 songs on one CD. They don't know about that characteristic fuzz in the background or the occasional "pop" sound. They don't know "needle" or "spindle," and the very size of the record is comical to them.

But I love my albums still, and my husband loves his. We don't listen to them much, I admit, but they are not going in the trash or on the yard sale block. Every now and then I get one out, and I go through the tedious process of carefully placing it on the spindle and managing that seemingly delicate set-up of springs and gears, just to hear a few songs. And I love to gaze at the cover again like I used to do. I knew every word on those covers, and I knew every face. Albums have it over CDs on that count. You can't gaze at a CD cover for very long without going cross-eyed. But a nice big album with your favorite musician smiling from the front, or shown on the back walking along the beach — well, you can't beat that. Especially if you're 17 and full of angst. As for the pops and cracks, even they are familiar and help stir memories. I wouldn't want to go back to albums for my everyday listening pleasure, but I do love pulling them out once in a while for a quick trip back in time, and for a visit with old friends like Billy, Todd, and John D.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I don't understand why anyone would start a petition to try to get a convicted killer out of jail. I certainly don't know why anyone would sign such a petition.

Paul Ferrell was convicted of the death of my daughter, Cathy Ford. All of his appeals were turned down. There are over 3 million convicted felons in our prisons, and 99% will never admit their guilt.

Paul Ferrell would not even take the stand in his own defense. In my mind, I will always wonder what happened: Was she raped, was she stabbed, was she beaten or shot to death? Was Cathy thrown down a mine shaft or is she in a shallow grave in the mountains? These are the questions that I live with. Only convicted Paul Ferrell can answer these questions. He should never leave prison unless these questions are answered.

Who is being punished more, the convicted killer or the victims?

Carl R. Ford Sr.
father of Cathy Ford

To the Editor:

This brief letter has been written to express our deepest, heartfelt appreciation for the gift of $209.35 to our church by Leone's at the Silver Tree Center to be used by our church's soup kitchen to provide free meals for our community. This donation was made possible through a community fund-raiser sponsored by the restaurant to provide funds to numerous charitable organizations. As a result of the generosity of Leone's, this amount will permit us to purchase approximately 1,495 pounds of food from the Maryland Regional Food Bank and other sources to be used to provide meals for the less fortunate. Averaging between 150 and 200 meals per month, this amount will provide a number of months of meals.

I wish I could adequately share with you the scope of what this means, but I know that mere words can never adequately express the depth of our thanks to Leone's for the investment they are making into our community through their gracious sharing. A special note of thanks also needs to go to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Scislowicz, owners and managers of Leone's and Larry's House of Blues, who created the Garrett County Salute fund-raiser.

Again, we thank them for their generous contribution and for caring for and sharing with the community in such a vital and thoughtful way.

Sincerely,
Rev. H.R. (Mel) Menker,
Pastor
Oak Park Church of the Brethren

To the Editor

I feel compelled to respond to Ken Perrin and the citizens of Garrett County regarding the recent tragedy that Senator John Hafer experienced at his home. Let me set the record straight: Senator Hafer at no time asked for any assistance; in fact, he was ready to drive back home when I stopped him. I then asked the State Police for assistance because Senator Hafer has just learned that his home was engulfed in flames — he was visibly shaken and should not have been driving 180 miles back home during rush hour traffic, after having made the 180-mile trip to Annapolis just a few hours earlier in the day. It was the decision of the Maryland State Police as to the means of transportation, and quite frankly, I feel that it was the safest and most prudent decision. This decision has been unanimously supported by the members of the Senate and much of the general public, saying that it was an appropriate use of emergency resources given the circumstances and the time of day.

I find it very disturbing and a very sad scenario that we have such an insensitive society — Senator Hafer and his family have suffered a tremendous loss, and a few people are only focusing on the manner in which he returned home.

I take full responsibility for this request for assistance, and I feel that it was the right thing to do. Furthermore, the Maryland State Police make every effort to help all citizens in need, not just state senators.

Mary Beth Pirolozzi
District Administrator to Senator John Hafer

To the Editor:

I feel that there is very little for the youth to do in our area. It seems like the town (Oakland) doesn't care too much for teens. They spend most of their time and money on tourists and the older people in our community, especially around Autumn Glory.

The town can spare money to build a skate park/rec area for teens. With no recreation for youth, they find other things to do, which sometimes get them in trouble with the law. I'm sick of hearing, "Do your homework," or "Do chores." Most teens do these things and still have extra time on their hands.

Most people I have talked to also feel something should be done for the youth — not only teens, but adults too. A rec center should be built for teens to hang out and not get in trouble for loitering. We need a place to hang with friends to do stuff.

There are a few places for teens to go, but some teens can't afford it, or it's not interesting to them. Some things are even banned in Oakland and surrounding areas, such as skateboarding and trick bikes. People think that nothing should be done because they feel teens can get a job and help out around the house. Obviously these people are very boring. I have a job and help out at my house, and it's not fun to be doing just that. I want to have fun, too. That's all teens want to do is have fun, and by fun, I don't mean going out and destroying things and hurting people. What I mean is hanging with friends and doing things we enjoy.

I think something should be done before teens get into trouble or become boring people, just like the old people around here.

Sincerely,
Ricky McKenzie

To the Editor:

Each summer, the western Maryland area becomes a Friendly Town community, as residents open their homes to disadvantaged children from New York City through the Fresh Air Fund. As we commemorate the hard work and dedication of volunteers across the country during National Volunteer Week, I wish to recognize members of your community who volunteer as Fresh Air hosts. I would also like to thank all individuals and businesses who have generously given their time and resources to make the western Maryland area a wonderful Friendly Town community.

Our heroes are local families who demonstrate their compassion and concern for the well-being of others by their commitment to disadvantaged youngsters from New York City. Caring members of your community open their homes and share the everyday joys of summertime with their guests. Many Fresh Air hosts form friendships that extend beyond their summer visits. Other local volunteers — many of whom are also hosts — give by serving on Friendly Town committees, planning summer activities, raising funds for special events, publicizing the program, and interviewing prospective host families.

All hosts, committee volunteers, and community sponsors deserve special recognition for their dedication and support of our efforts to make summer special for Fresh Air children.

The Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, has provided free summer vacations to more than 1.7 million disadvantaged New York City children since 1877. For more information on how you can help to continue this wonderful tradition of volunteering, please call the Fresh Air Fund at 800-367-0003.

Sincerely,
Jenny Morgenthau
Executive Director
The Fresh Air Fund

To the Editor:

Although I now live in Uniontown, Pa., I lived most of my life in Friendsville. I am only 25 miles away, but it is hard sometimes to know what is going on in our community. (And I still consider it my community.)

I, and my sister and her family (Betty Pook), still receive The Republican every week. We and so many others still living in the area had been missing the personal items that kept us up-to-date on friends and relatives after Mrs. Shoemaker passed away. Needless to say, we are so pleased with the new addition to the Friendsville news, the Wishing Well column. (I called Lucretia, personally, and told her how much it means.) In this busy world, we would read of someone we knew who had passed away, and because no one let us know, he or she would already be buried. At least now if someone is ill, we can remember him or her with a card or call. Thank you, Lucretia, and The Republican.

I have been reading of the town's concern over the ambulance situation. It is a deep concern that should not only be considered but acted upon. Friendsville needs that service. I drove from five miles north of Friendsville (near Green Gables) to teach school at Aurora for quite a number of years. In doing so I had

TALKING PAST EASTER

I made a fool of myself the other day, something that will not surprise those who know me best. I parked at a small shopping center where there is hardly room for both parking and driving through. There are also not enough parking spaces for the shops. For cars the situation is tight.

Parked out into the line of traffic and occupying space in a way that consumed three parking spaces was a sports car. My first reaction was to wonder who was the selfish person who had put his car in the road of as many other vehicles as possible without quite completely blocking the thoroughfare.

As I was getting out of my car, two young women waltzed up to the car, threw some shopping into it, and went off to the next store. I hailed them, none too cheerfully, pointing out that their car was situated in a way to maximize inconvenience to the rest of the world.

"We'll just be a minute," the driver said.

That really set me off, and I gave them a tongue-lashing, reviewing from the beginning of time our responsibilities toward each other in a free society. What I said was neither so brief nor so obviously philosophical as that, though the previous sentence sums up well what I did say.

It happened that we were going to the same store, and wound up in line together, where we continued our verbal altercation. I called them irresponsible and they called me "Dad," which I realized later was meant to cut me to the quick, which it didn't since, in an archetypal way, that is what I was being to them.

The clincher for me was when the driver said, "I would have moved my car if you had asked me nicely, but you were rude." I wondered, is this what she says to the state trooper who pulls her over for speeding, "I would have slowed down, if you had just asked me nicely."? Probably so, because a woman in her 20s complained to me a few weeks ago that she had gotten a ticket for speeding. I asked her if she had learned her lesson. She answered concisely, "No."

I am sure the young women — isn't it funny I won't call them "ladies" because they don't deserve it, and they would not want me to call them "ladies" because they never have any intention of being such — told the story from their angle, and — no doubt — called me a name which I will not permit to be said in my house.

There are lots of dynamics to be unpacked and analyzed from that exchange, which I shall parse in time to come. At the moment I pause before it, because it reminds me of something. It reminds me of the exchanges in the week leading up to Good Friday. The people talked of a king. The Jewish leadership talked of a king. Pilate talked of a king. Jesus talked of a king. None of them meant the same thing with the word "king."

Pilate and Jesus stood face to face, representing all that is worldly and all that is godly, and discussed the nature of truth, but they talked past each other.

Even when Jesus hung on the cross, he worried his enemies for a moment because they thought he was calling the prophet Elijah to help him. Jesus was actually calling to God, quoting Psalm 22. Because the first two syllables of "Elijah" means "My God," the people who stood at the foot of the cross misunderstood him.

What fascinates me most about that confusion is that the text gives a sense that had the chief priests and scribes understood he was calling to God, they would not have been bothered. God, they thought, they knew. Elijah, on the other hand, had always been a loose cannon. Who knew what he might do?

So it is that we continue to talk past each other while God saves the world. Even when we pause to see what God is up to, it may be merely because we have misheard. There is hope of a kind in that: perhaps even our confusion may be a means of grace.

Taking stock of our muddles gives us permission to look up and to see the God-Man in his eternal sacrifice for all of us, for those two young, irresponsible girls and for this "Dad" who is only likely to get daddier as he goes along. Towering above us is the cross, and beneath it an empty tomb, a door of invitation to God and to all that is truly true.

proposed budget of $33 million. This is up 6.2% from last year. This bill and the proposed budget were discussed at the recent board of education meeting, which was held in their new office located in part of the M&T Bank building along Second Street.

"I feel reasonably comfortable about our budget," Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent said. He also stated that the budget should have carry-over for the next year.

After a recommendation was made by Dr. Teets, the board approved the proposed school budget.

The first $30 million raised through this bill will benefit the state's mental health programs, then the next $8 million will go to the selected school jurisdictions.

According to Speaker of the House Casper Taylor Jr., the tax bill will afford a break for Maryland residents who are behind in their income taxes.

He said Marylanders will be able to pay back taxes without paying penalties.

moratorium, House and Senate leaders negotiated with black legislators to ensure passage of the DNA bill, said House Majority Leader John Hurson, D-Montgomery.

When the House passed the DNA bill at 11:30 p.m., the moratorium came to the floor of the Senate. But 15 minutes later, Miller, an opponent of the bill, broke Senate rules and cut off debate, hastily ordered a roll call and announced the House had already adjourned.

Because the bill would still require House approval, the moratorium vote was symbolic — the lower chamber had adjourned and could no longer consider it. Then, the electronic voting system malfunctioned and the vote could not be recorded, so Miller ordered the session adjourned.

One of the moratorium bill's sponsors, Majority Leader Clarence Blount, D-Baltimore, registered his disappointment over the shortened debate and lack of vote.

"For the first time we don't wait until 12 o'clock [to adjourn]. I hope this doesn't portend what the Senate will be like in the future," Blount said. He later down-played Miller's actions: "When you're playing a game, you use all of the rules you can."

Sen. Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore, was not as understanding. "It was ugly," Hoffman said. "By forcing an early end, you lose some of the healing . . . that's what makes this place work. To end without the camaraderie leaves a bad feeling."

The Northern Star

I look up at the North Star to see if I can see your face.
And when I do I see you and me walking and talking,
Talking about the times we spent together when you were alive.

Like the time you took me to the park
Walking in the Heavens like we were here on earth
But the thing I always see when I look at the Northern Star is you smiling down at me.

At times I hear you saying, "I love you, my little Angel, and some day we will all be together like it used to be."
So every night before I go to sleep, I see your face and hear you say "Good Night, my little Angel."

In Memory of My Loving Grandfather, Eddie Thayer,
who passed away 10 years ago April 15.

In Loving Memory of Sharon (Lucas) Newport on her birthday,
April 12.

The day the Lord took you home, oh, how we cried, and wondered why. But with each passing day the Lord helps us to understand why. He only takes the very best, and you were the best. Always doing things for others, so caring and loving. Now when we think of you up in Heaven, what a beautiful place that must be, no more pain and suffering, how happy you must be. We are so happy for you. The Lord always knew you deserved better, now we know it too.

Happy Birthday, Sis
We Love and Miss You Very Much.

GETTING READY for the annual Relay for Life are the members of this local band, who will be providing free entertainment at the Southern High School athletic field the evening of the relay. Members pictured, from left, are Jason Afable, Robbie Kutchman, and Shawn Rodeheaver. Not present for the photo was Andrew Hill. According to relay organizers, there are still time slots available for other groups or individuals who wish to provide entertainment. Those interested are asked to telephone Sandi Jamison at 301-387-4519.

Tickets Going Fast For Behold The King Play

The drama Behold the King, written by Esther S. Yoder, is being presented this week at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident, and tickets for the production are selling rapidly, a spokesperson said. The play, which is a depiction of the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus Christ, has been presented to full audiences for the past several years.

The remaining performances and ticket availability for each are as follows: this evening (April 12), limited seating; April 13, sold out; April 14, limited; April 15, open; and April 20, 21, and 22, all limited.

For ticket information, persons may call 301-245-4321, 301-895-5815, or 301-746-7028.

Nat'l Players To Present The Scarlet Letter

The National Players, resident touring company of the University of Maryland, will present Nathaniel Hawthorne's classic The Scarlet Letter as the next Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) presentation. It will take place in the Garrett Community College auditorium on Friday, April 27, at 8 p.m.

Now in its 52nd year of touring, the National Players company has performed in 35 states and 10 foreign countries. Each year the directors choose from among the most talented graduates of the country's top college and university theater programs to become members of the touring company, according to Beth Johnson, executive director of GLAF.

In the tradition of traveling players, all members of the troupe are involved in every aspect of the plays they perform. Arriving a few hours before each performance, they prepare the stage, set and focus the lights, and check sound equipment and props before they don costumes and makeup. When the play is over, they do it all in reverse, Johnson said.

Set in 17th century Massachusetts, The Scarlet Letter takes the audience on the seven-year journey of Hester Prynne, from the original revelation of her crime and the imposition of the scarlet letter to the climactic end of her dream of happiness and love. The story begins as Hester emerges from the prison door, her newborn baby Pearl in her arms, and the scarlet letter "A" for adultery emblazoned upon her bosom. Since Pearl is the result of one moment of illicit passion, the Salem tribunal has decreed Hester's punishment to stand in the town square wearing the symbol of her sin. All of the townspeople have gathered to witness this event, including the father of her child whom Hester refused to name and her husband who has been missing for two years. The stage is set for a tale of human frailty, sacrifice, and sorrow.

The play entreats the audience to consider moral standards and to question whether modern society has advanced from its puritanical roots, Johnson said. The National Players production reveals the legacy of the past in the present by highlighting the social environment that carries through the centuries.

Tickets for The Scarlet Letter may be purchased by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082. Admission is $10 for adults, $4 for GCC students, and $2 for youth. Credit cards are accepted.

This performance is sponsored by Drs. Porcaro, Walch, and Zakaluzny. GLAF season sponsors for 2001 are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Deep Creek Mountain Resort, and the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. All GLAF events are made possible in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the State of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Annual Summer Festival Seeks Artisans, Crafters

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, located on the Old National Road east of Grantsville, is looking for artisans to set up booth displays to demonstrate their craft and sell their works during the three-day 24th annual Summer Festival and Quilt Show.

The festival, sponsored in part by the Maryland State and Garrett County arts councils, will be held on Thursday, July 12, through Saturday, July 14, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day.

There is a $30 reservation fee, which is due with the completed application and photos or samples of the artisans' work. The application deadline is May 1. Booth space is limited to 12x12, and all spaces are outdoors; artisans must provide their own booth display and tables. There are spaces for approximately 85 artisans, and spaces are on a first-come, first-served basis.

Some of the artisans who have committed to the show are scroll sawers, blacksmiths, flower artist, bird sculptor, potter, stained glass artist, teddy bear artist, slate painters, weavers, basketmaker and spinner, soap makers, furniture makers, photographers, tatter, needleworkers, knitters, jewelry makers, paper quiller, calligrapher, rug braider, quilters, painters, papercutters, leather workers, china painter, and more.

Other features of the festival include a quilt show in the air-conditioned Village Church, strolling musicians, country and ethnic foods, Yoder House tours, door prizes, and storytelling. There will also be the Children's Corner with Betty Jackson on Friday and Saturday, a slide show each day at 1 p.m. about coal mining by local historian and author Al Feldstein, book signings and sales, historic re-enactments, and self-guided tours of authentic, restored log cabins dating back to the pre-Revolutionary War era.

Persons with questions or who wish to request an Artisan's application packet may contact Trish Morgan, village administrator at 301-895-3332 or visit the web site www.spruceforest.org.

Seniors' Art Class Set In Grantsville

Painting for Seniors, an art course for senior citizens, will meet for five consecutive Fridays, May 4 through June 1, from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the Grantsville Senior Center, located at 125 Durst Court. While designed for seniors, the class is open to participants of all ages.

For tuition and registration information, interested persons may contact Patricia Baer of the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College at 301-334-8304.

Frostburg State Jazz Ensemble Concert Slated

Frostburg State University's Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Jon Baumann, will appear in concert on Saturday, April 21, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall. The performance is free and open to the public.

The 18-piece big band opens with Weather Report's hit, "Birdland," featuring Matt Dalton on alto saxophone. "Since I Don't Have You," by Brian Setzer, slows down the tempo. Stevyn Carmona solos on trumpet. "Four," a classic bebop tune by Miles Davis, follows, with solos by Erin Frankenberry on tenor saxophone and Stevyn Carmona on trumpet. Concluding the first half is the Latin

by Joan Sussman

I have no doubt that spring is really here. At long last here in Bittinger, I'm sure that winter is not still lingering. After a long cold winter, which is pretty standard fare in Bittinger, so far April is very unusually warm. I can only remember one April when it was common to reach 70 degrees and you could get away with just wearing a T-shirt without a sweater. But like so many changes of seasons, it seems like there are more cold bugs around. I have two of my girls home sick with me today. Both Claire and Meredith are too sick to go to school. If that is not enough, they fight over the remote control. The box of tissues, which is the most prized item around here this morning. Plus they were exhausted from a trip to their Nana's and Pop's home in Silver Spring last weekend to celebrate Passover with a traditional Seder dinner which is a tradition with Lloyd's family. Plus they enjoyed the shopping jaunt and they also attended a rehearsal of Damn Yankees at Toby's Dinner Theatre, where Lloyd's sister Vicki is the production manager.

I am surprised that Mere mustered enough energy, after a good blowing of her nose, to run out to test her new spring and summer clothes. She couldn't resist the blue sky and the birds singing to do her first session on the big swing in my front lawn. But she did not last outside for very long because she said, "Yes, it is warm, but the breeze is pretty nippy." I believe our farm is a perfect place for windmills to generate electric power because it is a rare day when the wind is not strong. At least now we do not have to worry about the snowdrifts that closed our lane. But it is not at all unusual for a snowstorm to ruin an Easter egg hunt outside, which is an annual feature of my family's following Easter dinner. I have several snapshots of my girls proudly holding a decorated egg with a background of snow.

I am way behind my planned special art projects for the holiday. So far I have not even painted a single blown-out egg. Another art job that I have not done in a timely manner is to get together a show of my little nature dolls for Garrett County. My idea was to get together a display of them for the Art Council Gallery in downtown Oakland for the Easter weekend. One group is perfect for an Easter parade and are perfect for a rite of spring.

In the olden days during pagan time, people marked the coming of spring by a wild flounce in the woods. Later it turned into the Maypole dance. When I was a student at Accident Elementary School it was one of the feature items for a big May Day program. I would like to see that tradition renewed. I am not sure if it is too late to get a Maypole for my child dolls to dance around. I can't promise I can get it all together for this weekend, but if you happen to be in downtown Oakland and you are curious about my little nature folks, drop by the Gallery. I hope I can get it up to the Gallery with my favorite spring painting that I have finished. No, let's make it two of my favorite spring paintings, as I almost forgot about the one in oil of the Blue Bell woods along River Road near Grantsville.

Now I know for sure that spring is really here. Anyway, that is what a host of tiny frogs sang last evening. This is the first time I have heard them this spring. Nothing so means home more than that sound. Last evening Claire and I stayed up past our bedtime to listen to their chorus. What I heard in their song was, "I am so happy to be alive because it is spring and my whole life is in front of me and I am happy to be with all my family and friends in their wonderful bogs." We can hear them very well from our front porch, but nothing can compare in terms of sheer volume than along Mosser Road just before Rock Lodge Road. There the sound is so loud. I wonder how many tiny frogs it takes to make that loud of a song. It is good news that I hear them from the Glade region because that means that the environment is in good health. I once read that one sure sign of a sick environment is the lowering of the frog population. But it seems that in spite of all the past strip mining, pollution, and any farm runoff of pesticides, the Glades are still well and alive. It is full of lovely water with last winter's plentiful snowfall and the aid of a few good rains.

The forecast calls for thunderstorms tonight without, hopefully, frozen precipitation. But sometimes during this time of year they did bring water from the highest atmosphere where it is still quite cold. Unfortunately, we have not seen the last of the snow yet. As I write this column, we have downpours of rain with huge hail and high winds. My lights have blinked on and off and I fear that they will go off for the night.

Last weekend marked a terrible anniversary for me. It was on April 7, 1994, (seven years ago) when an aneurysm burst in my brain and left me severely disabled. In fact, for several weeks I was at death's door, but of course, I refused to die because of my darling girls, so I survived. Lloyd told me that the spring peepers were in full voice that week in April, but I did not hear them except maybe in my dreams. I had many strange dreams, sometimes very scary and some beautiful. In many ways I thought I had the perfect life before that dreadful day. I was terribly happy with my family and loved my job as English professor at Garrett Community College. I lived in some of the most beautiful country around and I used to love to explore every inch of it. But everything I used to love to do is now impossible for me. In a way I was like "Humpty Dumpty" that "All the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't put him back together again." All the wonderful doctors, nurses, and therapists couldn't put the old Joan back together again. No one ever said that life is fair, and I know that.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church received some new members into the church on Palm Sunday. They included Mr. and Mrs. George Beitzel and children and Mr. and Mrs. Randy Smith and family. A welcoming reception was held in the educational building following the service.

Steve Diehlman's mother died last week. His father Charles (Pops) will visit Garrett County this week and stay with Steve's sister, Mary Jo, at their lake house. It was kind of a hard few weeks for the Diehlman family. First, Patty's grandmother died, then their sweet golden retriever "Jake" was hit by a car in front on my mother's house, and now this death. By the way, no one stopped to see how Jake was after they hit him. How cruel to let him just lie there.

A number of the members of the Bittinger 4-H Club attended a pig, sheep, and goat workshop Sunday afternoon hosted by the Red House 4-H Club. In attendance were Robbie, Blakely, Darryl, and Elliot Glotfelty, Matthew and Scott Bass, and Jodi Brenneman. I hear from the grapevine that some of the cousins are planning to try raising lambs this year. The market hog kids still plan to do that again. I am glad my girls do not want to try a lamb because they loved their pig so much that the sale is terribly painful. I hate to think what it would be like having a nice fuzzy and cute lamb. There is still no sign of new lambs up the road, but I check it out regularly since that is another sure-fire sign of spring. They make such a very pretty picture frolicking about. So far there is just a whole bunch of very heavy ewes. I believe the mother ewes wait until new spring grass appears. I wonder if that new grass has something to do with inducing labor. I am sure the mother needs the fresh grass to make milk for their little ones.

Last week I had the pleasure of a visit from Paul and Maria Yoder of Grantsville to visit the very old graveyard on our farm where Paul's (50 times) great-Uncle Tobias Yoder buried seven children in the 1850s because of diphtheria. The small bulge at the edge of the woods contains about a dozen field stones, apparently grave markers. "Pappy" Dale told me that he and his brother, sisters, and cousins put at least some of them there. I am sure that at least some of them are the original markers. Nothing as much as this story about that family drives home to me how hard life was in the "good old days." Imagine the thought of losing seven children in a year. But Maria dropped off a book of their family history and, although it lists the names of the children of Tobias, the death dates were very unclear. But in any case, they soon moved to Kansas, where they thankfully had another son.

Paul gave me a tip for future news of how they plan a program in September in the old Cherry Glade Amish Church on Foxtown Road about the history of the colony of Amish and Mennonite people in the Bittinger area. The same names are still so common around here, namely Brenneman, Beachy, Hershberger, Yoder, Bender, and Beitzel. I look forward to that program, which may be held possibly the 14th or 15th of September. For some reason in Bittinger there are many people whose last name begins with B. If not the majority, then many. One of the Buckel (or Buckle) family members died last week, Blair Buckel. I don't know how he spelled his last name, but the funeral home was filled up with Buckles, spelled either way, and it doesn't matter how it is spelled, they are still the same family.

The first notable display of spring flowers is a lovely bed of crocus at Kenny Beitzel's house. Hopefully, they survived the hail storm of last night. I still have seen no sign of the service trees blooming yet. If you believe the old timer's wisdom, that means we still can expect at least one more snowfall.

Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty (twins), sons of Marci and Rodney, celebrated their 12th birthday on Thursday night with pizza, ice cream and cake with their cousins. Attending were the Bass family, Joan Sussman and girls, Dale Glotfelty, and Ruth DiPaolo.

Lynn and Michael Smith from Timonium are visiting with Rodney and Marci Glotfelty and family, and are also celebrating birthdays of the twins and Aunt Lynn.

The Glotfeltys, the Bass family, and Jodie Brenneman, along with their 4-H leaders, attended the 4-H annual Achievement Program and Reception. Leaders are Vicki Teets and Don Sealing. Others attending were Bruce Taliaferro, Rodney Glotfelty, Carol Bass, and Ruth DiPaolo from Bittinger. Ruth presented the Dr. Scott Glotfelty Memorial Humanitarian Trophy and saving bond to Aliza Green of the Red House 4-H Club.

Visiting Ralph and Ethel Buckel last week were Bill Hady, Arnold and Barbara Feather, Oakland, and Lee Buckel, Stevensville.

Emmanuel's 25th Mother-Daughter Banquet will be held May 4 at 6:30 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall. Cost of the turkey dinner is $7.25 adults, and $3.50 for children. Children under 5 may eat for free.

Landon Southerly was a poster presenter at the 2001 Maryland Junior Science and Humanities Symposium, held March 29 and 30 at the National 4-H Convention Center in Chevy Chase. He was selected based on preparing a two-page summary about last year's Science Fair project which was titled "What is Stroop?" for which he won first place both at Northern High School and the Regional Science Fair at Allegany College in the Behavioral Sciences category. Michelle Harman, biology teacher at Northern, encouraged him to submit his summary to the Selection Committee, and in February he was notified by formal letter that he had been selected to be a presenter. This now meant setting up a specific-sized poster with guidelines that had to be followed. A lot of hard work, but well worth it! Another student from Northern, Pranav Patel of Grantsville, was also selected for a poster presentation. Micah Plevyak of McHenry attended as an observer. All three students traveled to the symposium with Paul Miller, Northern High School science instructor.

TWO AGENCIES SIGN MEMORANDUM — Paul D. McIntyre, Garrett County resident maintenance engineer for the state highway administration, and Sheriff Dick Sanders, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, recently signed a memorandum of understanding between the two agencies. The agreement allows the use of the Garrett County Jail inmates to work on work crews supervised by Garrett County correctional officers and state highway personnel on beautification projects, such as mowing, trash and de-bris pick-up, weed eating, painting, and snow removal. This is an ongoing program between the agencies.

Maryland Classified Employees Association, Inc.

The Maryland Legislative Session for 2001 is history. The Maryland Classified Employees Association (MCEA) was present during the Session to protect and advance the rights of state employees.

Senate Bill 221, which will allow retirees to be re-employed with other state agencies without certain pay limitations, passed the General Assembly.

Senate Bill 207, which grants collective bargaining to Frostburg State University and other higher education employees, passed the Senate and House of Delegates. MCEA will immediately begin organizing at the various campuses since the bill is effective July 1, 2001.

Senate Bill 257, which would have created a task force to improve the Correctional Officers' retirement benefits, died in a Senate committee.

The FY 2002 budget provides money for a 4 percent pay raise, effective January 2002, and cuts performance bonuses by 50 percent.

MCEA listens to its members and drafts bills for legislative consideration. It provides a strong lobby to get the job done. MCEA has over 60 years of legislative experience, and a winning track record with employee grievances. On the local scene, MCEA Chapter 76 in Garrett County, meets quarterly at the Board Room Restaurant in Oakland. State employees interested in more MCEA information should call the union's Cumberland office at 1-888-614-6232 or 301-724-8770.

(MCEA News was submitted by local MCEA Chapter 76 president, Donna McClintock.)

ALONG CAME A SPIDER

Rated R - Running Time: 1:43 - Released 4/6/01

Morgan Freeman has distinguished himself time and time again as a solid actor, although he is seldom cast in the leading part. In Lee Tamahori's Along Came A Spider, Freeman takes the spotlight, recreating his role as Detective Alex Cross from Gary Fleder's 1997 thriller Kiss The Girls. The film marks the screenwriting debut of Marc Moss; his text is based on the novel by James Patterson, who also wrote the novel Kiss The Girls. Spider definitely has its share of unlikely plot elements, but since I haven't read the book, I don't know whether these are lifted from the source or the responsibility of the screenwriter. In addition to giving Freeman a meatier role than he usually gets, the film also allows actress Monica Potter to show some talent and recover from the debacle that was Head Over Heels, her recent brain-dead romance, and gives Toronto-born, Juilliard-trained actor Michael Wincott some exposure as the crafty villain Det. Cross must outwit.

Along Came A Spider can only be called a sequel to Kiss The Girls in that it features Cross as its main character; otherwise it is unrelated to the other film. The noted Washington, D.C., detective and criminal profiler is called in when a man who patterns himself after Bruno Hauptmann (the man executed in 1934 for kidnapping the Lindbergh baby) abducts the daughter of a U.S. senator from her prestigious private school. In fact, the abductor (Michael Wincott), who goes by the name Gary Soneji, phones Cross himself, as if drawing him into some kind of cat-and-mouse game. Soneji has been posing as a teacher at the school for years, wearing a wig and prosthetic face (see "unlikely plot elements" section above). When he exits the building with the sedated girl hidden in a computer cabinet, he creates quite a stir, especially since the school has been under heavy security surveillance by the Secret Service for two years with Special Agent Jezzie Flannigan (Potter) in charge. Soon Cross and Flannigan join forces to find Soneji, who keeps giving them obscure clues and cryptic messages. But when they finally confront the man, they find he doesn't have the girl anymore. Now they must work even harder to discover the true villain.

This movie is successful more because of the calibre of its actors and script than believability of plot. I don't know how close Moss's story is to that of Patterson's book, but there are several major events that should make any discerning moviegoer say, "Whaaaa?" The opening sequence, for instance, which involves Cross losing his partner in a tragic accident, is not only ridiculous, but so glossed over it seems utterly unnecessary. Still, Freeman and Potter serve adequately, as does Mika Boorem as the abducted child. Like its 1997 predecessor, Spider is satisfyingly thrilling, which, I suppose, is its purpose, but in a cheap, pulpy sort of way that seems designed for the common-sense challenged. ★★★½

BLOW

Rated R - Running Time: 2:04 - Released 4/6/01

The inner workings of the Pan-American drug trade was covered recently in Steven Soderbergh's multiple Oscar-nominated film Traffic; however, Ted Demme's Blow offers perhaps a more accessible view, with moments of humor and pathos interwoven into its decades-spanning timeline. It recounts the true story of California cocaine dealer George Jung, now serving a 60-year prison sentence after spending much of the 1970s and '80s operating a major distribution operation between Colombia and California while constantly running from the law. Jung, the main American connection for the famous Medellin drug cartel, is by most accounts (including his own) at least partially responsible for the huge acceleration of cocaine use in the U.S. in the late '70s. He is played by Johnny Depp, who goes through a dizzying array of hair styles and facial hair configurations, eventually donning an ill-fitting fat suit, but does little to age the character inside the foam rubber. Depp is credible, however, and probably a good deal more charismatic than the real Jung, a photo of whom is shown during the film's end credits.

The film, which is based on the book by Bruce Porter and adapted for the screen by David McKenna and Nick Cassavetes, is basically just a simple biography, or autobiography, with occasional narrative voiceovers by Depp. Director Demme (Life) does not seem to be judging his main character, but he pulls no punches about the downward spiral that can result from such a life of crime, especially in the drug business. Occasionally boasting some interesting cinematographic choices, Blow sticks mainly to the narrative, and relies heavily on Depp and his well-equipped supporting cast to pull the story off. A number of well felt, sometimes surprising performances are rendered by such actors as Ray Liotta and Rachel Griffiths (Hilary And Jackie) as George's parents, Penélope Cruz as his fiery Colombian wife, and Paul Reubens (a.k.a. Peewee Herman) as the flitty hairdresser (apparently an invented character) who serves as his stateside dealer. On the Colombian side, we see intense turns by Jordi Mollà as George's friend and prison cellmate Diego (based on Jung's real-life partner Carlos Lehder), who helped him move from pot to coke but eventually turned treacherous, and Cliff Curtis as legendary cocaine producer Pablo Escobar. With director Demme's help, they form a compelling look at the variegated group of people who propelled George Jung's life in the directions it took.

Seeing how Jung's life was affected, or enhanced, or ruined by his profession, depending on which part or which viewpoint one considers, I was reminded of Brian De Palma's Scarface, watching Al Pacino's Cuban character Tony Montana descend into decadence and madness, but the important difference here is that Demme kept the violence to a minimum. While Scarface ends in a blaze of gunfire, this film simply shrugs off its message with a poignant moment in George's prison yard. The deterioration of his relationship with his father, and then with his daughter, is moving, if not perfectly in line with Demme's otherwise straightforward approach. ★★★★

LOCH LYNN

The town meeting was held Monday, April 2.

- The county commissioners and county administrator met with the mayor and council to discuss the tax differential, which was declined. A letter requesting other services will be drafted and sent to the commissioners. The constant yield tax rate and POS funds were also discussed.
- An Easter egg hunt, sponsored by the ATOD grant, will be held at the town playground, on April 14.
- The mayor requested a meeting with the representatives of the girl's softball league and Mt. Top youth soccer league to plan completion of the ballfields and soccer fields.
- William Rudd was approved by the council as the new town attorney.
- A zoning permit has been obtained by the mayor for the installation of the new lighted town bulletin board. The bulletin board will be located at the town hall.
- Bids were received for two town trucks, and the highest bids were accepted.
- The Cub Scouts who hold their meetings in the Loch Lynn community building (former school) are making and delivering Easter baskets to older citizens of the town on April 12.
- The town pavilion is available for rent.

The next town meeting will be Monday, May 7.

DEER PARK

- Tire Amnesty Day will be Saturday, April 21.
- Bulk trash pick-up will be Monday, April 23, and Monday, April 30. Procedure for these three days are to be followed according to the Garrett County landfill guidelines.

Annual Easter Egg Hunt Set At Herrington

The annual Easter egg hunt at Herrington Manor State Park will be held on Saturday, April 14, beginning at 2 p.m. The hunt will take place in the field across from the park office.

A park spokesperson said 50 dozen eggs have been donated by McDonald's restaurant. The eggs were then colored by students at Crellin Elementary School.

Among the hidden eggs will be specially numbered ones for prizes and a grand prize chocolate rabbit.

Also on the schedule is a visit from the Easter Bunny, the spokesperson said.

The public is invited to attend the event.

tune "Sandunga." Soloists include Brian Cohen, guitar; Erin Frankenberry, tenor saxophone; Brent Paris, trombone; and Scott Manzo, trumpet.

The second half opens with Woody Herman's classic swing hit, "Woodchopper's Ball." Alison Welborne is featured on clarinet, with additional solos by Matt Dalton on tenor saxophone, Jonas Amoonarquah on trombone, and David Myers on trumpet. "Everyday" by Joe Williams and Count Basie follows, with vocals by George Jones. Next up is Johnny Mercer's up-tempo "Day In, Day Out," with Laurence Brunner playing a trumpet solo. Closing the concert in style is the funk rock tune "Critical Mass," featuring an alto saxophone solo by Matt Dalton.

RAM NETTERS SWEEP BEALL - The Southern High School tennis teams topped visiting Beall on Monday, with the boys' team recording a 6-1 win and the girls earning a 5-2 victory. In the photo above, Sarah Teets, left, and Britney Ashby are captured during their singles matches. Teets blanked Meredith Bullamore, 8-0, while Ashby was defeated by Kim Ridler, 8-2. Demonstrating a two-handed backhand in the photo below is Southern's Jeremy Durst, who rolled over Beall's Lenny Youngblood, 8-0, in his singles match. Photos by John McEwen.

NHS Netters Top Alco, Falcons

The boys' tennis team of Northern High School recorded a 5-2 victory over visiting Allegany on Tuesday, and the Northern girls earned a 4-3 win over host Frankfort last Thursday. The girls also hosted Allegany on Tuesday, but no results of that match were reported.

The NHS boys captured four of the five singles matches, with Woody Kenner, Mike Fletcher, Adam Brenneman, and Martin Scholze all winning. Then Kenner and Fletcher teamed up to win in doubles.

Shad Myers was the only Allegany player to win in singles competition.

The win evened the Huskies' record at 2-2.

The Northern girls swept the singles competition against Frankfort last Thursday, as Heather Lander, Ashley Robinson, Renee Meyers, and Mariah Fletcher were all winners. The Falcons (1-3) then won all three doubles matches to cut the Huskies' margin of victory to one point.

Southern Tennis Squads Record Wins Over Beall

The tennis teams of Southern High School upped their records to 1-1 Monday by defeating visiting Beall. The Southern boys won by a 6-1 margin, while the girls recorded a 5-2 victory.

Josh Stephens, Dustin Slider, Jeremy Durst, and Cody Morfoot each won their singles matches for the Rams, while the doubles teams of Slider and Nathan Gregg, and Nick Perry and Willie Davis were also victorious.

Beall's Tim Smith won his singles match to give the Mountaineers their only point.

Kim Ridler won in singles for the Mountaineers.

Both of the Southern teams are 1-1, and are slated to host Northern this afternoon at 4:30. They will entertain Hampshire next Tuesday, and host Preston next Wednesday.

Lander Sets Two Records In Fort Hill Invitational

Northern High School's Kristin Lander set a pair of records, and her teammate Jenny Goehringer tied another in the annual Fort Hill Invitational, hosted by the Sentinels last Wednesday afternoon at Greenway Avenue Stadium. The Southern High School teams also participated.

Lander set new marks in the 100 high hurdles, winning that event in 16.97 seconds, and in the 300 intermediate hurdles, placing first in that competition with a time of 50.88 seconds. Goehringer tied the record when she won the high jump with a leap of 4'10"

There were eight teams in the competition, with the Southern boys placing fifth with a score of 62.5, and the Southern girls finishing sixth with 48 points. The Northern boys placed eighth with 13 points, and the Northern girls were seventh with 39 points.

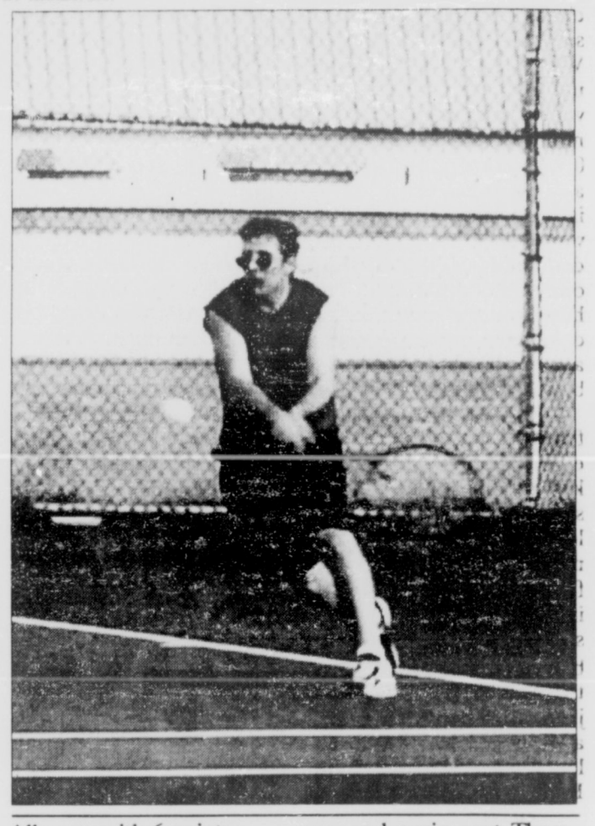
Leading the Southern girls were Justine Pagenhardt, Melissa Durst, and Natalie Domenick, as Pagenhardt placed second in the 1,600-meter run, Durst was second in the pole vault, and Domenick placed third in the 800-meter run. The Southern 3,200 relay team placed second, while the 1,600 relay team finished third.

Pacing the Southern boys was Kyle Snyder, who won the shot put with a throw of 41 feet, 9.75 inches.

Matt Stephens earned a second place in the high jump, and a third in the triple jump, while Bryan Schwalm finished second in the 400-meter run. The Rams' 800 relay team placed third.

Winning first place in the 300 hurdles with a time of 42.9 seconds was Northern's Andy Bowser.

Fort Hill swept the invitational, as the Sentinel boys amassed 127.25 points and the girls' team recorded 151.5 points. Placing second in the boys' competition was Hampshire with 82 points, followed by Keyser with 77, Preston with 72, Southern, Frankfort with 42, Allegany with 33.25, and Northern. Keyser was second in the girls' meet with 122 points, followed by Hampshire with 79, Preston with 50.5, Frankfort with 49, Southern, Northern, and Allegany with 6 points.



The Huskies and Rams will compete against each other this evening at Southern, and again next Thursday in the Garrett County Championships, which will also be hosted by the Rams.

Bosley No-Hits Beall To Cap Southern's Busy 4-1 Week

Junior ace Jennifer Bosley's stingy pitching sparked the Southern High School varsity softball squad to four wins against one defeat this week, with all the action coming on the road. The Rams opened Thursday with a 16-0 shellacking of Northern, traveled to Martinsburg, W.Va., for a Saturday tourney that featured a 5-0 win over host Martinsburg, an 8-2 victory over University High of Morgantown, W.Va., and an 8-2 loss to Broadway High of Virginia's Shennandoah Valley, and closed out the week Tuesday as Bosley blanked Beall with a 10-0 no-hit triumph. (No box score was available for that contest.)

With a 6-1 overall record and a 3-0 WMIL mark, SHS looks to be in the driver's seat with a definite shot at a repeat as Class 1A West Region champs. Leading the charge is Bosley, whose personal 6-1 pitching mark includes a minuscule 0.70 earned run average and 86 strikeouts in just 36 innings. Even in the Broadway defeat she proved the dominant player, striking out 14 and allowing just six hits over her seven-inning, complete game performance, which was hampered by four Ram errors.

Thursday's Cove contest featured a one-hit pitching effort against the host Huskies that starter Bosley shared with teammate Ashley Liller, who was summoned to the mound in the fourth for the final two innings of work. Bosley struck out seven batters before turning the ball over to her shortstop, also a junior. Liller struck out one and pitched a pair of scoreless innings to preserve the Rams' 16-0 shutout victory.

Southern's scoring onslaught was relentless, as the Rams scored three runs in the first, four in the second, one in the third, and four in each of the final two innings. Junior third baseman Autumn Uphold recorded four hits of SHS's seven-hit tally, and junior backstop Gina Reeves blasted a home run. The Rams drew 15 walks off NHS starting pitcher Jolene Brenneman, who was tagged with the loss, and reliever Bridget Frazee, who came on for the fifth inning. Brenneman had a single, the Huskies' sole hit of the day. Northern committed two errors, while Southern did not have a single fielding miscue.

SHS opened Saturday's action by showing no ill effects from its long bus ride to Berkeley County, W.Va., as the Rams opened the Martinsburg tournament with a 5-0 win over the hosts. Wielding her right arm like a scythe, Bosley played the part of the grim reaper as she mowed through the Martinsburg lineup, striking out 13 batters while allowing just one hit and one walk.

Southern's "Big Red Machine" offense was just as methodical as the Rams scored one run in each inning except for the fourth and sixth stanzas, when they were held uncharacteristically scoreless. Uphold ripped a double and a single to pace SHS's eight-hit output, and Liller belted a triple and a single. Bosley punched out a pair of singles of her own. The Rams had two errors to Martinsburg's five.

Liller got the nod for the start in Game 2 against University, and responded with a masterful five innings of mound work to cement SHS's convincing 8-2 triumph. The opponents only scored one run in the second and one in the fourth stanzas, as Liller struck out four batters en route to recording the win. Bosley came on in the sixth to pitch the last two innings of shutout ball, and struck out four on her way to a save.

Southern's offense showed more firepower by racking up three two-run innings in the third, fifth, and seventh stanzas, and adding a single run in both the second and fourth innings. Bosley highlighted the Rams' nine-hit attack with a two-run home run blast in the third inning. University managed a total of six hits while committing three errors, while the Rams' fielders booted the ball twice.

The long day caught up with Southern's athletes in the third contest, however, as the Rams committed four errors that led to a big five-run fifth inning that cemented an 8-2 win for Broadway. Bosley's 14-strikeout performance could not stem the tide spawned by those miscues, and even though the Rams amassed eight hits to Broadway's four, SHS went down to its first defeat of the year. Uphold stroked a double and a pair of singles for Southern, and Bosley and junior outfielder Megan Burner each ripped a double.

Known as a perfectionist, Bosley must have still been smarting from that defeat when she took to the mound Tuesday in Frostburg and brutalized Beall's batters for six full innings. The SHS hurler tossed a sterling no-hit shutout, and sent a dozen Mountaineers packing on that long walk back to the dugout after striking out.

Bosley also gave the Rams' offense a good swift kick when she blasted a two-run double to drive home Uphold and Liller and put Southern on top 2-0 in the first inning. Outfielder Stacy Scripp, the squad's sole senior, punched out a single to score Bosley before the stanza drew to a close. Three more runs in the second inning doubled SHS's lead to 6-0.

A Bosley home run led off the fourth inning, and Reeves followed that blast by driving Scripp home to up the margin to 8-0. Sophomore Kristen Oxford got into the act in the sixth inning by lofting a perfectly-placed sacrifice fly to deep center field that scored Scripp and Reeves for the final runs of the day.

Bosley's three hits at the plate led to four RBI, while Scripp's 4-for-4 performance resulted in two RBI. Reeves doubled and tripled, and Uphold scored two runs on a pair of singles.

The Rams are slated to travel to Westmar today, then repeat a big tournament weekend Saturday by visiting Calvert County to take on Roosevelt High of Greenbelt, the biggest school in the state, and 3A powerhouse Patuxent. Southern returns home to host WMIL arch-rival Fort Hill Tuesday and Tucker Wednesday. Both Oakland contests begin at 4:30 p.m.

Northern travels to Salisbury this afternoon, then returns to the Cove Friday for a contest with Preston. On Saturday the Huskies travel to Hagerstown for an Easter tourney, opening with Jefferson County High (W.Va.). The other two teams taking part in the tournament are South Hagerstown and St. Maria Goretti. Allegany visits NHS on Tuesday, and Beall will come knocking Thursday. Each of the home contests will get under way at 4:30 p.m.

Huskies Fall To Westmar Despite 11-Hit Output

Still looking for its sea legs in a stormy 0-4 season so far, the Northern High School varsity softball team fell to Southern last Thursday by a 16-0 margin (see SHS account), then rebounded to slug out 11 hits against Westmar Monday, but still lost 9-4. First-year NHS coach Tom Riley's young squad has not lost its mentor's confidence, however, as he said earlier this week that keeping a learning attitude through such adversity could pay off in spades down the road.

Westmar led off the scoring with a single run in the first, which the Huskies matched in the third. The Wildcats went wild for eight runs in the bottom of that stanza, however, by interspersing its hits in between several damaging walks. Angie Johnson rapped a bases-loaded double, Cassie Morris doubled, and Katie Harvey drove home a pair of runs on a bases-loaded single in that fatal inning.

For the game Jolene Brenneman stroked three hits for NHS, including two doubles, and Tabitha Beitzel, Bridget Frazee, and Brooke Butler each had two hits.

Brenneman drew the starting assignment and tossed a full six-inning outing. She was both hot and cold on the mound, striking out three batters and giving up just three hits, while at the same time issuing 15 walks. Wildcat hurler Jen Barb whiffed six Huskies.

SMC Members Qualify For National Event

Seventeen members of the Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team competed in the Mid-Atlantic Wrestling Association's regional wrestling tournament over this past weekend at Millersville, Pa. The top four place winners in each division qualified for the Eastern National Championships, which will be held April 21 and 22 in East Stroudsburg, Pa. For the first time ever, five SMC grapplers placed high enough in the regionals to earn a spot at the national event.

Seven-year-old Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel dominated his 56-pound division, pinning three of his four opponents. He finished in first place and earned the title of regional champion. "Bubba is an amazing wrestler," stated Coach Dave Taylor. "He has the perfect combination of athletic ability, raw talent, and a strong desire to succeed. He works hard, and if he continues to perform the way he has been, I love his chances at nationals."

Eleven-year-old Justin Ratliff is making his second trip to nationals. Ratliff won three of four matches, finishing in third place. His only loss at regionals was to the wrestler many consider the best in the country at the 85-pound weight class. "Justin wrestled the match of his life against Lascari," Taylor commented. "Our philosophy has always been: 'Win or lose, make your opponent respect you.' That is exactly what Justin did in that match, and we could not be more proud of his effort."

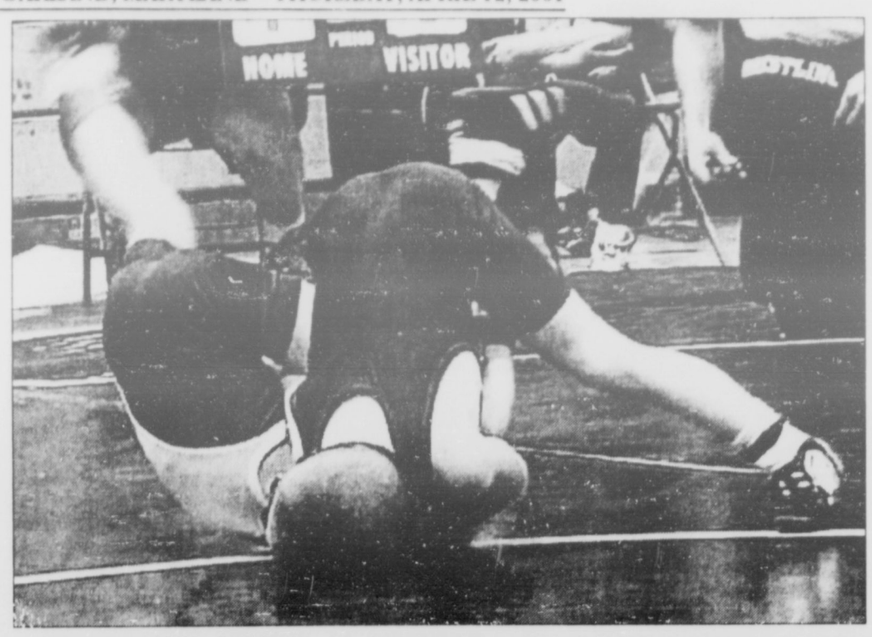
Scott Wildesen, an eighth grade student at Southern Middle School, will be making his third trip to the nationals. This is also a feat that has never been achieved in Southern Mat Club history. Wildesen placed fourth in the competitive 120-pound division. "Scott has had a great career with the Southern Mat Club. He has endured countless hours of practice with amazing dedication. He has become a great wrestler, and it is only fitting that he qualify for nationals in his final year with the club," Coach Dan Clark stated. "I was with him on his last trip to nationals, and I am proud to be going with him this year too," he added.

"Scott will be a great addition to the high school wrestling team next season," Coach Taylor said. "I have loved working with him throughout the years, and his leadership at the mat club will be missed."

Coaches Dan Clark and Nick Dolan also qualified for the Eastern National Championships by placing third and fourth, respectively, at the regionals in the open divisions. Forty-one-year-old Coach Clark defeated a wrestler half his age in his final match to claim third place. "This is not an easy sport, and the kids on this team admire Coach Clark for competing against young men who are in top physical condition," Taylor stated.

Also competing in the regional tournament but not able to advance to nationals were Gavin Murphy, Brutus Scheffel, Ryan Fitzwater, Nicholas Brant, Justin Fitzwater, Jeremy Gregory, Jeffrey Gregory, Justin Gregory, and Lex Ozias.

For more information on the Southern Mat Club, as well as complete tournament results throughout the season, persons may visit the team's web site at www.smcwrestling.org.



NMC MEMBERS ADVANCE TO NATIONALS - Two of the seven members of the Northern Mat Club who competed in the Mid-Atlantic Wrestling Association's regional championships at Millersville, Pa., this past weekend have advanced to the Eastern National Championships by virtue of their second-place finishes in Millersville. Brock Glotfelty and Jason Opel will compete in the national tourney, to be held in East Stroudsburg, Pa., April 21-22. The top four finishers in each weight division at the regional tournament are eligible to compete in the national event. Pictured from left above, front row, are: Opel, Josh Duckworth, Brent Butler, and Cooper Corley. In the back are: Casey Kamp, Glotfelty, and Brandon Opel. Coaches of the NMC are Randy Glotfelty, Bruce Opel, and Buddy Duckworth. Coach Glotfelty said that the coaches were "extremely proud" of the boys during the competition. "All of our kids competed in very intense matches against very talented opponents," he said.

DiSimone Pitches Rams To 10-0 Whipping Of Sentinels

A strong performance on the mound by Southern High School's Justin DiSimone led the undefeated Rams to a convincing 10-0 Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory over host Fort Hill on Monday. It was the fourth win in four starts for Coach Jim Bosley and his team.

DiSimone allowed four singles, struck out five, and issued only one walk in the five-inning contest, which was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

The Rams wasted no time taking control of the game, as they recorded six runs in the first inning, even though only two of those runs were earned and all were scored without a hit. The Southern batters drew six walks in that frame, two of which came with the bases loaded. A pair of Fort Hill errors allowed the other four runs to be recorded.

The Rams then added one run in the second inning and three more in the third.

Chris Remley led Southern's six-hit effort with a double and a single, while Jared Fike accounted for another 33% of the Rams' hits with a pair of singles. Joel Helbig smacked a two-run single in the third to give the Rams their 10-0 lead.

Chad Keller finished with two singles off DiSimone for the Sentinels, who dropped to 4-3 overall and 2-1 in the WMIL.

The Rams were scheduled to play at Westmar yesterday, but that game had to be postponed because of rain. They will host their annual Easter Tournament this Saturday, with Petersburg and Meyersdale the visiting teams. They are slated to play at Northern on Monday and then host Allegany next Wednesday.

Northern Ice Opens Season

The U-14 girls soccer team, Northern Ice, opened its season in a doubleheader played at Southern High School on Sunday, April 8.

In the team's first game, the girls defeated Oakland's Arsenal Football team by a score of 3-0. During that game, goals were scored by Brittany Milbourne, Tiffany Yoder, and Chelsea Green.

Susan Kolb and Tiffany Yoder had three saves each.

In the second game, the Northern Ice defeated the Preston County Blue Angels by a score of 5-0.

In this game, goals were scored by Markell Klavuhn and Amy Brenneman, while Brittany Milbourne scored a hat trick (three goals in one game).

Tiffany Yoder had three saves and Susan Kolb had four saves in this game.

This brings the total number of consecutive wins by the Northern Ice U-14 girls to 12 straight.

Huskies Blast Elks Before Falling To Bishop Walsh

The varsity baseball team of Northern High School split a pair of games this past week, ripping visiting Salisbury last Thursday, 17-7, and then dropping a 7-4 decision to host Bishop Walsh on Monday. The split left the Huskies with a 2-4 record.

Leading an 18-hit effort against the Elks of Salisbury last Thursday were Greg Whittemore, Landon Southerly, and Aaron Mitchell, who each recorded three hits. Mitchell rapped two doubles and a single, Whittemore had one double and two singles for four RBI, and Southerly smacked three singles.

Aiding his own cause with a pair of singles and three RBI was winning pitcher Jeremy Frazee. Greg Speicher contributed a double and a single, and Elliott Perfetti drove in a pair of runs with two singles.

The Huskies broke the game wide open in the fifth and sixth innings when they scored six and five runs, respectively.

Frazee and reliever Speicher allowed a total of eight hits, with Dan Parisi getting a double and a single, and Nick Sines hitting a pair of singles for Salisbury (0-3).

The Huskies managed just three hits and four unearned runs off Christian Barmoy of Bishop Walsh on Monday, as Barmoy went the distance and also drove home his team's first run of the game. He struck out five batters and walked one.

Greg Speicher had a double in the seventh inning for the Huskies, whose other two hits were singles.

Jason Miller hit a double and a single in the Spartans' 11-hit performance, while Kevin Orndorff hit two singles for one RBI and also scored twice. Also stroking a pair of singles was Brendan McCormick.

The Spartans (1-5) committed five errors, while the Huskies were tagged with four.

The Huskies were scheduled to play at Beall yesterday, but that game was postponed because of a wet field. They are slated to play in an Easter tournament at Hancock on Saturday, host county rival Southern next Monday for a 4:30 contest, and entertain Beall next Tuesday.

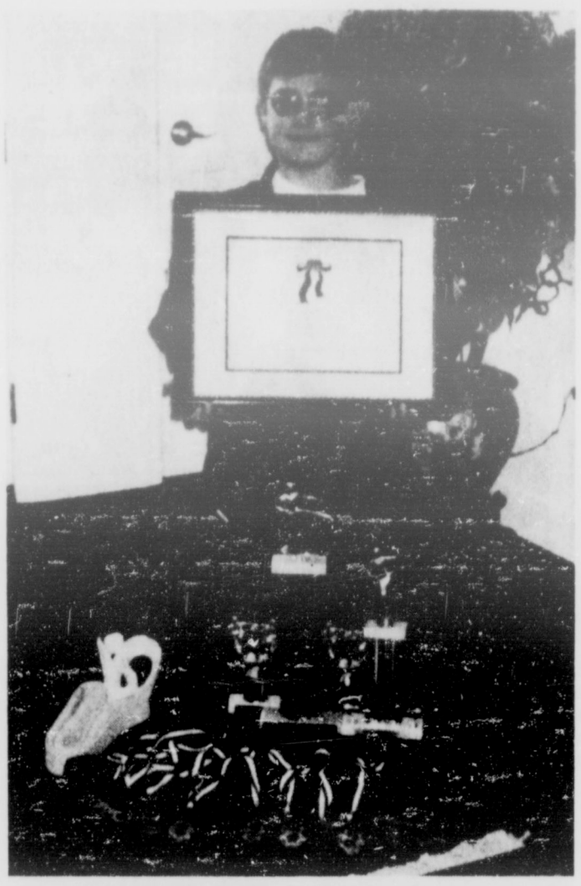
Northern Jayvees Edged By Spartans

The junior varsity baseball team of Northern High School held a 3-2 lead over visiting Bishop Walsh going into the sixth inning Tuesday afternoon, but that's when the Spartans tied the game at 3-3 and then won it, 4-3, by scoring another run in the seventh.

Jason Thomas paced the Husky offense with two singles, while Strem and Schroyer each hit two singles for the jayvee Spartans. Brandon Grabenstein earned the win on the mound.

It was the season opener for the Huskies. They are scheduled to play again today at Meyersdale.



EARNS TOP BLACK BELT - Geoffrey Newman, Grantsville, passed his first-degree black belt exam on March 10. He attends the American Martial Arts Academy in LaVale, where he studies Tang Soo Do. He is currently a 10th grade student at Northern High School and is enrolled in the merit program. He has also been the goal keeper for two years on the Northern JV soccer team. He is the son of Lynn and Carol Newman, Grantsville. Pictured above, Newman poses with the various belts earned over the years and some of the medals and trophies he has won in tournaments.

Sportaerobic Athletes Readying For National Championships In Florida

The Garrett County Sportaerobic Team, which consists of 20 young athletes from all parts of the county, will travel to Miami, Fla., on April 19 to compete in the 2001 United States National Sportaerobic Championships.

"The girls have been training several hours a week since the first of the year," said Coach Brenda Brosnihan. "They have mastered skills, learned integrated choreography, and have developed a lot of artistic style. Our goal is to place in the top three in each category so we can qualify to represent Garrett County and our country at the World Championships in San Francisco in July."

A pep rally honoring the girls will be held on Tuesday, April 17, at 7:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College. The public is invited to come and watch the team perform and to show their support. There will be no admission charge, but donations will be appreciated, Brosnihan said. The team has been holding extensive fund-raising efforts to offset the competition and travel expenses.

"The community has been very supportive and has once again come to our aid in support of our fundraisers," Brosnihan said. "We are especially grateful to Uno's for being our corporate sponsor and giving us such a generous donation. Our team represents all of Garrett County and our endeavor strives to teach these children the importance of teamwork, practice, and dedication. Our sport also helps these young girls develop self-confidence and a healthy self-image."

In preparation for the national contest, the team has competed in the Top Hat Productions dance competition in Keyser, W.Va., and the Star Talent dance competition in Cumberland. Other performances included after-school programs at Southern Middle School and at Washington Middle School in Cumberland.

"Performing for the after-school programs was a lot of fun," said assistant coach Amy Sutton. "It gave us the chance to share what we do with other kids. They had a chance to watch our routines and even try a few of the skills we perform."

Another group that will be performing at the pep rally is the Accident Elementary School's Kreations Kaleidoscope. Brosnihan said music teacher Todd Mason has been working all year to put together an elementary school dance/movement ensemble that will compete in a state competition on April 19. The performance group consists of 50 members from the third through fifth grades.

"We are excited to have Kaleidoscope performing at our pep rally," said Brosnihan. "We wish them the best of luck as they represent Garrett County in their statewide competition."

For more information on the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team, including results from nationals, persons may visit the team's web site at www.sportaerobics.org.

LIONS SUPPORT ATHLETES — The Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club has offered its support to the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team in the form of a $250 donation. The money will be used to help defray expenses related to the team's trip to the 2001 Sportaerobic National Championships on April 19. (See separate story.) Pictured in the front row, left to right, are athletes Morgan Brosnihan, Missy Ray, and Kelly Taylor. In the center is Bob Beitzel as he gives the check to Coach Brenda Brosnihan. In the back row, from left, are athletes Mariana Beitzel, Alissa Garland, and Jessica Crosco.

Named Instructor For Cheerleader Association Group

Southern High School varsity cheerleader Marlana Beitzel, an SHS senior and four-year member of the school's cheerleading squad, has accepted a position as an instructor with the National Cheerleaders Association (NCA). Beitzel will be employed at various NCA training camps throughout the summer.

"This offer came about as a result of Marlana's talent and her dedication to the sport," commented SHS cheerleading advisor Harry Biggs. "She has amazing skills, and is unquestionably one of the area's top talents."

Beitzel's previous cheerleading honors include the Outstanding Cheerleader award she received at last July's NCA camp at Frostburg State University. She is a member of Brenda's Body Shop, and has competed in Sportaerobic events at the national and international levels.

The daughter of Robert and Rayetta Beitzel of the Monte Vista Road area, Beitzel plans to enter West Virginia University, Morgantown, in the fall.

Founded in 1948, the NCA is the "original" cheerleading company, which has the stated goal of "inspiring, encouraging, and motivating the cheerleaders of today to become the leaders of tomorrow."

Bowl For Kids' Sake Deemed "Big" Success

This year, the 12th annual Garrett County Bowl for Kids' Sake, once all pledges are received, will raise over $28,000, an all-time high for the major fund-raiser for Big Brothers Big Sisters, which was held on March 31 at Par-Matt Lanes.

The money will be used to help BBBS continue the quality service given to children and youth of Garrett County through its community and school-based programs.

Individuals may continue raising pledge money to qualify for prizes. BBBS staff will be at Par-Matt Lanes on Saturday, April 14, from 1 to 4 p.m., and on Thursday, April 19, from 4 to 7 p.m. to receive pledge money. Prizes can be picked up at those times, as well. Pledge money may also be mailed to: Big Brothers Big Sisters, 105 S. Second St., Oakland, MD 21550, or brought to the organization's office.

BIG SMILES FOR BIG BOWLING SUCCESS — This year the Bowl for Kids' Sake raised over $28,000, an all-time high, for Big Brothers Big Sisters. Pictured above are Ed Hill, vice president of the BBBS board of management, and his wife Ann.

SCOUTS AND SPONSORS BOWL FOR KIDS' SAKE — Boy Scout Troop 22 got a chance to meet their troop sponsor while doing something that benefits the community. Troop 22 has been sponsored since its organization eight years ago by the Oakland/Mountain Lake Park Lions Club. The Lions got to see one of their beneficiaries give back to the community during Bowl for Kids' Sake. John Sines, president of the local Lions club, said, "This is what it's all about...seeing these boys do something really makes you feel good." Scoutmaster Bob Stephens said, "It gives them an opportunity to give back to the community. Service to others is one of the things that we are trying to nurture in the Scouts." Pictured in the front row, from the left, are Brian George and Brendan Stephens. In the second row, from the left, are Matthew Gorley, Samuel Lauver, and Nathan Thomas. In the back row, from the left, are John Sines, Roger Uber, Dr. Porter Welch, Greg Shockey, Bud Parrick, Frank Lewis, and Larry DeBerry. Persons interested in Boy Scouting may contact Bob Stephens at 301-334-8647.

SHS Jayvees Lose To, Defeat Mountaineers

The junior varsity baseball team of Southern High School split a doubleheader with visiting Beall on Saturday, as the Rams dropped the first game, 5-3, and won the second, 17-7. The split left the Rams with a 2-1 record.

Beall scored three runs in the fifth inning of the first game to break a 2-2 tie. Kade Kahl had a double and a single for the Beall jayvees, while Brady Engle recorded two RBI. Billy Reams paced Southern's hitting with a pair of doubles and two RBI.

The Rams took control of the second game right away, as they scored six runs in the first inning, six in the second, and three more in the third to take a commanding 15-4 advantage.

Reams and Nathan Fitzwater each recorded a double and a single for Southern.

The Rams were slated to play Preston yesterday, but that game had to be postponed because of rain. They are scheduled to play a doubleheader at Frankfort this Friday and a twinbill at Fort Hill on Monday before hosting Frankfort in a single game next Thursday.

Liller Receives

In another circuit court case last week, a Friendsville man entered a guilty plea to the charge of first degree burglary. Derek Ray Bittinger, 29, was then sentenced to five years in the DOC, with all but 18 months suspended. The judge then ordered that the remaining sentence be served in the Garrett County Jail. Bittinger will be on three years of supervised probation upon his release.

The defendant was charged by Maryland State Police in November 2000 after persons in an apartment building reported items of personal property had been stolen. Investigators found that Bittinger had sold some of the items to acquaintances, and others were found at his residence, according to the report.

Justin Lee Milbourne, 18, Grantsville, will serve four years in jail for a drug offense. The teenager was charged last June with possession of LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide) with intent to distribute. The charge, along with possession of marijuana and possession of LSD charges, was incurred by Milbourne after investigators with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force conducted a search at his residence and found the substances, according to the report.

When Milbourne pleaded guilty to the LSD possession charge, the other charges were dismissed. Sherbin sentenced him to four years in the DOC. State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch addressed this case in a statement:

"While there was certainly probable cause to charge the possession with intent violation, it was based only on the quantity of LSD found," Welch said. "The officers had located 23 sugar cubes laced with LSD. To some, this quantity alone indicates the intent to distribute, but the evidence was not conclusive. After extensive discussions with the officers involved, I agreed to accept the plea to the possession offense, with the understanding that the court would impose the maximum sentence of four years. In that way, we have accomplished our goals of punishment, deterrence, and public safety."

An Anne Arundel County man was sentenced to 18 months in the local jail. Stephen Lee Hunt, 18, pleaded guilty to the charge of escape, for which he was arrested in December of last year. He apparently left the Backbone Mountain Youth Camp without permission on Dec. 30, 2000, and was subsequently charged by the Maryland State Police.

According to the report, Hunt and two juveniles were seen by camp staff as they climbed out a window and ran into the woods. Troopers and Garrett County sheriff's deputies tracked the three for two hours in fresh snow, located them approximately two miles away, and took them into custody. Hunt had turned 18 while in the facility and was therefore charged as an adult. The two juveniles were handled in the juvenile system.

James Oliver Bolyard, 36, Oakland, pleaded guilty in circuit court to two counts of misdemeanor theft. Judge Sherbin then sentenced him to one year in the local jail for each count. He then suspended the jail sentence in favor of one year of supervised probation. Bolyard has also been ordered to perform 40 hours of community service and pay a fine of $500.

The defendant was arrested by the GBI last April after a local bank official reported three checks of Bolyard's had been cashed but were written on a closed account from another bank. After an investigation revealed that the defendant had apparently known of the theft and participated in providing the checks to the female acquaintance who cashed them, he was also charged. As part of the plea, Bolyard paid the remaining money due to the bank. The state then reduced the theft charges from felonies to misdemeanors.

Herman unveiled the plaque at the recent meeting of the college's board of trustees and presented it to Storck and members of his staff at last week's GCC cabinet meeting. It will be displayed in the Information Advanced Technology Center of the college.

In memory of my husband,

Harold Lipscomb

at Easter Time.

It's my first Easter without you.
Your little Easter basket will be empty of candy.
Instead it will hold flowers that I take to your grave.
I wish things could have been different,
but God had a plan for you in heaven,
where your pain is no more.
Now I stand alone trying to smile and pretend that I am OK,
But only God knows my heart is breaking in a million pieces,
And the tears are flowing like a ocean.
Your love and precious memories are all that keep me going.
Some day we will be together again.
Until then, I love you and Happy Easter.

Your loving wife, Garnet (Boots)

GCMH Prepared For Those With Latex Allergies

Garrett County Memorial Hospital is stocked with latex-free items ready for use if a patient arrives who is allergic to latex.

Latex is a natural elastic product made from the milky sap that comes from rubber trees. It is used in many products in healthcare facilities and at home. Latex is harmless for most people, but for others, it can cause reactions ranging from mild to life threatening, according to a GCMH spokesperson.

Latex allergies develop most commonly in people who have a history of frequent or intimate exposure to latex, the spokesperson said. At high risk are those who have had multiple surgical procedures, particularly in infancy, and workers with occupational exposure, especially to latex gloves. Allergic reactions to latex can range from hives and itching to serious, although relatively rare, instances of deep shock.

Common hospital items that contain latex are gloves, catheters, blood pressure cuffs, rubber tops in vials, tourniquets, injection ports in IV tubing, enema tips, anesthesia masks, and feeding tubes.

When patients are admitted to Garrett County Memorial, they are asked a series of questions concerning allergies they may have. If the patient is allergic to latex or is at high risk of developing the latex allergy, the staff uses latex-free items. Each department has a variety of latex-free items available when needed.

These items range from latex-free tourniquets in the lab to a latex-free delivery kit in the Family Centered Maternity Suite.

STOCKING LATEX-FREE ITEMS for outpatient surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital is Ginger Massey, RN. Massey, along with Angela Stevens, RN, provided training on latex allergies to hospital staff.

OT Awareness Month Focuses On Therapy

April is Occupational Therapy (OT) Awareness Month, according to the Bethesda-based American Occupational Therapy Association (AOTA). A rehabilitation or habilitation process, OT enables a person to engage in the day-to-day activities that are important to the individual despite impairments, activity limitations, or participation restrictions.

"OT offers a variety of treatment approaches to regain function within life, whether it be to teach someone how to complete their dressing skills independently, to increase their grip strength so they can hold on to something, or to complete a job task to the best of one's ability to return to work," an AOTA spokesperson said. The term "occupation" refers to work/productive activities, self-care, and leisure activities.

Occupational therapists and OT assistants work together to increase the individual's independence, increase development, and/or prevent deformity. OT can create adaptive strategies of performance or offer specialized equipment to increase maximal functioning and quality of life of an individual.

OT assists individuals who may have suffered a traumatic injury, illness, chronic disease, a congenital birth defect, or work related injuries that inhibit involvement in daily activities. OT's goal is to help these individuals develop, maintain, or regain skills they need to engage in self-care, work, and leisure activities. Some specific diagnoses that occupational therapists may treat but are not limited to are carpal tunnel syndrome, fractures, arthritis, stroke, Parkinson's disease, cardiac problems, amputations, visual deficits, and cognitive deficits.

Essay Contest To Promote Fitness In Senior Adults

The Maryland Department of Aging is sponsoring an essay contest on the theme of "How Joining the Active People Improved My Quality of Life," beginning May 1 and continuing through July 1.

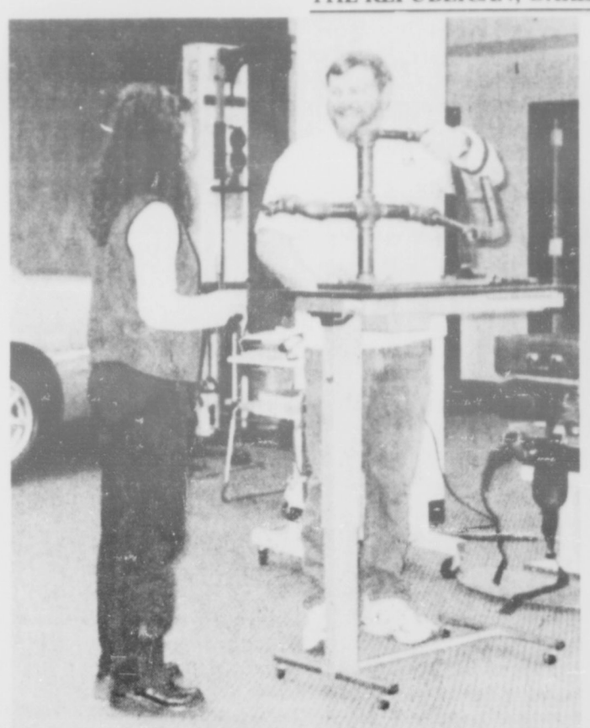
The contest theme is part of a New Year's fitness challenge for Marylanders age 60 and older issued by State Secretary of Aging Sue Fryer Ward. The purpose of the challenge is to motivate seniors to make at least one fitness or exercise activity a part of their regular lifestyle.

Essays should be written on a topic of how beginning or returning to regular physical activity has improved the applicant's quality of life. Content should be related to individual or group/exercise activities between January 1 and July 1, and must be a minimum of 250 words and a maximum of 400 words. There is no official application form.

Essays will be judged by a panel of fitness and aging network professionals. One first place prize and two second place prizes will be awarded. The winning essays will be published on the Department of Aging's web site, and the winner will be honored during the Senior Appreciation Day at the 2001 Maryland State Fair. Prize packages containing sports and fitness gifts will also be awarded.

Submission may be sent by letter or e-mail. All submissions will become the property of the Maryland Department of Aging. Essays must contain the author's name, mailing address, and daytime telephone number, and should be forwarded to: Essay Competition, Office of Public Affairs, Maryland Department of Aging, 301 West Preston Street, Suite 1007, Baltimore MD 21201. Submissions may be e-mailed to ptc@mail.ooa.state.md.us.

"We look forward to reading the essay submissions to learn about how the fitness challenge may have inspired more seniors to get active," Secretary Ward said. "Most of us know that exercise can help prevent or reduce the effects of many diseases, improve muscle tone and balance, and increase overall physical and mental health, and this can be very motivating to many people. For others, however, it is more encouraging to hear positive results and words of encouragement from a peer."



MAKING ROUTINES ROUTINE AGAIN — One doesn't miss carrying out everyday routines until illness or injury interferes with normal functions. That's where occupational therapists can step in and guide a patient toward a fuller life. Holly Warne, OT, of Garrett Rehab Services is shown above working with patient Ed Glotfelty as he manipulates a "pipe tree," which is used to increase the strength and endurance in the shoulder muscles critical to persons in such labor-intensive fields as the construction industry. See story on Occupational Therapy Awareness Month.

ENCOURAGING ACTIVITIES WITHOUT ALCOHOL — The Garrett County Health Department has many activities planned for the month of April encouraging individuals to spend time with family and friends with activities that do not include alcohol. The GCHD is asking for involvement from local churches by including information in church bulletins and addressing the issue in their sermons. Local churches also received information on "Just Pray No" to alcoholism and other drug addictions on April 21 and 22. The Outreach Staff is working with after-school programs to record PSAs that will be aired during the month, and they have developed a brochure with the message of "101 Things to do Instead of Drugs." In the above photo, from the left, are Ernie Gregg, Garrett County commissioner; Sandy Sutton, GCHD community outreach worker; Nancy Brady, GCHD prevention coordinator; Fred Horath, director of addiction services for GCHD; Fred Hoilday, commissioner; and Wendell Beitzel, commissioner.

Mammoth Medals

Holly was undefeated throughout the season in the Mid-Atlantic regional competitions. Her mother Diane and her brother, Dennis Kuhn Jr., also competed at nationals.

Holly and Dennis are each sponsored by Zoo York, Tyler Mountain Water, and Raichle. She is also sponsored by Sims, Alstom I.C.S., and Martin's Auto Parts, and Dennis is also sponsored by High Mountain Sports.

Also competing in the nationals were three young brothers, Dylan, 9, Garrett, 7, and Blake, 4, sons of Jamie and Loretta Kiedrowski, McHenry. This was the boys' first trip to the national competition, and they were sponsored by High Mountain Sports in McHenry.

Dylan, who competed against as many as 29 other young boys in his age category, placed in the top five in four events — boardercross, giant slalom, slalom, and half-pipe, as well as third in two overall categories: alpine and triple.

Garrett, who faced up to 18 competitors in five events, won first place in the slalom and giant slalom event, second place in boardercross and half-pipe, and third in slopestyle. His riding earned him first place in all four overall categories: alpine, freestyle, combined, and triple.

Blake, who is in his second year of snowboarding, was the youngest competitor at Mammoth. He placed fifth in slopestyle and ninth in half-pipe. Blake also placed in the top 10 in three of four overall categories in the 7-and-under division.

Annual Spring Bazaar To Be Held April 19

Community Action Area Agency on Aging is holding the third annual Spring Bazaar and roast beef dinner to raise money for the Home Delivered Meal Program on April 19 at the Grantsville Senior Center.

The bazaar consists of a bake sale, white elephant sale, and crafts made by Garrett County seniors. Chances will be sold for a quilt handmade by the Grantsville quilters, a 50# red wagon filled with meat donated by B&B Market, Frostburg, and a 50-50 raffle.

The bazaar starts at 2 p.m., and the roast beef dinner will be served from 4 to 6 p.m. The dinner includes roast beef, green beans and mushrooms, cole slaw, mashed potatoes and gravy, roll, pie and ice cream, and beverage. The cost is $5.50 for adults and $3 for children. Take-outs are also available.

Tickets for the dinner are available at the Grantsville Senior Center or Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland. Reservations may also be made at 301-334-9431, ext. 137.

Local Resident To Share Peace Corps Experience

Garrett County resident and former Peace Corps volunteer Susan Umstot will speak about her Peace Corps experience in Malawi on Wednesday, April 18, in the fellowship hall of St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. Sponsored by the United Methodist Women, the program will begin with a 6 p.m. covered dish dinner, followed by Umstot's presentation at 7 p.m. All interested persons may attend.

Umstot spent three years volunteering as a health educator in the southeastern African nation. She will show slides and share some of her experiences while working with the Malawi people.

A 1992 graduate of Southern High School, Umstot graduated from the University of Maryland-Baltimore County in 1996, where she earned a bachelor's degree in biology. She entered the Peace Corps in the spring of 1997 and returned to Oakland last December.

Umstot is currently employed as a long-term substitute at Northern Middle School, and she also attends Garrett Community College. This fall she will enter the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, where she will pursue a degree in nursing. Umstot is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and resides in Oakland with her parents, Jay and Judy Umstot.

Easter Cantata To Be Held At Crellin Church

Crellin Assembly of God will hold an Easter Cantata, "Alpha Omega," at 10:45 a.m. on Sunday, April 15.

The performance will be directed by the Rev. Timothy Miller, and an Easter Special by the children's choir Rock Solid Youth Group will be presented at 6 p.m.

They will be singing Easter music, plus a human video, "Arise My Lord" will be shown.

Visitors are welcome. For more information, persons may call 301-334-3867.

"Cool Tools" Fair Set To Include Computer Clinic

A PC clinic will be held on-site during the "Cool Tools" Technology Fair on Saturday, April 21. Non-profit community-based organizations that wish to evaluate and upgrade older 486, Pentium and Macintosh computers are invited to participate.

Parts for upgrades will be available at cost. This will provide an opportunity for organizations to begin the upgrade process of donated computers.

Non-profit organizations are urged to call 301-334-8926 to reserve a time slot. Computers will be evaluated and upgraded by high school students who have learned computer repair and maintenance during the school year.

The "Cool Tools" fair will be held from 10:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College. Technology-related activities and demonstrations will be available for everyone. Admission is free, and "Cool Tools" is offering attendees the opportunity to win an iMac computer.

Garrett Review Bd. For Children Seeking Member

The state Citizens' Review Board for Children (formerly the Foster Care Review Board) has an urgent need for volunteers to serve on the Garrett County Review Board, which provides oversight for children in out-of-home placements.

The board meets on the fourth Wednesday of each month. As a member of the board, volunteers will work with agencies and systems that protect children who have been removed from their families because of abuse and/or neglect. The group reviews the permanency planning for children who are in out-of-home placement for six months or longer.

The board also makes recommendations to the Department of Social Services and the juvenile court to advocate safe and permanent homes for children.

Professional and civic experience in child welfare, law, health, and/or education is a plus, a spokesperson said. Selected volunteers are appointed by the governor to serve four-year terms. The spokesperson noted that the Citizens Review Board strives to have fair representation of citizens from all races and ethnic backgrounds.

For more information, persons may call collect 410-767-7794.

Oakland Man Handed Jail Term For CDS

An 18-year-old Oakland man who was arrested in February at Southern High School on charges of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) pleaded guilty in Garrett County District Court last week and was handed a five-day jail sentence.

William Philip Hebb was initially questioned by school administrators who had located a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe in the pocket of a jacket he was wearing to classes on the day of his arrest. He was arrested that same day by detectives with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

After Hebb pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana, Judge Ralph Burnett imposed a 30-day sentence, all but five days of which were suspended, levied a $200 fine, and ordered him to comply with a one-year probation agreement and complete 60 hours of community service. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

In other district court news, a Garrett County man and a Preston County, W.Va., man were handed identical sentences, including four-day jail terms, after both pleaded guilty to marijuana possession.

Rodney Lee Moreland, 19, Deer Park, and Tony Lynn Hebb, 19, Terra Alta, each received a 30-day sentence, all but four days of which was suspended, a $200 fine, one year of supervised probation, and orders to complete 20 hours of community service apiece.

The pair were arrested in December after a traffic stop by sheriff's deputies along Spring Glade Road. After noting the odor of burnt marijuana emanating from the vehicle, the arresting officer undertook a search that uncovered a bag of marijuana and a pipe in the car. An additional driving while intoxicated (DWI) charge faced by Hebb was not prosecuted.

Micah Andrew Souder, 20, Richmond, Va., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and a noncontrolled substance suspected to be a CDS. The conviction drew a 120-day sentence, all but four days of which were suspended, a $400 fine, one year of supervised probation, and 80 hours of community service. Additional charges of possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

Souder's July arrest came after a traffic stop by sheriff's deputies in the wake of a reported shoplifting incident at the Oakland BP station. Deputies discovered two bags of marijuana, a smoking pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue, a bag of a white powder substance that tested positive for cocaine, and "numerous" bags filled with a white powdery substance, the exact nature of which could not be conclusively determined.

Souder was a passenger in a vehicle being driven by John Matthew Washburn, 20, Richmond, who received a probation before judgment (PBJ) after pleading guilty to driving on a suspended out-of-state license. Washburn also faced a charge of possession of a noncontrolled substance suspected to be a CDS, which was not prosecuted.

Adam Charles Stitzer, 19, Richmond, a second passenger in Washburn's vehicle, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a PBJ, a 30-day suspended sentence, a $300 fine, one year of unsupervised probation, and an order to complete 40 hours of community service. Stitzer faced an additional charge of possession of an uncontrolled substance suspected to be a CDS which was not prosecuted.

Neil Alan Miller, 22, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but three days of which was suspended, fined $100, placed on six months' supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Miller was arrested by sheriff's deputies after a December traffic stop along First Avenue in Friendsville. A metal smoking pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue was located in his pocket.

Carl Nathan Friend, 22, Friendsville, Miller's passenger, pleaded guilty to illegal possession of lorazepam, a prescription medication. That charge was filed when deputies found several pills of the substance in a cigarette packet at the time of his arrest. Friend was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, a $100 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation. Friend faced additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, both reportedly discovered in the vehicle, which were not prosecuted.

Charles William Booker, 43, Allison, Pa., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a six-month suspended sentence, fined $555, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation. He had been arrested by Maryland State Police troopers in July after a traffic stop along Route 219 in McHenry. A search revealed a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe in Booker's pocket. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

John Andrew Sidor II, 25, Uniontown, Pa., pleaded guilty to unlawful taking of a motor vehicle and was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, fined $200, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Sidor's February arrest by a sheriff's deputy came after he was apprehended in McHenry while driving a Uniontown ambulance that he had taken from a Hopwood (Pa.) fire station.

David Mark Lezek, 37, Morgantown, W.Va., was not prosecuted on a charge of making a false statement to a police officer. He had been arrested by state troopers last May after a single-vehicle accident along Friendsville Road. Lezek told investigators that he was the driver, but he was charged after reported eyewitnesses alleged that he had not been behind the wheel at the time of the crash.

William Franklin Friend, 24, McHenry, was not prosecuted on a misdemeanor theft charge. He was arrested in February by sheriff's deputies on a warrant stemming from a July 1999 incident. Friend was charged after he reportedly failed to pay for a pair of sunglasses he had reportedly taken from a McHenry restaurant, then lost.

Two defendants in separate domestic violence-related cases were deemed not guilty when the respective victims refused to testify in court. They were Carl Bert Sliger, 32, Friendsville, and Kevin Edward Creegan, 40, Swanton, each of whom faced second degree assault charges.

Cycle Accidents Are Blamed For Minor Injuries

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in reference to several accidents that occurred during the weekend, resulting in minor injuries.

Deputies responded to GCMH on Saturday around 7 p.m. in reference to a dirt bike accident involving William Beale Rock IV, 16, Friendsville. Rock was apparently thrown from his 1975 Suzuki 175 dirt bike along private property in the Sang Run Road area.

He was treated for an injured shoulder. According to the deputies, no charges were filed.

At the same time, deputies spoke to Shawn David Smith, 18, Kitzmiller, while he was being treated at GCMH for leg injuries after being ejected from his 1980 Suzuki 250.

Smith was operating the vehicle on private property along Bethlehem Road. No charges were filed.

Sheriff deputies responded to GCMH on Sunday for further accident reports. Wylie William Anderson Jr., 40, Kitzmiller, was being treated for injuries he sustained from a 4-wheeler accident that occurred on private property in the Vindex area.

No charges were filed by deputies.

Kenneth Grant Hardesty, 25, Oakland, was also treated at GCMH for injuries he sustained in a 12:01 a.m. accident along George Washington Highway.

According to the report, Hardesty swerved to avoid a deer in the roadway and rolled his 1987 Suzuki Samurai into a field. He was ejected from the vehicle, but only received injuries to his right hand and wrist. No charges were filed.

Deputies are also investigating the burglary of a residence along Turkey Neck Road that occurred sometime during the past three weeks.

Items were reported missing from the residence owned by Michael D. Miller, of Pittsburgh. Persons with further information are urged to contact the sheriff's office.

"SNEEZING AND SNIFFLING"

If you have never experienced the misery of being an allergy sufferer, count your blessings and hope you never do. And this is the time of year with its springtime breezes that many people with allergies dread most.

Fortunately, it's not nearly as bad as it used to be. We now stock many prescription medicines that are giving relief to allergy sufferers. Hopefully, new products will be developed so that in years to come, everyone can enjoy springtime.

Symbols of Salvation

In the days before Easter, many of us shop for new clothes which we wear on Easter Sunday. Have you ever wondered why?

Easter is always in the springtime when flowers bloom anew and robins raise their new chicks. Is this a coincidence?

No, this is no coincidence, for it is the time we celebrate renewal of life...Jesus rising from the grave...His rebirth and Ascension into Heaven. 1 Peter 1:3 assures us, "By His [God's] great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."

Yes, Jesus paid the price for our sins when He was crucified on the cross so that we might start anew. 1 Corinthians 5:17 explains, "Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come."

This Easter Sabbath, let us praise God for the sacrifice of His Son, Jesus, and may we dedicate our lives anew in service to the Lord. Best wishes for a beautiful Easter day.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HAS ANYONE HERE SEEN JESUS?

April 15, 2001

Background Scripture:
Luke 24:1-12, Acts 9:1-31
Devotional Reading:
John 20:1,11-18

If you compare the narratives of the resurrection in all four gospels and add to that the experience of Paul on the Damascus Road in Acts 9, it is impossible to know precisely what happened on that first Easter Sunday and the days following during which various disciples experienced the risen Lord.

Matthew's and Mark's accounts are quite similar, except that in Mark we are told the women "said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid" (Mk. 16:8) and in Matthew the women "ran to tell his disciples" (Mat. 28:8). Luke tells pretty much the same story except that the words of the "two men" are different. "Why do you seek the living among the dead?" (Lk. 24:5). John's telling, however, is quite different. Mary Magdalene is joined at the tomb by Simon Peter and "the other disciple, the one whom Jesus loved..." (Jn. 20:2-4). Then, when the disciples have returned to their homes, Mary encounters the Risen Lord, although she does not immediately recognize him.

'Do Not Hold Me'

Not only do the details of the resurrection story vary, but the appearance or nature of the Risen Lord. According to Luke 24:13-35, two disciples encounter him as a stranger on the road to Emmaus and only recognize him as Jesus when he breaks bread with them and then disappears. When he appears to Mary at the tomb, he tells her: "Do not hold me, for I have not yet ascended to my father" (Lk. 20:11-18). In Matthew 28:9,10) he appears to the women coming back from the tomb and we are told "they took hold of his feet and worshipped him." The Risen Lord comes to the assembled disciples, appearing and then again disappearing from a locked room (Jn. 20:19-23) and then again when Thomas is present. He tells unbelieving Thomas to touch his wounds so that he may know he is flesh and blood. In another appearance at the Sea of Galilee, he eats breakfast with the disciples.

In Acts 1 we are told that "To them he presented himself after his passion by many proofs, appearing to them during forty

TV PIPELINE

Paula Cale started out on Murphy Brown

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Paula Cale

Q: What can you tell me about Paula Cale, who plays Joanie on Providence? –E.D. Stephenson via e-mail.

A: Before signing on to play a single mom on her current NBC hit, Cale, now 30, was best known for her work on Murphy Brown, where she had a recurring role as Murphy's politically conservative nemesis, McGovern. She was offered that part after Murphy star Candice Bergen saw Cale – then working under her birth name, Paula Korogolos – onstage in a Steppenwolf Theatre production.

A native of Great Falls, Va., Cale grew up in a conservative Republican family (her dad, now a lobbyist, was a congressional liaison during the Nixon and Ford presidencies) and worked as a White House intern during the Reagan administration.

The actress, who has been married to financial planner and musician Bennett Cale since 1995, also had recurring or regular roles in the sitcoms The Naked Truth, Buddies and Local Heroes. She received critical acclaim for her performance as endearing comic Gilda Radner in the Broadway play Bunny, Bunny.

Despite the success she has enjoyed as an actress, Cale insists that someday she hopes to work as an elementary-school teacher, her original career goal.

Q: Where might I have seen Paula Devicq of A&E's 100 Centre Street? –Maggie C., Eastham, Mass.

A: The actress is best known for playing Kirsten, Charlie Salinger's (Matthew Fox) wife, on Party of Five.

Q: A few weeks ago, I saw a rerun of The Big Valley called "The Challenge." I think I spotted Regis Philbin in it. Possible? –Rosemary Consani, Corte Madera, Calif.

A: Yes, Philbin had a small role in that 1968 episode.

Q: On Last of the Summer Wine, did Bill Owen, who played Compo, actually die or was he simply written out of the series? Where was it filmed? –Edward A. Novak Jr., Sterling, Va.

A: Owen died of pancreatic cancer on July 12, 1999. He was 85.

The series has been filmed primarily in the Yorkshire region of England. Fans can find more details online at www.phill.co.uk/comedy/losw (click on More for filming information).

Q: Please help me identify the film in which Eleanor Parker, John Garfield and Paul Henreid were among a group of people on a ship who gradually realize they are dead and being transported to heaven or hell. –Beth Farris, Dearborn, Mich.

A: That was Between Two Worlds, a good 1944 remake of the 1930 film Outward Bound, which was based in turn upon a hit play by Sutton Vane.

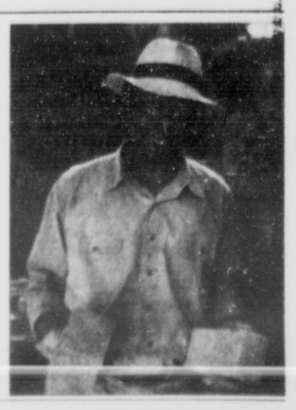
IN FOCUS

Oscar-winning actor Gregory Peck talks about his life and work in Conversations With Gregory Peck: An American Masters Special, airing Wednesday, April 18, on PBS (check local listings).

The 90-minute program intersperses on- and off-screen footage of the actor with snippets from his question-and-answer sessions with audiences at his one-man stage shows. Among other things, he recalls meeting his wife, losing his son and dealing with the stage fright he still experiences.

IN FOCUS



Sidney Poitier stars as Henry Cobb, last of a dying breed of craftsmen, in The Last Brickmaker in America, premiering Sunday, April 15, on CBS.

After 57 years of lovingly fashioning handmade bricks, Henry is burning out, thanks to a world that no longer appreciates such fine handwork.

A troubled teen-ager (Cody Newton) finds his way to the brickyard and becomes Henry's protege, giving him a new sense of purpose and rekindling his passion for his craft.

Piper Laurie also stars.

Southern High School Students Of The Month Selected

Jeremiah Ervin, also a junior, is the son of Peter and Bobbi Briggs. In school, Jeremiah has participated in and was statesman for VICA in carpentry. Outside of school, he races motorcycles and is a member of the American Motorcycle Association. In the future, Jeremiah plans to pursue a career in small engine repair.

Colleen Watson, a freshman, is the daughter of Robert and Rita Watson. She is a consistent honor roll student. She attends St. Paul's United Methodist Church and helps with children's church. She has also received an award for completing a college course on baby-sitting. In the future, Colleen plans to attend a four-year college to pursue a double major in child care and English literature.

Sarah Pysell, a junior, is the daughter of Darvin and Helen Pysell. She has received a Who's Who Among American High School Students Award and was named Student of the Month for history and vocational as well. She has been involved with VICA for two years and FFA for three years, for which she is currently secretary. For 11 years, she has been involved in the Country Kids 4-H Club and is now secretary. Sarah has also received the Dayton R. Broadwater Beef Citizenship Award and is active in the Garrett County Livestock Association. In the future, she plans to attend a college or university to major in pre-veterinary science.

Laura Hollingsworth, a junior, is the daughter of Scott Hollingsworth and Jeanne Gilbert. She is currently the secretary for Student Council and the treasurer for the Garrett County Association of Student Councils. She is also a student representative on the School Improvement Team and the Advisory Committee on Education, and is in Model United Nations as well. In the community, Laura is involved in Arsenal Football, the Garrett Community Concert Band, and the Garrett County Manta Ray swim team. In the future, she plans to attend a four-year college to major in forensic science.

Kassie O'Brien, a senior, is the daughter of Donald and Diana O'Brien. She has received the Who's Who Among American High School Students Award three times and has been involved in the Peer Counseling Program and the World War II History Project. She is also a volunteer at a day care center and attends Swanton Methodist Church. In the near future, Kassie plans to attend Frostburg State University and major in accounting.

Chelsea Wall, a junior, is the daughter of David and Cindy Wall. Chelsea received first place in the Regional Maryland World History Day 2000 Contest and has also received a Who's Who Among American High School Students Award. In the community, she attends the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses and also volunteers at the Hickory Environmental Center in the summer. In the future, Chelsea plans to attend Frostburg State University, where she will major in business management.

PICTORIAL ALBUM DEPICTS 4TH GRADERS' WORK — Two students recently had their drawings selected for inclusion in A Pictorial Album of Garrett County, Maryland that will be available at the Garrett County Museum in Oakland. Tasha Ellifritz, of Romona Stevenson's class at Broad Ford Elementary, had her picture of the Oakland courthouse selected and Daniel Kerr, a student in Diana Thomas' class, had his picture of the Oakland Railroad Station included.

Jennings Randolph Lake Summer Schedule Noted

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has announced the opening schedule of Jennings Randolph Lake for the 2001 recreation season.

The West Virginia Overlook, home of the "Waffle Rock," a rare geological formation, is now open and accessible from West Virginia state Route 46, five miles north of Elk Garden. The Maryland Overlook is also now currently open for day-use activities. The overlook, which has one of the most scenic views in western Maryland, features a half-mile long songbird trail complete with waterfall and pond. The overlook is accessible from Maryland state Route 135 by either Walnut Bottom Road or Chestnut Grove Road.

The Robert W. Craig Campground will open to the public on Saturday, April 28, for the 2001 season. The campground features an amphitheater, playground, basketball court, horseshoe pits, a one-mile-long tree identification trail, and the two-mile Sunset Trail offering a panoramic view of the back of the dam. Evening programs will be presented every Saturday in the amphitheater starting Memorial Day weekend. Hot showers and flush toilets are available in the campground's front camping loop.

The campground has 84 campsites, of which 72 have electrical services. The daily fee for electrical campsites is $18, and $12 for non-electric sites. Campers may call the National Recreation Reservation Service at 1-877-444-6777 or go online at wws.reserveusa.com to reserve a campsite. There are 59 campsites available under the reservation system and 25 campsites still available on a first-come, first-served basis.

The area also features a 30x40-foot pavilion available for reservation, with grills and horseshoe pits nearby. The shelter may be reserved for $35/day by contacting the park office. The campground is located within one mile of the North Branch of Potomac River, considered one of the finest trout fisheries on the East Coast.

The Howell Run picnic area is now open. The area offers a sand volleyball court, horseshoe pits, play ground, two covered pavilions, 26 picnic tables, and 13 barbecue grills. The shelters may be reserved for $35/day by contacting the park office.

Four Jennings Randolph Lake whitewater release weekends are scheduled for this spring. The whitewater releases provide class I, II, and III rapids in close succession and are made up of waves and rollers up to 3 feet high. The trip length is 7 miles and parking and restrooms are available at the launching site in Barnum, W.Va. Whitewater release dates are April 14 and 15, April 28 and 29, May 12 and 13, and May 26 and 27. For whitewater information and cabin rental, persons may contact Rex Riffle, Mineral County Parks & Recreation Commission, at 304-788-5732.

For further general information, persons may call Jennings Randolph Lake at 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861 Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Benefit Dinner Set In Crellin

A benefit dinner is set for Saturday, April 21, from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Crellin Community building. Proceeds from the fund-raiser will go toward the continued upkeep and added improvements to the Crellin Community Building and expanding the services offered to residents of the Crellin area. The dinner's menu consists of lasagna, salad, garlic bread, cake, and a beverage. The cost is $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12, and take-outs will be available. Persons may call 301-334-8302 or 301-334-1456 for further information.

In other upcoming Crellin events, the monthly meeting of the Crellin Community building organization is set for 7 p.m. Monday, April 30, at the same location. The meeting will focus on generating fund-raising and recruitment ideas. Persons may call 301-334-1456 for more information.

RMSC Seeking Area Math, Science Students

The Regional Math/Science Center (RMSC) is currently seeking 9th and 10th grade high school students who are interested in math and science and live in West Virginia; the Appalachian region of Pennsylvania; Maryland's Garrett, Allegany, or Washington counties; Baltimore City; or one of Maryland's Eastern Shore counties.

The RMSC at Frostburg State University is funded by the U.S. Department of Education to prepare and motivate qualified high school students to pursue math and science careers at the college level.

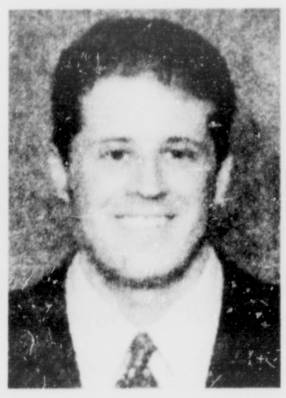
Students must be a potential first-generation college graduate or meet income requirements established by the Department of Education. The program is free to all participants.

For six weeks in the summer, eligible high school students will attend a residential program at FSU. They will work to improve their math and science skills while conducting an environmental science research project. They will also participate in recreational activities and culturally stimulating field trips that are designed to promote enthusiasm and individual growth.

During the school year, the RMSC staff will keep in touch with the students to provide academic support and motivation. Students who maintain a high grade point average can be rewarded with stipend money throughout the year, and are expected and encouraged to continue in the program until they graduate from high school.

For more information, persons may call the RMSC at 301-687-4295 or toll-free at 1-800-646-6004.

Glendale Church Slates Missionary Speaker Program



The Glendale Assembly of God Church will host guest speaker Rev. Tim Zello, an Assemblies of God missionary with the Teen Challenge International World Headquarters, in a program set for 7 p.m. Thursday, April 19. The church is located along Glendale Road between Routes 219 and 495.

Zello was raised in a home missionary family, and his father pioneered and directed Teen Challenge of Washington, D.C., for 27 years. After graduating from North Central Bible College, Minneapolis, Minn., Zello became the first American to enter and minister in nine prisons in Siberia, Russia. After serving in that ministry for several months, he returned to America and earned a master's degree from the Assemblies of God Theological Seminary. He has authored two books, Freedom in Siberia and 50 Characteristics of a Wise Person.

Zello's wife Michelle is a graduate of the Zion Bible Institute, R.I., and has also served as a missionary, living and ministering with her husband in Mongolia and Russia. The Zellos helped establish three churches and taught at a Bible institute in Mongolia, and they helped start the first Teen Challenge program in Russia. They presently serve with the Teen Challenge International World Headquarters, where they work to establish such programs throughout the world.

For further information on the program, interested persons may contact Rev. Paul Goldizen, pastor the Glendale Assembly of God Church, at 301-387-4215.

Full-Day Aging Seminar Slated In Grantsville

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging has set its fourth annual seminar for professionals and paraprofessionals who work with senior citizens for Thursday, June 7, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Grantsville Senior Center, located at 125 Durst Court. "Aging: The Long and Winding Road" is designed not only for persons who are employed working with seniors, but also for all interested persons, including clergy, caregivers, and seniors themselves.

The seminar will enable persons working with this population to understand various aspects of aging as well as provide information to better serve their clients, according to an AAA spokesperson. A wide range of topics will be covered, including the huge increase in the senior population expected by the year 2030, ways of assisting older seniors to cope with the need to move to a more protective environment, and the multitude of senior citizen services available through federal and state programs.

"We have been fortunate to enlist a wonderful group of speakers who will cover a wide range of topics," the agency spokesperson said. "Their varied experiences working with the senior population will assure a comprehensive, educational opportunity. We are especially pleased to have Sue F. Ward, the secretary of the Maryland Department of Aging, join us as the keynote speaker." Ward will deliver the luncheon keynote address, "Help: The Older Americans Act," and Steve Gurney, publisher of Guide to Retirement Living, will moderate the day's events.

Specific seminar presentations will include: "Revolution: The Growth in the Aging Population," by Helen E. Eltzeroth, research analyst for the National Center for Seniors' Housing Research; "When I'm 64: Life Changes," presented by Eleanor Klau, Ph.D., LCSW-C, Coppin State College, Baltimore; "Money: Financial Planning," presented by Lynette Melcher, financial advisor, American Express; "With A Little Help From My Friends: Home- and Community-Based Services Waiver and Other Aging Services," presented by Ilene W. Rosenthal, chief, Housing Services, Maryland Department of Aging; and "She's Leaving Home: Housing Transitions," presented by the owners of Busy Buddies.

All seminar participants will receive a certificate of attendance. Social work and nursing CEUs may be acquired as well. There is a registration fee for the seminar, and for further information or to register, interested persons may contact the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403. The deadline to register for the seminar is May 25.

This seminar is being sponsored in partnership with the Geriatrics and Gerontology Education and Research Program of the University of Maryland, Baltimore, and the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center, located in Cumberland. Cooperating agencies are the Garrett County Health Department, Garrett County Department of Social Services, and Garrett Community College.

POEM PICKED FOR PAPER FLOWERS — Derick DeWitt, a 5th grader in Jack Burdock's class at Broad Ford Elementary, recently had his poem selected to appear in Paper Flowers, a publication that is a project of the Garrett County Arts Council. The publication, prepared by editor Debra Wolf, includes literature and artwork and is available to all classrooms.

Astronomy Group Sets Four-Day Event In Preston

The Amateur Astronomy Association of Pittsburgh has slated its third annual Laurel Highlands Star Cruise for Thursday through Sunday, June 14-17, at the Pine Hill Campground near Hazelton, W.Va. The family-oriented event is open to daily visitors as well as overnight campers, and persons of all interest and expertise levels in the field may participate.

"This is a new, darker site for us," said Terry N. Trees, Ph.D., past president of the Astronomy Association. "This is a relatively high-altitude, tremendous dark-sky site, so, weather permitting, some excellent observations of difficult deep-sky objects should be obtainable." A number of telescopes will be set up for viewing the nighttime sky, including a variety of Dobsonian scopes from 14 to 36 inches. Many are so large that viewers will to climb ladders to view them.

A variety of programs are slated for Star Cruise, including presentations by noted professional and amateur astronomers, amateur rocket makers, and representatives of the Dark Sky Association. Among the children's activities will be the building and launching of model rockets and the building of a scale model of the solar system. Adult-oriented activities include an explanatory presentation describing a full-sized model rocket, which will be launched, and an astronomy trivia competition with prizes.

Several internationally known vendors will have display tables available at the site. Over $2,000 worth of door prizes will be distributed during the event, including a Meade ETX telescope, two Televue eyepieces, and a $200 astronomy equipment gift certificate.

The registration deadline for the Laurel Highlands Star Cruise is Tuesday, May 15. To register, persons may contact John Holtz at 724-352-7596 or via e-mail at jwholtz@aol.com. Complete information on the Star Cruise is available on the event's web site at www.members.home.net/lhstarcruise.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On April 19, 1775, British troops and colonial Patriots engaged in the first battle of the American Revolution in Lexington, Mass. The battles of Lexington and Concord were the beginning of a conflict that would escalate from a colonial uprising into a world war that, seven years later, would give birth to the independent United States of America.

• On April 20, 1871, with passage of the Third Force Act, popularly known as the Ku Klux Klan Act, Congress authorized President Ulysses S. Grant to use military force against the Ku Klux Klan, and the organization was thoroughly suppressed until the 20th century.

• On April 18, 1906, an 8.3 magnitude earthquake struck San Francisco, flattening the city's unreinforced brick buildings and closely spaced wooden Victorian dwellings. It was estimated that more than 3,000 people died as a result of the Great San Francisco Earthquake and the devastating fires it inflicted upon the city.

• On April 16, 1947, in Texas City's port on Galveston Bay, a fire aboard the French freighter Grandcamp ignited ammonium nitrate and other explosive materials in the ship's hold, causing a massive blast that destroyed much of the city. The Grandcamp explosion was the most devastating industrial accident in U.S. history.

• On April 17, 1970, with the world anxiously watching, Apollo 13, a U.S. lunar spacecraft that suffered a severe malfunction on its journey to the moon, safely returned to Earth.

• On April 22, 1980, in protest of the Soviet Union's 1979 invasion of Afghanistan, the U.S. Olympic Committee voted 1,604 to 797 to boycott the Summer Olympic Games to be held in Moscow later in the year.

• On April 21, 1989, six days after the death of Hu Yaobang, the deposed reform-minded leader of the Chinese Communist Party, some 100,000 students gathered at Beijing's Tiananmen Square to commemorate Hu and voice their discontent with China's authoritative Communist government.

• More less-than-tactful comments from airline employees: "Welcome aboard our Flight XXX to YYY. To operate your seatbelt, insert the metal tab into the buckle, and pull tight. It works just like every other seatbelt, and if you don't know how to operate one, you probably shouldn't be out in public unsupervised. In the event of a sudden loss of cabin pressure, oxygen masks will descend from the ceiling. Stop screaming, grab the mask, and pull it over your face."

• The oldest living thing in the world is estimated to be at least 4,700 years old. It's a bristlecone pine living in the Methuselah Grove in California's White Mountains.

• A Frenchman named Jean Theurel had a very unusual distinction for a soldier: He served in three different centuries. In 1699, when he was 15, Theurel joined the Touraine Regiment to fight in a war against Holland. He served in the military throughout the 18th century, being promoted to captain in 1777 despite the fact that he was 92. Theurel remained on the active-duty roster until 1802, when Napoleon challenged his status and he finally retired.

• The oldest known musical instrument (non-percussion, that is) is a "flipple flute." It has six holes and is made out of bone, and it's approximately 25,000 years old. A Canadian researcher made a plastic cast copy of the flute, and he was able to play a recognizable version of "Danny Boy" on it. From 25,000 years in the past, and still "Danny Boy" is inescapable.

• Per capita, Ireland consumes more milk than any other country. On average, each person drinks more than 164 quarts of milk a year. Finland ranks second, followed by Iceland, Norway and Ukraine.

Q. I bought an oblong, ceramic dish with a cover about 30 years ago. The cover has a round central handle. Inside the 8-1/2-inch-long dish are two raised ridges. The mark on the bottom is a small round globe with the word "Minton" in the center. What was this dish used for, and how old is it?

A. Your dish is a Victorian toothbrush holder. It was a standard part of ceramic toilet sets of the 19th century. The ridges held a toothbrush or two above the bottom of the dish. Some collectors mistakenly call the pieces soap dishes, which are smaller. The Minton mark on the bottom dates your dish to about 1863-1872. It was made by the famous Minton pottery, which has worked in Staffordshire, England, since 1793. Minton became part of the Royal Doulton Tableware Group in 1968.

Q. My old, wooden baseball bat has an unusual, extra-long knob. Can you tell me when this type of bat was made and what it's worth?

A. Your bat is called a "mushroom bat." The bats were used by professional and amateur ballplayers from about 1900 to 1920. A.J. Reach, a sporting-goods company in Philadelphia, said in its sales catalogs that mushroom bats gave a hitter "a more even distribution of weight" than earlier models. Different manufacturers made slightly different knobs. Mushroom bats are common. If yours is in good condition, it could sell for more than $100.

Tip: Electric toasters, coffeepots and even some furniture items are made with chrome, a plated metal. The plating is soft and very thin, so abrasives should not be used in cleaning. Clean chrome with a mild soap or detergent and a soft cloth, then use an all-metal cleaner to improve the shine.

Bulking Up Kitty

Q. My male cat lost a lot of weight after he was neutered several weeks ago and hasn't gained it back. He seems to be eating OK. Should I feed him more to help him put on pounds?

A. The first thing I would recommend is a return visit to your veterinarian. Cats sometimes lose weight after a stressful event, like being spayed or neutered, or even being separated from their owners for a few days. Healthy cats, however, usually regain their weight within a few weeks. Your cat needs to be checked for health problems such as parasites or diseases.

If the vet says your cat is fine, ask him or her to outline a diet that will allow kitty to reach a healthy weight. Your vet may recommend supplements, as well. Then, observe your cat's eating habits. Is he a picky eater? Do you have other cats that might be snitching food from his dish? Does he only eat when you are in the room? These can all be factors in his failure to regain weight.

Follow the vet's recommended feeding plan, and give your cat extra attention. Spending more time with him — playing games, feeding him treats or just petting him — with help ease the anxiety caused by his recent "fix."

Again, weight loss at any rate demands extra attention; it's an indication of illness. Lethargy and weakness are even more serious signs. So, readers take note: If your cat vomits repeatedly, won't eat and is lethargic, take it to an emergency clinic or your vet immediately!

Glendale Church Sets Services By Missions Couple

Missionary evangelists David and Kathryne Snodgrass will lead a series of revival services from Sunday, April 22, through Saturday, April 28, at the Glendale Assembly of God Church. Service times are set for 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Sunday, and 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The Snodgrasses are former pastors of the Crellin Assembly of God Church, Crellin, where they also resided for 6½ years. Since resigning that pastorate in October, they have been actively involved in evangelistic and missions ministry, holding crusades in Maryland, West Virginia, and Texas.

The couple recently returned from a month-long ministry experience on the islands of Jamaica and Guadeloupe. In Jamaica they were part of a street ministry team from Southeastern University of the Assemblies of God, and also ministered at one of the local churches pastored by Assemblies of God missionaries Tom and Brenda Lantz. While in Guadeloupe the Snodgrasses conducted a marriage and family seminar as well as a revival crusade over a 10-day period for pastor Aubrey Talemaque and his West Indies Pentecostal Assembly Church. Their Guadeloupe stay concluded with a three-day youth retreat and celebration.

The Glendale Assembly of God Church is pastored by Rev. Paul Goldizen, and the church is located along Glendale Road between Routes 219 and 495. For further information persons may call 304-257-4299.

Frostburg State Leads Maryland In Teacher Exam

The percentage of Frostburg State University students who passed the National Teacher Examination basic skills and professional knowledge tests was higher than the average across Maryland for the 1999-2000 academic year.

In the basic skills portion of the test, 99 percent passed, or 164 of the 165 taking the test and who completed their teacher education program. The statewide pass rate is 96 percent.

In the professional knowledge portion of the test, which measures the methods and theories of teaching, 99 percent passed, or 158 of the 160 taking the test. The statewide pass rate was 97 percent.

The NTE has been phased out, however, and has been replaced with the Praxis I and Praxis II tests. At FSU, students must pass Praxis I, the basic skills test, to be accepted into the teacher education program. Eventually, for all education majors to graduate, they must pass Praxis II. That requirement is being phased in over several years.

"I'm very satisfied with the quality of our candidates and their test scores," said Dr. Susan Arisman, FSU's dean of the College of Education, "and we'll be continuously improving in the future."

In the content areas, 95 percent of the 21 students who took the physical education test passed, compared to a 92 percent passing rate statewide. In social studies, 91 percent passed, compared to the state average of 98 percent. However, only 11 FSU students took the test, so the one student who didn't pass accounted for 9 percent of the total. Other areas had too few FSU students taking the test for a passing percentage to be reported.

In the elementary and early childhood education content areas, 94 percent (94 of the 100 taking the test) passed elementary education and 84 percent (73 of 87) passed early childhood education, compared to 97 percent and 95 percent, respectively. Students taking the early childhood education test in the 1999-2000 academic year were required to take only one course on early childhood content. Four courses in the early childhood specialization are now required.

Overall, of the 166 students who took one or more tests across all categories, 153 passed, or 92 percent. The state average is the same.

FSU's teacher preparation program enrolled 666 candidates in 1999-2000. The program, with a faculty/student ratio of 18:1, requires its interns to be in a school for 490 hours, seven hours per day, for a total of 14 weeks. FSU's program is accredited by the state of Maryland.

RAM Notes

After-Prom tickets are now available in the school store. Cost is $10. Juniors and seniors may invite and sign up one guest each. Sophomores and freshmen may attend if invited by a junior or senior. All out-of-school guests must be signed up in advance. No middle school students may attend.

Applications for the following scholarships are now available in the guidance office:

•Epilepsy Foundation — The Ira Rosenzwog Scholarship is available to a high school senior with epilepsy who wishes to attend a 2- or 4-year college or university or technical school. Applicants must have a letter from a physician documenting the student has epilepsy, write an essay, be a resident of Maryland, and document financial need. Deadline is April 20, 2001.

•Garrett County Sheriff's Office Scholarship — Two $500 scholarships on behalf of the Maryland Sheriffs Association. Applicants must be residents of Garrett County, pursuing a major in criminal justice or related area, be enrolled in college as a full-time student, and have a cumulative GPA of at least 2.5. Deadline is April 23, 2001.

•Donald Lipscomb Memorial Scholarship — $500 scholarship to one 2001 senior from Southern Garrett High School who plans to major full time in education and who has at least an 85% grade point average. Deadline is May 1, 2001.

•Ken Ridder Scholarship — Offered to a graduating senior who plans to enroll in a technical school during the school year 2001-2002. Applicants must have a cumulative GPA of 2.5 or higher. Deadline is May 4, 2001.

•Maryland Chiefs of Police Scholarship Fund — Offered by the Maryland Chiefs of Police Association to a Maryland resident who wishes to attend college full time to pursue a degree in a law enforcement. This is a $500 award. Selection is based on scholastic achievement and community/school involvement. Deadline is Tuesday, May 8, 2001.

•Meghan Elizabeth Price Memorial Scholarship — A $500 scholarship will be awarded to one senior who meets the following criteria — good academic standing, planning to enroll in a 2- or 4-year college or university — who also shares similar characteristics to Meghan Price, including: a friend, classmate, peer, student, mentor, advocate, and leader. Meghan's activities included: Student Government, National Honor Society, band and music, drama, athletics, community service, and church membership. Application involves a 250-word essay concerning your vision on how to make this a better country in which you will live and what your role will be in achieving this dream based on your skills and goals. Deadline is Tuesday, May 1, 2001

•Dr. Kenneth Mann Scholarship — A $500 scholarship will be awarded by the Maryland Association of Elementary School Principals to a Maryland high school senior who plans to pursue a career in elementary teacher education. Criteria for selection includes the following: demonstrate financial need; submit letter of interest, a written statement about student's beliefs and commitment toward educating all students; recommendation from a faculty member and a person outside of school who would verify applicant's commitment to teacher education; scholastic achievement; agree to complete education in a Maryland college or university. Deadline is Monday, May 7, 2001.

•Masonic Grant Application — A $500 scholarship will be awarded to one graduating senior of Southern Garrett High School. Applicants are evaluated on the following criteria: applicant's résumé, scholastic achievement, need for financial assistance, participation in extra-curricular activities, and high school recommendations. Deadline is Friday, May 4, 2001.

Almost all scholarship applications require high school transcripts; these may be obtained through the guidance office at a cost of $1 each. Please allow people in the guidance office time to process your request.

VERIZON SUPPORTS SCIENCE EXPO — Verizon, formerly known as Bell Atlantic, has been a corporate sponsor of the Western Maryland Science Expo for many years. Stacey K. Chaney, area manager/external affairs for Verizon, presents a check to Frank Peto, executive director of Regional Education Service Agency (RESA) in support of the science expo. Also shown are RESA staff Barbara Bluebaugh, on the far left, and Jo Ann Lease, on the far right. RESA holds the annual science expo at Frostburg State University. Part of the funds help defray the expenses for the winning student and teacher to attend the Intel International Science & Engineering Expo, which will be held in San Jose, Calif., in May.

Garrett CC Sets One-Day Writers' Conference Event

"Write Away," an instructional conference for writers authors, has been set for Saturday, May 5, from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m. at Garrett Community College. Each of the conference's four seminars will be presented by a professional writer. It will be possible for participants to attend two seminars, according to conference coordinator Joan Crawford.

The morning's first seminars, which will be offered simultaneously from 9 to 10:15 a.m., are "Writing and Illustrating Children's Books" by author Esther Bender and illustrator Edna Bender, and "Writing Fiction" by Dr. Greg Jenkins, assistant professor of English at GCC.

The Benders, who have collaborated on three children's books, will explain how they turn an idea into a story and depict characters and scenes in colorful illustrations. Jenkins, author of numerous fiction stories, will critique short stories received in advance and explain how he converts ideas into stories. Stories to be critiqued should be sent to him at GCC, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541, one week in advance of the conference.

The second two seminars, scheduled from 10:30 to 11:45 a.m., are "Writing Poetry" by Debra Wolf and "Writing Publicity" by Peggy Santamaria.

Wolf has taught poetry classes and workshops at colleges and schools in Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, and has had many of her own poems published. She will show seminar participants how to capture a poetic moment in words and how to create an image in a poem. Santamaria has written news and feature articles for a variety of civic and non-profit organizations. She was on the staff of The Republican and is now director of public relations for the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Her "Writing Publicity" seminar is for persons who want to learn the correct way to write a news or feature story about a meeting, an interesting person, a community event, or other timely topics.

Registration fee for "Write Away" is $5, and for further information or to register, interested persons may call Crawford at 301-387-3046. All GCC students and high school students will be admitted free of charge. GCC students will also get a co-curricular credit for attending the conference.

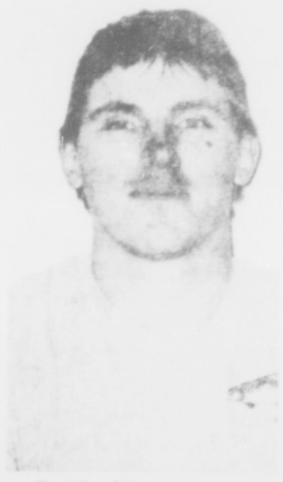
Observes 10th Year At Salem



Randy Meyers recently celebrated 10 years of service at the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, located along Lower New Germany Road near Grantsville.

Hired in 1991 as a full-time night awake staff member at the children's home, Meyers was responsible for monitoring the status of the children, along with completing routine paperwork. He was promoted to night awake supervisor of the part-time staff in March 1992 and finally accepted his current position in September 1997.

As carpenter/groundskeeper, Meyers is responsible for maintaining smooth and efficient operations of the Salem facility. This includes caring for the equipment, transportation vehicles, electrical and plumbing systems, and appliances. He also assists in the remodeling of the children's houses and assures that all emergency equipment such as fire extinguishers, smoke detectors, alarms, and electric generator are in working order.

Meyers also maintains the private road going in to Salem.

"Among his many duties at Salem that the staff appreciates is his knowledge of computers and program software. Randy has been instrumental in fixing problems and offering important technical support," said a Salem spokesperson.

Meyers lives in Grantsville with his wife Marjorie and their two children, Derrick and Randy Lee.

Easter Holiday Services To Be Held In Oakland

Members of the Mt. Top Ministerial Association will participate in Oakland area services on Good Friday and Easter morning.

The traditional noon to 3 p.m. Good Friday service will be held at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland. It will feature the "Seven Last Words from the Cross."

Ministers participating in the service will be the Rev. David Johnson, Mountaintop Christian Assembly of God; the Rev. Mark Hickman, Bethel United Methodist Church; Rev. Fr. Don Parson, St. Peter's Catholic Church; the Rev. Art Evans, Oakland Church of the Nazarene; the Rev. Mel Menker, Oak Park Church of the Brethren; the Rev. John Grant, retired Episcopal clergyman; and the Rev. Mike Robinson, St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

The Easter sunrise service will be held at Garrett Memorial Gardens, beginning at 7 a.m.

Guest preacher for the service will be the Rev. Mark Hickman, pastor of Bethel United Methodist Church and president of the Mt. Top Ministerial Association.

State Plans Strategy To Combat Foot-And-Mouth Disease

Maryland agriculture and emergency management officials are preparing an action plan in the event of an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in the state or anywhere in the United States. The continued spread of the disease among livestock in Great Britain and other parts of Europe is causing a heightened state of alert by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and agriculture departments in every state.

"Preventing this disease from entering the United States is our highest priority," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister. "Being prepared to respond immediately and effectively to contain foot-and-mouth disease if it does appear is equally important."

Foot and mouth disease (FMD) is a severe, highly communicable viral disease of cattle, swine, and other cloven-hoofed animals. It is characterized by fever and blister-like lesions and erosions on the tongue and lips, in the mouth, on the teats, and between the hooves of affected animals. Many animals recover from FMD infection, but the disease leaves them debilitated. It also causes severe losses in the production of meat and milk. FMD does not affect humans.

The first line of defense against importing the disease is the heightened inspection efforts by USDA at the nation's international airports and seaports. International travelers are being questioned more extensively about their travels. Baggage inspections for meat and agricultural products are being expanded, and the use of dogs specially trained to sniff out suspect contents of luggage and other baggage is increasing.

"Because the virus can survive in a variety of substances, including human lungs, for several days, travelers must be considered primary potential carriers," said Dr. Roger Olson, Maryland's state veterinarian. "Passenger cooperation has been quite good, and the USDA inspectors are being extra careful not to miss anything."

Maryland officials encourage farmers to be cautious, especially when unknown persons ask to visit a farm.

"Farmers are normally quite hospitable and enjoy showing their farm to visitors," said Secretary Mister. "But now we want them to be more restrictive. The first rule should be 'Know who is coming on your farm.' If you don't know, ask questions about recent travels, avoid bringing visitors near any livestock, and have disposable footgear or boots available for their use that can be disinfected."

Secretary Mister has ordered all department officials who go to a farm for any reason to use disposable footwear or to disinfect their boots before entering and leaving the premises. He has requested the secretaries of other state agencies whose employees may go onto agricultural land to follow similar procedures.

"This is just good common sense and it sets an excellent example," Mister said. "It is a policy we intend to follow even after the current concerns over foot-and-mouth disease diminish."

Should foot and mouth disease break out despite these measures, state and federal officials will act quickly to contain the virus. State law gives the secretary of agriculture broad powers to prevent the spread of contagious or infectious diseases. These include animal quarantines and the disinfection or destruction of buildings and objects capable of housing the disease.

Livestock owners and veterinarians are on the front line of disease identification. Secretary Mister said that prompt reporting of any unusual symptoms in cattle, hogs, sheep or other animals susceptible to foot-and-mouth disease is critical.

"If we get a report of an animal that is showing mouth lesions, drooling, and lameness we can move quickly to quarantine the herd, collect samples and get them tested," Mister said. "Farmers who hesitate to report symptoms because of fears of losing their investment in the livestock need to know that they will be reimbursed for the fair market value of any animals killed due to the disease. Even more importantly, failure to report symptoms not only puts their livestock at risk, but their neighbors' animals as well."

Links to current information about foot-and-mouth disease and mad cow disease is prominently available on the Maryland Department of Agriculture web site at www.mda.state.md.us.

Farming In Maryland.....

Wet Weather Continues To Delay Field Work

Despite rains early in the week, Maryland managed to have 4 days suitable for field work for the week ending April 9, reported state statistician Ray Garibay.

Farmers continue to run behind schedule on spring tillage and planting due to the wet weather and saturated ground. Drier conditions that ended the week are helping farmers return to the fields.

Although off to a slow start, planting has progressed from last week. Sweet corn, potato, and tomato seedings are at 7%, 2%, and 9%, respectively. Small amounts of cucumbers, watermelons, and snap beans have been planted.

Fruit blooms are progressing slowly. Six percent of the peach crop has bloomed, 34% lower than the five-year average. Apples are 3% bloomed, 15% below the five-year average. Strawberries are only running 3% behind schedule with 12% of the crop bloomed.

The wet conditions have delayed topdressing and weed control applications in small grains. Regardless of these setbacks, good conditions are being maintained for the most part. Winter wheat condition is rated 1% very poor, 9% poor, 15% fair, 66% good, and 9% excellent. Barley condition is 1% very poor, 9% poor, 14% fair, 68% good, and 8% excellent. Rye is rated at 2% very poor, 12% poor, 12% fair, 73% good, and 1% excellent.

Pasture conditions are reported in mostly fair to good condition. Pasture is rated 1% very poor, 13% poor, 31% fair, 37% good, and 18% excellent. Hay supplies are rated 1% very short, 1% short, 89% adequate, and 9% surplus.

Rains early in the week maintained adequate to surplus soil moisture levels in fields. Topsoil moisture is rated 3% short, 69% adequate, and 28% surplus. Subsoil moisture is 5% short, 77% adequate, and 18% surplus.

Maryland's crop progress for the week ending April 8, listing the percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, is:

Planting progress: potatoes 2, 1, 54, 48; green peas 38, 15, 44, 38; sweet corn 7, --, 13, 7; tomatoes 9, --, 6, 3.

Fruit crops blooming: apples 3, 2, 29, 18; peaches 6, 4, 69, 40; strawberries 12, 2, 37, 15.

Soil moisture condition for the week ending April 8, listing percentages for very short, short, adequate, and surplus, in that order, was: topsoil moisture 0, 3, 69, 28; topsoil (2000) 0, 7, 76, 17; subsoil moisture 0, 5, 77, 18; subsoil (2000) 0, 15, 74, 11.

Meat Production Reports Released

The National Ag Statistics Service (NASS) has reported that commercial red meat production for the United States totaled 3.40 billion pounds in February, down 10% from the 3.77 billion pounds produced in February 2000.

Beef production, at 1.88 billion pounds, was 13% below the previous year. Cattle slaughter totaled 2.58 million head, down 12% from February 2000. The average live weight was down 7 pounds from the previous year, at 1,218 pounds.

Veal production totaled 16 million pounds, 14% below February a year ago and 6% below the record low for February set in 1999. Calf slaughter totaled 79,000 head, down 17% from February 2000. The average live weight was 10 pounds above last year, at 328 pounds.

Pork production totaled 1.49 billion pounds, down 5% from the previous year. Hog kill totaled 7.60 million head, 6% below February 2000. The average live weight was 2 pounds above the previous year, at 264 pounds.

Lamb and mutton production, at 17 million pounds, was down 13% from February 2000. Sheep slaughter totaled 245,000 head, 16% below the same time last year. The average live weight was 143 pounds, up 5 pounds from February a year ago.

January through February red meat production was 7.34 billion pounds.

LADYBUG, LADYBUG, FLY AWAY HOME - PLEASE!

Everyone loves ladybugs - or do they? Those cute little beetles, which feed on aphids, leafhoppers and other small insects that can harm yard and garden plants, are really starting to bug some homeowners. While ladybugs are beneficial insects, and some of the more than 4,000 species often are released to enhance biological control of harmful insects, the overwintering behavior of one species has become a nuisance throughout the area. Asian lady beetles, Harmonia axyridis, congregate in groups during late fall rather than overwintering individually under bark or in leaf litter as most lady beetles do.

The Asian lady beetle is attracted to light-colored buildings, especially those illuminated and warmed by sunlight, which makes southwest-facing walls a popular resting spot. The beetles spend most of their time feeding in treetops until they're ready to migrate, so they may be quite common on buildings close to wooded areas, as well. They eventually work their way into the home through small cracks or crevices.

Once inside the home, they essentially laze about in a hibernation-like mode, neither eating nor moving much until the first warm days of late winter or early spring. At that time, the beetles seem to come to life again and begin crawling about. After spending the winter months tucked away in a wall void or other secluded place, they have simply forgotten how they got in. They're merely looking for a way to escape to the out-of-doors. The best suggestion is to help them in their quest by sweeping them up and depositing them outside if possible. Also vacuuming will work, but the vacuum bag should be emptied each time because live beetles can easily find their way out into your closet.

Chemical control could be used, but dead beetles have to be removed the same as live ones. In addition, chemical control isn't effective at penetrating wall voids, false ceilings and other beetle hiding places. The good news is that the beetles don't feed on or damage anything in the home. They don't bite humans or pets. They don't infest stored foods. And they don't destroy household furnishings. They're just annoying, especially when they reawaken after the winter. The bad news is that the beetles seldom all become active at the same time. Depending on temperatures and the size of the population, it could take weeks. It may seem like there's an endless population, or that they're somehow breeding in the home. They are not and cannot breed inside the home. The Asian lady beetles must feed on leaf-dwelling insects prior to mating in the spring. Eggs are deposited on leaves. The beetles enter homes during the fall to pass the winter only. Preventing the lady beetles from entering in the first place is another simple control method. Caulking cracks, crevices and utility service openings, and fixing broken window screens and doorjambs.

The latest research indicates that the plant compounds of camphor and menthol will repel the ladybug. Preliminary test results indicate that camphor and menthol vapors are an irritant to the beetle's chemosensory organs. Camphor and menthol effectively repels the multicolored Asian lady beetle and could be a way to repel the insects as they attempt to overwinter indoors.

Is It Time For Corn Growers To Cash In Alfalfa Nitrogen Credits?
By Dr. Les Vough, Forage Specialist
University of Maryland

The costs associated with growing a corn crop will increase significantly this year due to higher nitrogen fertilizer costs. Natural gas, the primary source of hydrogen for producing ammonia and the raw material of most all commercial nitrogen fertilizer, has risen dramatically in price since last summer, from about $3 per thousand cubic feet to near $10 per thousand cubic feet. A ton of ammonia requires about 33,000 cubic feet of natural gas for its hydrogen requirement. This translates into anhydrous ammonia fertilizer that could cost $420 per ton come planting time. In some cases farmers may not be able to secure adequate fertilizer N for their 2001 corn crop at any price. Farm advisors are suggesting that farmers with limited N fertilizer for spring 2001 either plant fewer acres of corn or apply less fertilizer N per acre of corn planted. But farmers who grow alfalfa have a third option - cash in alfalfa N credits by plowing under older stands and gaining up to 200 lb N per acre for the corn crop.

Over the past 20 years, the easy availability and relatively low cost of manufactured N has reduced the importance of forage legumes as sources of fertilizer N to subsequent corn crops. Alfalfa is one of the best N producers in the legume family, with some states reporting up to 300 lb N fixed per acre from high producing alfalfa stands. An average figure suggested has been 178 lb N produced per acre.

Several studies have shown that a productive stand of alfalfa may provide a succeeding corn crop with enough N for economic yields without the need for additional commercial N fertilizer. Research at the Central Maryland Research and Education Center - Clarksville Facility showed yields in excess of 190 bu/acre without supplemental N fertilizer when corn was planted behind good productive stands of alfalfa. On poorer stands of alfalfa, corn yield was 130 to 140 bu/acre. Research at Iowa State University showed that a full stand (50-100% ground cover) of alfalfa can increase yields of the following corn crop as much as an equivalent of 140 lb N fertilizer. A thin (20-50% ground cover) stand of alfalfa can increase corn yields equivalent to 100 lb of N. Cornell University researchers have found that alfalfa plowed down provided adequate N for maximum economic corn yields when 10 to 20 lb/acre of starter N were applied in the fertilizer band. They also showed that the N contribution from plowed down alfalfa was significant in the second year, which could be important if fertilizer N prices remain high into 2002.

Should you cash in your alfalfa nitrogen credits and invest them in this year's corn crop? Well, you want to be sure to maintain an adequate number of alfalfa acres to meet your 2001-02 feed needs. However, if you have "expendable" older stands of alfalfa and are faced with limited supplies of very high-priced fertilizer N for your 2001 corn crop, "cashing in" alfalfa N credits might be a management option worth considering this spring.

Corn, Soybean Supplies Up; Wheat Down

Corn stocks on March 1 totaled 6.04 billion bushels, up 8% from March 1, 2000, and the highest level since 1987. Of the total stocks, 3.60 billion bushels were stored on farms, up 9% from a year earlier. Off-farm stocks, at 2.44 billion bushels, were up 6% from the previous year.

The December 2000 through February 2001 indicated disappearance is 2.48 billion bushels, compared with 2.44 billion bushels during the same period last year.

All wheat stored on March 1 totaled 1.34 billion bushels, down 5% from a year ago. On-farm stocks are estimated at 390 million bushels, down 8% from last year. Off-farm stocks, at 950 million bushels, are down 4% from a year ago. The indicated December 2000 through February 2001 quarter disappearance is 466 million bushels, down slightly from the same period a year earlier.

Soybeans stored on March 1 totaled 1.40 billion bushels, up 1% from March 1, 2000. On-farm stocks estimated at 780 million bushels were up 7% from the same period a year ago. Off-farm stocks at 625 million bushels were 6% lower than March 1, 2000. Indicated disappearance for the December 2000 through February 2001 quarter totaled 835 million bushels, up 6% from the same quarter in 2000.

Durum wheat stocks on March 1 totaled 72.9 million bushels, down 10% from a year ago. On-farm stocks, at 44.2 million bushels, are down 15% from March 1, 2000. Off-farm stocks totaled 28.7 million bushels, down 3% from a year ago. The indicated December 2000 through February 2001 quarter disappearance of 31.4 million bushels is up 10% from the same period a year earlier.

Barley stocks on March 1 are estimated at 162 million bushels, down nearly 5% from March 2000. On-farm stocks are 58.6 million bushels, 1% below a year ago. Off-farm stocks are 103 million bushels, 7% below March 2000. Indicated disappearance during the December 2000 through February 2001 quarter totaled 66.8 million bushels, up 16% from the same period a year earlier.

Oats stored on March 1 totaled 102 million bushels, slightly above the stocks on March 1, 2000. Of the total stocks on hand, 55.8 million bushels were stored in on-farm facilities, 5% above this time last year. Off-farm stocks totaled 46.3 million bushels, 4% below a year earlier. Indicated disappearance during the December 2000 through February 2001 quarter totaled 42.0 million bushels.

Grain sorghum stored on March 1, 2001, totaled 165 million bushels, down 27% from a year ago. Off-farm stocks, at 125 million bushels, are down 28% from last year and account for 76% of the total stocks. On-farm stocks, at 40.1 million bushels, are down 22% from last year. The December 2000 through February 2001 quarter disappearance from all positions is 95.7 million bushels, down 23% from last year.

Glendening's Plans Earn Stamp Of Legis. Approval

Declaring the 2001 General Assembly session a "tremendous success," Governor Parris N. Glendening thanked legislators for passing all of the administration's key initiatives focused on improving education, safeguarding the environment, and creating a more "just, fair, and inclusive society." Joined by Senate president Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr. and Speaker of the House Casper R. Taylor Jr., Glendening signed into law the first 100 bills of the session on Tuesday, including several bills strengthening Maryland's drunk driving laws and providing continued funding for critical emergency services.

"Working with the legislature, we have built a solid foundation for a safer, more prosperous, and more inclusive Maryland," said the governor. "The bills we sign today strengthening our drunk driving laws send a strong message that offenders will be held accountable for their actions and violators will be brought to justice. No single law will solve the problem, but the steps we are taking will save lives and help prevent more families from experiencing the devastation of losing a loved one to a drunk driver."

The standard for driving under the influence has been lowered to .08 (SB 108/HB 3) ensuring Maryland will continue to receive all of its federal highway construction funding and making the state eligible for a $2 million road safety grant. However, the state could still lose highway construction funding if open container and repeat offender laws are not passed by the legislature during future sessions.

Other drunk driving measures signed this week will allow prosecutors to submit into evidence at trial a suspect's refusal to take a test to determine alcohol concentration (SB 4/HB 338) and limit the use of probation before judgment (HB 261).

"The 2001 legislative session will be remembered for the way we prepared for Maryland's future by strengthening our communities," said Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend. "This package of drunk driving measures will help prevent alcohol-related tragedies on Maryland's roads."

"This legislation is dedicated to the 603 people who were killed and the 18,202 citizens who were injured as a result of alcohol-related crashes in Maryland from 1997 to 1999," said Delegate Dereck Davis, who worked to ensure the passage of the legislation. "By signing this bill into law, we hope to save an estimated 18 lives and prevent 1,300 injuries annually."

Additional legislation signed will increase the vehicle registration fee by $3 per year to provide additional funding for the Emergency Medical Systems Operations Fund (SB 292), which pays for State Police medevac helicopters, training at the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute and Maryland Shock Trauma Center, and grants to local fire departments to purchase equipment.

ELCA Women Hold Assembly In Elkins, W.Va.

Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, Monongahela Valley/Mountain Cluster of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod, held their spring assembly on April 7 at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Elkins, W.Va.

Greetings and a welcome were extended by Nancy Schumacher, president of the host unit.

The theme of the day was "Caring For Loved Ones With Hospice."

The guest speaker was Susan Leivis, whose message was relevant to the theme of the day. She related her activities and experiences she has encountered while serving with Mountain Hospice Inc., which serves Barbour, Randolph, and Tucker counties in West Virginia. During an open discussion, encouraged by the speaker, persons attending the assembly also shared their experiences with loved ones during terminal illnesses.

Lunch was served in the church social hall, after which the cluster coordinator, Jane Hazer, presided over the business meeting. A letter of greeting was read that had been received from Julia Schideler, synodical unit president. A message that had been received from Bishop Ralph Dunkin sharing his recovery progress since having surgery in February was also read.

Announcement was made of the W.Va./W.Md. Synodical women's convention, to be held August 3 and 4 at the John XXIII Center in Charleston, W.Va. Nominees are needed for president, vice president, and board members, as well as for delegates to the triennial convention. The annual fall retreat will be held at Jackson's Mill on November 3 and 4.

Roll call was answered by eight of the 17 churches in the cluster. Total attendance was 27. Churches that were represented included: St. Paul's, Aurora; St. Mark's, Clarksburg; Holy Trinity, Elkins; Grace, Fairmont, all in West Virginia. Also represented from Garrett County were St. John's, Red House; Emmanuel, Bittinger; and Zion, Jennings.

The assembly was concluded with a Service of Confession and Absolution, led by the pastor of Holy Trinity, Rev. Jay Sullivan, assisted by members of his congregation. Offerings received will go to the W.Va./W.Md. synodical unit. A designated offering will be presented to Mountain Hospice Inc.

NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH NEWS

Eleven members of the Friendsville Neighborhood Watch met Wednesday, April 4, at the Friendsville Elementary School. Further plans were made for the scheduled Friendsville Neighborhood Watch "Picnic in the Park," which will be held Saturday, July 7, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Friendsville Community Park. Tentative plans include an array of activities, demonstrations, food, and entertainment for the entire family.

Brochures explaining the Crime Watch program and house decals are available and will be distributed by members. By providing the brochures, it is the hope of the Neighborhood Watch to provide an explanation of how the Neighborhood Watch works and how it can be successful if neighbors look out for one another.

Following the business meeting, Deputies Valentine and Duggan presented common-sense crime prevention information in response to members' questions and concerns. The deputies support and encourage the members' efforts.

The next meeting will be held the second week in May. Information on the time and place will be announced. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

WOW NEWS

Class To Teach Piano By Using Chords, Not Notes

A beginner class in chord piano will be given at Garrett Community College Monday, April 30, from 6 to 9 p.m.

This one-session class will teach students all the chords needed to play any pop song, any style, any key by reading chord symbols, not by reading the notes. Students will also learn to embellish songs using the secrets and shortcuts of professional piano players.

If students do not know the treble clef, which is the prerequisite for the class, they can send a SASE for a free pamphlet to Music Masters, 432 Arabian Dr., Tunnel Hill, GA. 30755.

Persons interested in the class may call 301-387-3069 to register.

Top Associates Noted By Local Realty Firm

Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty recognized several of its top-producing associates, Lana Roby, Esther Friend, and Kelly Bender, for their accomplishments over the past year during its annual Award and Kickoff Breakfast recently.

Roby was recognized for achieving the highest gross commission income, and also received awards for most buyer controlled sales and highest number of closed revenue units. She ranked second in the company in the highest number of listings sold.

A licensed real estate agent since 1985, Roby affiliated with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty in 1998. She represents regional agents on the firm's Sales Associate Advisory Council. In February she was recognized for the second consecutive year at the corporation's International Business Conference in Las Vegas as a member of the International President's Circle on the basis of her sales activity. Roby is assisted in her real estate business by her husband Larry and by part-time assistant, Candace Fetterly.

LANA ROBY

ESTHER FRIEND

KELLY BENDER

Friend was recognized for the highest number of listings sold for the local firm, and she ranked second in closed revenue units and gross commission income, and third in listings sold. Friend was in the top 10 statewide among the firm's sales associates during the fourth quarter of last year. Friend was also recognized at the International Sales Conference as a member of the Diamond Society, placing her among the top 20 percent the corporation's sales associates worldwide. Together with her husband Jim and daughter, Kelly Bender, Friend operates the Friend Realty Group within the local firm.

Bender received the company award for "Most Improved Sales Associate," given to an agent on the basis of the highest average improvement in each of the four award categories. She ranked second in the company in number of buyer controlled sales, and third in listings sold, closed revenue units, and gross commission income. Together with sales associates Cindy Mahoney and Arlene Murray, Bender ranked in the top 27 percent of the corporation's sales associates worldwide, which earned each of them membership in the Sterling Society.

"We are very proud of these sales associates, and happy for their success," said Robert Huebner, broker/owner of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. "Our mission as a company is to support our associates in every way we can, in order to make Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty a pleasant and profitable place to work. The increasing success of our sales associates is evidence of our progress toward that goal."

Flower Arranging To Be Discussed At Garden Club

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will meet April 17 at 10:30 a.m. at the Will O' the Wisp.

Following a short business meeting, the program, "Basic Flower Arranging," will be presented by Ms. Mickey Slasman, Hagerstown.

Slasman is a master flower show judge and a Landscape Design Critics consultant. She also serves as a daffodil judge and is symposium chairman for the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland.

During her presentation, she will demonstrate three arrangements exhibiting the principles of basic flower design using fresh flowers.

Persons interested in reservations may call Tiddle Wheeler at 301-387-2018.

Eastern Star Meeting Held

Worthy Matron Bette L. Welch and Worthy Patron David L. Hall presided over the recent meeting of the Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple.

March and April birthdays were celebrated, with Nancy Harsh, Laura Fridinger, Nellie Swartzentruber, Charee Reckner, and David L. Hall receiving gifts.

The Worthy Matron presented an Easter program, "Our Father's Love as Told by Jelly Beans" and "A Brief History of Easter Eggs."

Phyllis Winkelvoss won the Easter door prize. Laura Fridinger and Emajane Marks were thanked for providing the evening's refreshments and decorations.

The flag was presented at the beginning of the meeting and retired at the end by flag bearer Ruth Ellen Paugh. A social hour followed the meeting.

The next meeting will be April 17 at 8 p.m. during which signs and passes will be reviewed.

Red Cross To Hold "Murder Mystery" Dinner

The American Red Cross will sponsor a "murder mystery" dinner at Larry's Blues Cellar Wednesday, April 25, from 6:30 until 9 p.m. The objective of the dinner is to raise money for the ever-growing demands of the Red Cross.

The dinner is sponsored in part by the Silver Tree Center and BumBle Q's Restaurant. The cost per person is $30, and tickets must be purchased in advance.

Plans include a cocktail and hors d'oeuvre party, an Italian dinner buffet, live DJ and dancing, prizes and giveaways, and a live auction, which includes a face to be painted on Larry's Blues Cellar Mural of Fame.

Support for the Red Cross allows more than 350 local volunteers to help disaster victims, teach children to swim, bring military personnel home during a family crisis, and keep blood supplies available to local hospitals.

Donations acquired during the "murder mystery" dinner go to the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, which has served the Garrett County area since 1917.

Tickets may be purchased at Leone's at Silver Tree, BumBle Q's Restaurant, and Flowers by Webers, Oakland. Persons may also call 301-387-4394, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., or 301-387-4040, ext. 102, from 5 until 11 p.m.

Persons wanting to send additional donations to the local Red Cross may do so to: American Red Cross, Western Potomac Chapter, P.O. Box 216, McHenry, MD 21541.

KITZMILLER STUDENTS RECYCLE - The students of Kitzmiller Elementary School and residents of the community recently responded to the members of a school enrichment class that decided to conduct a newspaper recycling project. The students organized the program with the town of Kitzmiller, asking the town council's assistance in hauling the papers away for recycling. They remind residents of the town that they will conduct their next recycling efforts on April 30, followed by one on May 31. School enrichment students pictured above include, from left, front row: Brittany Scott, Bryant Whitacre, Daniel Beachy, Heather Wolf, and Tiffany Matthews; and back row: Megan Brady, Elizabeth, Beeman, Elizabeth White, and Josh Davis.

State, County Jobless Rates Edge Upward

Job seekers entered the labor market in record numbers in February, while Maryland's unemployment rate of 4.1 percent continued below the national level, which was 4.6 percent. The state's jobless rate was 3.9 percent in January.

"Maryland is maintaining its favorable employment trend during a time when increasing unemployment levels is typical," said John. P. O'Connor, secretary of the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation (DLLR). "Additionally, while the large influx of job seekers into the labor force was the largest increase for the month since 1978, Maryland employers were able to hire many of them."

Garrett County's jobless rate edged upward slightly, from 11.4 percent in January to 11.5 percent in February, but was well below the February 2000 rate of 13.7 percent.

Unemployment rates rose in 16 jurisdictions, but included unemployment levels as low as 1.9 percent in Howard and Montgomery counties, 2.5 percent in Calvert County, and 2.6 percent in Anne Arundel County.

The labor force grew by nearly 15,800 people to 2,858,715, a gain unsurpassed for the month since record keeping began in 1978. Employment, posting its largest monthly increase since 1996, rose to an all-time high for the month of 2,742,865. Employment, while rising, lagged slightly behind labor force expansion, adding about 3,700 people to February's unemployment rolls.

The number of jobs reported by Maryland employers was higher in February, an increase fueled by recall activity in education and by upturns among general building contractors, in electronic equipment and paper products manufacturing, in trucking and warehousing, and in business, engineering/management, and personal services.

Swanton Woman Injured, Ejected In Car Accident

A Swanton woman was fully ejected from her vehicle Tuesday when it struck an embankment around 2 p.m., according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Rebecca Marie Collison, 55, was operating her 1997 Subaru northbound along Garrett Highway when the vehicle left the roadway and struck a culvert. The vehicle continued northbound, striking an embankment, and Collison was ejected from the vehicle, according to the police report.

Collison was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she is currently listed in stable condition. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

According to the deputies, no charges were filed; however, the investigation is continuing.

Salisbury Man Arrested For DWI And CDS

A Salisbury man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies as the result of a traffic stop along Rock Lodge Road around 1 a.m. Friday.

The driver of the vehicle, Ian Thomas Meeks, 21, was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), failure to drive right of center, possession of marijuana, and possession of paraphernalia.

Meeks was released from the Garrett County Jail on $1,000 bond.

Another man was also arrested by the sheriff's deputies for DWI following a 6:45 p.m. accident recently.

Gregory Allan Simmons was operating a 1983 Chevrolet half-ton pickup truck along Mayhew Inn Road when he attempted to make a left turn onto Bray Schooi Road. The truck skidded into the creek that passes under the Bray School Road, police said.

No injuries resulted from the accident, but the driver was arrested and charged with DWI and failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

NOTICE AND ORDER

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District 13, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the collector of Taxes for Garrett County and State of Maryland to Paul Eric Barnhouse:

All that parcel of land situate in Election District No. 13, containing 9000 square feet, more or less and described in a deed from Mary Kitzmiller, Personal Representative of the Estate of Phyllis Kelivitis to Stanley E. Tasker and Dessie M. Tasker, husband and wife, dated May 5, 1976 and recorded on May 19, 1976, in Liber No. 366, folio 641, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one day from the date of the sale has expired.

It is thereupon, this 6th day of April, 2001, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ORDERED that the notice be given in accordance with Rule 2-121 by certified mail requesting: "Restricted Delivery - show to whom, date, address of delivery" on the defendant named in the complaint, warning the Defendants to be and appear in this Court by the 5th day of June, 2001, and redeem the property and answer the complaint, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Kim Renee Lewis and Michael Bean to Derrick M. Quick, Trustee(s), dated June 18, 1999, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber No. 776, folio 641, and Declaration of Substitution of Trustees dated November 16, 2000, and recorded among the aforementioned Land Records substituting F. Vernon Boozer, Edward C. Covahey Jr., Thomas P. Dore and Michael T. Pate as Substituted Trustees under the Deed of Trust aforesaid, the Provident Bank being current holder of the Note(s) secured thereby, and default having occurred under the terms thereof, the undersigned Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, at the Courthouse door, Alder Street entrance, Oakland, Maryland, on Tuesday, April 24, 2001, at 5:00 p.m.

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon situate in Garrett County, State of Maryland, and described as follows:

BEGINNING for the same at a stake standing South 57 degrees 710 feet from an existing iron pipe, which said pipe is also in the southern margin of the old Morgantown County Road, at a point, which is 595.89 feet from an existing corner of the larger tract of which this is a part, and at the northwest corner of Lot No. 1 as described in a deed from Thomas G. Davis Jr., et ux, to David C. Humberson, et ux, and which was executed in a deed from the said Thomas G. Davis Jr., et ux, to Marline R. Lawson (et ux, dated August 8, 1972, and recorded in Liber No. 327, folio 392, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and running thence with the western boundary of said lot, South 33 degrees East 264 feet to a stake thence South 57 degrees West 165 feet to a stake, thence North 33 degrees West 264 feet to a stake in a fence line and with it, North 57 degrees East 165 feet to the place of beginning, containing one acre, more or less.

The improvements thereon being known as No. 3496 Old Morgantown West Road.

The improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to any existing building violations, etc., and also subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any. Neither the trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representation or warranties, either expressed or implied, with respect to the property including without limitation, description, use, recorded or unrecorded leases or other occupancy agreements, if any, operating and management agreements, physical conditions or to the environmental conditions of the subject property.

A Statement of Mortgage Debt has been filed in the foreclosure case in the approximate amount of $53,000.00.

TERMS OF THE SALE: Cash or certified check deposit in the amount of $8,000.00 will be required of the purchaser (other than the above-named Holder) at the time and place of sale, balance in cash, immediately within thirty (30) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, time being of the essence, and to bear interest at the rate of 12.85% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. In the event the above-named Holder purchases the property at the sale as the high bidder thereat, no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of the interest. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to all other remedies including but not limited to attorney fees, the Substituted Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees, and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages. Taxes, water rent and ground rent, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property. THE REPUBLICAN

DO IT YOURSELF — Bob Garvey helps do-it-yourselfers with the paint needs at a Home Depot in San Diego. The home improvement industry has grown tremendously in the last few years, with an estimated $169 billion in sales in 2000.

Homeowners are making more of their own improvements

By Jim Faber
Copley News Service

Average do-it-yourself customers are cut from different timber these days — they are smarter, they try more ambitious projects and a growing number are female, according to home improvement and hardware stores.

"People are really into their homes," said Jami Buck, spokeswoman for The Home Depot Inc. "They spoil themselves, and it is an investment at the same time."

Home improvement industry sales have jumped $10 billion every year since 1997, topping out at a projected $168.9 billion for 2000, The Home Improvement Research Institute reports.

But there were 3,500 fewer hardware stores, home centers and lumber yards in 1998 than in 1990, according to the most recent figures from the National Retail Hardware Association, and all three categories saw losses.

The result is that home improvement retailers are having to change as their roles become redefined. The good news is that the pie is large enough for everyone to get a slice, from "big box" chains to local hardware stores.

"We are a convenience store with all of the big boys around," said Chris Solfisburg, an owner of the 130-year-old Builders Supply Co. in Aurora, Ill.

"We take care of locals who are in a hurry. People come here if someone needs a two-by-four and doesn't want to run out to Home Depot."

More homeowners are taking on major renovations, but they usually don't visit the hardware store until they're in the middle of it.

"When people are starting a project and buying the main materials, they want to save money," said Brian Ziegler, president of Ziegler's Ace Hardware stores in Illinois.

"Once they are started they want to save time.

"If people are redoing a bathroom and are looking for sinks, toilets or tubs, we don't carry tubs and have one or two sinks and one or two toilets. If someone is looking for light fixtures, we have the basics, but we don't have 500 to choose from."

BETTER-INFORMED SHOPPERS

The "big box" home improvement chains are attracting more contractors, but regular consumers still make up the bulk sales, said Brian Lighthall, assistant manager of The Home Depot in Geneva.

Lighthall estimated that 70 percent of customers are consumers and 30 percent are contractors. He also pointed out that about half of all customers are women, a change from when he started in the business more than a decade ago.

"Nowadays, consumers have come a long way from where they originally started 10 or 15 years ago," Lighthall said.

Armed with home improvement magazines, books, videotapes and web sites, homeowners are trying advanced projects, such as laying floors and remodeling bathrooms, Lighthall said.

However, complicated plumbing and electrical problems are still reasons to bring in professionals, he said.

BEAUTY AND MAINTENANCE

John Tikalsky, president of KinKo Ace Hardware in Illinois, said some consumers are becoming smarter because they're forced to do it themselves.

"The local handyman is almost nonexistent," said Tikalsky. "For small repairs, it is tough to get people. For a broken storm door, it might cost you $50 to have someone walk in the door."

Tikalsky said this also might explain why the number of women working on home improvement projects is about equal with men.

"It is fair to say that it is

It's easy to maintain healthy houseplants

by Richelle Kerns
Copley News Service

Taking care of plants is a lot like taking care of children — they need food, water, and someone to give them consistent care.

"Every plant is like a child in that it's different," said Linda Fenn of Enchanted Florist and Greenhouse in Joliet, Ill. "One might need a little more light and water than another to stay alive."

While children at almost any age can communicate their needs to their caregiver, plants don't have that luxury. Their leaves just begin to wilt, turn brown, and fall off if they aren't tended to, and their roots begin to rot underneath the topsoil if they are given too much attention.

But, if each houseplant is treated as an individual, and cared for according to the needs of its specific species, it is easy to maintain a healthy plant, Fenn said.

When purchasing a houseplant, it is important to read the instructions and make sure you can give the plant what it needs to survive once you get it home. These instructions should be followed closely to ensure that the plant is getting the right amount of water. Underwatering and overwatering are the two ways most peopie kill their house plants.

The best way to see if a plant needs to be watered is to stick your finger in the soil. Simply touching the top of the soil is not a good indicator because the soil may hold the moisture farther inside. If, in putting your finger in the soil, you find that it is moist, it may need to be watered less frequently.

While proper watering is the most important means of keeping a plant alive, periodic fertilizing will help keep it healthy.

When it comes to fertilizing a plant, it is always necessary to follow the instructions and dilute the fertilizer at least as much as the manufacturer recommends, if not more.

"It's almost like a medicine, you need to follow directions," Fenn said.

If a fertilizer is not sufficiently diluted, it may burn the roots and eventually kill the plant. It is also important to never fertilize a dry plant because the roots will suck up the fertilizer too quickly.

In addition to food and water, exposure to sunlight is also an important part of a plant's livelihood. While there are a few shade-loving houseplants out there, most plants are fairly tolerant of sunlight.

In most climates, it is acceptable to put houseplants outside for the duration of the summer. However, it is important to position them so they only get a few hours of direct sunlight per day, at least for the first few weeks after they are placed outside, so they can become acclimated to the sunlight.

By following these simple instructions and reading up on the specifics of how to maintain your favorite kinds of houseplants, almost anyone can keep houseplants alive, Finn said.

Here are a few houseplants that are easy to care for and maintain, even if you don't have a green thumb:

SANSEVIERIA

Sansevieria, more commonly known as mother-in-law tongue or spider plant, can survive under virtually any conditions. It will survive with little sun and even less care than the philodendron, Fenn said.

GREEN HOUSE — Houseplants, such as the gem calla lily, require simple care to stay healthy. Read the directions before purchasing a plant so you know how much water and light it will need.

It is a member of the lily family and, although few people realize it, the plant flowers once a year, usually in August. The flowers appear in spikes on tall leafless stalks and are greenish-white or pale yellow in color. Before flowering, however, the plant must be well established and its roots cramped in the container. Plants that are not pot-bound seldom flower.

Freezing temperatures are about the only thing that will kill this plant, as long as it is watered from time to time, Fenn said.

PHILODENDRON

The philodendron is one of the easiest of all houseplants to keep alive. It is a very good plant for people who are just starting to take care of houseplants because it is fairly difficult to kill, Fenn said.

A philodendron should be kept in soil that is always moist. It shouldn't be saturated with water, but it should feel moist to the touch. It should be kept in a fairly humid room, at a medium light level, where it is exposed to both sunlight and shade throughout the day. It should be kept in a room that is warm in temperature, usually 62 to 66 degrees at night and 80 to 85 degrees during the day.

While these guidelines may be helpful in caring for a philodendron, it will most likely survive if it is not cared for exactly according to recommendations, Fenn said.

"They're usually pretty hard to kill," Fenn said.

ORCHIDS

There are several different species of orchids, and they are all becoming increasingly popular in the world of houseplants, said Phyllis White, manager of Anything Orchids in Frankfort, Ill.

The orchid can be seen in nearly every home and garden magazine and appears in the background of many popular television shows and movies.

"They are long-lived flowers and they are very classy," White said.

The plants, which usually flower for eight weeks to three months out of the year, are easy to grow and maintain. They should be checked for dryness once a week and watered whenever the soil feels dry.

Other than that, the plant is very low maintenance, White said.

Making More

50-50 for men and women shopping in the stores," Tikalsky said. "The woman is probably more involved in the decision-making process than we have given her credit for in the past."

Projects appear to be split into two categories: home improvement and beautification.

Solfisburg said many shoppers are trying to keep up with city codes.

"Many projects are restoration or maintenance," he said. "City codes have a great deal to do with that. It is not on the upscale end of it. It is doing basic maintenance."

Ziegler sees more work being done on the beautification side.

"People are improving their homes and yards more than they did 20 or 30 years ago," Ziegler said. "People buy lots and rip the house down to build one with twice the square footage."

SLOWDOWN PREDICTED

Home repair comes in cycles, according to Richard Johnston, a senior research analyst with the Home Improvement Research Institute.

Homeowners start repair and remodeling projects just before selling a house, or the first two years after buying a house, or after being in a house about seven years, Johnson said.

"You see a blip after each seven years toward more improvement, including interior and exterior painting," he said.

Despite the more than 6 percent growth per year since 1997, the home improvement industry should see a slowdown in growth over the next few years, Johnson said.

"The big reason is the increase of interest rates," he said. "(The industry) will still be growing at a good level, but lower than the past few years."

You need a toolbox for puttering around

by Paul R. Huard
Copley News Service

If you want to do the job, you need the tools.

That doesn't mean that you can't do simple repair jobs without a garage full of power tools. Or that emergency work — whether it's fixing something broken or just fixing a bad attitude with a little therapeutic puttering around — is beyond the contents of a small toolbox.

Every household needs a set of basic tools.

A minimum investment of about $300 will purchase just about everything you need.

If you're looking for a great gift for a new couple, a young person out on their own for the first time, or the household-catastrophe-prone, this list will fit the bill.

Whatever the reason, keep the following in a large, sturdy box that's easy to tote — preferably, a box with removable trays so the tools can be organized.

•Pliers. Needed to tighten and loosen nuts, screws, pipe joints, and fixtures. The uses run from minor plumbing to car care. Get two kinds — regular bluntnose and needlenose.

•Wrenches. Get a set of socket wrenches (both English and metric) and an adjustable wrench.

•Screwdrivers. You should have a set of Philipshead screwdrivers to fit screws with crosshead slots and slotted-head screwdrivers.

•Hammer. Try out a claw hammer by hefting it. A 14-ounce claw hammer with a wooden or synthetic handle will allow you to do most hammering and nail pulling needed around the house.

•Nail sets. Needed to countersink nails.

•Small pry bar. Use it to pull small nails beyond the abilities of your claw hammer.

•Chisels. Have at least two sizes for mortice work, shaving, and splitting lumber.

•Cordless hand drill. There are many quality brands (Craftsman or Makita are highly recommended), but get one with a long-lived power pack, reversible speed, and, of course, a set of drill bits to go along with it.

•Handsaw. Used to rip or saw lumber.

•Hacksaw. Have it for plumbing (pipe cutting, for example) or minor metal work.

•Tape measures. A 16-foot and 25-foot tape measure are essential.

•Coping saw. Used to cut molding.

•Miter box. Needed to cut angles.

•Tape. Rolls of masking, duct, and electrical tape.

•Levels. Pocket level, bubble level, 2-foot and 4-foot levels.

•Squares. Used for marking angles on lumber.

•C-clamps. Needed to hold boards steady, squeezing boards together for gluing or nailing.

•Chalk line. Use it to mark straight lines.

•Paint scrapers. Used to lift tile, scrape paint, strip varnish.

Experts agree that eye protection such as safety goggles, sturdy work shoes, and leather gloves are just as much a part of the kit as anything listed above.

Selecting Paint

All it takes to protect your most important possession is a coat or two of paint.

Whether it's minor trim work or re-painting your entire house, spring is the season when one-quarter of all major paint jobs occur.

Always select the right paint for the right job.

Take into account the purpose of an interior room and the environmental factors that inflict the most abuse on the exterior.

Dutch Boy Paints suggests these things to keep in mind when selecting paint:

- Premium paints are less likely to fade or crack, and cover more fully in one coat, thereby saving you time and money.
- Color makes a house look larger (light tones) or small (darker tones).
- Oil paint penetrates wood better; latex dries faster, doesn't yellow, and can be cleaned with soap and water.
- Go with flat or satin sheens for primary surfaces, and gloss or semi-gloss for trim and doors.
- A gallon of paint should cover approximately 400 square feet. (CNS)

Woodworking Hint

If you're having trouble getting a nail or screw to go into wood, use soap, according to Home and Garden TV's Decorating With Style. Rub the nail or screw on the soap and then try to insert it. The soap will help it slide in. (CNS)

THE LAST STRAW — Ever thought of a straw house? It's not such a far-fetched idea. In fact, straw bale construction is inexpensive, thermally efficient and environmentally friendly. Here, Jim Emanuel, left, Jim Koch, and Mark Tighe prepare one of the straw bales they are using to build a home.

Hay bales make cheap and efficient building blocks

by Pat Stein
Copley News Service

Jokes about the three little pigs and the big bad wolf who huffed and puffed and blew their house down are bound to come up at the mention of straw-bale construction.

The process of stacking straw bales to build walls is gaining a host of fans because it's inexpensive, thermally efficient, environmentally friendly and something that homeowners can do themselves.

Straw-bale construction in the United States began in Nebraska in the 1880s, according to Loren Nancarrow, an environmentally conscious television newscaster in San Diego and author of Dead Daisies Make Me Crazy. Nancarrow recently built a garden wall out of stucco-coated straw bales and has become an advocate of the process, which can also be used to build room additions and entire homes.

Lack of conventional building materials, such as timber, prompted pioneer settlers of the prairie region to use hay as alternative building material.

When the horse-drawn hay baler was invented in the late 1800s, the building blocks for prairie homes became bales of straw or hay — the chaff left over after grain crops were harvested.

In modern agriculture, a mechanized baler compresses straw into rectangular bales tied with wire or two or three strands of polypropylene string during the harvest. Three-string bales measure 14 to 17 inches in height, 32 to 47 inches in length and 23 to 24 inches in width. Two-string bales measure 14 inches in height, 36 to 40 inches in length and 18 inches in width. A bale tips the scales at about 80 pounds and costs about $5, but prices vary depending on where you live. Straw bales can be purchased at feed stores.

Straw-bale construction typically involves stacking bales. Bales laid flat rather than on edge are able to carry greater loads, according to results from compression tests conducted at the University of Arizona.

As the bales are stacked, they are threaded on steel rods (rebar) that are sunk in poured concrete and extend to the top of the wall. Rods that join the bales together and reinforce the wall system are bolted through a top plate and tightened down to compress the walls after the roof is installed and minimize settling.

The bales are then coated with stucco or plaster and there are specific techniques for making mortar adhere to straw bales. Check out www.genevar.com.au/strawbale/sbat on the Internet for details on mortar techniques. Herb Nordmeyer, a second-generation master of plastering chemistry, provides the basics of stucco mixtures, applications and techniques on the genevar web site.

The SBAT (Strawbale Association of Texas) was formed in 1996 and offers a plethora of information about straw-bale construction over the Internet.

If you are building a room or a house with hay bales, you also have to consider such essentials as plumbing, electrical wiring, a roof and flooring. Designers of load-bearing straw-bale structures recommend simple square or rectangular buildings to distribute weight as evenly as possible on all walls, according to a report in Environmental Building News.

"In a typical load-bearing design, bales are stacked on a poured concrete stem wall that extends about 6 inches above the floor slab," the report says.

Contrary to what you might think, straw-bale construction is quite fire resistant. Studies of fires in straw-bale structures indicate that the wood infrastructure burned, but the bales remained virtually intact.

Next to flammability, moisture damage and rot are the most common concerns about straw-bale construction, reports the Strawbale Association of Texas. Straw is inherently resistant to rot, according to a report in The Last Straw, a publication devoted to straw-bale construction. However, moisture is a concern and reports in The Last Straw emphasize the importance of using wide overhangs, sloping the ground away from the building and installing a "good capillary break between the foundation and the bale walls" to keep bulk moisture away from the walls.

There is no consensus on the use of vapor barriers on the walls, according to Matts Myhrman, co-editor of The Last Straw. However, when it comes to pests, experts agree that straw bales are resistant to termites, but may be a magnet for rodents. The key to keeping rodents out of the walls is to wrap them with fine woven wire mesh before carefully stuccoing.

Although straw-bale construction is gaining advocates, it still has some hurdles to overcome in terms of acceptance when it comes to city codes and planning departments.

Buildings with load-bearing straw-bale walls have been approved on an individual case-by-case basis, usually under the "Alternative Materials and Methods" section of building codes, according to Environmental Building News.

David Eisenberg of the Development Center for Appropriate Technology has developed a prescriptive standard for load-bearing and non-load-bearing straw bale construction and advocates of the process hope the standard will be adopted into municipal building codes.

The Development Center for Appropriate Technology, based in Tucson, can be accessed by e-mail at strawnet@aol.com. The Straw Bale Construction Association is a trade association of straw-bale builders, architects, engineers and contractors, which can be reached by calling (505) 986-1427, or writing to 31 Old Arroyo Chamis, Santa Fe, NM 87505.

Online or on the shelf, remodeling advice awaits

by Paul R. Huard
Copley News Service

Add finding the right dot.com source for advice and ideas to your home improvement tool bag.

Online guides, web pages, and project manuals abound. Some are from traditional sources you'd expect: The flagship home and garden magazines, retailers that specialize in building and gardening supplies, tool manufacturers.

But there are carpenters, landscapers, designers, and horticulturists who are as handy building weekend projects with Java as they are with a saw or spade in the real world.

It's all worth eyeballing, as are the hard-copy home improvement books and magazines that will never be replaced because of the sheer joy of flipping pages.

Here's a roundup of the best of both worlds — a tour of home and garden ideas on-line and on the bookshelf.

ON-LINE HELP

•www.homeplanner.com. The people at Design Works Inc. of Amherst, Mass., have the ultimate tool for the ambitious person who wants to build his or her own home.

You can design floor plans and construct a three-dimensional scale model of your own building, remodeling, and decorating projects. Called the Quick Planner, it's a "table-top simulator" to knock down walls and move furniture, fixtures, cabinets, windows, and doors, all with one finger. Each includes hundreds of pre-cut, ¼-inch scale, reusable peel-and-stick furniture and architectural symbols.

With the 3-D Home Kit, the builder visualizes new designs. The kit includes complete posterboard building materials to construct a detailed, 14-inch scale, three-dimensional model of your own home design, including brick, stone, siding, and roofing to windows, doors, skylights, kitchen cabinets, and appliances.

Kits to design a 2,000-square-foot home start at $22.95. You can order on-line or by mail.

•wwwjacksonandperkins.com. The 125-year-old company remains a major player in the home and garden industry. While maintaining its mail-order operations, it has become a successful "click and brick" retailer with both store locations and on-line shopping.

Jackson and Perkins on-line offerings are astounding. The company continues to dominate the market with its rose plants, including roses named for Diana, Princess of Wales; Billy Graham; Veterans' Honor; and Our Lady of Guadalupe.

From gardening supplies to decorated Christmas trees, the company's catalog is well-represented at its web site.

But the site also offers a ZIP code-keyed zone map so gardeners can accurately plan planting times, a thorough FAQs page that covers gardening basics, and large beautiful pictures that are the equal of the company's well-designed catalog.

Another interesting feature is a page that allows web surfers to read advice from Michael Cady, the company's horticulturist. He describes seasonal care for roses by types with a month-by-month guide. Cady's articles also are archived at the web site.

•www.kitchendesigncompany.com. This company's service is designed to cut the cost of interior work for kitchen cabinets.

They do the drawings. You'll own them. Because they are yours, you can take them to any supplier to get the best prices, the company says at its web site.

The Lakewood, Colo., company says its Bid-Ready Cabinet Drawings will help you get as many bids as you need if you want to use a contractor, provide the same detailed information to all bidders, assure an "apples to apples" comparison of supplies and designs, and help you meet or beat your budget.

Their web site has photos of the completed work and an e-mail address to contact them.

•www.kitchenweb.com. 20 20 Technologies hosts this site, giving the company a venue for its kitchen design software. You can use the software for free, although you must download instructions. The software allows you to design sample kitchens, using your choice of fixtures, cabinetry, floor space, and materials.

All the samples follow industry standards, so you can take the plan once you've completed it to a builder or to the hardware store, if you are a do-it-yourselfer.

•www.remodeling.hw.net. Remodeling Online is a web magazine with articles that span the range of home projects. Even though it is primarily meant for professionals in the industry, it contains too much valuable information to overlook.

Subjects include technology-friendly improvement-tool reports, analysis of whether your remodeling project will add value that is more than the cost of the work, "how-to" projects with

SPRING/SUMMER HOMEFACTS

Painting tips

■ In very small rooms it is not worthwhile to use a paint roller as you will be spending too much time around trim and corners anyway.

■ On large surfaces, a roller will apply more paint than a brush. Additionally, you sometimes can cover a surface in just one coat with a roller.

■ A heavy nap roller is effective on textured ceilings.

■ Place a plastic bag over the roller pan before adding paint. When the job is over, throw away the bag, leaving the pan clean.

■ If you are painting behind radiators or large furniture, purchase small paint rollers with long handles for such areas.

■ Strapping a broomstick to the handle of a paintbrush will help you reach inaccessible areas. You will not be able to do fine detail work using this method, but hard to reach areas usually won't be visible anyway.

■ Generally, most paints need to be applied above 50 F and out of direct sunlight.

9 do-it-yourself home repairs for the summer

by John Roberts
Copley News Service

The beginning of summer means three months of weekend work for most homeowners.

Mowing the lawn, trimming the weeds and harvesting the garden all contribute to the outdoor schedule on your days off.

But before homeowners look to other summer projects, they should take a good look at their home to ensure their castle is set for another hot and sticky summer.

Brett Martin of the National Association for the Remodeling Industry said homeowners can save themselves some headaches later in the summer by going through a simple checklist aimed at preparing your home for the season.

"A home is the single largest investment most people will ever make, and it pays to protect that investment," said NARI president Andrew Gateriewicz.

1. Check the air conditioner. A thorough recharge and tuneup by an air-conditioning professional can save money in energy costs.

The NARI also recommends cleaning the heating and air-conditioning ducts every five years to prevent the germs and bacteria that build up from aggravating allergies and other illnesses.

2. Check the roof for missing or damaged shingles. After the bitter winter, the shingles could be in bad shape from suffering under the massive weight of ice and snow accumulation.

Fraying shingles should be replaced to ensure protection against water damage and to maintain the energy efficiency of your home.

In many instances, new shingles can be placed over the existing ones.

3. Apply a screen over your chimney. With chimney season at least another four months away, homeowners should cover it up with a screen to prevent leaves, birds and other animals from falling inside.

Birds, which are notorious for building nests in chimneys, can damage the mortar and brickwork over an extended period of time.

Without a cloth or wire screen to seal the chimney the first fire of the fall season could be dangerous if a significant amount of debris has built up throughout the summer.

4. Secure antennae, cables and satellite dishes. A fuzzy or blurred picture on your television may not be the manufacturer's fault, but the result of a blustery winter and spring.

The weight of snow and winds may have knocked around your television antenna or cable wires, which will need to be securely fastened back to the house.

Loose cables and antennae are a hazard because the next strong wind could bring them crashing down.

5. Check the siding around the house. The wind and cold weather could have loosened or blown pieces of siding off your house and they need to be replaced to prevent further damage to other sections.

The bottom pieces of siding are more likely to come off and should be checked regularly.

Keeping the siding nailed tightly to the house will also prevent animals from squeezing in between to get inside.

6. Put on window screens. With the warmer weather, it's time to switch from the storm windows to screens, which allow you to open the home up even more.

With the obvious benefit of increased airflow, screens also block insects from entering the home.

7. Check the flashing. Flashing is a vital component for keeping water out of your home and should be checked at the start of the summer season.

Walk around the house to inspect the flashing, looking for any damage or wear on the doors, windows, chimney and roof.

In addition to the flashing, homeowners should check the caulking around all doors and windows.

If any areas are cracked they should be recaulked to help reduce energy bills and eliminate potential draft sections of the home.

8. Fill cracks in the driveway. Small holes or cracks in the driveway are only going to get worse if nothing is done.

Unsealed cracks do get larger after every winter because the water that gets into the openings and freezes causes the holes to expand.

Filling the cracks will not consume a great deal of time, but can avoid possible injury from tripping and unnecessary retrievals of the basketball after it ricochets off one of the holes during a heated summer contest.

9. Clean the gutters and ridge vents. Leaves, sticks and other debris can clog up gutters and ridge vents causing rainwater to back up and damage the wood behind the gutters and even the house walls.

Is Your Roof Past Its Peak?

This year's cold weather, winter storms and natural gas shortages have wreaked havoc on Americans' roofs and energy bills. As winter comes to a close and spring is just around the corner, homeowners should take stock of winter weather damage to their home and pocket book.

"Much of the damage incurred this past winter could have been avoided if homeowners had taken long-term precautions with their roofs," said Rhonda Brooks, president, Exteriors Systems Business, Owens Corning. "Catching problems before they become too severe, especially on a roof, can prevent unnecessary repairs and headaches."

A few warning signs of winter roof damage to look for include:

• Damaged flashing

Flashing are pieces of metal or roll roofing around vent pipes, chimneys, adjoining walls, dormers and valleys, used to prevent water from seeping in. Damage to the flashing can be caused by improper installation or by drying and cracking. Flashing can generally be repaired without replacing the roof.

• Missing shingles

Missing shingles are often caused by exposure to high winds and improper fastening, but usually can be replaced individually. If you decide to re-roof, you might consider specially designed shingles, like Owens Corning's new WeatherGuard High Wind 110 Roofing System, which stands up to strong wind conditions.

• Buckling and curling

When a shingle buckles, it bends upward in the middle, forming a peak. Buckling is caused by improperly applied felt or movement in the deck (the surface to which the roof is applied). Curling causes the corners of the shingle to turn up, and is usually caused by a lack of ventilation, nails positioned too high up, an incorrect number of fasteners or undersaturation of the shingle.

• Blistering and rotting

Blisters are bubbles that appear on the surface of asphalt roofing. They are usually caused by moisture in the shingle. Shingles rot when the mat at the core of the shingle absorbs moisture.

• Ice Dams

Ice dams are caused by roofs with inefficient insulation and cold eaves. In winter, snow accumulates on roofs and as it melts down to the overhang and refreezes, then an ice dam is formed. An ice dam can be detected by long icicles on overhangs. Ice dams cause water backups and this allows water to seep through the roof causing even more damage. The best way to prevent ice dams is making sure that the attic is properly insulated with at least 12 inches of insulation.

Combating Increased Heating Bills

In addition to preventing ice dams, insulation can also help reduce energy bills and keep homes cooler during spring and summer.

"Insulation can be just as important in summer as it is in winter," said Tim Grether, technical services manger, Owens Corning. "On warm summer days, heat attempts to move from the outdoors to the indoors. Insulation slows its transfer, helping to retain the house's cooler temperature."

According to the U.S. Department of Energy, checking your home's insulating system is one of the easiest and most cost-effective ways to save energy and minimize energy waste. As a general rule, if you have less than 11 to 12 inches of insulation in your attic, you could probably use more.

For more energy-efficiency tips, homeowners can call the DOE at 1-800-DOE-3732 to order a free, 36-page Energy Savers booklet or visit the Energy Savers Web site at http://www.eren.doe.gov/consumerinfo/energy_savers. The Energy Savers campaign, developed by the DOE in partnership with Owens Corning, provides Americans with more than 100 easy and practical energy-efficiency tips and projects.

For a Roof Troubleshooting Kit that provides tips on how to inspect a roof, what to look for when hiring a contractor and a glossary of roofing terms, call 1-800-GET-PINK or visit the company's Web site at www.owenscorning.com/owens/around/roofing/roofhome.asp.

WINDOW DRESSING — Deborah Sperberg opens wooden shutters to allow sunlight to warm her concrete floor. Shutters offer a lot of light control and insulate well against heat, cold and noise.

Shades, blinds or shutters add a finishing touch

by Chandra Orr
Copley News Service

Searching for the perfect way to finish off a room? Window shades, blinds, or shutters may be the answer. With relatively easy set up and installation, a range of window treatments can add the ideal touch to any room.

MINIBLINDS

According to Window-ology.com, a web site devoted to various window treatments, miniblinds are a good solution for the customer who wants a quality, functional window covering at a low price.

"Miniblinds have withstood the test of time, and have remained in fashion through all of the different styles of decoration," says the web site.

Miniblinds provide a high level of light control and are available in aluminum, PVC, and wood.

"Wood blinds are very versatile, matching almost any decor," according to Window-ology. "Wood blinds are relatively easy to keep clean and durable enough to stand up to everyday abuse."

There are many different opinions about the ideal wood to use for wood blinds, each of which has credibility, says Window-ology. "The important thing to remember is that you should choose a North American hardwood, such as basswood, poplar, or aspen."

"Wood blinds are a natural wood product, so no company can guarantee that wood blinds will not warp.

"However, wood blinds purchased from reputable companies will be far less likely to have problems. In other words, you get what you pay for."

VERTICAL BLINDS

Verticals provide a great deal of light control, from almost complete blackout to all the way open. They come in a range of materials, though the most popular choice is PVC for its durability and light control features, according to Window-ology.

"With hundreds of different fabric and PVC patterns, chances are there is a vertical blind that will suit your needs," according to Window-ology.

"Verticals are most commonly used for sliding glass (arcadia) doors, but are a solution for any window.

"The quality of the headrail is extremely important. It should have a track that is made of high quality aluminum to resist bending.

"This is by far the most important factor to keeping your vertical blinds working properly," the web site states.

HONEYCOMB SHADES

Cellular shades, known as honeycomb shades, evolved from pleated shades, according to Window-ology.

"When viewed from the front, the similarities between cellular shades and pleated shades are evident. With a side view you can see the amazing difference," Window-ology explains.

"When the shade is let down, the cells fill with air, creating a barrier of air (just like the insulation in your attic) that blocks out heat, cold, and noise.

"Cellular shades stack up tight out of the way. This maximizes view and makes it easy to hide or accent them with valances and/or draperies," Window-ology states.

ROMAN AND AUSTRIAN SHADES

According to the Better Homes and Gardens "Decorating Book," Roman shades are generally used as the sole window covering.

They do not roll up, but are pulled up on cords. The fabric hangs flat when they are closed and folds into horizontal pleats when they are open.

Generally, these shades are made from fabric heavy enough to accent the creases when open.

Austrian shades, a variation on Roman shades, operate on the same principle, but they feature scallops of sheer fabric between the vertical cords.

"In elegant fabrics they are particularly well suited to period rooms and provide an elegant-looking window treatment," according to Better Homes and Gardens.

ROLLER SHADES

Roller shades are strips of fabric or plastic that unroll from the top or bottom of a window.

Reversed roller shades, where the roll faces the wall, creates a sleek, finished look that requires no additional heading neces-

Checking to make sure the downspouts are straight is important in addition to setting up a drainage system to allow the water to properly drain away from the house's foundation.

Ridge vents should be cleaned to allow the house to breathe properly. With clogged or dirty ridge vents, air will stagnate and create an unhealthy environment in the home.

It may seem like a time-consuming job, but cleaning out the gutters doesn't require a big time commitment, especially if they are inspected on a regular basis.

Gutter guards are a valuable investment, which are quick and easy to install while keeping gutters clean and maintenance-free for years.

Kitchen Remodeling Projects To Reach All-Time High

Nearly five million kitchens will be remodeled in the U.S. this year, an increase of more than 10 percent over 1999, according to a survey of 20,000 consumers by Kitchen and Bath Business magazine. And, according to the survey, these remodelers know exactly what they want in their kitchens - luxury items.

"Most kitchen remodelers are experienced cooks. They've lived in one or two previous kitchens and know what they love and hate," said Joan McCloskey, Better Homes and Gardens Executive Building Editor. "These remodelers are very discriminating about style, durability, features, price and performance on every element that comprises a kitchen. They may make tradeoffs to keep their budget in line, but they'll sacrifice to gain some of the luxury items that bring life to a kitchen."

If luxury is what consumers want in the kitchen, then what constitutes luxury? Following is a list of the top 10 most requested kitchen items to create the ultimate Epicurean's dream space.

1. Great Appliances

Rather than standard, four-burner stoves, consumers are turning to a host of other options to prepare food quickly and efficiently. One of the most popular appliances to hit the market is a combination gas cook top with an electric oven underneath. With this appliance, the home chef gets the best of both worlds. Another new choice for quick food preparation is a microwave that uses radiant or halogen light. Appliance manufacturers claim these microwaves can cook food twice as fast as a regular microwave. There are even barbecue grills, wok burners and steamers making their way onto the cooking scene. Another new item making a name for itself in the luxury kitchen is the warming drawer that keeps food warm for those families putting up with after-school sports or long hours at the office. And, as far as the trend in decor goes, the commercial stainless steel look for appliances is still what's hot in today's kitchens.

2. Multi-Cook Centers

Two sinks, two cook centers, two refrigerators - all of these "twos" are becoming commonplace in the dream kitchen. With the popularity of cooking ever increasing - just note the celebrity status of TV chefs these days - these dual cook center areas provide plenty of space for both staging meals and entertaining. Most of these seconds are appearing on kitchen islands and serve as a dual workspace. Though most second appliances are not as large, they do serve their own purpose in the luxury kitchen. For instance, rather than a full refrigerator, the second unit in the home may be an under-the-counter model used for wines and beverages. The second sink may also be much smaller, featuring just a single bowl, but is a welcome addition for cleaning vegetables or preparing drinks.

3. Water Filtration Systems

Americans are more concerned about the quality of their water than ever before - hence the rapid increase of filtering systems in the kitchen. While these have included pitchers, faucet attachments and under-the-counter types, the fastest growing trend is filtering faucets. These offer the most convenient and most elegant method to get better tasting water. For instance, Moen Incorporated offers three filtering faucet systems in its PureTouch line for making better tasting sauces, mixes and drinks. These models take out lead, chlorine and cysts. Another convenience that is a must in any kitchen - luxury or not - is a pullout faucet. Pullout spout faucets provide the ability to both clean the four corners of the sink and fill up large pots. And many come in dramatic styles and finishes to complement any kitchen decor.

4. Kitchen Island

Anyone who has ever lived in a house with a kitchen island will never be without one again. That's why it is one of the most requested items in a remodel project and a definite selling feature for new construction. And, as previously noted, islands with functional items like a bar sink are exactly what consumers want in their luxury kitchen. With the ability to match the island faucet to the main kitchen faucet in terms of style and finish - complete integration of the kitchen is possible. Plus, with the main counter space usually cluttered with small appliances such as mixers, toasters, and can openers, having a separate work area is an added benefit. Islands with seating capacity are also doubling as an area for doing homework and for quick, less formal meals - replacing the old "breakfast nook." If a kitchen island cannot be added because of space limitations, homeowners may opt for a rolling work cart that provides extra counter space when needed and can be rolled back into a corner when not in use.

5. Countertops

According to the National Kitchen and Bath Association, solid surface countertops are used in 40 percent of all professionally designed kitchens. The reason? They hold up extremely well in the high-traffic kitchen area and also provide a durable surface resistant to scratches and scuffs. For higher-end kitchens, granite countertops are the material of choice. As an alter-sary, according to Better Homes and Gardens.

"Reversed roller shades are a good choice when you need a bit of space near the window."

Roller shades are available in translucent material or opaque material.

While translucent shades let diffused light through, "opaque shades act as room darkeners, and at the same time, brighten up the room's decor," according to Better Homes and Gardens.

SHUTTERS

"Shutters are the ultimate choice in window coverings," according to Windowology.

Shutters significantly add to the resale value of a home, they are the best insulators against heat, cold, and noise, and they offer a great deal of light control.

"While different fads have come and gone in the window covering industry, shutters have remained a constant beauty," the web site states.

Options on shutters include the type of wood used, finishes, slat size, and slat direction. "Narrow 1-inch slats give a contemporary look and may work well on small windows," Window-ology states.

With all blinds, shades, and shutters, Window-ology suggests considering the quality of the slat material, whether a dust inhibitor is applied, slat size, the type of finish, the quality of the components, quality of the craftsmanship, where the pull string or wand are located, and if the blind or shade is available in a special size or shape.

Wallpapering Via The Internet

Consumers now have the ability to view the latest collections of wallpaper designs from leading manufacturers in the comfort of their own home.

With the addition of "ON-LINE NEWS" to the www.-wallpaperguide.com Web site, consumers can see the premiere trends in color and design, and can coordinate borders and other patterns to assist them in their decorating plans. Not only can shoppers select their favorites while browsing through the pages of featured patterns, but also have the possibly of winning a room full of wallpaper of their choice.

The Web site allows consumers to make selections from a large database of more than 33,000 wallpaper patterns and place an order online for direct delivery from the wholesaler, or visit their nearest retailer by using the "Search for Stores" section.

Selecting exactly the right mural, border and wallpaper pattern is easy, fast and user friendly on www.wallpaperguide.com. For instance, if you are looking for a border with trailing ivy simply type in the keyword or subject, and pages of colorful images will appear instantly with complete descriptions and prices. Select your favorites as you shop — each click increases your chances of winning free wallpaper.

"The Web site is evolving into an interactive experience where consumers can have their 'vote' on favorite patterns count," states James Magray, President of The Wallpaper Guide. "We have partnered with the local retail stores in an effort to give consumers the best of the Internet and personal shopping experience. It's a nice model of how e-commerce and traditional commerce can work in concert to satisfy the needs of the customer. The benefit for the consumer is that they can buy from a huge selection of wall coverings all in the privacy of their home and at competitive prices," says Magray.

The Web site does more than help the consumer find and order the right pattern. "People embarking on decorating projects inevitably have questions, so we provide links to practical how-to demonstrations, such as 'Decorating with Borders', and 'How to Hang Wallpaper,'" adds Magray. Photos of room sets also provide the cyberspace traveler with decorating ideas.

native, there are also a host of solid surfacing options, which imitate the look of granite at a lower cost. Another exotic item popping up in today's luxury kitchen is the concrete countertop. They are "earthy" in appearance and certainly make a statement. However, they too, can be expensive and porous as a kitchen material - and you have to watch out if you drop a glass or dish!

6. Composite Sinks

Move over vitreous china or commonplace stainless, for many of today's luxury kitchens feature sinks in customized colors, composite materials and unique bowl configurations. Homeowners are demanding style as well as sinks that will stand the test of time with resistance to normal wear and tear. To provide both durability and beauty, manufacturers have now designed composite sinks. For example, MoenStone sinks from Moen are made from high-strength, molded composite materials that are produced to withstand everyday cuts, scratches, scuffs, stains and even heat from hot cookware. Available in a number of solid colors including the latest Sapphire and Yellow Stone and even natural stone textures, these sinks blend beautifully with all types of countertops, and can be installed in either over- or under-mount configurations.

7. Hand-Painted Tiles & Backsplashes

Looking for something to truly make your kitchen unique? How about turning it into a personalized work of art with hand-painted tiles and backsplashes. Easy to install, these tiles can be used as a decorative border or intermixed with the rest of the kitchen tiles to create a pattern. Fruits, flowers or even animal designs are now gracing the luxury kitchen with their presence. Not only do these hand-painted items provide for an imaginative touch of fun, they also show off the homeowner's personality.

8. Cabinetry

Cabinetry can account for up to one-half of the new or remodeled kitchen budget, and can include a lot more than shelves or cupboard doors. Decora, a leading manufacturer of semi-custom cabinetry, notes that some of the latest styles of cabinetry mimic the look of furniture with bun feet or freestanding units in the European style. Other cabinet lines, like Schrock, are also adding decorative elements such as plate racks, carvings, special trim and apothecary drawers to their offerings. Upper glass cabinets are being used for displaying fine china and crystal. And personalization in the cabinetry category can even be found in hardware - from knobs shaped like forks to ladybugs - it's all available to create a unique look. And finally, the makers of Aristokraft cabinets report that as the kitchen becomes an extension of the great room, some non-traditional items such as banquettes or desks are making their way into custom cabinetry selections.

9. Storage Areas

One thing almost all consumers who are remodeling or constructing a kitchen are requesting is more - and personalized - storage space. This includes: cabinets with rollout shelves to make food and cooking utensil storage easy; specialized storage areas for spices, pot lids, knives, dish cloths; pegged holders for plates; or corner "appliance garages" to hide coffee makers and toasters when not in use. The size of the kitchen is expanding too, as walk-in pantries now allow for a variety of storage options, particularly as Americans are buying more items in bulk.

10. Luxury Design Options

So far we have discussed some of the items that truly make the kitchen luxurious and customized, but what about overall kitchen design options? Today's kitchens feature larger dining areas, walls of windows, high ceilings and a continuation of the great room. No longer is the eating area separate from the kitchen - integration makes it all one large room that is great for entertaining.

If you are one of those that will be embarking on a kitchen remodel project over the next few months, use these tips to create a luxurious kitchen that you will truly adore!

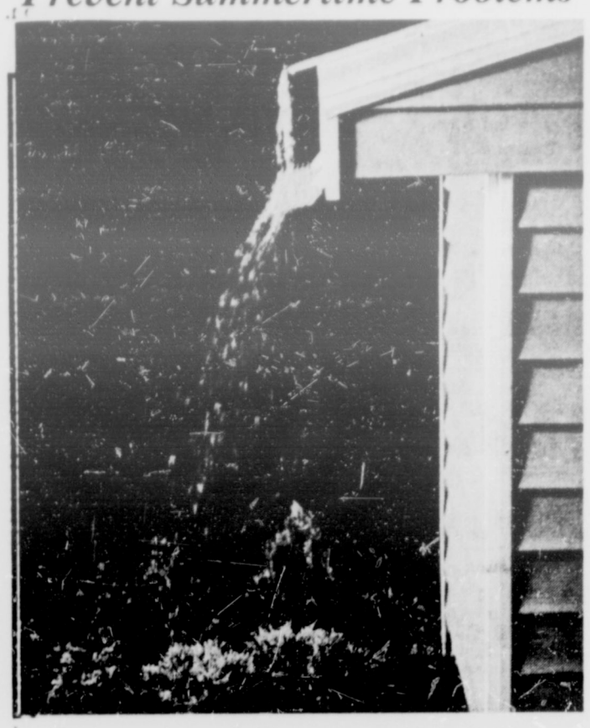
A Spring Gutter Check Can Prevent Summertime Problems



Gutter maintenance is something homeowner's tend to think about only after a problem occurs. They may soon discover that poorly functioning rain gutters can cause many problems, including foundation erosion, basement leaks and rotten fascia boards. Spring is the best time to check your home's gutter system for damages from ice and snow, heavy rains or clogged debris. If gutter inspections aren't your forte, whole gutter systems can be replaced with an alternative system.

Once you've decided to tackle the job of inspecting your gutters, find a sturdy ladder to support you. If you have permanently installed gutter screens or gutter guards, they may be difficult to observe from the ground. It's a good idea to check each run of gutters from a ladder, to make sure they are clean and free of debris before making any repairs. If your downspouts also have screens at the top, clear them as well, or replace the screens if they're damaged.

While inspecting your gutters, you may find that over time, the spikes that hold the aluminum to the fascia board have loosened. Either drive the loose spikes back into place, or replace them with longer ones for improved support. Downspouts and other fittings can also be pulled away by snow and ice and may need to be reattached. Gutter neglect can also result in leaks. Most leaks occur at a joint and can be repaired with rubber tape or self-adhesive tape. The patches should be placed a few inches on either side of the leak area.

If you're not a do-it-yourself kind of homeowner and the thought of tall ladders makes you queasy, an alternative system, known as the Rainhandler, turns do-it-yourself into done-for-you. Rain-handler's unique louver design converts a stream of rainwater into a two-to four-foot wide swath of droplets that are absorbed by shrubs and lawn beyond the eaves.

Rainhandler provides a maintenance-free gutter system for homeowners and creates other benefits. According to the company's chairman, Ted Buckenmaier, the single biggest problem of homes with no gutters or clogged gutters is ground erosion. Ground erosion can undermine a home's foundation causing structural damages, eroding walkways and driveways, and creating safety hazards. Not only does the dispersion of water prevent ground erosion, it allows the transformation of what might otherwise be a torrential downpour of rain streaming from old gutters into a gentle distribution of water droplets, protecting shrubbery and delicate flowers below.

The design of the product's aluminum louvers also permits leaves and debris to either fall through to the ground or blow away. These louvers also prevent potentially damaging ice build-up from forming in gutters and eventually leaking into your home. "I used to have a problem in the winter with my conventional gutters with ice build up over my bow window and then the water backing up and running into the living room," explained a Warwick, Rhode Island resident. "The problem has been solved since I installed the system."

Whether you decide to hang on to your traditional gutters, or replace them with the Rainhandler alternative, gutter care is something homeowners should think about before a problem exists. Regular maintenance and preventative measures can protect you home from possible disasters that can end up costing you hundreds of dollars in the future. Gutter maintenance demonstrates that protecting areas of your home doesn't necessarily begin from the ground up.

For more information, visit www.rainhandler.com, or call (888) 724-6426.

It's Time To Spring Into Action For A Lush, Healthy, Green Lawn

Courtesy of ARA Content

Every spring, homeowners spread millions of pounds of herbicide in an attempt to prevent crabgrass and dandelions from choking their plush, green lawns. Along with trespassing plants, bothersome insects also enjoy feeding on the garden fruits and vegetables of your labor. For years, consumers have dealt with lawn and garden intruders by using synthetic products. But with the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) recent ban of the popular insecticide Dursban, and the gradual phasing out of another insecticide Diazinon over the next four years, gardeners are choosing natural products to replace them.

Natural pest control products have come a long way since they first appeared decades ago. Although some of the early formulas were perceived as being less effective than synthetic chemicals, today's natural insecticides often exceed the performance of traditional products. "We're seeing a very significant increase in demand for our natural products on the heels of the EPA's actions. Consumers want products that are not only safe, but are also highly effective," says Mike Engler, CEO of Necessary Organics, makers of Concern products.

For over twenty years, Necessary Organics has provided gardeners and farmers with natural pest control products by developing and refining its insect control, weed control, and plant food technologies. These highly effective alternatives to traditional chemicals became the Concern family of lawn, garden, and household products.

Natural ingredients such as extracts of orange peel, chrysanthemum flowers, fossilized sea shells and vegetable oil are used to effectively kill and repel insects and control weeds. And, unlike chemical pest controls which typically specify a "withdrawal" period on edible crops, Concern Multipurpose Insect Killer can be applied right up to the day of harvest.

Necessary Organics is also offering lawn and garden enthusiasts a new line of all-natural weed prevention. Weed Prevention Plus 8-2-4 not only prevents crabgrass, dandelions and other weeds from becoming established, it also feeds the lawn, providing all-natural nutrients for improved growth.

The key active ingredient in the company's new herbicide comes from corn. Researchers at Iowa State University discovered that corn gluten meal (a byproduct of animal feed production) is highly effective in preventing crabgrass. Subsequent studies have shown this product to be highly effective in inhibiting a wide variety of broadleaf weeds as well. As an added bonus, corn gluten is an effective natural fertilizer. The corn gluten in Weed Prevention Plus 8-2-4 is supplemented with additional natural turf nutrients to provide an 8-2-4 nutrient ratio.

"This is a real breakthrough. For the first time ever, homeowners have the option of using an effective, all-natural pre-emergent herbicide on their lawns," says Engler. "Consumers are demanding products that are safe for people, pets and wildlife, and we are providing them with all natural solutions."

British Colonial style is romantic and practical

by Pat Stein
Copley News Service

Pull up a peacock chair, turn on the pineapple lamp, sit down at the elephant table for a spot of tea and dream of faraway places.

British Colonial decor is back in style in a big way — perhaps as much for its aura of romance as for its timelessness and practicality.

"People want to dream and travel. British Colonial style brings the far corners of the world into your own home," says Cathy Pringle, vice president of marketing for the Bombay Co., which is known for its Indigo Dreams line of British Colonial accessories.

British Colonial style combines Victorian elegance with exotic tropical design motifs. It features dark woods such as teak, mahogany, maple stained to look like mahogany, and rosewood.

Caning, ribbing, carving, and accents of animal prints are hallmarks of the home furnishing fashion that evolved when British emissaries traveled to the tropics to govern, live, and work in the colonies that comprised the British Commonwealth.

In its heyday, the far-flung British empire girdled the globe, from Zanzibar to Ceylon. India, Malta, Kenya, Cyprus, Tanzania, Malaysia, several South Sea islands, Cameroon, Rhodesia, Burma, Pakistan, Tobago, Trinidad, and Jamaica all were under British rule in the 19th century.

Colonists took with them the Victorian styles then in vogue in their homeland. But it wasn't long before the warm, humid climates where they had settled prompted them to shed the heavy upholstery of Victorian furnishings for the lighter look and feel of native furniture. And they embraced the decor motifs of tropical furniture, which looked to local landscapes and animal life for artistic inspiration. The melding of Victorian and native styles resulted in what we now know as "British Colonial," according to information from the archives of the American Furniture Manufacturers Association.

ENGLISH ACCENT — British Colonial-style stacking accent tables from the Bombay Company's Indigo Dreams line evokes an image of the aristocratic past.

It's a flexible and ageless style, according to Ruth Fredricsson, an interior designer at Ethan Allen Home Interiors, which features the British Classics line of home furnishings. Fredricsson says British Classics is the company's most popular line nationwide. Other major furniture manufacturers, such as Broyhill and Hammary, have also developed collections of British Colonial furnishings.

"The style has evolved and been updated since Victorian times, but it's timeless, not trendy, and it's also practical because you can dress it up or dress it down," Fredricsson says of the furnishings that appeal to men because they are solid and to women because they are romantic.

Add real or faux palm trees, woven wicker, chairs upholstered in faux zebra, leopard, or tiger, animal print pillows and lithographs featuring tropical botanicals or jungle animals for a light casual look.

Or, introduce a touch of Victorian elegance with lamps that combine fussy tasseled silk shades with carved wood bases featuring palm trees, monkeys or elephants.

The distressed, matte finish that's featured on some British Colonial-style furniture adds to the practicality factor, according to Fredricsson.

"Since the furniture is already distressed, the little mars and marks that occur with use don't matter," she said.

The "campaign" look, which evolved from the trunks that British colonists used to transport their belongings to their new homes, is also practical as well as attractive. Then, as now, trunks serve as side tables with storage space inside. Latches and hinges from trunks were and still are picked up as hardware for other furnishings, such as chests of drawers, to continue the campaign chest theme throughout the house.

"Campaign furniture — also called colonial furniture — was portable, collapsible furniture made in British India in the late 18th and 19th centuries. It was generally made of teak or rosewood and included chairs, beds, settees, desks, and chests," explained Pat Bowling, a spokeswoman for the American Furniture Manufacturers Association.

Free Your Lawn From Weeds And Bugs The Natural Way

By Shelly Most

Lawns that beg people to kick off their sandals and run barefoot don't happen by accident. But they don't require endless toil either. You can get great results by feeding your lawn early and following through with a simple maintenance program, according to the professionals.

Dori Nemeth, horticulturist for Hawks Nursery in Wauwatosa, Wisc., urges homeowners to start fertilizing in late April or early May. "The most important time to fertilize the lawn is in the early spring, when your grass is actively starting to grow," says Nemeth.

Further applications will help ensure success, Nemeth says. Pros generally advise fertilizing four times a year, if you bag your clippings, or three times a year, if you leave your clippings on the ground as mulch.

The holidays serve as a reasonable guide for when to fertilize. An early-spring fertilization should be timed around Easter, which this year falls in mid-April. An early-summer fertilization should be timed around Mother's Day or Memorial Day.

A mid-summer application should be timed around the Fourth of July. With people having a little extra time off during those holidays, it's the perfect opportunity to beautify and enjoy the yard.

Organic or Synthetic?

Personal preference dictates what kind of fertilizer you choose.

Organic fertilizers, which come from processed living matter, release slowly and contain lower concentrations of nutrients, compared to synthetics. They are, however, better at promoting growth of microorganisms and at adding organic matter to the soil. Over time, this improves soil structure.

Results are not as fast, but organic nutrients — especially nitrogen — remain available to plants for a longer time.

There are a number of organic fertilizer products on the market. One of the more popular among professional groundskeepers and gardeners is Milorganite. Its slow-release formula provides a steady stream of food with little or no danger of damage from over-fertilizing.

"Nutrients tend to release at the same rate as the plants need them," says Mike Archer, Milorganite's market development and research coordinator. "So you're not getting a big fast flush whether the plant is ready for it or not.

"Also, organics do not contain salts that can burn lawns or ornamental plants. They are multipurpose, which means they can be used on flowers or lawns, and they contain generous amounts of iron, unlike synthetics. We've found that high amounts of iron and low amounts of nitrogen is the right balance of nutrients for greening, without causing too much top growth."

Organics can be applied almost any time of year. In many parts of the country, so-called dormant application in late fall (after plants have quit growing) is part of the year-round feeding schedule.

"Chemically derived synthetic products are less expensive and tend to work faster than organics, giving more immediately visible results," says Arlene Kaufman, master gardener coordinator for the University of Wisconsin Extension Office in Milwaukee, Wisc. "Their fast-acting nature allows experienced users to employ them very precisely and effectively."

Manufacturers of synthetics offer products tailored to seasonal application, with easy-to-follow application guides.

The downside is that unlike organic fertilizers, synthetics can burn roots if over-applied and tend to leach out of the soil faster. They also contain mineral salts that can build up over time.

Vital Nutrients Essential for Growth

Proper fertilizing not only spurs spring growth, but helps make plants healthy and hardy in the long term. The vital nutrients nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium ("potash"), plus micronutrients such as iron, all serve specific purposes in the growth cycle.

- Nitrogen (N) aids in the development of leaves and stems and promotes rich, green leaf color. It also acts as a stimulant and is a vital cellular building block.
- Phosphorus (P) strengthens stems and helps production of seeds, fruit and flowers. It is particularly important to young plants when transplanting, sodding or seeding.
- Potassium (K) promotes strong, healthy roots. "Potassium is also critical for cell wall strength in plants and helps with disease resistance," says Archer. "If plants have a potassium deficiency, they lose moisture easily."

Those three primary nutrients comprise the N-P-K ratio by which fertilizers are rated and labeled. For example, a 100-pound bag of fertilizer labeled 10-10-10 contains 10 pounds of nitrogen, 10 pounds of phosphorus and 10 pounds of potassium. The three nutrients do not add up to 100 pounds because they are bound with other compounds.

When using any type of fertilizer, it's best to begin with a balanced formula. Side dressings of a particular nutrient can be added as needed for specific plants and conditions.. "Gardeners really need to look at those three numbers and use a balanced fertilizer," says Kaufman. "The key is in those numbers."

Kaufman also reminds people to stick to that old adage: Follow directions on the package for best results. "You don't want to add too much fertilizer. Some people think if one cup is good, two cups is better. Then they end up over-fertilizing. And the more you fertilize, the more you're going to have to cut your lawn. Over-fertilizing also causes excessive top growth in flowers or vegetable gardens."

Mowing and Watering Considerations

Along with a good feeding regimen, the right manicure will help keep your lawn healthy and happy. Professionals suggest setting your mower height at 2 to 3 inches. At that height, the plant's crown — where growth starts — will not be damaged, and enough leaf surface will remain for vigorous photosynthesis.

Watering is also key to keeping lawns lush and healthy, but don't overdo it, the experts caution. Long, slow watering that reaches the root system is vastly preferable to high-volume watering that runs off the surface.

The soil should be wetted to at least 3 to 4 inches at each watering. Don't water again until the ground dries to that depth. This helps force roots to grow down rather than sideways into the thatch layer.

For specific questions about caring for your lawn, contact your local lawn and garden expert where you purchase products, or your local university horticultural extension agent.

Colonial Style

"The collapsible tea tables and end tables that evolved because colonists were often on the move are also practical in our mobile society."

Loungelike steamer chairs and deck chairs where British emissaries and their families reclined during long voyages from England to the colonies also are part of the British Colonial furniture vernacular.

"Basically, the British integrated elements from the mother country their travels and the native cultures of the colonies into their lifestyles and new homes as they adapted to living in the tropics," says Bowling. "What they absorbed and adopted is reflected in British Colonial style."

The shape of British Colonial furniture reflects the more languid lifestyle of the tropics. Settees feature curved arms and caning on the seats and backs because caning is cooler than heavy upholstery.

Sofas feature the curved lines of the Victorian period, often with massive ball feet.

"Sofas and even trunks usually sit on legs because in the tropics they had to keep the furniture off the floor because of insects and other pests," Fredricsson explained.

Four-poster beds were popular, not strictly for romantic reasons but because netting or gauzy materials to keep pests away could be draped over the posts.

Chairs designed for relaxing with a cup of tea or a cool drink feature high, slanted backs and broad arms for comfort.

If you want to introduce the romantic British Colonial look into your existing decor, Pringle says it can be done by observing a few basic rules of interior design.

"Interior decor used to be matchy-matchy, but now it's more eclectic," she said. "Regardless of the style of your existing decor, you can introduce the romance of British Colonial with accessories as long as there is a unifying element, such as color, texture, or pattern. Scale should also be cohesive."

The dark woods typical of British Colonial furnishings are currently in vogue throughout the world of interior design, after a long period of light wood supremacy. Pringle suggests combining the dark British Colonial woods with light colors (such as white walls for a "peaceful, rich look."

Save the fancy furniture for when the kids grow up

by Stephanie Eastwood
Copley News Service

Like many parents of young children, Nancy Gimble of Gurnee, Ill., knows what her furniture is up against. With a 4-year-old daughter and a 6-year-old son, spills are unavoidable.

Instead of trying in vain to protect fancy furniture from grape juice, pizza sauce, markers, and muddy shoes, Gimble put her dreams of redecorating on hold.

"We have some really nice stuff in storage," she said with a laugh.

Gimble decided to keep the mint-condition Ethan Allen living room set her parents passed down to her out of harm's way until her kids get a little older. The family's antiques also are stowed away.

"We don't have the prettiest couch, but we just kind of live with it," she said.

Living with well-worn furniture may give parents of young children peace of mind, but when the couch springs give out or the end tables fall apart, they must be replaced. The dilemma is whether to splurge on expensive furniture that's made to last or to skimp on decor until Kool-Aid spills are no longer a daily threat.

Before making any decorating decisions, parents should embrace their situation, said interior designers Michael Main, Carla Davidovic, and Tina Pellegrino of Arden's Furniture in Libertyville, Ill. In a house with kids, furniture is going to get spilled on, dented, scratched, and torn, and parents who accept that will make wiser purchases.

"Your children will add character to your furniture," Main said.

With that in mind, parents should resist the urge to buy high gloss, intricately detailed, formal-looking furniture that is unforgiving when it comes to wear and tear. That means no black-lacquer end tables, no glass coffee tables, and no sofas with Victorian spindles. Casual and comfy is in, and parents should take advantage of that, Davidovic said.

Distressed wood is as trendy as it gets, and any additional kid-inflicted scrapes and dents won't be noticed. Giant hassocks are modern, unbreakable alternatives to the traditional coffee table, which can be a hazard to roughhousing kids.

In fabrics, durable leather is a popular option for families because it gains character as it wears. Casual cotton also is stylish and sturdy when combined with nylon for strength and polyester for easy cleaning. Protective slipcovers are even fashionable these days, with custom-made covers offering ease without frumpiness.

Casual, however, does not come cheap. To get a look that lasts, consumers often have to pay extra. A particleboard table might seem like a bargain, but with a few scratches and dents, it's ready for the trash.

A solid oak table, on the other hand, is pricier, but it's difficult to damage and easy to repair. The same is true of leather, which is expensive but can be patched or resurfaced to hide flaws.

Quality is worth the price, especially for parents, Davidovic said. The furniture that's used most should be the most expensive. Don't put the priciest pieces in the parlor nobody uses. Splurge on the furniture the kids will jump on, bang up, and stain, she said.

"Something cheap is not going to stand up normally, so it's not going to stand up to kids," she said. "I would recommend that people put their most expensive furniture in the family room."

Paul and Janet Inserra's daughter is just entering the terrible 2's, so when they redecorated they chose durable leather couches. Instead of buying new end tables, however, they kept the old solid-oak tables they've had for years because they can take a beating, they said.

Taking into account people's varying budgets, Davidovic said everyone, even parents, should furnish the rooms they use most with the best possible furniture they can afford.

Some reliable indicators of well-made furniture are hardwood frames held together with screws, glue, and dowels; integrated legs that are part of the frame and not just glued on; and eight-way, hand-tied coil springs similar to those in mattresses, Main said. Upgraded cushions treated with fabric sealant also are worth the extra expense because they make it easier to remove almost any stain, Davidonc said.

The designers recommend shoppers research products, ask questions, and wait for sales to get true bargains that will last for generations.

Gimble learned early on that saving for quality furniture is worth the wait. The well-made bedroom set her mom bought her when she was in junior high is the one she and her husband still use, and the furniture she keeps in storage is still stylish years after her parents bought it. With that in mind, she's holding out until she can buy the stuff she really wants.

SPRING/SUMMER HOME*FACTS*

Draining a water-logged lawn

Puddles forming on a lawn during heavy spring rains are not good for grass.

- Cut a 4-foot length of two-by-four board with a power saw. Cut twice along one edge of the board at 45 degree angles to form a pointed ridge that runs along the full length.
- Lay the board on the ground, sharp edge down, with one end of the board pointing in the direction you wish the water to drain. Pound the board 1 or 2 inches into the ground.
- Move the board to continue making your miniature drainage ditch. Gradually, water will drain along this small river.
- The ditch you've created will not be readily visible, and you will have no trouble mowing over it.
- The ditch eventually will fill in, so the process will need to be repeated each year.

Kitchen Traffic

Kitchen Design seen on Home and Garden Television suggests that when you're designing a new kitchen, make sure your passageways are wide enough to accommodate the traffic. With only one cook in the kitchen, 42-inch passages will be adequate. For more than one person, you'll need 48 to 54 inches rear of the refrigerator, remove all accumulated dust.

Also, remove any objects that may have fallen behind, especially if they are near the fan that cools the coils.

Before you call it a day, also check door gaskets. Major air leaks also diminish a refrigerator's efficiency and add to cooling costs. Russell suggests closing the door on a dollar bill. If it falls out, the gaskets need replacing. Sometimes, he says, a thin coat of Vaseline will improve the seal. (CNS)

Caulking Idea

Outdoor concrete and stone accessories have become great indoor items, but sometimes the bottoms are rough and scratch furniture. Adding felt or rubber furniture pads to the bottom of them can be a problem. Instead, Decorating With Style, a popular Home and Garden Television show, suggests using bathroom caulk. Just run a bead of caulk along the bottom of the piece and allow it to dry (CNS)

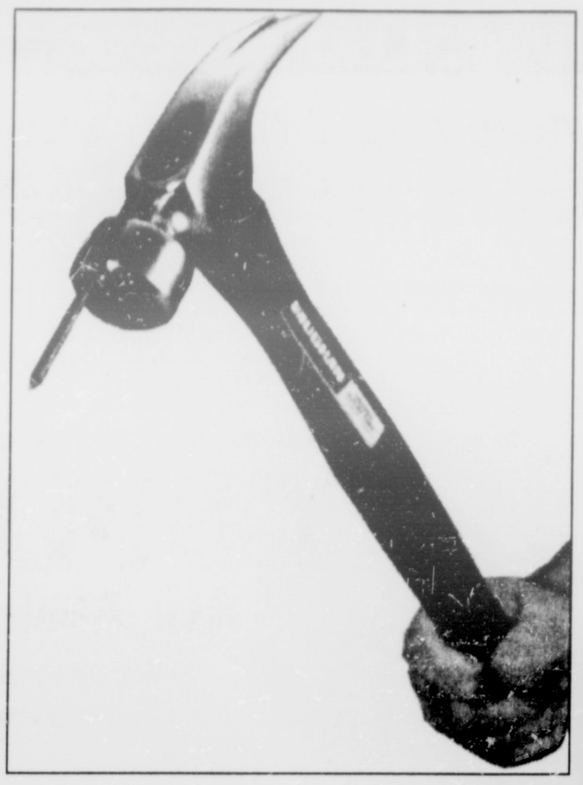
Hammer Away at Home Improvement Projects



The hammer is one of the oldest tools known to man. The "stone in hand" method was thought to be used all the way back in the 4th century B.C., before man decided to put the stone on a handle and create our first hammer. Needless to say, both humans and hammers have come a long way since then, and the former stone-age tool is becoming safer and more efficient all the time.

But before hammering in the first nail of spring, here are some striking hammer facts offered to you by Vaughan & Bushnell Manufacturing, the world's largest manufacturer of hammers and toolmakers since 1869, that any do-it-yourselfer should know and any professional should review.

Striking Hammer Facts

Did you know that most people grip a hammer the wrong way? The advice from experts - don't hold the hammer too tightly, instead grasp it lightly but firmly as if you were to shake someone's hand. Quality hammers provide two handle positions. Experts recommend that you grip the bell end of the handle for heavy hitting and the slight flair mid-handle for lighter blows.

Quality hammers never die - they improve with age. According to the experts at Vaughan, a quality hammer with a forged steel head and a precisely heat-tempered face, can get better with proper use because pounding keeps the temper in the striking face.

The 16-ounce common claw hammer which is used for most around-the-home jobs, comes in other weights - 10 and 13-ounce "finishing hammers" for lighter, finer work and heftier models up to 32 ounces for framing and heavy carpentry.

You can keep wood from splitting when hammering into it by blunting the point of the nail with a hammer before hammering. With the nail tip blunted, the nail will crush the wood fibers rather than shear through them, and the wood won't split.

Safety in Hammering

Although hammers appear to be the most basic of tools, they can be very dangerous if not used properly and with care. A quality hammer is a safer hammer, but all hammers should be treated with care and respect.

Innovations by Vaughan & Bushnell are making hammering even safer with a new hammer that actually holds the nail for you. Vaughan's new Blue Max California Framer hammer has a magnetic nail-holding notch that allows you to start a nail without putting your thumb in harm's way.

It also gives users further reach in starting and setting nails. The hammer's efficiency results in fewer bashed thumbs and the freedom to hammer with one hand.

Besides avoiding bashed thumbs, there are other safety rules to follow while hammering:

1. The number one rule for all hammering jobs is to wear safety glasses.
2. Make sure the handle of the hammer fits tightly on the head.
3. Do not strike a hard steel surface with a steel hammer. This may cause small pieces of steel to fly off and injure someone.
4. Do not use the hammer handle for striking, and never use it as a pry bar. This may cause the handle to split, which could result in a cut or pinch to the user.
5. Always strike the surface squarely - avoid glancing blows.
6. Never strike any hammer with or against another hammer.
7. Discard a hammer with a chipped or mushroomed face.
8. Do not use steel hammers on concrete, stone, or hard metal objects.
9. Replace loose or cracked handles
10. Discard hammers with cracked claws or eye sections

New books focus on homes for elegant living

by Mary Hellman James
Copley News Service

A new millennium has finally arrived. As the calendar turns, here are some recently published books that capture design in our time. Snapshots of style, each is also a window on an appealing way of life. Some may make you nostalgic; some may inspire you to travel. And some may spark your creativity for a little redecorating in 2001.

●Country doesn't have to be casual, author Patricia Hart McMillan convincingly demonstrates in Sun Country Elegant (Gibbs-Smith, $39.95). "Why the millennial move from farmhouse to manor house?" McMillan writes. "Prosperity must be among the most important reasons (but) elegance is not merely a matter of money. It is an attitude. Discernment and taste make it possible to create something wonderful from simple materials." Uncluttered lightdrenched interiors in the South, West, and points in between amply demonstrate McMillan's belief that elegant doesn't have to be stiff or uncomfortable. She fills the last half of the book with helpful hints on nature-inspired color schemes, accents (avoid anything "cute"), and resources. But you'll be inspired most by her heady mix of philosophy and practical advice.

●Perhaps it's the time of year, but it was easy to get lost in the winter wonderland of Snow Country: Mountain Homes and Rustic Retreats (Chronicle Books, $40). Author Elizabeth

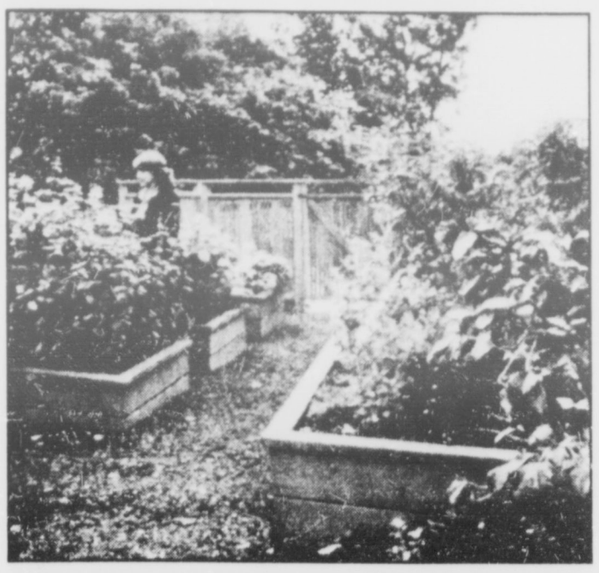
Raised Beds Make Gardening Easier



For most people, gardening is a relaxing, outdoor activity, as much anticipated as the coming of spring. But for those of us without the requisite 'green thumb,' the stress of tending to a garden and generating flourishing produce or flowers can be a daunting task. Still for others, the simple action of bending down for a long period of time deters them from enjoying their spring pastime.

Now, a different method of gardening, called raised-bed gardening, is increasing the enjoyment for gardeners everywhere, and making this sometimes strenuous activity productive and fun. Raised-bed gardens offer gardeners a number of advantages over conventional gardening.

Because you can easily supply your own soil mix, raised beds enable you to improve the quality of the soil where it naturally has a high clay content. The raised bed can also give you a head start on planting because its soil warms earlier than ground soil. You can work in wetter weather without getting your feet muddy or compacting the garden soil, and you can do less bending as you tend your plants and pick your vegetables.

A typical raised garden consists of long beds six inches to three feet high. The beds should be no broader than you can reach, but they can extend as far as your property lines allow. The path between beds can be as narrow as 12 inches or so. To prevent mud, you can top the path with gravel or build a preserved wood walkway.

Preserved wood is an excellent material to use when building raised beds. Because of its long life and ability to resist termites and decay, pressure-treated wood is ideal for the garden.

"Some organic gardening publications have objected to the use of preserved wood in gardens because of the chemicals used to pressure-treat the wood," said Mel Pine, manager of communications for the American Wood Preservers Institute (AWPI) in Fairfax, VA. "But research conducted by extension agents and academics in Texas found no cause for alarm."

Nevertheless, Pine added, gardeners who are concerned may line the wood with heavy-duty plastic. A plastic drop cloth normally used for painting might be one inexpensive source for the plastic liner.

Once the walls of the raised bed have been constructed, you can fill in the beds with soil and compost. Then you're set to plant.

With the efficiency of your raised-bed garden, it's likely that you'll have produce for yourself and your family, with plenty left over to share.

The Texas research on the safety of preserved wood in gardens and a host of additional information can be found on the AWPI's Web site, www.preservedwood.com.

New Books

Clair Flood and photographer Peter Woloszynski trekked around the West's famous ski country, including Mammoth and Tahoe, and took shelter in aging cabins, modern log-cabin look-alikes, and tony condos with Picassos on the wall. Often lived in year-round, the mostly eclectic interiors are an appealing hodgepodge of castoffs and local artifacts, confirming one designer's claim that "everyone wants mountain style, but everyone's idea of what is mountain style is different." In all, celebrated Western iconoclasm shines through, especially in a Tara clone in Big Sky country and a Wyoming trailer painted — believe it or not — to look like a pink log cabin, with a cheery Elvis waving from the window.

•Photographer Tim Street Porter's previous books including Casa Mexicana and The Los Angeles House are favorites in my design-book library. His latest, Tropical Houses: Living in Nature in Jamaica, Sri Lanka, Java, Bali and the Coasts of Mexico and Belize (Clarkson Potter, $60) is another must-have volume.

From the opening shot of a Bali resort's intricately carved doorway to a closing tour of color-drenched villas along the Mexican coast, Porter illuminates homes and retreats where "distinctions between indoors and out vanish...allowing the sights, sounds, and scents of nature to waft through living spaces." After more than a decade spent touring this intriguing area of the world, Porter is an informed, insightful tour guide, deftly using word and image to entice you to follow in his footsteps.

•Spend a week in Maine or Cape Cod and you'll find Living in New England (Simon & Schuster, $35) as tempting and satisfying as a fresh lobster dinner New York Times writer Elaine Louie and acclaimed photographer Solvi Dos Santos picked 25 homes to show off the quintessential American style of this historic region. Designer Bill Blass's country retreat in a 1770 tavern, painter Jamie Wyeth's island compound off the coast of Maine, an architect's grand Newport, R.I., mansion — all embody a love of simplicity and respect for the past, regardless of scale or pedigree. But don't expect cookie-cutter interiors. There's more than enough famed Yankee in-genuity on display to keep you enchanted, page after page.

•If you burned out on Santa Fe style many howling coyotes ago, you'll be pleasantly surprised by Southwest Style: A Home-Lovers Guide to Architecture and Design (Northland Publishing, $40). Eames table and chairs in an adobe's kitchen? A trellis laden with clematis flanked by ristras? A corrugated steel ceiling topping a "green" straw-bale house?

Yes, author Linda Mason Hunter and photographer Peter Vitale show these breaks with tradition — and more, while not ignoring definitive hallmarks (some might say cliches) of Four Corners decor Spend even a few minutes with this book and you'll be impressed by some fresh new looks, even if you still spot bleached cow skulls here and there.

The right colors can improve your mood

by Chandra Orr
Copley News Service

Color therapy can transform a home into a sanctuary of positive mood and invigorating emotion based on the idea that each major color is a different quality of light and each vibrates at its own energy level.

"Color and light are intimately connected with our feelings and emotions," writes Catherine Cumming in Color Healing Home (Mitchell Benzley, $14.95). "And their healing qualities have a profound effect on our mood and well being."

By placing different colors throughout your home, and combining them in different ways, you can induce a range of moods and healing emotional states, according to Cumming.

White provides a perfect backdrop to other colors. However, if overused, white can make a home feel empty, sterile, and isolating

White is associated with light, purity and grace," Cumming writes. It is clean, tranquil, and innocent."

Though it has the fastest vibration of any color, magenta is a gentle, nurturing, and protective color, Cumming says. It is the color of letting go, moving on, and unconditional and spiritual love. As with most colors, too much can have the opposite effect. Too much magenta may lead to fanaticism and arrogance.

Pink is most closely associated with love and romance. Gentle, soothing, caring, and affectionate, pink is an extremely feminine color. According to Cumming, it is the color of love and self-love. Because a lot of pink may be too much, it is best to temper it with white.

"Red is the most dense, heavy, and physical of all the colors," Cumming says. "Red is the color of primal energy. It rouses us to activity and fills us with the energy to get things done."

Relating to instinct and physical drive, red is the color of strength, sexuality, and passion, she says. Because red increases body temperature and stimulates blood circulation, too much can lead to exhaustion.

Orange works as an antidepressant, inviting joy, movement, and dance. According to Cumming, it can help with inhibitions and repressed feelings. Though orange encourages creativity, excitement, and humor, too much can lead to irresponsibility.

Yellow, the color associated with sunlight, is warm and optimistic. "It is the color of detachment and is related to control, will, and ego," Cumming says. "It stimulates our intellect and logical mind."

Yellow is known to stimulate the digestive process as well. However, according to Cumming, too much yellow can cause excess mental stimulation and arguments.

Balancing and restful, green is associated with nature, acceptance, and caring.

Green soothes emotions, though too much can cause indecision and inactive feelings.

"It is the middle of the visible spectrum and it is the neutral color — neither hot nor cold. Green represents equilibrium," Cumming states.

Turquoise boosts physical and emotional immunity. "It is a very cooling, youthful, expressive color, and one that is good for relieving inflammatory conditions," according to Cumming. Too much of this color leads to isolation and confusion.

Calming and comforting, blue is truthful and peaceful, the color of honesty, devotion, and aspiration.

"Blue slows things down, eases stress, tension, and pain," Cumming writes. "Too much blue, however, can become isolating, overly calming, and demotivating."

Violet is a soothing and tranquil color, feeding the area of insight, intuition, and perception. Violet is closely associated with a meditative environment.

"This is the color of introspection, meditation, contemplation, dignity, and respect, and it boosts self-esteem," Cumming states. "But it is best avoided by those who tend to live too much in a fantasy world."

According to Cumming, black should be used sparingly, as it can be draining and negative. "Black is sometimes thought to be protective in nature. However, it is not a healthy color as it does not transmit light, allowing no colors through to the skin."

Though gray can be flat and lifeless when used alone, it can provide enormous support to other colors, according to Cumming. "An environment that contains no gray can sometimes seem to lack solidarity and structure.

"Brown is the most grounded of all colors," Cumming says. "The influence of this color helps to bring us down to earth and to make us feel rooted and

Shade Selection Made Easier

Inspired by pictures of lime living rooms? Determined to splash some color on your walls and ceilings? Off you go to a paint store only to be confused by rows of tiny paint chips. How to pick the right hue from those zillion shades of blue?

Benjamin Moore appreciates paint panic and, with its Color Preview system hopes to help. The 117-year-old New Jersey company has pared and reorganized its paint colors to provide "a road map that will lead you to the color you want," said Leslie Harrington, director of color and design. Responding to consumer confusion, the company decided that "the old notion of having the most colors needed rethinking for the 21st century," she said "It's not about the most colors. It's about having the best colors — and being able to visualize them in your house."

In-store displays present 2-inch squares of 1,400 colors divided into "simple" (red, blue, etc.) or "complex" (smoky sage, etc.) categories. "To do a disaster check and build confidence in your choice," Harrington said the system allows customers to view colors in room settings, in different light and with different trim options.

For inspiration, there are flip charts and cards of professional, historical, and most popular color combos.

Currently, Harrington says, very complex neutrals and soft "complexion" shades are in vogue.

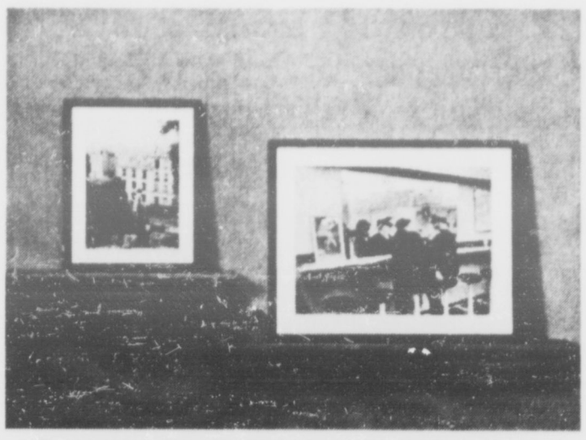
Think Spring ... Fresh Ideas For Your Walls



Spring is a time to start fresh and try new things. So, there is no better time than now to experiment and be adventurous in your own home.

You can start by adding a little life to your home with these simple suggestions from Art.com. These techniques will add texture and depth to your walls and accentuate your artwork.

Emphasize your artwork with paint:

— Using either stencils or freehand drawings, create an additional frame for your artwork by painting a few simple accents on the walls surrounding your framed art. Choose an accent that will compliment the subject matter of your artwork. For example, you could accent a framed landscape or still life print with painted ivy or ribbons. For a more modern piece, you may try using geometric shapes or overlapping thin lines to border the entire piece of artwork. Experiment on paper to find the right accent for your artwork.

— Create a three-dimensional look that will draw more attention to your artwork with color-blocking techniques. This can be achieved by painting a rectangle on the wall where you plan to hang your art. To do this, measure the artwork and mark the space on the wall where you plan to hang it. Next, carefully paint a rectangle considerably larger than the size of your artwork. Using a third color, paint a thin border around the edge of the rectangle you just painted to create a more finished look. After the paint has dried, hang your framed print. Your new wall should look more dramatic and provide a greater emphasis on your artwork.

Accent with shelves and ledges:

— Draw attention to your framed artwork by installing small shelves or narrow ledges on your walls to showcase your art. This works well if you do not have a fireplace with a mantel. Temporary shelving comes in all sorts of shapes and sizes and can be installed symmetrically for a more traditional setting or staggered for a more contemporary look. Depending on the weight of your artwork and the sturdiness of the shelves, you can either place the artwork directly on the shelves or hang the artwork above it. Place accent objects, such as candles, vases, books, etc. on the shelves below the artwork to further compliment your art.

If you are looking for an even easier way to brighten up your home this season, bring the outdoors inside with some new bright floral prints or elegant black-and-white nature photography. These breathtaking images from Art.com will revitalize your soul and your home.

So whether you're a single apartment dweller just starting out or a long time homeowner, a few simple decorating techniques and some delightful art objects can transform your living quarters in no time. Decorating for any season has never been easier than at www.art.com.

Warm Temperatures Can Cause Trouble For Your Refrigerator

Oh no. It's a steamy Sunday morning and the refrigerator sounds sick. In the freezer, Klondike Bars are already leaking vanilla ice cream. What to do? The owner's manual suggests a trouble-shooting check of the coils behind the front grille. Yipes. The flashlight illuminates an embarrassing mess — dirt, dust, and enough hair to coat several cats. A thorough vacuuming later, whew! The fridge is frigid again.

In the hottest months, refrigerators always get a workout. But who would ever want the family fridge to work overtime — or inefficiently?

"Whenever we get a snap of red hot weather, we get calls from people saying my refrigerator is running all the time and warming up, said Bruce Russell, manager of La Mesa Appliance in California. "We always suggest they clean the condenser coils and see if that solves the problem."

The condenser cools hot refrigerant vapors inside its tubes; but if they are dust covered, the heat lingers, the refrigerator's interior temperature rises, and the compressor tries to compensate by running more often.

Whether your condenser coils are located under the unit or mounted on the back, Russell recommends removing debris and dust quarterly — more often if you have pets or a large household. Use the crevice tool on your vacuum or a special condenser coil cleaning brush (check with your local appliance store). Unplug the unit. Then, working from the front and rear of the refrigerator, remove all accumulated dust.

Also, remove any objects that may have fallen behind, especially if they are near the fan that cools the coils.

Before you call it a day, also check door gaskets. Major air leaks also diminish a refrigerator's efficiency and add to cooling costs. Russell suggests closing the door on a dollar bill. If it falls out, the gaskets need replacing. Sometimes, he says, a thin coat of Vaseline will improve the seal. (CNS)

There's nothing quite as relaxing as lying in a hammock

by Pat Stein
Copley News Service

To tame the tensions of the day, take a tip from ancient Mayans: Hang out in a hammock.

"If lying in a hammock with a good book or just listening to the birds doesn't make you relax, chances are nothing will," says Paul de Smit, owner of Exotic Hammocks in Encinitas, Calif.

De Smit is arguably a leading authority on the hanging beds used for centuries in South and Central America. Since the early 1980s, he has imported hand-woven hammocks from Costa Rica, El Salvador, Brazil, and Mexico. He also manufactures a line of hanging beds and chairs.

Hammocks are made of cotton, polyester or nylon string, rope, canvas, or Textilene, a weatherproof material. Top-of-the-line models are padded for extra comfort. Expect to pay anywhere from $25 to $175 for a hammock.

Large hammocks — as wide as a king-size bed — are rated for up to 2,000 pounds and can cradle a couple of adults, plus two tots, and a pup. At the opposite end of the size spectrum is a compact backpacker's special that fits into a small pouch.

Hammocks come in two basic styles — those with wooden arms or spreader bars that make the bed flat and firm, and those without arms that tend to mold to the body.

De Smit favors the armless Maya model for comfort, convenience, and versatility. He contracts with villagers in the jungles of the Yucatan Peninsula to weave the type of hammocks they have slept in for centuries. Two miles of cotton cord go into the bed itself, which is suspended from hundreds of strands of resilient nylon cord attached to sturdy metal rings at either end.

This simple hammock is portable, and easy to store and clean.

"You can just put it in a pillowcase and in the washing machine to clean it. And, it can be rolled up into a very small package so it's easy to take on camping trips. People who own boats like to take them along to hang between the main mast and forestay for relaxing when they're at anchor," de Smit says. "When not in use, you can hang it from both ends on one hook or fold it up."

Costa Rican hammocks are made of cotton twill with bright accents, while gaily colored "rainbow" hammocks from El Salvador are made of canvas. Earth-toned hammocks from Brazil are made of canvas edged with fringe.

The tighter the weave, the more comfortable the hammock, according to de Smit. Still, many people gravitate to the classic rope hammock "because it's what they're used to seeing."

Most hammocks stretch 10 to 15 feet between suspension points. A hammock can be slung between a sturdy fence post and the side of a house, two posts, two trees, or a tree and a post.

Eight-foot posts should be sunk in cement in holes 2 to 3 feet deep, at least 10 feet apart, depending on the size of the hammock. For spreader bar hammocks, allow a 15-foot span.

Inside the house or on a porch or balcony, a hammock can be suspended from "J" hooks firmly screwed into studs or beams. Chains on either end of the hammock adjust the height.

A hammock should be suspended about 4 feet off the ground, depending on the amount of weight it must support. A properly hung armless hammock should "look like a quarter moon," said Kristy Olson, an employee of Exotic Hammocks.

If none of these options work, or if you want to be able to move your hammock around, consider a free-standing hammock frame. Simple models of metal tubing sell for $79, while a wooden arklike stand made by a ship-building firm in North Carolina rings up at $480.

Where space is at a premium, try the compact hammock chair. Priced at $69 to $125, the woven cotton chairs are suspended from a single point in the ceiling.

If you've seen classic comedies of people flipping out of hammocks, you know there's a right and a wrong way to get into one.

"Reach out and spread the hammock before sitting down with your back to the hammock," de Smit explains. "Sit down as if you're about to sit in a chair and then lie back. Never get in feet first."

To get out of the hammock, swing your legs over the side, put your feet on the ground and sit up. Hold the edges of the hammock, stand, and push yourself up and off.

A good hammock properly cared for should last about seven years, according to de Smit, who mail orders hammocks all over the United States.

connected with the physical world that surrounds us."

Gold is a masculine color suggesting abundance, wisdom, and high ideals. It works best with hot colors like red and orange, according to Cumming.

Silver, a feminine color radiating movement, change, and knowledge, is best used with cool colors like blue and violet.

Stay away from murky hues, which can generate confusion or depression, Cumming states. "As a general rule, be guided by the fact that the purer the hue, the healthier its effect on you tends to be."

Cumming suggests mixing several colors together or several shades of the same color family for the effect you're seeking. Orange and red together radiate intimacy and exotic locales, while a room decorated with shades of pink, light blue, and pale violet creates a calming effect.

Splashes of complementary colors, like orange and blue or red and turquoise, bring a sense of balance to a room, Cumming states.

Try these color tips in your home, by repainting an entire room or adding splashes of color with new pillows and curtains, "to improve energy around you, lift your spirits, and to create a bright and cheerful living space," Cumming suggests.

Antiques Remain Popular For Both Furnishing And Decorating

Antiques are like old books. They hold a limitless universe of knowledge waiting patiently to be revealed. Like a red violin, waiting for it's next owner as it passes through history from generation to generation. And people who collect antiques are as passionate about their collections as they are about the pursuit and discovery of something old that brings them closer to the past.

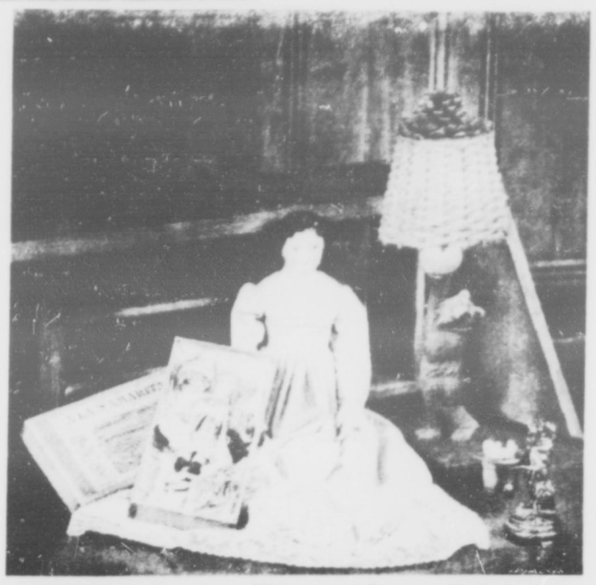
An antique, by definition, is an object at least a hundred years old. Many are heirlooms that have been handed down from generation to generation: furniture, silver, china, stoneware, folk art, quilts, toys and other family collectibles. Some antiques are treasured finds that evoke a nostalgic memory or tradition. Others are collected because of their monetary value such as furniture, art and historic pieces.

Europe's old markets, Portobello Road and Bermondsey in London, Porta Portunese in Rome, El Rastro in Madrid and Le Marche' aux Puces in Paris, have been enticing collectors for ages. Millions have cut their collector's teeth in the crowded, nostalgic lanes of these antique markets.

Collecting and antiquing also remains a top leisure time activity in the United States. Antique Road Show, E-Bay, and American and European flea markets are thriving. A subculture of avid collectors have been born, filling the urge to acquire through tag sales, estate sales, flea markets, antique shops and open air antique fairs. Located on city streets, or a mile or two down country roads, these sales often brim with coveted treasures, or junk just waiting to be renewed and transformed into something functional.

And just what types of items do people search far and wide to acquire? A few of the most sought after antique pieces for serious and nostalgic collectors include:

- Items that are amusing or have historical significance.
- Political subjects, cars, airplanes, balloons, Western subjects and well known artists.
- Photographs of 19th or early 20th century celebrities or transportation.
- Fashion photos by well-known photographers.
- American Indian subjects; historical landmarks and events.
- Books in good condition with a dust cover and no missing pages.
- Old toys and vintage clothing.
- Turn of the century furniture.



Antique replicas from Midwest of Cannon Falls include: a popular vintage china-head doll; a box with a small doll and clothing sewn inside, (These boxes were given away in the early 1900's in Paris stores as free gifts); a Black Forest Bear lamp and a dog match stick holder (both the originals were purchased in Paris antique markets for replication by CEO Kathy Brekken.)

Serious Collectors, like Jeff Wilson from Northfield, Minn. are well aware of the lure of the hunt. Wilson has been collecting antiques ever since he could remember. "My family collected so I was always surrounded by old things," he notes. "My love for antiques can't be focused on one thing. It extends to anything eclectic and eccentric. I collect things that evoke a story. When I look at a piece I wonder why it survived. Why did people take care of this piece and preserve it through the years? What made it special; the curve of the wood, the fabric, a memory? That's the lure that draws me into antiques."

Among the collections of Wilson, and his wife, Lisa, are antique chairs, Christmas ornaments, books, tea cups, tea pots - the list is long. But Wilson will readily admit that his favorite antique is his 1872 American Gothic style house — a perfect place for a person who cherishes preservation of the past.

Being able to incorporate his love of antiquing into his job is a perk for Wilson. As vice-president of design and product development at Midwest of Cannon Falls, a Minnesota-based giftware company, Wilson has had the opportunity to introduce some of his antique pieces into the company's line, manufacturing them as antique replicas. "We are very clear in stating that we are not trying to pass our replicas off as antiques," Wilson stresses. "We are making reproductions of antiques that are affordable and accessible to people who may not have access to original antiques due to price points or availability. Yet, if you put the original and the replica side by side, you may have difficulty telling which is which. The quality and detail of our reproductions are that good."

Wilson isn't the only one with the antique bug at Midwest of Cannon Falls. CEO and president Kathy Brekken has done her share of antiquing and after heading up the family business for nearly 20 years, has found it a refreshing resource for "researching" new product ideas.

She reminisces, "Thanks to my Grandma, I've always liked old 'stuff'. My Mother is a far more practical-oriented individual and had little time for things that just sat around to be dusted. I would go with my Grandma into her attic and I loved the idea of a connection to the past. My Grandma and Grandpa had many things that were family heirlooms: the desk my Grandfather's family brought from Maine to the Midwest; the lovely Chinese tapestries and furniture from an ancestor who raised her family in Shanghai."

Brekken is just as enthusiastic about antique reproductions. "I love the concept of replicas because it allows people to have a sense of history and older style without having to pay the price for it. Midwest of Cannon Falls' replicas are wonderful because they are so exact and true to the original. Our sources excel in duplicat-

Stucco Is Good Sealer For Walls

Freshen the appearance of a concrete retaining wall that's cracked and dingy by adding a coat of stucco to the wall. Popular Mechanics magazine suggests applying a coat of concrete bonder first. If the wall is cracked or damaged but straight, apply a layer of wire lath over the entire wall to tie the blocks together and ensure the stucco will adhere.

Secure the wire lath with concrete nails driven into holes bored with a masonry bit and electric drill. Space the nails about 12 inches apart.

Mix a stucco base coat of one part portland cement, one part mason's cement, and two parts fine sand. Trowel this coat on to a thickness of about ½ inch, or enough to cover the wire lath if you're using it.

With the base coat dry, trowel on a coat of stucco mix. After applying the first cover of stucco, use a trowel or rubber float to create a textured stucco pattern.

Antiques Remain

ing pieces, so using original antiques for reproduction fit their skill set perfectly. And, frankly, we couldn't redesign it better!" She adds, "Replicas are reminiscent of a time and a look, and I love that. Unfortunately for my pocketbook, when it comes to my personal buying, I prefer the truly old and original.

"I do particularly love one piece we replicated. Jeff Wilson and I were at an antique market near the Louvre in Paris and found some lovely bronzes - small, in a style that could fit many homes, but way too pricey for most. I bought a small bronze dog holding a top hat (the hat was intended to hold match sticks). We reproduced this item and now have a piece that is virtually identical to the original for a fraction of the price. The original was over $800 and ours retails for only $17!"

Talking with other collectors, the consensus was they often purchased replicas to fill in their collections. One woman said that not everyone could afford to acquire all the original antiques they wanted and complimenting with replicas simply added to the wholeness of her collection. It also satisfied her desire for a particular piece she couldn't afford, or sometimes filled in when she couldn't locate the original.

The big question that lies behind each antique, reproduction or just plain junk that you couldn't resist purchasing is, "What do I do with this when I get it home?" We turned to other experts at Midwest of Cannon Falls to give us some direction. We found that creating a personal statement in today's decorating dovetails with the trend of antiquing and flea market finds.

"Antiques and flea market finds have become so popular in decorating," states Ingrid Liss, creative director of the company. "Shabby chic is considered today's most popular trend. Items that have been discarded are now being retrieved and revived. The trend includes mixing items whose elegance has faded over time with newer styles. You'll find the patina of age and wear resonates with beauty and personality." Liss stresses not worrying about the correct mix. The content isn't as important as is the expression. "The mix will be right if it is truly an expression of one's personal taste," states Liss. The simple, practical, quiet style of shabby chic has evolved into reviving furniture, fabrics and home accessories that offer casual appeal, allowing for a mixture of old and new.

The eclectic mix of decorating with antiques offers an undeniable personal statement. A slight imperfection adds a sense of history. A worn finish can actually enliven the room with character. By adding affordable antique replicas or reconstructing old junk as accents to original antiques, people are able to compliment the old with the new, while retaining the story of each piece.

If you like shabby chic decorating, the ideas are endless:

- old furniture of any kind that can be repainted, re-hardwared and reupholstered.
- lamps and chandeliers that can be painted and rewired.
- vintage fabrics that can be reused as furniture covers, curtains, dresser scarves, wall decor, etc.
- crocks, firewood and coal carriers, tin pie cupboards and bread boxes that can be used as functional accent pieces (reused as spoon holders, magazine racks, spice shelves, etc.)
- old doorknobs, hinges and locks that can be recycled as coat hooks or furniture accents.

As you can see, there are many facets of antiquing: The serious collector who looks for the monetary and historical value in antiques; the collector who buys out of nostalgia and reflects personal tastes; those who purchase original antiques with the intent to replicate and supplement the market; the buyer who is interested in antique junk to create their own piece of artwork or turn it into a functional piece to fit today's personal lifestyles.

There is no right or wrong way to collect antiques, but remember, items of good design and beauty are as important as price. Buy what you personally like and are compelled to collect, and incorporate these pieces into your homes in ways that fit your own lifestyle. This way the age-old passion for antiquing and cherishing the past will never fade or loose its patina.

For further information regarding Midwest of Cannon Falls and their antique replicas, visit their Web site at www.midwestofcannonfalls.com.

SPRING/SUMMER HOMEFACTS

Roof repairs

The warm-weather months are a good time to make roof repairs. A few things to remember:

- Snow and ice will slide off a roof better if 2 to 3 feet of metal flashing is installed at the bottom edge of a roof. Use aluminum or galvanized metal for this wet location. The flashing must be installed before the shingles.
- Roofing materials are purchased and measured in squares. A square is 100 square feet. When obtaining bids, compare prices based on squares and be sure you are comparing the same type of materials.
- Spring is a good time to check for winter damage. Check for cracks in vinyl gutters. Check aluminum gutters to be sure they are not bent and that the slope is still correct. Look for blistered, curled or torn shingles. A pair of binoculars will make this job easier.
- Just as you did in the fall, be sure the roof, gutters and downspouts are free of leaves, pine needles and other debris.

Master Gardener Not Needed To Grow Beautiful Flowers

An easy way to grow for success
By Mike Ferrara, The Lazy Homeowner

You don't have to be a master gardener to have the most beautiful flowers in your neighborhood. If you're like me, you love how bright, colorful flowers dress up your home, but you don't want to spend a lot of time laboring over them. The process of choosing, planting and maintaining plants can be overwhelming. I've discovered a collection of flowering plants called 'Simply Beautiful' that can make even a lazy homeowner look like a professional gardener.

Simply Beautiful is a new national brand of the most beautiful, consumer-friendly flowers ever to be found in stores and gardens. These plants are unique not only because they are proven performers, but also because they come with a special "all-you-need-to-know" support system. This includes plant tags with simple, easy-to-understand growing tips, and an interactive web site — all designed to give you confidence and ensure your gardening success.

Among the elite is the new 'Tidal Wave' Petunia. Believe it or not, it's bigger than a Wave Petunia and has actually launched a whole new class of petunias: 'Hedgiflora' because of its hedge like quality. Whether in beds or large patio containers, phenomenal is a good way to describe Tidal Wave and the way it grows and changes almost before your eyes. The one-of-a-kind 'Tidal Wave' can fill in a full square yard of garden space and explodes with color all season long.

For your gardens, hanging baskets, and planters that will be in the sun, choose the intense color of 'Periwinkle Blue' Lobelia. Large white centers and cascades of blossoms highlight these blue-purple flowers all summer long. And unlike standard lobelia varieties, 'Periwinkle Blue' shows great tolerance to the heat. Another heat-loving winner is the 'Butterfly' Penta. Hundreds of small starry flowers adorn each flower head and although they look tropical, they can take anything Mother Nature can dish out in the North. You'll enjoy watching the parade of butterflies, hummingbirds and bees that are attracted to these plants too.

AngleMist summer snapdragons are a poor man's orchid that thrive in both dry and wet conditions.

For your shady garden spots, I can't say enough about 'Fiesta' double impatiens. These vibrant flowers are foolproof, and will add masses of bright blooms to any shaded container or bed. They are heat-tolerant and bloom con-tinuously until the first frost. Speaking of heat-tolerant, don't forget 'AngleMist' summer snapdragons, sort of a poor man's orchid that thrives in both dry and wet conditions.

You will find all of these and dozens of other Simply Beautiful plants at fine garden centers. You can also learn more about the collection by visiting www.simplybeautifulgardens.com.

Energy Conservation Good For Soaring Utility Bills

Solid Core Siding combines an attractive, durable siding and a solid core backing, creating a complete exterior system, which offers great looks for homeowners and easy installation for installers.

Last year's soaring energy bills left many homeowners with empty pocketbooks. Increasing natural gas prices and electricity shortages occurred with little warning. Protect yourself from skyrocketing bills by making your home more energy efficient.

Most homes can become more energy efficient in both the summer and the winter just by adding a little insulation. Insulation helps control and maintain a home's temperature. Whether containing cold air from an air conditioner or warm air from a heater, insulation can help.

The U. S. Department of Energy has developed a measuring system to help homeowners determine the thermal resistance of different insulation materials, such as windows, siding, fiberglass insulation, etc. The term 'R-Value' is a unit of thermal resistance used for comparing insulating values of different materials. The higher the R-Value of a material, the greater its insulating properties and the slower the heat flows through it. The U.S. Department of Energy recommends that homes have a combined R-Value of 11.

Following are a couple of ways that homeowners can increase their home's R-Value.

* Make sure that existing windows and doors are properly sealed. Replace old windows with double pane replacement windows with argon gas and a foam filled frame. Argon is an inert gas that prevents outside air from penetrating the home. The foam filled frame acts as an additional insulator around seams and helps reduce noise. Doors, like windows, should have tight seals. Homeowners can use caulking around windows and door-frames to insure strong seams.

* Homeowners can insulate existing walls with insulating foam. Foam is blown into walls throughout the home and takes up space within the walls. Homeowners can also roll fiberglass insulation onto attic floors.

* For the exterior, insulate with solid core siding. While foam and fiberglass insulate only the wall cavity, solid core siding insulates the entire wall, including studs and joists. Solid core siding features an insulated core inside the siding for increased thermal resistance.

* Look for building products that carry the Energy Star logo. The U.S. Department of Energy and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency developed the Energy Star logo to identify products, which meet the energy efficiency guidelines set by these two government agencies. When installed as suggested in the Energy Star Insulation Guide, products with this logo can save energy.

To learn more about Solid Core Siding, call Crane Performance Siding. Solid Core Siding not only increases energy efficiency, but it also increases noise reduction and impact resistance, and carries the Energy Star logo. It is four times stronger than vinyl siding and has an R-Value as high as 4.5. To receive free information, call 1-800-366-8472 or visit www.vinyl-siding.com.

Former Resident Sentenced For Assault Charges

A former Friendsville resident recently received a sentence to the Department of Corrections (DOC) for assault charges by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Jim Sherbin.

Charles Edward Meinhart Jr., 37, was sentenced to eight years to the DOC for first-degree assault. A conviction for second-degree assault resulted in a concurrent sentence of three years. Meinhart had pleaded guilty to the charges in November and a presentence investigation report was ordered, according to the state's attorney for Garrett County's office.

Meinhart was arrested by Maryland State Police, who responded to the Guardian Apartment complex in Friendsville on May 27, 2000, for reported shots being fired. Witnesses at that location gave statements that, as a follow-up to a disturbance earlier in the evening to which police responded, Meinhart came out of his apartment with a shotgun and threatened to shoot a number of persons outside.

According to State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, Meinhart approached Carl Nathan Friend, put the shotgun beside his head, and fired one shot. Additional victims reported that, while making threats, Meinhart had pointed the gun in their direction.

Police recovered a .410 gauge shotgun near the scene and a spent shell casing in Meinhart's pocket. When Meinhart was placed under arrest, he resisted the efforts of the officers to take him into custody and had to be restrained by a number of state troopers and Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

In another circuit court case, Shawna Renay Parker, 28, of Glen Burnie and formerly of Oakland, was sentenced by Judge Sherbin for charges of first-degree burglary, theft under $300 (misdemeanor theft), and malicious destruction of property under $300.

For the burglary charge, she received a sentence of three years to the DOC, with 18 months suspended; for the theft charge, she received a sentence of 18 months; and for the destruction of property charge, she received a sentence of 18 months. These three sentences are to run concurrently. After her release, she will be on supervised probation for 18 months, with conditions in-

WHAT A DIFFERENCE A WEEK MAKES, at least during a Garrett County spring. The daffodils that appeared on the front page of The Republican last week are shown again today after their short, rough life. They opened in almost too-warm temperatures that sent them to an early wilt, and then they were engulfed in snow yesterday morning. Snow showers fell almost constantly Tuesday and Wednesday, and flowers everywhere were buried. Perhaps the white stuff has finally made its exit for the season, as temperatures are supposed to climb throughout the next several days. But in Garrett County, who knows?

Reported Coin Theft Results In Felony Charge

A 19-year-old Mountain Lake Park man was arrested Tuesday by Garrett Bureau of Investigation officers in connection with a theft of coins from a residence along K Street in Mountain Lake Park.

Chad Allen Callis, 19, was charged with felony theft after the theft was reported to GBI by a Mtn. Lake Park resident. An investigation revealed that several thousand dollars in coins were stolen from the residence in early April.

GBI investigators were able to determine that Callis allegedly exchanged more than $1,000 in coins at a local bank on April 9. An additional $1,200 in coins were recovered from a wooded area in Gorman after Callis' arrest, investigators said.

Callis was released from the Garrett County Jail on his own recognizance.

In another incident, Adam Lucas told police that his son discovered various items missing from a barn along Garrett Highway, with a total value of $688.

The reported missing items are: four "Shakespeare" poles, four trout poles, and a 5-gallon gas can filled with gasoline.

Barefoot Boy Roams Away From Home; Police Find Him Unharmed

A local family experienced several hours of panic last Thursday when 3-year-old Joshua Beitzel wandered out of his McHenry house in the morning and went for an extended walk with his dog. Several police units, family members, neighbors, and others responded to the scene to search for Joshua, and he was found in the Mosser Road area at 12:45 p.m.

According to reports, Debbie Beitzel, mother of the child, checked on Joshua in his bedroom and then proceeded with housework. A short time later, she checked him again and he was gone. Apparently the boy opened a latched door to leave, barefoot, with his chow dog.

Units from the McHenry barrack, the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, the county sheriff's department's K-9 unit, the Cumberland police department's K-9 unit, Natural Resources Police (NRP), and members of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, along with family and friends, combed the area around the home. The Pennsylvania State Police helicopter was en route to the scene when Joshua was found by an NRP officer.

The child was unharmed and reportedly in good spirits. He had wandered around the area, covering perhaps two to three miles, and was located about a half-mile from home. When he was found, he was apparently unaware of his plight and was playing along a creek with his dog.

George and Debbie Beitzel extended their thanks to all who helped find Joshua.

Pennsylvania Man Injured In ATV Wreck

A Fombell, Pa., man was flown to Cumberland Memorial Hospital last Friday afternoon after the all-terrain vehicle he was driving crashed on private property near the Avilton-Lonaconing Road. Richard M. Kroll Jr., 37, was treated and later discharged from the hospital, according to reports.

Police reported that the mishap occurred when the ATV struck a stream embankment. Kroll went over the handlebars, severely injuring his right leg.

Responding to the accident were members of the Department of Natural Resources search and rescue team, the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, and the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department.

Child Struck By Pickup Truck In Friendsville

A 3-year-old child of Baltimore area parents visiting Friendsville sustained minor injuries Friday morning after darting into traffic and being struck by a slow-moving pickup truck, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack.

At approximately 10:30 a.m. the child ran out into Maple Street from between two parked cars and was struck by an eastbound 1997 Ford Ranger operated by Alan Nathan Friend, 26, Friendsville. Friend immediately hit his brakes but was unable to avoid striking the child.

Investigating troopers said that Friend's slow speed and alertness at the wheel averted a much more serious incident. The child was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., for observation and was treated and released. No charges were filed.

Vehicle, ATV Accidents Injure Several People

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a motor vehicle accident Friday in which a Friendsville man was charged for failing to yield the right of way.

Henry Clay Lewis Jr., 65, pulled out of a private parking lot along Maryland Highway into the path of a westbound vehicle driven by Catherine Roberts, 21, Mountain Lake Park. According to police, Roberts attempted to avoid hitting the Lewis vehicle but failed.

The occupants of Roberts' vehicle were transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

The Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

In another incident, the driver of a 1991 Ford station wagon was injured in a single vehicle accident Tuesday around 3:40 p.m.

Jane Sara Gank, 24, Oakland, was traveling west on North Hill Road, east of Upperman Road, when she failed to follow the right curve of the road, crossed the center line, and struck a tree, according to police.

Gank received minor abrasions, but the three children passengers were uninjured. She was treated and released from GCMH.

An Oakland man was injured Saturday while he was operating a 2000 Honda Rancher along private property when he collided with a mailbox post.

According to the report, John Charles Gillespie, 40, was thrown off the vehicle when it overturned. He was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH for treatment. He was admitted and later released.

Gorman Fire Department also responded to the scene.

A 5-year-old Westernport boy was transported by private vehicle to GCMH, where he was treated and released, after he was involved in an accident with an ATV.

According to the report, he was operating the vehicle on private property, lost control, and hit the handle bars.

Sheriff's deputies received a complaint in reference to a pickup truck operating in a reckless manner on Thursday, which resulted in the arrest of a Loch Lynn man for driving while intoxicated.

According to the report, a deputy located and stopped the truck operated by Darrell Ray Ravenscroft, 25, along First Avenue in Loch Lynn and detected an odor of alcohol on the Tax Rate To Be Unchanged; "Truth In Taxation" Act Changes Formula

The real property tax rate in Garrett County will remain the same this year, as announced Tuesday by the Garrett County commissioners. The fiscal authority is under obligation to host a public hearing each year to announce the county's tax rate if it is raised or if it will bring in increased revenue. Currently the rate is $2.59 per $100 of assessed real property, and it will continue at that rate.

The "truth in taxation" legislation passed last year by the Maryland General Assembly adjusted the real property tax rate to reflect the conversion from 40% market value assessments to 100% full cash value assessments. While assessments rose to 100% full cash value, the tax rate decreased by the same ratio in order to maintain a revenue neutral result. Based on this adjustment, the present tax rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessment would equate to $1.036 per $100 of assessment.

By holding the rate at $1.036 per $100 of assessment, there will be a 3.8% increase in revenue, amounting to $621,401. If the fiscal authority lowered the rate to bring in the same amount of money as last year, the rate would be .998 per $100 of assessment.

"We'd like to lower it, of course," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg. "But we have genuine needs and important goals throughout the county that should be met."

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel agreed. "We've been able to hold the line while facing some really tough challenges," he said. He noted that property assessment for any one owner cannot exceed a 5% increase in one assessment period.

Chairman Fred Holliday then noted that the budget for the next fiscal year will be officially announced on Tuesday, May 8, at 11 a.m. in the commissioners' meeting room.

County Receives Grant To Fix Flooding Problems In Grantsville

Governor Parris N. Glendening has announced the Board of Public Works' approval of a $150,000 grant to protect the town of Grantsville from flooding caused by stormwater overflows.

"It is critical to protect Marylanders from the adverse affects of rising water and overflowing wastewater treatment plants," said Glendening. "This funding will not only protect the citizens of Grantsville, but will also protect nearby streams from erosion and preserve the area's water quality."

The town's existing network of storm drains is adequate during ordinary rainfall, but quickly overflows during intense precipitation, causing considerable erosion in receiving streams, the governor noted. The overflows have also washed larger amounts of runoff into the Casselman River, affecting its water quality.

The grant funding comes from the state's Stormwater Pollution Control Cost Share Program administered by the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE). The grant funds the majority of the project that is to flood-proof the area. Design and construction of a new stormwater management facility will correct water quality problems at the existing plant, which also overflows onto the adjacent property where the Grantsville Senior Center is located.

"The town of Grantsville is very thankful for the stormwater grant from MDE to help address the long standing flooding problems in the area," said Grantsville mayor Gerry Beachy. "MDE's commitment will enable the town to manage the stormwater in a manner that should prevent further flooding of residential properties along Dorsey Hotel Road, as well as the existing senior center and a small nine-lot subdivision of single-family homes."

The total cost of the project is $200,000, of which $50,000 is the local share. Construction is expected to begin in July and be completed in December.

Chaired by Clendening, the Board of Public Works also is composed of Comptroller William Donald Schaefer and Treasurer Richard N. Dixon. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to ap-

A GROUNDBREAKING ENTERPRISE took place at Garrett Community College this week as a number of GCC officials, dignitaries, and guests took part in the groundbreaking ceremony for the Garrett Information Enterprise Center. When construction, set to begin April 30, is concluded next spring, the GIEC will be ready to house 20 technologically equipped offices for start-up and recently founded information technology businesses in a cutting edge incubator environment. "We're stepping out of the boundaries of ordinary education [in doing this]," GCC president Dr. Steve Herman said. "This county has the wherewithal to develop a vibrant information sector." Sandy Major, director of the GCC Small Business Development Center and GIEC director, added, "We are anxious to make [the GIEC concept] work here. We can offer all that is needed to help these young businesses to grow." From the left are Major, Commissioner chairman Fred Holliday, Del. George Edwards, Neal Noyes of the U.S. Department of Labor Economic Development Administration, Leanne Mazer of the Tri-County Council of the Appalachian Regional Commission, Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Sen. John Hafer, Herman, GCC Trustees chairman Doug Sites, GCC Dean of Administration Mike Kilgus, Commissioner Wendell Beitzel, Del. Cas Taylor, and GCC Dean of Continuing Education and Training Lowell Bender.

THE SCARLET LETTER* TO BE PRESENTED — Nathaniel Hawthorne's classic play, The Scarlet Letter, which tells the story of a condemned woman in the 17th century, is the next Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) presentation. The show will be given in the Garrett Community College auditorium on Friday, April 27, at 8 p.m. Pictured above are members of the National Players, the presenting theatre company, which involves some of the most talented college students in the country, according to Beth Johnson, GLAF executive director. Tickets for the play may be purchased by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082. Admission is $10 for adults, $4 for GCC students, and $2 for youth. Credit cards are accepted. Pictured from left are actors David Levine as Master Brackett, Kevin Price as Reverend John Wilson, Angela Catherine Cerkevich as Hester Prynne, and Scott Graham as Reverend Arthur Dimmesdale.

Noted Area Educator, Activist Set To Speak At GCC Commencement

Lonaconing resident Mike Lewis, who has filled multiple roles in education and in the community, will be the keynote speaker for Garrett Community College's 29th commencement. The graduation exercise is slated for 10:30 a.m. Saturday, May 19, in the college gymnasium, according to college president Dr. Steve Herman.

The keynote presentation will focus on the work of building relationships at both the personal and community level. "What we want to achieve in our communities always has to be done in relationship to and with others," said Lewis, who currently serves as principal of the Maryland Department of Juvenile Justice youth centers in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties, a position he has held since early 1997.

"In the area of social justice these relationships have to be redemptive rather than restorative, because a restorative relationship could bring about a repeat of the same conditions that led to an injustice without addressing root causes. A redemptive relationship has consequences for both parties; there's love and caring, but also firm guidance and support. GCC has shown the flexibility to reach out to form redemptive relationships that bring people back into the community."

A teacher and administrator since 1986, Lewis began his education career at Allegany High School as a history teacher, chairperson of the social studies department, and coach of the football, girls' basketball, and cross country teams. He later became vice principal at Allegany High School and at Mount Savage School, where he taught drug and alcohol awareness and remedial citizenship skills, and chaired the Middle States Evaluation Committee.

Lewis has served as teacher and coordinator for the Maryland School Performance Program, as well as co-chairperson of the faculty advisory committee at the Center for Career and Technical Education in Cresaptown. He serves as president of Mountain Maryland Institute for Appalachian Studies and chairperson of the Maryland Department of Juvenile Justice Integrated Curriculum Committee. As adjunct professor of Juvenile Justice at GCC, Lewis assumed a leadership role in the development and implementation of the new Juvenile Justice program at the college.

A lifelong resident of Lonaconing, Lewis has been initiator and administrator of many community projects, including project director of the Coal Heritage Trail; site supervisor of A STAR! in Western Maryland, an AmeriCorps project; executive officer of the Lonaconing Silk Mill Restoration Project; team member of the Glynwood Center's Cultural Exchange Program: England; coordinator of the Homeless Project in Allegany County, an effort which has successfully raised over $400,000 in cash, food, and clothing for distribution to the needy of the area. He is also consultant for the Mike Lewis Group, Integrated Wrap-Around Consulting, and a motivational speaker on drug and alcohol issues for Allegany County Health Department. In addition he has held numerous chairmanships and memberships on various educational committees and associations.

Lewis has received numerous awards and honors for his educational and community service, including the 2000 Oral History Association Award for Best Project: The Lonaconing Silk Mill; Reflections of the Silver Screen Excellence in Maryland History Award; High School Community Service Economics Award; Teacher of the Year Award 1994-95 at the Center for Career and Technical Education; and many certificates of achievement.

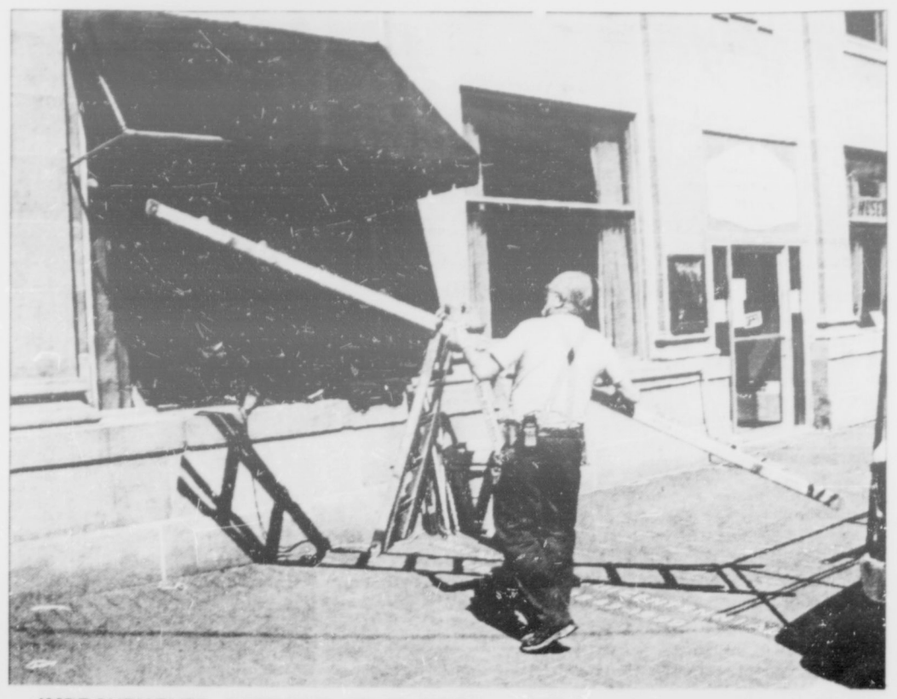
Lewis holds a bachelor of arts degree in anthropology from Princeton University, N.J., a bachelor of arts degree in education and a master's degree in education with major in administration and supervision from Frostburg State University. He has also received Administrator I and II Certificates from the Maryland State Department of Education; Securities License for Series 6 and 63, Annuity Licenses and Life and Health Licenses in Md., Pa., and W.Va.; and Facilitative Leadership Training from the Md. State Department of Education. He is a member of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, Phi Delta Kappa, National Council for Social Studies, and National Association of Securities Dealers.

Through his many educational and civic endeavors, Lewis has worked with students to improve the Chesapeake Bay watershed and has been active in promoting quality of life issues in what he refers to as the "human shed," which he says ties people together to form communities of place and interests.

The endeavors that draw his interests and energies are "all quality of life issues," Lewis said. "Improving the quality of life for all peoples is the common thread woven throughout my life. Whether you are talking education, environmental preservation, restoration and enhancement, juvenile justice, Scenic Byways, or the Homeless Sleep Out, everything springs from a core belief that not only can we improve our quality of life, but that students can be agents of change in creating new redemptive communities of social justice.

"My favorite quote is from Aristotle, who said "People become housebuilders through building houses, and harp players through playing the harp. We grow to be just by doing things which are just."

Lewis and his wife Abby reside with their daughters Jasmine and Erin in Lonaconing.



IMPROVEMENTS CONTINUE AT MUSEUM — Refinements of the Garrett County Historical Society Museum in Oakland are continuing this spring. Jim Varner of Cumberland (pictured) installed awnings at the museum last week. These new additions not only spruce up the outside of the building, but also protect the part of the collection that is exposed to sunlight through the windows. The awnings were purchased with funds won by the "Paper Boys" of The Republican newspaper, the runner-up team of last year's WKHJ radio's trivia challange. The Historical Society was the charity for whom the newspaper team played, and the donation was made last summer. Team members were David Foster, John McEwen, and Don Sincell. More improvements and special construction projects are planned at the museum, and donations are always greatly appreciated, a historical society spokesperson noted.

NGCRS Meeting Location Noted

The next regular membership meeting of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, slated for 7 p.m. Thursday, May 10, will take place at the Accident NGCRS station. The station is housed at the Accident fire hall, located along S. South Street next to the post office. The meeting agenda includes further discussion of the proposal to consolidate the Accident and Friendsville NGCRS stations into a new McHenry facility.

Relay For Life Fund-Raising Events Slated

Many fund-raising events have been scheduled from now through May to benefit the Garrett County Relay for Life to be held June 8 and 9.

The Alvarez's Angels team will be hosting a spirit night tonight, Thursday, at McDonald's, Oakland, from 4 to 7 p.m., with a percentage of the purchase proceeds to benefit the Relay for Life.

Games and face painting will be available.

The M&T Bank team will be sponsoring a yard/bake sale on Saturday, April 21, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., in the M&T Bank parking lot.

The sale will be held in the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in case of rain.

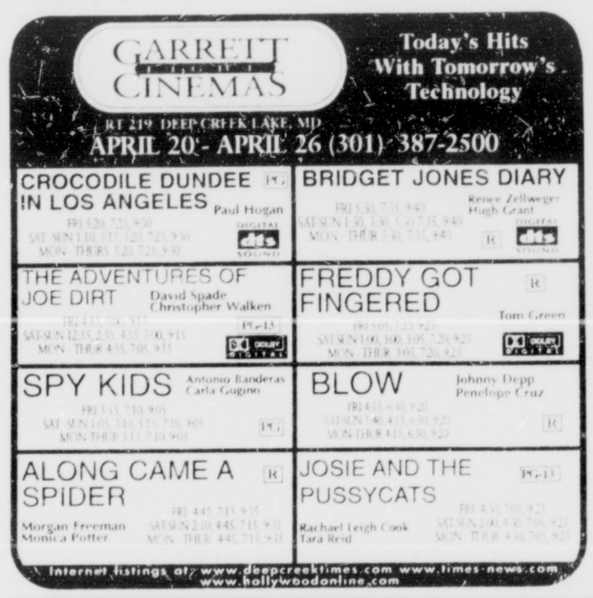
A baked potato bar will be held at the Kitzmiller fire hall Friday, April 27, from 5 until 8 p.m., to benefit the Town of Kitzmiller team.

Applications For Fuel Assistance Being Accepted

The Garrett County Community Action Committee Office of Home Energy Programs (formerly known as the Maryland Energy Assistance Program) is accepting applications for heating assistance through the new Electrical Assistance Program through June 30.

The gross monthly income guidelines are as follows, broken down by size of households: one householder member, $1,044; two members, $1,406; three members, $1,769; four members, $2,131; five members, $2,494; and six members, $2,856.

For additional information, interested persons may call Community Action at 301-334-9431, ext. 114, or toll free at 1-888-877-8403.



Arbor Day Ceremonies Set For Tomorrow In Oakland

A western Maryland Arbor Day celebration will get under way at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow, Friday, April 20th, at the Oakland Train Station. The 90-minute program will recognize the tree planting and urban forestry efforts of communities and organizations in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties. Among the local honorees are the towns of Grantsville and Oakland, Grantsville and Route 40 elementary schools, and Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Mayor Asa McCain and Maryland Community Forest Council representative Mike Galvin of the Department of Natural Resources Forest Service are set to host the official ceremonies, which will follow a socializing and refreshment period that will begin at 10 a.m. The program will include special recognition for Oakland's sesquicentennial tree planting project, presentations of PLANT (People Loving and Nurturing Trees) and Tree City USA awards, and a tree planting ceremony that will bring the event to a close shortly before noon. Students from Swan Meadow School will be on hand to help plant the trees, which have been donated by the Oakland Civic Club and the Garrett County Forestry Board.

The other western Maryland communities and organizations that will be recognized during the program are: the cities of Cumberland and Frostburg, Allegany High School, Bel Air and Westernport elementary schools, all located in Allegany County; the city of Hagerstown and the Fairview Outdoor Environmental Education Center, both of Washington County; and the city of Frederick, Fort Detrick, Ballengher Creek Middle School, and Deer Crossing Elementary School, all of Frederick County.

This year over 160 recipients across Maryland will receive PLANT awards, which recognize towns, cities, neighborhood associations, and schools that distinguish themselves through efforts to enhance, protect and care for their urban forest. Activities range from Arbor Day celebrations at schools to creation of tree protection ordinances. The PLANT Award is jointly bestowed by DNR and the Maryland Community Forest Council, a citizen's group that works to protect and enhance Maryland's community trees and forest ecosystems.

"Trees are a critical resource—They provide clean air, clean water, and protect the health of the Chesapeake Bay," commented Gregory Purnell, chair of the Maryland Community Forest Council. "Everybody loves trees, but the PLANT program is a way to remind us that trees are not just an amenity, they are a necessity".

For further information on trees, Arbor Day, or tomorrow's ceremonies, interested persons may contact Becky Wilson of DNR's Forest Service at 301-777-5591.

PRIZES AWARDED FOR EASTER BONNETS — The seniors at the Mary Browning Senior Center recently held an Easter celebration, and prizes were awarded for the Easter bonnets several of the ladies made. Jane Bowser, on the left, won for the most original. Mable Smouse, in the middle, won for prettiest. The award for the most colorful was won by Carol Rumer, on the right.

W.Va. Man Faces GBI Charges In Rt. 40 Burglary

A Mineral County, W.Va., man was arrested Tuesday on charges in connection with an April 2 residential burglary along Route 40 in the Keysers Ridge area, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Robert Michael Bridges, 24, Ridgeley, faces charges of first degree burglary and misdemeanor theft stemming from the incident, and has been released from the Garrett County Detention Center on a $5,000 bond.

The GBI's charges stem from a daylight burglary of a home along National Pike. At approximately 12:30 p.m. on April 2 a homeowner returned to her residence to allegedly discover Bridges and another subject burglarizing her home. The pair fled with the homeowner in pursuit of their vehicle for a distance, and she was able to obtain descriptions of both subjects and the vehicle, which was later located by LaVale-based MSP troopers in Wiley Ford, W.Va.

Bridges was arrested by GBI detectives after he turned himself in at the LaVale barrack of the Maryland State Police.

During questioning, Bridges reportedly gave evidence concerning another burglary in Pennsylvania that was being investigated by the Pennsylvania State Police. Investigators were able to recover over $1,000 in cash and a quantity of jewelry from a residence in the Oldtown area of Allegany County.

Ice Cream Truck Rolls Yesterday Near Grantsville

A Cumberland man was slightly injured when his ice cream delivery truck overturned yesterday morning near Grantsville, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack.

Edward P. Mason, 43, reportedly lost control of the truck along snow-covered Chestnut Ridge Road shortly before 7:30 a.m. He was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. Tfc. B. Willetts charged Mason with failure to reduce speed in dangerous highway conditions.

Ohio Travelers Hospitalized After Accident

A single-vehicle accident along Interstate 68 near Friendsville Monday morning injured a pair of Ohio residents, both of whom were hospitalized in Cumberland for several days. The 10 a.m. mishap was investigated by Maryland State Police troopers stationed at the McHenry barrack.

Jean E. Delimond, 34, Columbus, was operating a 2001 Nissan Altima on westbound I-68 just east of Friendsville when she swerved to avoid striking a piece of wood lying in the roadway. She lost control of the car on the wet pavement and struck the guardrail, injuring herself and her passenger, Zunite DeBlosse, 38, also of Columbus.

Both Delimond and DeBlosse were transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released after several days. The Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded.

Drivers Face MSP Charges After Mishaps

Several vehicle accidents over the course of the week resulted in injuries to persons involved and charges being filed by Maryland State Police troopers stationed at the McHenry barrack.

Tuesday afternoon at approximately 3:45 p.m. a collision along Hutton Road occurred as a 2000 Dodge Neon operated by Sharon K. Elliott, 31, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., struck another vehicle from behind. The other car, a 2001 Subaru Legacy, had slowed east of Dilly Road because of a school bus, and Elliott reportedly failed to properly reduce her own speed.

The Subaru's driver, Delores B. Cuppett, 62, and her passenger, Donna M. Wilt, both of Terra Alta, W.Va., were both injured and transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where both were treated and released. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded.

Elliott was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

An early Sunday morning single-vehicle accident injured Toby Wayne Tasker, 27, Grantsville, who ran his 1994 Geo Tracker off a McHenry road and into a tree. Tasker was traveling eastbound along Mosser Road west of Wagner Road when he lost control of his vehicle and ran off the road, where he struck a tree. Both the Northern and Southern Garrett County rescue squads were summoned to the scene, along with unnamed fire personnel. Tasker was transported to Garrett Memorial, where he was hospitalized and later released on Tuesday.

The MSP report indicated that Tasker, who had been consuming alcoholic beverages earlier than usual, was speeding at the time of the mishap. He was charged with negligent driving.

A Sunday afternoon single-vehicle accident on Backbone Mountain was directly attributed to alcohol by state police. Shortly after 4 p.m. a 2000 Chevrolet pickup truck operated by Charles Robert Fike, 62, Baltimore, ran off westbound Maryland Highway east of Walnut Bottom Road.

The truck went into a culvert and overturned, injuring Fike. He was transported by the Tri-Towns Ambulance Service to Garrett Memorial, where he was hospitalized until his Tuesday release. The Bloomington and Westernport volunteer fire departments also responded. Fike was charged for driving while intoxicated.

On Friday, April 6, a Uniontown, Pa., tractor-trailer driver was charged by state troopers for not wearing his seatbelt after a single-vehicle accident along Route 40 near Keyser's Ridge.

Dale Allen Luckey, 38, was traveling westbound in heavy fog at 10:10 p.m. when his rig went off the roadway and overturned in a ditch. He told police that he was not wearing his seatbelt, and during the incident fell onto his young daughter who was riding with him. Both Luckey and his daughter were transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial, where their treatment status was not available. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

Various Road Projects Noted By Supervisor

A number of road construction projects that could alter traffic flow in the county were announced this week by Fred Polce, supervisor of the Garrett County Roads Department. Some of the projects have already been initiated. One will involved the closing of a bridge spanning Little Bear Creek.

Bituminous paving was to begin on Deep Creek Drive this past Monday. Paving operations are expected to last approximately three weeks.

Also to have been started this week is the realignment of the Twin Churches/New Germany roads intersection, with construction to last three weeks.

Dirt is being hauled to the Glendale Road to begin the realignment project on that route. The area of realignment is located about one mile east of Rt. 219.

"While we do not anticipate any road closings during these construction projects, we do ask that motorists slow down and use caution in the construction areas," Polce said.

Bridge Closing

The Rabbit Hollow Road in the Accident area will be closed to through traffic on Monday, April 23, for the replacement of the bridge over Little Bear Creek.

This bridge is located approximately 1.5 miles east of Rt. 219 and 1.5 miles west of the Fish Hatchery/ Bowman Hill intersection. This project is expected to take about five weeks to complete.

driver. The driver was arrested after failing the standardized field sobriety tests.

Ravenscroft was released from the Garrett County Jail on his own recognizance.

Deputies responded to another motor vehicle accident early Sunday morning along Oakland Sang Run Road near Bray School Road.

Jordan Paul Uphold, 19, Oakland, told police he swerved to miss a deer and struck a pole. He was transported by private vehicle to GCMH, where he was treated for his injuries.

No charges were filed by deputies in the 4 a.m. incident.

MSP Traffic Stop Nets Drug Bust

An April 5 traffic stop along Interstate 68 near Grantsville resulted in the arrests of four West Virginia men on drug charges, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack.

Shortly before 3 p.m. Cpl. John LeMay stopped a 2000 Honda Civic for speeding on westbound I-68 at the Casselman River bridge. He noted the odor of suspected burnt marijuana and searched the vehicle, locating trace amounts of marijuana, marijuana paraphernalia, and illegally possessed prescription drugs (Diazepan pills).

The driver, Virgil Metz, 25, Wellsburg, and his three passengers, Donald Gray, 29, Jeremy McVicker, 25, and Sean McGinnis, 20, all of Grafton, were each charged with possession of controlled dangerous substances and drug paraphernalia. Each was released on his own recognizance after appearing before a district court commissioner.

Mayor Beachy To Kiss A Pig For Fund-Raiser

The American Diabetes Association will be the beneficiary of a special demonstration by Grantsville mayor Gerry Beachy, who has agreed to kiss a pig at the June 16 baseball game of the Hagerstown Suns. Mayor Beachy is now accepting monetary pledges from persons who wish for him to fulfill this commitment.

Beachy was asked to participate by Donna Jackman, diabetes chairperson for Lions District 22-W. The Grantsville Lions Club has already pledged $250. Beachy hopes to raise at least $1,000.

Persons wishing to make a tax-deductible contribution to this effort should make out their checks to District 22-W Lions and mail them to P.O. Box 189, Grantsville, MD 21536, or drop them off at Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville.

Crucial to Our Future...

There was a groundbreaking at Garrett Community College this week, the results of which will ultimately have a positive impact on each and every citizen of the county. The ceremony kicked off the construction of a building that will house the new Garrett Information Enterprise Center, a technology business "incubator" that will support the development of new, local, technology-based businesses. The 20,000-square-foot facility will house offices for up to 20 fledgling businesses, complete with high-speed Internet services and access to all of the GCC support services, such as the campus library, computer labs, conference rooms, free business counseling, and a network of technical and financial resources.

There were a dozen such business incubators in North America in 1980, but because of their resounding success, there are over 800 of them today. Statistics show that 87 percent of all firms that "graduated" from these incubators are still in business, well above the average failure rate for new businesses. For every dollar invested in incubators, it has been shown that the return is $45 in local tax revenue alone. Eighty-four percent of incubator graduates stay in their own communities, providing employment and tax revenue.

We all know that Garrett County is a wonderful place to live, but we also know that good-paying jobs are hard to come by. Our unemployment rate has improved in recent years, but still remains in double digits for much of the year. So many of our young people, who would like to remain in or return to the area, cannot do so because of our lack of employment opportunities. The development of GIEC is a huge step toward addressing that problem.

The development of technology is occurring more rapidly than the development of necessary infrastructure (i.e., high-speed Internet capabilities) and the training that is needed to utilize it. But there is no question that the majority of good jobs for a long time to come are going to be those that involve computers and sophisticated technology.

With this fact in mind, we are pleased that we have in our community persons who are working hard to put Garrett County on the cutting edge of this futuristic wave, instead of being left in the dust. Their work is crucial to our future. They include, but are certainly not limited to, Jim Hinebaugh, director of economic development; Dr. Steve Herman, president of GCC; Dr. Wendell Teets, county school superintendent, and the members of the board of education; technology specialist Don Storck; and the Garrett County commissioners, who have been supportive of the effort in several ways.

Another individual who is putting considerable effort into helping us Garrett County residents to become informed and aware of these rapid technological developments and opportunities is Sandy Major, director of GCC's Small Business Development Center. She has coordinated the second annual "Cool Tools" technology fair, which will be held this Saturday, April 21, at the college from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. as part of Technology Week. The fair will include scores of demonstrations, displays, and presentations that will help people of all walks of life, and in a variety of vocations, to become computer literate and realize the tremendous potential of modern technology.

MY UNCLE, THE WEAVER

by Mary Sincell McEwen

"Petunia" is what he called me when I was little, and he called my sister Kathryn "Katrinka." My Uncle Jack Wagoner had a way with words, no doubt, and having special names for people he loved was only a small part of his interesting vocabulary. He died last Wednesday night, and we are feeling the rip in our family net. Perhaps the loss is more palpable because Uncle Jack was a weaver of that net. He knew my mother's family history like no one else. He knew who was married to whom, who died when, and how many fiancées showed up at a deceased's funeral (two young women at my great-great-uncle's, apparently. Ouch). He knew where people lived and whom they worked for. He could tell you where people were buried ("over there on Bone Yard Hill") and why they were buried there, along with details, sometimes spicy, about the circumstances of various events in those persons' lives.

He was a fount of family knowledge, for certain. He added great lengths to our family safety net, and he did that by letting us all know that we are loved, that we are a part of a fun and soulful bloodline, full of art and down-home sense. He accomplished this important task by subtly teaching us how important it is to be with one another, and by showing his affection for us all. While he could be sarcastic and abrupt, his face always softened when he spoke of his "mama" and "daddy." He was a great proponent of our annual family reunion, held at the Wagoner family farm near Fort Ashby, W.Va. We buried Jack's remains there, close to those of his mother and father, Grace and Elwood. It's an appropriate spot, overlooking the farmhouse Elwood built, and, off in the distance, the actual reunion grounds where we gather every August to expound on how all the kids have grown, and to harmonize together on those great old Methodist hymns. Uncle Jack sang tenor. We all tried to sing "It Is Well With My Soul" at his funeral, but we could barely get it out. Too hard.

Uncle Jack said "ass" a lot, among a number of other choice non-printables. He didn't hide his objections, generally, and I'm sure a few members of the nursing home staff where he resided the past few years would find it hard to believe that Jack was actually a kind-hearted man. He was gruff, often voicing his open disgust at what was called "food" at the establishment. My mother and my aunt insisted that it really was not bad at all, but Jack was a chef, and plain cooked chicken with green Jello was far from acceptable. ("If that's food, my ass is a Chinese typewriter!") He liked to make stuff like liver paté and rum balls, and then serve them generously to guests. He was a born host, easily carrying off elegant dinner parties and gatherings at his apartment, which had the refined, meticulous decor of a man with taste.

When I was a kid, the youngest of five, I knew that Uncle Jack's arrival meant something fun, like a new appliance that he thought we could use, or a stuffed animal for me from his flower shop in Cumberland. He often bought steaks for all of us, or a bushel of crabs. Inevitably he would promise to bring me hotdogs, though, since he said I didn't like steak or crab. Then I would pitch a fit, sucker that I was, and he would laugh. When my mom spent all our extra money on clothes for us kids, Uncle Jack would take her shopping in Cumberland and outfit her with a lovely suit or two, along with a classy piece of jewelry. ("Hell yes, Hannah Grace, that's beautiful and we're buying it.") She said he did that for her all her life. He was generous, and naturally so. It brought him joy to give, just as it should.

I liked the pastor's talk at the funeral when he noted that my uncle touched thousands of folks through his work as a florist. All those brides, all those new parents, prom dates, others in mourning — he cheered them all with his artistry. And he was an artist in the first degree. No one could put posies together like my uncle. His eye and his taste are unmatched. He added elegance to every family special event, too — weddings and births and anniversaries.

Being in the flower business, he was constantly reminded of death, of course. He and my late Aunt Jo, co-owners of the Ren Roy Flower Shop, probably did flowers for several funerals a week for the 42 years they worked together. That sort of exposure does change the way you view life, I think. When an old person would die, Uncle Jack would casually say, "Oh, yes, Miss So-and-So was promoted to glory last night." And he and Aunt Jo, along with the staff, would set to work on that funeral, with perhaps two or three others on the list, too.

As we stood around at the funeral home in Romney last Friday, I noticed that no one hovered much around Jack's body. I liked that. I think when people hover, they are feeling guilt or remorse, or the death is too shocking to handle. My uncle's death at 74 was indeed young for my mom's long-lived family, but he had been sick for a while and his release from pain was supremely important to us. So we didn't hover. We talked with each other, we looked at pictures of him, we cried a little, and we laughed a lot. That's just how Jack would want it, I'm sure.

When we tried to sing that hymn during the funeral, I had to stop several times because my voice wavered away and my eyes filled up. My sister, who sat beside me, struggled too. But the sweet voices of my own nieces singing all around was uplifting, and I pondered that the ever-important group of older people on whom I have relied all these years is indeed dwindling. And as my mom's family continues to go the way of all good people, my siblings and cousins and I move up to the important place. It's the place where our children and children's children will look for help, guidance, love, and laughter. And we must pick up the threads of our safety net for them, the net that is always there to catch them and those they love, to include them and keep them safe in love. I promise, Uncle Jack, we will keep weaving our net.

INDIANS: OLD AND NEW

Friends ask how I keep current on so many different topics. One way is by using what could be dead time, mentally, as learning time. When in the car alone I listen to books on tape.

One such book is Albert Marrin's Sitting Bull and His World. The book is well done, and even balanced in its presentation to a surprising degree. Marrin tells the story as an American tragedy rather than as a vindication of what European Americans did or a mere condemnation of what they did.

He does spend some time at the beginning of the book to demonstrate that the Plains Indians, and the Sioux in particular, were good liberals. An example of that attempt is his discussion of how the Plains Indians treated women as equals, which in their own terms they did. The same kind of equality among Europeans, however, is typically castigated as being oppressive, imperialistic forms of domination.

Marrin does not, however, stoop to the level of some vegetarians I have known, who spout Indian spirituality without ever a word for the Plains Indians relish in raw liver freshly plucked from just-killed buffalo, or their sucking the goody out of the same buffalo's intestine. As I say, Marrin does not stoop so low, but those who do come into my own story.

No thoughtful person of conscience can reflect on the discovery and conquest of the Americas by Europeans without feeling shame and revulsion. From beginning to end the Indians were regarded, at best, as obstacles to the forward march of progress. At worst, European-Americans looked upon the native peoples as vermin to be exterminated like rats. Marrin quotes plenty of language to that effect. It is hard to hear without flinching.

The Indians were given a clear choice: give up your culture or your lives.

The unasked questions in Marrin's book, present on every page, is this: What right had European-Americans to force that choice upon the native peoples? The answer is simple. We had no right except that we were more powerful than they. For those who believe that might makes right, such an answer is sufficient.

The balance in Marrin's book comes in the form of the fullness with which he depicts the relations among the various tribes of Plains Indians. The European-American did not introduce warfare or even the custom of scalping. While possessing certain nobility, the Plains Indians were also brutal people who engaged in torture and even in the wholesale killing of their neighbors.

He does not make the connection himself, but Marrin enables his readers to see the European expansion as the conquest by the European-American tribes of the native peoples. That does not provide a moral justification, only a description of how power was exercised in terms of tribal dynamics.

Except that the U.S. government should have kept its promises made by treaty (a problem we still have today, of which the Anti-Ballistic Missile treaty is a current example), Marrin neither suggests, nor does his narrative suggest, other answers. Perhaps that is a definition of tragedy, when actions taken are proved wrong and no thoroughly right action can be conceived.

What occurred to me while listening to Marrin's fine work is how the same imperialism which destroyed the culture of native peoples is now being exercised against those among European-Americans who share many cultural characteristics with native peoples — the same quality of living with the land which the liberals extol among native peoples they seek to destroy among European-Americans.

Who is more the heir of native peoples' traditions than those who hunt and fish and who, in other ways, seek in simple ways to live close to the land, who raise their own livestock, and butcher them on the farm? They are husbands of land and of nature, delighting in that which they love and honor. Those people are the Indians of the 21st century whom the imperialists will hunt down until their way of life is destroyed.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing to suggest a way for the Garrett County Commission for Women to apologize for its unconscionable rejection of First Lieutenant Louise V. Harvey as a worthy candidate for induction into the Hall of Fame.

For the edification of those of you who don't know Louise's history, following is an excerpt from a news article that appeared in The Republican on Sept. 9, 1995, describing her World War II experiences in the ETO (European Theater of Operations):

"'In our general hospital, if and when they were able — if they didn't die in our hospital and they were able to be shipped — they were sent from us maybe to one other location before they got on the boat to be shipped back to the United States.

"'We would get many casualties who were still in their fighting clothes. They had not had their clothes off for weeks.

"'You just work, work, work. And the little bit of time that you had off you tried to sleep, and so many of us couldn't sleep. And this is where if you're more intelligent or dedicated or whatever, when our planes would go over at night heading for Germany to bomb, you'd count the planes and they'd start out at dusk.' Harvey began to cry as she told the story. 'There might be eight, 12, it was never the same number. You lay there waiting to hear those planes come back hours later. Some would be hours, long hours. Some you never got to count. But they'd fly right over where you were. You couldn't see them because you had to be blacked out in your hut, unless you went outside, which occasionally we did, but you didn't do that for too long because you couldn't handle it. And many of them never came back.

"'And you're working in the operating room. The operating room ran 24 hours a day, time, and time, and time again. And it was only when you couldn't concentrate, you couldn't stand up anymore, you knew you were a detriment, that's when you walked off to your hut.

"'We treated every conceivable thing you could think of. You had so many with brain injuries. You had lost limbs where they'd go over mines. It's just inconceivable. The one thing that would be forever etched in my mind would be the litters that lined the hallways on both sides with screaming, moaning G.I.s', Harvey recalled, full of emotion.

"'Nobody in the world to watch them as they waited for their turn in these surgeries which were so — you just rolled one out and another one in....

"'And they'd fall off the litters because they didn't know what they were doing. Nobody to watch them. But when I think of the way it is in civilian life and all the complaints and everything, and I think what those soldiers went through ... many of them died. We had them die right on the litters while they were waiting to get into surgery. And, it was awful.

"'The one thing that I could never, ever forget ... one young man with gas gangrene. He was so swollen ... his whole leg and thigh were so big that you thought it was going to burst at any moment. It had been diagnosed gas gangrene. And in that case, since it's very, very highly infectious, staff did not have to participate in those operations unless they wanted to, because of the great danger. And, the operation was taking place in a tent, not in the regular operating room setup. You had no problem getting volunteers and I was one of those volunteers. He died on the table — it was just like it was yesterday.'"

Louise was never one to belong to social clubs gathering titles and letters along the way; no, Louise was (and still is) a doer. There are many other facets to her life — noble ones — that most women don't ever come close to achieving. She walked the walk while others talk the talk.

Webster's Encyclopedic Unabridged Dictionary defines the word hero as "a person who in the opinion of others, has heroic qualities or has performed a heroic act and is regarded as a model or ideal." My wife, daughters, granddaughters, and female in-laws all regard Louise as a hero. Most people respect their opinions because they, like Louise, are doers.

Memorial Day, May, 28, 2001, is still almost two months off; time enough for all of you fine ladies of the Garrett County Commission for Women to plan an event to honor First Lieutenant Louise V. Harvey, who laid her life on the line for you (for all of us).

George Falter, Founder
Garrett County Chamber Of People

P.S. This Memorial Day, people who choose to forget or ignore the deeds of people like Louise should hang their heads in shame.

To the Editor:

The ambulance consolidation effort by Northern Rescue is long overdue. Much time and money have been lost because of the delay in acquiring a facility in the McHenry area. Not only have land values increased, but promise to do so in the years ahead, making such a purchase now is the right thing to do. However, it appears that the same fainthearted members with little vision who refused free real estate for a station just a few years ago now seem ready to lose the huge deposit on the building just acquired. Citizens who support the squad with subscriptions and other means should complain loudly to the membership and this newspaper.

The committee, headed by Daniel Durst, has done a good job, using much personal time to explore the problems and deal with them. They should be commended, not condemned, for their efforts in trying to provide better service through "in-station" crews, who are prepared to move out immediately to your call.

Though Friendsville residents have echoed what certainly appear to be valid concerns, there are issues of which they may not be aware. First, crews have no lounge in which to spend duty time for a call, so must respond from home or wherever they might be at that moment. This alone may cause a huge delay or no response at all, with a

in Garrett County

PUSHING CYCLING SAFETY are the members of the Women's Civic Club of Oakland, who have created a bulletin board at the Discovery Center of Deep Creek Lake State Park. The display provides a variety of information about bicycle safety and cycling in Garrett County, with "tear-off" items, such as safety stickers, available for the taking. The stickers have been replenished three times so far. Providing the hands-on construction and maintenance of the board are club members Ann Rebele and Mary Rhoads, pictured above, left and right, respectively. It was noted by Rebele that safety helmets, which have been required for children in Maryland for several years, will be required for in-line skating and riding scooters, pending Governor Parris Glendening's signature on a bill passed by the 2001 Maryland General Assembly. See story for details.

Skating, Scooter Helmet Safety Bill Approved By General Assembly

by Megan Scott
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Beginning in October, children under age 16 likely will be required to wear a helmet while in-line skating or riding a scooter under a bill approved this session by the General Assembly.

The measure awaits Gov. Parris N. Glendening's signature, after the Legislature adjourned last week, but his press officers said they do not know when or if he will sign it. The measure was sponsored by Sen. Paula Hollinger, D-Baltimore County.

The bill's passage is a victory for Hannah More School students, who lost their classmate, Casey Athman, in a 1998 in-line skating accident and lobbied for the new law as a way to honor him. Athman, then 16, was not wearing protective headgear when a car struck him.

This was the second time around for the bill, which was defeated last year by one vote in the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee.

"It's about time," said Hollinger. "This is really an incredible victory for the young students and Hannah More. Rather then take out their anger in negative ways they put it into something positive to save other kids."

In-line skating is becoming more popular for both recreation and transportation, according to the International Inline Skating Association. The association reported the number of in-line skaters has increased 300 percent since 1992. In 1996, an estimated 17.7 million people younger than age 18 participated in the pastime.

The sport is not without risks. About one of every 25 in-line skaters is injured seriously enough to warrant a hospital visit each year, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission. Forty-six percent of the injuries occur in skaters wearing no safety gear.

"None of us want to believe that our children couid be injured when we buy them something fun, but in all sports there is an inherent risk of danger," said Daniel Karpel, a fourth-grader at Ron McNair Elementary School, during testimony at the Feb. 13 hearing.

Opponents to the bill charged that it infringes on parental rights. They also cited a Florida case from January when a 9-year-old boy was handcuffed and searched because he was caught riding his bicycle without a helmet.

"At the rate we're going, kids will have to be delivered through the birth canal with a helmet," said Delegate Don Murphy, R-Baltimore County, who voted against it. "I just think this is crazy. We should let parents decide how to best protect their children."

The original bill only addressed in-line skating, but was amended to include scooters. Offenders who violate the measure will be issued a warning. The police will give them an instructional brochure about helmet safety.

"There are so many problems with trying to enforce something like that," said Delegate Janet Greenip, R-Anne Arundel, who voted against it. "Frankly I think it's trying to take the place of the parents. Parents know what they want for their children."

Murphy, whose son broke his wrist in-line skating, said without a real penalty, the bill is pointless.

"(Kids) get stopped, cops give them a brochure, and they become immune to the idea that there's a penalty with violating the law," he said. "I think in the long run that's harmful."

With Glendening's signature, Maryland would become the first state to have a law requiring children wear helmets when using scooters. Only two other states, New Jersey and New York, have laws mandating children wear helmets while in-line skating.

Research shows helmets reduce the risk of head injury by 85 percent and brain injury by 88 percent.

"We're very excited for the students," said Mark Waldman, president of Hannah More School in Reistertown. "We're very happy they've had the experience of working through the legislative process and seeing they do have the power to save lives."

Assembly Approves New Prescription Drug Bill For Seniors, Impoverished

by Megan Scott
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — More than 200,000 seniors and Medicare-eligible individuals will get some relief from the rising cost of prescription drugs starting July 1, when Maryland's new prescription drug bill is scheduled to take effect.

All that is needed now before the Senior Prescription Drug Relief Act becomes law is Gov. Parris N. Glendening's signature, something he could do as early as May 15, said spokeswoman Raquel Guillory. The drug relief act adds approximately $30 million to the Maryland Pharmacy Discount Program, Medbank, and the Short-Term Drug Subsidy Program.

Medicare-eligible individuals at or below 175 percent of the federal poverty level will be able to purchase prescription drugs at the Medicaid price, minus any rebates through the Maryland Pharmacy Discount Program. The Health Care Financing Administration must provide a waiver for this portion of the drug program.

Additionally, all Medicare beneficiaries without prescription drug coverage will be able to purchase prescription drugs at 65 percent of the Medicaid rate.

Without the waiver, Medicare beneficiaries would still be able to buy drugs at a discounted price. Medicare-eligible individuals — up to 175 percent of the federal poverty level, or $15,032.50 a year — would pay 75 percent of the Medicaid price for prescriptions. The federal poverty level is $8,590.

"Anything will help, but I think 175 percent is the poorest of the poor," said Pearl Lewis, a volunteer aide for the Maryland Patient Advocacy organization. "I would have liked to have seen more, but that's okay. That's a start."

About $2.5 million is allocated to expanding Medbank to the Eastern Shore, southern Maryland/Anne Arundel County, and the Washington suburbs. Medbank, now in western Maryland and Baltimore County, provides access to free prescription drugs to eligible individuals.

Another piece of the legislation allows Medicare beneficiaries without prescription drug coverage and with incomes of $25,770 or less a year to be eligible for Maryland's Short-Term Prescription Drug Subsidy Program.

The number of people the program may serve is increased under the legislation from 15,000 to 30,000; it eliminates the $50 deductible and lowers the monthly premium from $40 to $10. Qualifying individuals could get up to $1,000 worth of prescription drugs at a discounted price. The program is set to end June 30, 2003.

The bill requires the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene to study the programs and determine whether the state should offer a tax credit to low-income people who spend an undetermined percentage of their income on medication.

"It's not everything we wanted. It's a step in the right direction," Lewis said. "It's going to help a lot of people.... We're going to have to do this incrementally piece by piece."

NON-STOP ORGAN MUSIC RAISES MONEY FOR HEART ASSOCIATION — The Keyboard World organ students recently raised more than $1,900 for the American Heart Association by playing the organ for 12 hours non-stop at the Country Club Mall, LaVale. Cathy Hanson of the American Heart Association, Hagerstown, presented Keyboard World and the organ students with a plague for their accomplishment. Many people from Garrett County played, donated, and sponsored the fund-raiser. Pictured above are some of the students who participated in the event. Seated in the front row, from the left, are Marie Bower, Cathy Hanson, and Chris Wade. In the second row, from the left, are Clarilee Annonio, Genny Yonker, Deloris Burton, Nellie Dom, Carol Adams, Lawrence Sicherl, and Catherine Emerick. In the back row, from the left, are Doreen Kerns, Paulette Ahern, Sharon Stakem, Helen Twigg, Andy Andersen, Shirley Sicherl, Jane Monn, Barbara Beegle, and Donna Honeycutt.

"WILL YOU JOIN ME IN SOME AMAZING GRAZING?" asks Bossy the bovine, caught on film by Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's executive director, Beth Johnson. Johnson trekked out into the pasture this week to talk with Bossy about what's good for grazing, as GLAF prepares for its spring benefit event. "Amazing Grazing" is the theme this year, and the fund-raiser will be a relaxed and informal party during which guests will be invited to try a number of food and drink samplings, including such things as red wines of Spain, white wines of France, beers of Germany, and a wide variety of hors d'oeuvres from all three countries. A silent auction and musical entertainment will be part of the evening, which is slated for Friday, May 11, 6 to 9:30 p.m., at the McHenry House of the Wisp. Tickets are $35 per person, and they can be purchased from any GLAF board member or by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

EYM Announces Musical At OTT, Play Auditions

The Ecumenical Youth Ministry will present the musical How To Eat Like A Child Thursday through Saturday, May 3-5, at the Our Town Theatre in Oakland. The play will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening. Tickets are $5 and may be purchased from cast members or at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church parish office from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. daily.

The 16 members of the cast include Jamie Bosley, Meghan Broderick, Lynn Broderick, Adriel Clark, A.J. Delauder, Laura Hinebaugh, Molly McGowan, Jenna Partridge, and eight "5-year-old" puppets created by the cast. The play consists of 22 comical lessons on how to be a child.

Making his debut as a director is Southern High School senior Jamie Bosley. "His love of visual art and theatre, his interest in choreography and music, and his wonderful sense of humor led me to believe that Jamie should have the opportunity to create the vision for a play before he begins his college studies at WVU next fall," said Lynn Broderick, EYM director. "I think the cast members would agree that it has been great fun for all of us, especially creating and manipulating the puppets who play characters in the show."

The second EYM offering will be the musical Once On This Island, co-produced with the Preston County Summer Theatre. Auditions are open to all community members in the regional area. The play will be presented at the Preston High Theatre July 4-7. Lynn Broderick will be directing the multi-generational cast. Keith McCarthy, a graduate student at WVU, will return as musical director, and Brian Corcy, a B.F.A. 2001 graduate of the WVU Theatre Department, will choreograph.

Auditions for the musical are scheduled as follows: Wednesday, May 9, 5-8 p.m., for elementary/middle school students; Thursday, May 10, 5-8 p.m., for high school students; and Thursday, May 17, 5-8 p.m., for college students and adults. Auditions will be at the Preston High Theatre in Kingwood, W.Va.

Auditioners are asked to prepare a one-minute song, bring musical accompaniment for the pianist, and dress in comfortable clothing and shoes. There are numerous solo roles, and all roles are open. The chorus music also requires numerous solo voices. Persons may call 304-329-0400, ext. 450, for additional information.

LEARNING ABOUT COMEDY AND ERRORS — An arts education program for local students will be presented by GLAF on Thursday, April 26, and Friday, April 27. The National Players will offer workshops and performances of a special version of William Shakespeare's The Comedy of Errors. Over 600 Northern and Southern middle and high school students will take part in the special event. The workshops, which are being sponsored by Drs. Porcaro, Walch, and Zakaluzny, with additional funding from Garrett County Arts Council's Arts in Education grant, will take place at Garrett Community College. See story for more details. Pictured above are Valerie Fenton as Adriana and Christopher R. Niebling as Antipholus, both characters in the Shakespeare classic.

Concert To Benefit Relay

The Heaven's Mtn. Band will hold a concert Saturday, April 28, 7 p.m., at the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren to benefit the Garrett County Relay For Life.

A free will offering will be taken, with all proceeds to benefit the Relay For Life. The church is located along Oakland-Sang Run Road, and refreshments will be served.

Variety Show Set; Performers Being Sought

A variety show will be held at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident on Saturday, May 12, at 7:30 p.m. This event is being co-sponsored by the Accident Cultural and Historical Society and the Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 585.

Those interested in performing in the show may obtain more information by contacting Diana Deal at 301-746-7222, Annette Keller at 746-8598, or the Accident town hall at 746-6346 on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The emcee for this event will be Carson "The Trucker" Yoder of WFRB. Admission will be free; however, donations will be accepted to help fund various activities sponsored by the Accident Cultural and Historical Society.

BLUES BAND TO PLAY AT OVFD — The Channel Cats, a Cumberland-based blues band, will take to the stage at the Oakland fire hall at 8 p.m. this Saturday, April 21, to raise funds for this summer's Little Yough Summer Music Festival series. The Channel Cats are, from the left, Erick Baker on guitar and keyboards, Pat Sullivan on bass, Will Vogtman on harmonica and saxophone, Garrett County native Alex Hicks on drums, and Greg Larry on lead guitar. Tickets for the benefit concert are $5 each, and can be purchased at the door or in advance in downtown Oakland at the GCAC Art Gallery, Marvin's Men's Wear, Rudy's, Water Street Market Place, and Proudfoot's Pharmacy. This summer's Little Yough Fest slate includes appearances by folksingers Loudon Wainwright III and Sally Taylor, and the return of boss blueswoman Deanna Bogart and her swinging band. For further information, interested persons may call 301-501-0201. The Channel Cats' web site is channelcats.20m.com.

"Celebration In Song" Event Set At St. Peter's

St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church in Oakland will host a musical program titled "Celebration in Song" this Sunday, April 22, at 2 p.m. It will feature music by a number of area church choirs, including those of St. Peter's, Faith Evangelical Free, St. Mark's Lutheran, and Oak Park Church of the Brethren. Also slated to perform will be the Pleasant View Baptist Interpretive Movement Team.

A freewill offering will be collected for the benefit of the annual Relay for Life, which supports the American Cancer Society. All are invited to attend.

Dance Ensemble To Perform Sleeping Beauty

The Appalachian Ballet Theatre's Dance Ensemble will perform its popular version of Sleeping Beauty on Saturday, April 28, at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, April 29, at 2 p.m., at the Allegany College of Maryland Theater, Cumberland.

This version incorporates the traditional classical choreography with the theme of the Disney version.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $5 for children ages 12 and under. Persons wanting more information may call 301-729-6722.

GCC STUDENT ARTWORK EXHIBITED — Selected artworks by Garrett Community College students are currently on display at the Art Gallery of GCC. Featuring the works of students from the summer and fall 2000 and spring 2001 semesters, the show includes drawings in a variety of media, oil paintings, watercolors, sculptures, and ceramic pieces from the Basic Design, Drawing, Painting, Printmaking, and Ceramics courses. Among the many exhibitors are GCC art majors Chad Cooper, David Higdon, Jamie Moore, Jane Moreland, and Jenny Raines, and advanced students Gloria Breedlove, Judy Carbone, and Karen Wade. The two pieces shown here are from the display. The untitled oil painting at the left is by Kristin Callahan, and "Old Glendale Bridge," above, is by Moreland. The exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. A public reception to recognize the student artists is set for closing night, Saturday, April 28, from 7 to 9 p.m., and further information may be obtained by calling the GCC Art Department at 301-387-3024.

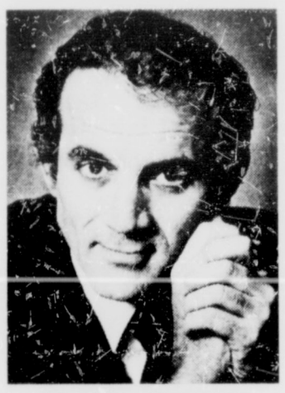
MIGHTIER THAN THE SWORD In the 21st century refers to the keyboard as well as the pen, and persons interested in honing their writing skills can participate in "Write Away," a writers' instructional conference set for Saturday, May 5, from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m. at Garrett Community College. Registration may be made by calling 301-387-3000, and pre-registration is strongly encouraged as seating arrangements depend on an accurate headcount. (Walk-ins will be accepted the day of the event.) Each of the conference's four seminars, "Writing and Illustrating Children's Books," "Writing Fiction," "Writing Poetry," and "Writing Publicity," will be presented by a professional writer, and the fiction seminar will be presented by GCC professor Dr. Greg Jenkins, shown above, who will critique short stories received in advance and explain how he converts ideas into stories. Stories to be critiqued should be sent to him a week in advance of the conference at GCC, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541. The registration fee for "Write Away" is $5, and GCC students and high school students will be admitted free of charge. GCC students will also get a co-curricular credit for attending the conference. Again, pre-registration is strongly encouraged.

Friedman And Friends To Perform This Summer At Our Town Theatre



ERICK FRIEDMAN

Celebrated violinist Erick Friedman, who has performed in Garrett County for the past 14 years as conductor and soloist with the Symphony at Deep Creek, will present music in a new forum this summer, as announced by Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, executive director of the new "Friedman and Friends" chamber music series.

Friedman and Friends, which includes the violinist and four colleagues (Ian Hobson, Lu Sun, Jesse Levine, and Sophie Shao), will present two programs at Our Town Theatre in Oakland on Sunday, Aug. 26, at 3 p.m., and Monday, Aug. 27, at 8 p.m. Tickets for all seats will be $5.

"I'm so thrilled to be able to have Erick back in Garrett County again, along with Ian, Lu, Jesse, and Sophie," Sincell-Corwell said. "And I'm indebted to Jane Avery, artistic director of Our Town Theatre, who is allowing us to present music in such a wonderful space, and to offer it to all Garrett Countians at just $5 a ticket."

Sincell-Corwell said she has always wished to bring quality music to the mountaintop and offer it to the residents at affordable prices. She said she is also pleased with the accoustics in the small theatre. "This is a great forum for us," Sincell-Corwell said.

The music to be presented in the first concert will include pieces by Brahms, Mozart, and Fauré. The second concert will feature works by Schubert, Chopin, Prokofiev, Goldmark, and Sarasate. (The programs are subject to change.)

Ticket reservations for the chamber music series can be made by calling Our Town Theatre after July 1 at 301-334-5640.

Friedman and Friends is being chiefly funded by Sincell Publishing Company Inc., followed by the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. A number of local individuals have also donated to the project, and these individuals will be noted in the program.

Sincell-Corwell expressed gratitude to the contributors, and also to Garrett Lakes Arts Festival for its past support of the popular classical music programs presented by Friedman.

Donations are still welcome to help offset the cost of the event. Checks (accompanied by a note to in-

In Loving Memory Of Husband, Father, & Grandfather
John L. Lee
On His Birthday, April 22

A birthday is a special day for those whom we love.

So God, take this birthday wish to the heavens above.

And tell him how much we love and miss him more each day.

We look into the heavens and see a shining star.

And know that he's watching over us, no matter where we are.

He is in our thoughts and on our minds each second of the day.

In memory we turn back the pages along each road we trod.

We bless the years we had with him, and leave the rest to God.

He left us with beautiful memories, a sorrow too great to be told.

But to us who loved and lost him, his memories will never grow old.

Return to Driving and Work Hardening/Conditioning Programs Now Available at Garrett Rehab

Garrett Rehab and its occupational therapy department will be offering a new program for those wishing to return to driving after an illness. Pre-driving assessments will focus on functional transfers in and out of a vehicle, driving reaction time, visual status, cognitive abilities, general driving knowledge, and the need for adaptive driving equipment.

An existing program GRS currently offers is an occupationally based service which includes Functional Capacity Evaluations (FCE) and work hardening/conditioning. The FCE evaluations help determine an individual's working limitations and the problem areas, which prevent an individual's ability to return to work. The work hardening/conditioning program focuses on returning individuals back to the work place by specifically developing a course of treatment to regain strength, range of motion, endurance, manage pain, and overall work capabilities.

Pictured is Rick Broadwater, patient, and occupational therapist Holly Warne. Garrett Rehab Services continues to increase community awareness of the occupational therapy profession and the components of treatment. Rick is engaged in an activity involving proper lifting techniques to prevent re-injury of an extremity.

Garrett Rehab Services is a certified rehabilitation agency with a staff of licensed physical, occupational, and speech therapists. GRS is the only rehabilitation agency in the county to provide this interdisciplinary approach under one roof.

National Players Group To Lead Shakespeare Workshops In Schools

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will present an arts education program for local students on Thursday, April 26, and Friday, April 27. The National Players will offer workshops and performances of an updated version of William Shakespeare's The Comedy of Errors for over 600 Northern and Southern middle and high school students. The workshops will take place at Garrett Community College. This marks the third consecutive year the Players have performed for the Garrett County audience.

A 30-minute workshop about Shakespeare's language, stage combat, character study and text, and improvisation will be given to the students. This updated version of The Comedy of Errors takes place in the port town of Ephesus, Turkey, during the Cold War era of the 1950s and 1960s. At this time, Turkey was in the thick of the fight against communism, and spies were everywhere. Based primarily on Plautus's The Menaechmi, Shakespeare's comedy follows its characters through a single day in Ephesus. Two sets of twins, master and servant, each separated at birth, are set loose in the same town with catastrophic results.

The students will also have the opportunity to have a post-performance discussion with actors.

The acting troupe is the resident touring company of the University of Maryland. The National Players organization has given approximately 5,725 presentations and workshops during its 52 years of touring. The troupe has performed in 35 states and 10 foreign countries, reaching young audiences in areas that are geographically isolated, Johnson noted.

This two-day residency is being sponsored by Drs. Porcaro, Walch, and Zakaluzny, with additional funding from Garrett County Arts Council's Arts in Education grant. All GLAF events are made possible in part with funding from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts.

For more information on this program or any of GLAF's 2001 season, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, or log on to www.artsandentertainment.org.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival To Offer Summer Arts Workshops

While the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) is known for its performing arts presentations from March through September, arts education is also an essential element of the organization, according to Beth Johnson, executive director of GLAF.

"This year alone, GLAF will provide opportunities for over 2,000 young people of Garrett County to experience the arts," Johnson said. These include school seminars, performances, and field trips, as well as GLAF's offering of summer camps and workshops, for which registrations are currently being accepted.

The Dance Arts Camp of Maryland will offer small personalized classes in tap, jazz, and ballet. A new session for beginners will be held July 20-22 at Garrett Community College. The fee is $75 for day students and $225 for students requiring room and board. The minimum age accepted is 7 years old.

A weeklong dance camp will be offered for intermediate to advanced students, July 22-27. The cost for the week is $150 for day students and $465 for students requiring room and board.

Workshops will be offered in art, writing and acting for students entering 7th through 12th grades. They will be held Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m to 3:30 p.m. The registration fee for each is $50 for Garrett County residents and $75 for non-residents. Scholarships are available. These are sponsored by the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. They include the following:

The Young Artists' Workshop will be held at Garrett Community College July 9-13. The instructors will be Mark and Laura Stutzman.

The Young Writers' Workshop will take place at Fantasy Valley July 16-20. The instructors will include Barbara Hurd and Brad Barkley.

The Young Actors' Workshop will be offered at Our Town Theatre July 23-27. Instructors for this workshop will be Tanisha Brady Christie and Vanessa Thomas.

A new summer music camp, Levine on the Mountain, will be held at Garrett Community College August 18-25. Thirty-six young musicians of exceptional ability will be selected from an audition process to participate. The Levine School of Music of Washington, D.C., will provide professional instruction, Johnson said. The camp will include extensive instruction as well as opportunities for performance.

For information or registration details, persons may call the GLAF office Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at 301-387-3082. Credit cards are accepted.

ACE Meeting To Be Held

The fifth meeting of the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) for the 2000-2001 school year will be held Wednesday, April 25, at 7 p.m. in the board room at the new board of education building at 40 South Second St., Oakland.

The agenda includes a discussion of the school improvement teams' role in the schools.

The public is invited to attend.

Spay, Neuter Awareness Mo. Deemed Success

Candy Virts of the Garrett County Animal Shelter met briefly with the county commissioners this week to report on the success of the shelter and the Garrett County Humane Society's Spay/Neuter Awareness Month. Virts expressed thanks to the commissioners for their support in the endeavor.

"With your help and the help of our community, we raised $3,025, and were able to spay or neuter 121 animals," Virts reported. There were a total of 125 spay/neuter requests last month, with the remaining four to be covered with humane society funds.

The humane society and the shelter engaged in a number of public awareness projects about spaying or neutering pets. They also have focused on the animals at the shelter who need homes, and the number adopted in March was 45, compared to 19 in February and 33 in January.

SOCIETY LOOKING FOR CHAIRS - Reconstruction of a portion of the Deer Park Hotel porch at Dailey Park in downtown Oakland is the next major project of the Garrett County Historical Society, and in order to complete the job and make it as authentic as possible, the society is hoping to obtain some of the original, uniquely crafted rocking chairs that once graced the porch of the hotel. The photo above contains a line of those chairs, although the one in front had its rockers removed. The chairs have woven seats and backs, wide armrests of 1½-inch-thick wood, have a span of 19½ inches between the armrests, and are just under 43 inches high from the base of the rocker to the top of the finial. The most distinctive feature of the chair is the slanted rear legs. "The porches of the hotel and two annexes were filled with these rockers," stated Robert Boal, society president. "We know that some of them are in existence somewhere. We hope to acquire several originals, and then we could then have some duplicates made." Persons who have such rockers or information about how to obtain them are asked to telephone Boal at 301-334-9501, Robert Shaffer at 301-334-9727, or the Garrett County museum at 301-334-3226.

Bittinger Church Slates Pig Roast

The Emmanuel Lutheran Church at Bittinger has slated a fund-raiser pig roast on Saturday, May 5, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall. The event, which will benefit the church's building fund, will include games for children and karaoke music provided by DJ Jimmy Beitzel of Center Stage. The dinner menu, prepared by Rent-A-Chef, features roast pork, slaw, beans, bread, dessert, and beverage.

The cost is $10 for adults, $5 for children 5-12, and no charge for children under 5. Tickets are available in advance until Sunday, April 29, at Buckel's store in Bittinger, the Accident Bakery, and Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville. Tickets may also be obtained by calling Larry and Lana Roby at 301-387-4379 or the church office at 301-245-4202.

crew from the main station in Grantsville then having to drive the 15 miles to provide service. This has been the case very many times.

Second, Friendsville crews cannot even enter the station if one is not a fireman, and have to wait for someone to open the door to get the vehicle, another possible delay.

Third, crews have no secure area in which to store supplies, making it possible for an ambulance to respond, but not properly equipped to handle the call.

Fourth, the vehicle itself is actually secondary to a scene, with prepared and qualified personnel the first priority to stabilize a patient before transport. This alone can require several minutes.

There is no doubt, however, with all these variables, the fact that an ambulance vehicle is near, though no one may be available to man it, is a security blanket to those who see removal as a great risk. An alternate solution has been proposed by an interested party, one that should satisfy both sides in the issues, the protestors at Friendsville as well as the fainthearted membership. Since the folks at Friendsville have made public their willingness to be of assistance if the ambulance stays, this would provide them with the opportunity to be of service to their friends and neighbors.

The proposed solution is a signed agreement that would keep an ambulance at Friendsville for at least one year, with the provision that the folks there who have declared their desire to help being sure that 90% of the calls are answered. If not, an alternate solution would be put in place. Nothing could be more fair than that. Both sides will appear very foolish and unreasonable if they cannot agree to such terms.

To the Editor:

As a senior and an onlooker watching all the posturing going on with the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, I am amazed and disillusioned that such a serious lifesaving service is being threatened by personality differences among the board of directors and the actual squad members who spend their time trying to save lives.

Let me regress and start from the beginning as it has unfoided. Sometime in the late January/early February time frame, the board of directors of the NGCRS was approached by someone selling a dream. That dream was to have a central Garrett County station in McHenry. A lofty ambition and one really needed. The population in McHenry has exploded and there is a true need for a station there — not necessarily a hall to rent out for occasions and recreation facilities for squads if they were to spend their entire duty shifts under that roof.

Attached to that dream is a piece of property located on the Friendsville Road near Route 219 — a dream location for a McHenry station. Not a dream location necessarily to be purchased for $440,000 for many reasons.

The first mistake was that the board of directors did not research the property, as was admitted by Mr. Danny Durst, president of the board of directors at the Grantsville squad meeting held Tuesday, April 10, when asked by Mr. Terry Spear. Had they done that, they would have found that the property was sold to the Nanco Acquisition Arbitrage Development Inc. on June 28, 1996, for $240,000. The county tax assessor has assessed the property for tax purposes at $250,566.

This information was found by me in about 20 minutes, as it is a matter of public record at the courthouse in Oakland. I have copies of the deeds and the tax records. It is also a matter of public record that the Nanco Corporation is no longer doing business in the state of Maryland as a corporation since October 6, 2000.

Without this information to guide them, the board of directors, still believing in their dream, held secret meetings and had secret minutes and decided to purchase this piece of property. These secret dealings were not made public to anyone, the squad members or the membership at large, which includes all of us who pay the dues to them for their services every year, and through donations and fund-raisers, are the main support of the squad. Although we are not squad members and have no vote, we are the recipients of the lifesaving services. The board of directors indebted the entire squad to the tune of $440,000 for a piece of property that is clearly being developed to make a big, big profit for Nanco Inc., not necessarily the best decision that could have been made for the squad.

At the meeting April 10th at the Grantsville station, Mr. Terry Spear put forth a motion that all the dealings with and for the McHenry Nanco property be put on hold until all the members of the squad are supplied with the minutes of those secret meetings and all information pertaining to the Nanco property. The vote carried and that is now the legal position of the squad. Mr. Durst told Mr. Spear that he would make the secret minutes and the tapes and all the papers pertaining to this transaction available to him, and copies will be given to all the squad members. Each member can then decide on the facts. The next vote will be an informed vote by the members.

This hold is also affecting the proposed moving of the Accident and the Friendsville stations to that McHenry location. Those moves are on hold, as they are tied to the McHenry central Garrett station deal on that property purchase.

The next meeting is scheduled to take place at the Accident station on Thursday, May 10, at 7 p.m. This was also announced during the April 10 meeting.

That is what transpired at that meeting. I, as a mute observer, watched people's necks and faces get really red. I watched people squirm in their seats. We were all packed into a very small area, and the thunderstorm caused the windows to be closed most of the time. These were not exactly comfortable accommodations to settle such important issues. The heat and closeness of the chairs added fuel to the flaring tempers. I watched years and years of dedicated camaraderie explode amid the rising tempers.

The squad is divided into those who want that property at any cost and those who don't think it is a good deal, to say the least. Certainly the secret meetings and minutes give rise to the thought that it was not a legal squad vote. It was very apparent those members of the board of directors are using their positions to make being a squad member in the other camp very difficult.

If for any reason the contract is not honored, the deposit of $10,000 that has been given to Nanco will be forfeited, as was read to the squad members from the contract of sale. The squad members against this purchase voiced their feeling that it would be better to forfeit than be in debt for the $430,000 more if the property is not what the squad needs for a station in McHenry.

What the next meetings will bring about, I cannot begin to guess. I find it a pity that something so serious to people's lives in our county is being treated in this manner. I overheard people saying on their way out of the meeting that their time was too valuable to squander on squabbling like this deal.

I feel they will stop donating their time to saving people's lives. I also overheard that some of the squad members who are paid for their services were trying to get rid of the true volunteers so they could have full-time hours, especially if they could sit in a three-ambulance station and man it full-time. I certainly hope none of this is true. I hope it was just a hot night in Grantsville, and the tempers will subside and reason will prevail. But I don't think so. Too much money is at stake. How did money sneak into our rescue squad's problems?

Having researched Friendsville's potential problem of having a 30-minute response time if they move the station to McHenry, I have spoken to many people in charge all over the state. They agree

GCSS WATCHING OUT FOR HABITAT — Shadow, the watchdog of Garrett County Self Storage (GCSS), is shown helping present a donation check from his employers to Jeanne Blasher, executive director of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. The donation will purchase construction materials for two Habitat houses slated to be built this year. Habitat builds and renovates houses, making the privilege of homeownership a possibility for low-income families, and donations of money, building materials, volunteer labor, and Habitat's 0 percent, 20- to 30-year mortgages help break the cycle of poverty housing. Donors and volunteers may call Garrett County Habitat for further information at 301-334-9431, ext. 113, mail inquiries to P.O. Box 363, Oakland, MD 21550, or visit its web site at www.geocities.com/gchfh.

OBITUARIES

RICHARD FAZENBAKER

Richard "Dick" Fazenbaker, 76, Westernport, died Saturday, April 14, 2001, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Born April 29, 1924, at Mill Run, he was a son of the late Ernest and Florence (Warnick) Fazenbaker. He was also preceded in death by two brothers, Harry "Manny" Fazenbaker and Tommy Fazenbaker.

He was a retired road foreman with the State Highway Administration, with 49 years of service. He was the employee of the year in 1984 for the District 6 office, and was awarded a Governor's Citation on Sept. 30, 1996, for his many years of service.

He was a U.S. Army veteran of World War II, having served in Germany. He was vice president of the Upper Potomac Rod and Gun Club, and a member of the National Rifle Association.

Survivors include his wife of 55 years, Evelyn (Broadwater) Fazenbaker; two daughters, Janie Cole, and Donna MacDonald, both of Westernport; one son, Richard Fazenbaker, Westernport; one sister, Clara Madison, Elwood City, Pa.; six brothers, his twin Robert Fazenbaker, Coraopolis, Pa., Leroy Fazenbaker, Elwood City, Pa., Donald Fazenbaker, Pennsylvania, Junior Fazenbaker and Jack Fazenbaker, both of Westernport, and Vernon Fazenbaker, Backbone Mountain; five grandchildren; and one great-grandson.

Friends were received at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport, where a service was conducted Tuesday, April 17, with the Rev. Gary Morris officiating. Interment was in the Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to the Tri-Towns Rescue Squad or the Potomac Fire Company, both in Westernport.

Betty Eleanor Arnold, 76, Westernport, died Saturday, April 14, 2001.

Born July 26, 1924, in Bloomington, she was a daughter of the late Thomas and Eva McDowell. She was also preceded in death on March 15, 1985, by her husband, Lester M. Arnold, whom she married June 26, 1941.

She was a graduate of Bruce High School, class of 1941, and was a member of the Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness Church, where she had directed Bible school and Sunday School.

She cooked for the Tri-Towns After-School Program at Trinity United Methodist Church, Piedmont, W.Va., for five years. She was a past president of the Pentecostal Holiness Church Women's Auxiliary, and was a board member of the Women's Ministries. She was a member of the Bloomington Homemakers Club for 29 years, where she was a past president. She received the Homemaker of the Year award in 1999.

Survivors include her children, Ronald L. Arnold, Burlington, W.Va., Rebecca J. Raines, Williamsburg, Va., and Betty Ann Aronhalt, Westernport, with whom she resided; two brothers, George T. McDowell Sr., Gallatin, Tenn., and Donald H. McDowell, Bloomington; two sisters, Edna S. "Dowell" Kooken and Eva C. (Murph) Rosier, both of Bloomington; seven grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport. A service was conducted at the Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness Church on Wednesday, April 18, with the Rev. Thomas Brackett and her nephew, the Rev. George T. McDowell Jr., officiating. Interment was in the Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

JOHN W. SELSEK

John Walter Selsek, 59, Bayard, W.Va., died Tuesday, April 17, 2001, at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va.

Born March 12, 1942, in Henry, W.Va., he was a son of the late John F. and Willia (Rotruck) Selsek. He was also preceded in death by one brother, Franklin H. Selsek.

He was a 1960 graduate of Bayard High School, where he was active in sports, and earned the West Virginia Golden Horse Shoe Award.

He was a veteran of the U.S. Air Force and an employee of Dominion Generation at the Mt. Storm Power Station for 34 years. During his career, he held various positions including journeyman and welder, and retired as a CBM Equipment Specialist on July 1, 2000.

Survivors include his wife, Sharon (Witt) Selsek, whom he married June 18, 1983, and one brother, James A. Collette, Mt. Storm.

He was a member of the Keeler Glade Church of God and was a farmer.

Surviving are three sons, James E. VanSickle, Raymond C. VanSickle, and Lott VanSickle, all of Friendsville; four daughters, Janet L. Fike and Judith L. Frazee, both of Friendsville, Alice Catherine Hartzell, Boonsboro, and Mary Jane Yoder, Cumberland; two brothers, Jack VanSickle, Friendsville, and Joe VanSickle, Oakland; one half-brother, Ray VanSickle, Friendsville; one sister, Amanda Lowdermilk, Friendsville; 14 grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, Friendsville, where a service was conducted Saturday, April 14, with the Rev. Philip Geoghan officiating. Interment was in the Blooming Rose Cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to a charity of the donor's choice.

LOUELLA G. COSNER

Louella G. Cosner, 90, Mt. Storm, W.Va., died Sunday, April 15, 2001, at her home.

Born May 6, 1910, in Keyser, she was the daughter of the late Wright and Blanche J. (Jewell) Davy. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Lewis H. Cosner, in 1949, and one daughter, Gloria Cosner. She was the last surviving member of her immediate family.

She was a member of the Mt. Storm Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Women's Group.

Survivors include four daughters, Maxine Ours, Fountain, W.Va., Janet Jones, Oakland, and Irene Hawk and Loretta Fishel, both of Mt. Storm; three sons, Rex Cosner and Eddie Cosner, both of Mt. Storm, and Robert Cosner, Baltimore; 25 grandchildren; and numerous great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland. A service was conducted at the Mt. Storm Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, April 18, with the Rev. Paul Smith officiating. Interment was in the Idleman Cemetery, Mt. Storm.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to the Mt. Storm Presbyterian Church, P.O. Box 226, Mt. Storm, WV 26739.

MASON J. RODEHEAVER

Mason J. Rodeheaver, 84, Friendsville, died Friday, April 13, 2001, at Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland.

Born Aug. 3, 1916, in Friendsville, he was a son of the late Andrew and Blanche (Matthews) Rodeheaver. He was also preceded in death by his wife, Geraldine (Wright) Rodeheaver, on Nov. 20, 1998; one son, Donald Rodeheaver; two brothers, Hobert Rodeheaver and James Rodeheaver; and four sisters, Mary Savage, Stella DeWitt, Mildred Cuppett, and Lucille DeWitt.

He was a lifelong farmer and worked in construction and for the Penn Line Service for a number of years. He was a member of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren.

Surviving are three sons, Ronald Rodeheaver and Dwain Rodeheaver, both of McHenry, and Gerald Rodeheaver, Friendsville; one brother, Herman Rodeheaver, Friendsville; one sister, Agnes DeWitt, McHenry; 10 grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren; and three great-great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, McHenry. A service was conducted at the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren on Monday, April 16, with the Rev. Donald Matthews officiating. Interment was in the Oak Grove Cemetery.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to the Oak Grove Church, Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company or Hospice of Garrett County.

New Guidelines for Pain Management

According to the American Pain Foundation, more than 50 million Americans suffer from chronic or continuing pain. The inappropriate treatment of chronic pain is a growing problem in the US. For example, only a third of all cancer patients are reported to get adequate pain relief, and three-quarters of surgery patients don't get good pain control. Health experts believe that fear of legal problems may limit some physicians and pharmacists from recommending large doses of pain relievers. New pain management standards recently were developed by a consensus panel of health professions. They suggest that assessments of pain intensity be performed regularly and recorded in the person's medical chart.

Many drugs are used for chronic pain. Stronger medicines are used for moderate to severe pain. Although addictive, studies have failed to show that addiction is a major problem in chronic pain situations.

THE LAST EVENT in a high school track meet is the 1,600-meter relay, and it was via that event that both the Southern boys' and Southern girls' teams won a five-team meet, hosted by the Rams last Thursday. Both needed to defeat the Preston Knights in that final event in order to win the overall meet. The Southern boys finished one place ahead of Preston, while the Southern girls won the relay and Preston finished fourth. The photo above was taken during the boys' 1,600. Below is a photo of the girls 800 relay. At left, Northern High School's Karie Kamp hands the baton to teammate Nicole Doerr. At far right, Southern's Eileen Mouyard takes off after receiving the baton from Chelsea Remley. The Southern girls placed second in that event, while Northern finished third.

SHS Track Teams Both Win Meet In Final Event

In the most exciting double finish ever witnessed at the Southern High School track, the Southern boys' and girls' track and field teams both won first-place team victories in the final event of a five-team competition last Thursday afternoon.

The Southern boys needed to defeat Preston in the final event, the 1,600 relay, and did so by taking third place, one spot ahead of the Knights. The Southern girls also needed to top Preston in the 1,600 relay, and did so by taking first place, while the Knights placed fourth.

The SHS boys finished with 83 points to edge out Preston, which recorded 80. Beall was third with 68, followed by University with 65 and Northern with 58. The Southern girls amassed 94 team points, with Preston in second place with 88.5 points. University was third with 68, followed by Beall with 60 and Northern with 42.5.

Earning individual first places for the Southern boys were Matt Stephens, who won the high jump with a height of 5'10", and Kyle Snyder, who won the discus with a heave of 115'2". Stephens also placed second in the triple jump, third in the long jump, and fourth in high hurdles. Snyder was second in the shot put.

Southern's Matt Frederick placed second in the 3,200-meter run, and Bryan Schwalm was the runner-up in the 400 run.

The Rams' 3,200 relay team finished second, while the 400, 800, and 1,600 relay teams each placed third. Keith Steyer was third in the 100-meter dash, Josh Sharon placed third in the 400-meter run, and Ricky Curry was third in the discus.

Pacing the Northern boys was Andy Bowser, who won the triple jump with a distance of 37'1", and also the 300 intermediate hurdles with a time of 43.3 seconds. He was third in the 110 high hurdles.

Northern's Jason Fickes placed second in both the 100 and 200 dashes, while Ron Lipscomb was second in the 1,600 run. The Huskies' 1,600 relay team also finished second.

The top male athlete for the meet was Beall's Matt Morgan, who won the 100 dash, plus the 400 and 800 runs, and was a member of the winning 1,600 relay team.

The Southern girls recorded three first places, as Robbin Gregg won the 200 dash in 28.1 seconds; the 3,200 relay team of Melissa Durst, Natalie Domenick, Justine Pagenhardt, and Brittany Naylor won with a time of 10:58.2; and the 1,600 relay team of Naylor, Domenick, Durst, and Jessica Sharon won with a time that was not reported.

HEIGHT AND DISTANCE determine the winners of the various jumping competitions at a high school track and field meet. Above, Southern High School's Nikki Ravenscroft leaps her way to a second place in the high jump event of last Thursday's five-team meet hosted by the Rams. Below, Northern High School's Andrew Bowser soars to a first-place finish in the triple jump with a distance of 37 feet, 1 inch. Bowser also won the 300 intermediate hurdles (43.3 seconds) and was third in the 110 hurdles.

STEP FOR STEP and dead even at this point in the girls' 300 low hurdles event are Southern's Erin Frantz (left) and Northern's Megan Zimmerman. Megan's teammate, Kristin Lander, won the event in 49.6 seconds. Below, Southern's James Preston hurls the discus to a fourth-place finish in that event, which was won by his teammate, Kyle Snyder (115 feet, 2 inches). The Southern boys' and girls' teams both won the five-team competition, which also included Northern, Preston, Beall, and University high schools. See story for details.

Bittinger, Hall Top Winners In 5K Waffle Run

Zach Bittinger, 18, and Maureen Hall, 36, were the top male and female finishers in the annual Railey Realty 5-Kilometer Waffle Run, held Saturday at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. Bittinger defeated the other 40 runners in the event with his time of 17 minutes, 53 seconds, while Hall was the fastest female and 10th overall finisher, as she completed the 3.1-mile course along Marsh Hill Road in 20 minutes, 48 seconds.

The second through ninth finishers, and their corresponding ages and times, were: Tony Yurko, 38, 18:02; Tad Davis, 34, 18:07; Sid Bittinger, 16, 18:44; Jimmy Railey, 39, 19:35; Mark Bishop, 29, 20:14; Jason Griffith, 30, 20:21; David Ritchie, 34, 20:25; and Kevin Walizer, 23, 20:40.

Jen Wilson, 28, was the second fastest female runner and 14th overall with a time of 22:05, while Tracy Bishop, 27, placed third among the women and 15th overall in 22:19.

The youngest runners were 11-year-olds Drew Yurko and Justin Cottrill, who placed 19th (23:20) and 45th (29:49), respectively.

Ten persons participated in the two-mile walk, with Mark McMillan, 35, the first to cross the finish line in 23 minutes, 19 seconds. Janet Hardesty, 55, was the first female walker across the line, as she recorded a time of 23:23.

All participants were served a breakfast at the Wisp following the races. The annual event is sponsored by Railey Realty and the Wisp Resort.

Huskies, Rams Split Tennis Match Thursday

The Northern girls' tennis team rolled over county rival Southern in a match in Oakland last Thursday, 7-0, while the Southern boys' team defeated their Husky counterparts, 5-2.

Sweeping the singles matches for the Northern girls were Heather Lander, Ashley Robinson, Renee Meyers, Christy Flockhart, and Amber Weimer. The doubles teams of Rachel Bruch and Andrea Green, and Nicole Sisler and Annie Donaldson also won their matches to complete the team sweep.

Earning singles victories for the Southern boys were Josh Stephens, Dustin Slider, Jeremy Durst, and Kody Morfoot. Stephens and Slider then teamed up to win in doubles.

The Huskies got a singles win from Woody Kenner.

The Rams' next match is scheduled for this Friday at Fort Hill, followed by a home match against Frankfort next Wednesday. The Huskies are slated to travel to Beall this afternoon, host Frankfort on Monday, and entertain Fort Hill next Tuesday.

Ringer Slingers Ready To Toss Out New Season

The Mountaintop Ringer Slingers horseshoe pitching season opens this Sunday, April 22, with a singles tournament on the Accident Town Park courts. The qualifying round will get under way at 2 p.m., and all interested persons may participate.

For further information, interested persons may contact Jim Shahan at 301-387-4433 or Gary Holtschneider at 301-387-6352.

Oakland Little League Opening Day Event Set

Despite the calendar (and the snowfall), spring officially gets under way this Saturday morning, April 21, as the Oakland Little League opens its regular baseball season with a 9:30 a.m. opening day ceremony and special dedication at the Broadford Park ballfields in Mtn. Lake Park. The ceremonies precede the first game of the year, which gets under way at 10 a.m.

Dave Martin will sing the national anthem and a surprise local dignitary will throw out the first ball. The Garrett County Health Department Outreach team will be on hand to provide health and drug awareness activities, face painting, and several demonstrations. Free popcorn will be served.

The founders of the Oakland Little League, which got its start in 1954, will be honored with a tree-planting ceremony in their honor near the concession stand. Markers at the base of each of the four trees will permanently commemorate the league's founders, two of whom are still living in the Oakland area. The four trees are gifts of the Stuck, Orr, and Stewart families, and Beachy Lumber, which is also donating the markers.

Ten local Little League teams have games slated at Broadford Park this Saturday, and seven minor league teams will play during the day as well.

Rams Blank Wildcats, Vikings; Top Previously Unbeaten Raiders

Sitting atop the area rankings in baseball is nothing new to the Southern High School varsity and Coach Jim Bosley, and it's clear so far this season that the Rams are right where they belong, as they have crushed six of their first seven opponents and topped a previously undefeated team for their seventh win. In fact, the Rams have earned four shutouts and amassed an incredible total of 88 runs in those seven games while allowing only five, three of which were to Meyersdale on Saturday.

Southern blanked host Westmar on Friday, 11-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League clash and then won their own Easter tournament on Saturday by shutting out Petersburg, 10-0, and stopping previously unbeaten Meyersdale, 5-3. The victory over Petersburg was Coach Bosley's 300th career win in 22 seasons as head coach of the Rams.

Bryson Meyers and Brad Palmer; Josh Glass, Richie Dellinger (1), Chadd Kroll (4) Bud Fazenbaker (6) and Luke Morton.

Games scheduled for both Tuesday and Wednesday had to be postponed because of weather conditions.

Chad Panther went 4-for-4 with his bat against Westmar on Friday while teammate Bryson Meyers recorded a one-hitter in going the six-inning distance on the mound. The contest was called after six because of the 10-run rule.

The Rams scored two runs in the first inning, two in the second, and four in the third to take a commanding 8-0 advantage. They added a single run in the fifth and two more insurance runs in the top of the sixth.

Panther finished with a double and three singles to lead Southern's 13-hit performance. Joel Helbig contributed a double and a single, and Chad Remley provided a pair of singles.

The only hit for the Wildcats off Meyers was a two-out single in the first inning by Bud Fazenbaker. Meyers then proceeded to retire the next 16 batters, striking out seven and allowing no walks.

Josh Glass started on the mound for the Wildcats, but had to leave after facing the first two batters because of illness. He was followed by three others, none of whom could silence the Ram bats. However, six of Southern's runs were unearned because of four Wildcat errors.

The Wildcats dropped to 2-3 overall and 1-2 in the WMIL.

After 1½ scoreless innings against Petersburg on Saturday, the Rams put three runs on the board in the bottom of the second, one in the third, and six more in the fourth to bring that game to a close after five innings, again because of the 10-run rule.

The Rams finished with seven hits, with Kevin Goralski smacking a two-run double and Jared Fike recording a home run.

Josh Fitzwater earned the victory on the mound by allowing only two hits in five innings.

The Rams took a 2-0 lead against the Red Raiders of Meyersdale in the first inning of Saturday's second contest, but Pat Wey knotted the score at 2-2 with a two-run homer in the top of the second. Southern answered with three more runs in the bottom of the second behind a two-run double by Justin DiSimone.

The only other run scored in the game was by Greg Troutman of Meyersdale when he ripped a solo home run in the fourth inning. Troutman was the losing pitcher, although he allowed only five Ram hits.

Getting the win on the mound for the Rams was Tobi Stoner, who fanned eight batters, gave up five hits, and aided his own cause at the plate with a pair of singles.

Meyersdale defeated Petersburg in the third game, 11-3.

Coach Bosley's career record with the Rams is now 301-104, which translates to a .743 winning percentage. His teams have never had a losing season, and have won a record seven area championships, including five in the past seven seasons.

The Rams were scheduled to play at Northern on Tuesday, but that game has been rescheduled for May 2. A home game slated for yesterday against Allegany has been bumped to this Saturday at 5 p.m. Prior to that, however, the Rams are slated to host Keyser this Friday and then play at Hampshire at noon on Saturday.

Other make-up games that have been scheduled include a match-up at Bishop Walsh on April 27 and a game at Preston on May 5. A contest that was scheduled for May 7 at home against Fort Hill has been moved to May 9.

"The weather is really getting to be a problem for us and our schedule," Bosley said. "We are just about out of available slots for make-up games, which is why we are going to have to play two games this Saturday."

Nonetheless, Bosley is obviously pleased with his team's performance to date. "We've had some better hitting teams, but a real plus for us this year is that we have four top-quality pitchers," he said, referring to Fitzwater, DiSimone, Meyers, and Stoner. "Typically, you have only one or two, so we feel very fortunate."

Huskies Tripped Up By Beall, Williamsport; Down Panthers

Northern High School's varsity baseball team began the week with a 6-5 loss to Beall Friday, dropped a 12-2 contest to Williamsport in Saturday's Easter Tournament at Hancock, then rebounded to take a 5-4 win over the Panther hosts in their second tournament appearance. A Monday battle with arch-rival Southern was canceled because of weather and has been rescheduled for May 2.

This week the 3-6 Huskies are, according to their published schedule, slated to host Westmar and its superb pitching staff Saturday at noon, and on Thursday Bishop Walsh is set to pay a 4:30 p.m. visit to the Cove.

Northern jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first against the Mountaineers, as starting pitcher Greg Speicher got his own cause off to a good start by singling, then rounding the horn to score on second baseman Greg Whittemore's double. Catcher Bryan Lenhart and infielder Dan Vagnetti added back-to-back RBI singles.

Beall responded with a run in the bottom of the first to make the score 3-1, but NHS went up by three with a second-inning score of its own. The hosts tied the game in the third, then put together a pair of consecutive two-run innings. Northern scored in the sixth to cut the margin to 6-5 in Beall's favor, but that's where the contest ended in the seventh.

Northern's nine-hit output was paced by a pair of singles by Speicher and Whittemore's two doubles and two RBI. Speicher pitched the first four innings until giving way to Lenhart in the fifth. Beall reliever Eddie Kimbel, who came on in the fourth, earned credit for the win.

The Huskies had their hands full with Williamsport in Saturday's opener, as the Washington County squad scored twice in the first and three times in the second. NHS scored once in the third, but Williamsport roared back with two runs in the bottom of that stanza and four in the fourth to go up 11-1.

Northern's only hit of the contest came in the fifth, when infielder Landon Southerly punched out a single off reliever Ben Jordan. Jeremy Frazee was tagged with the loss.

The Hancock battle went down to the wire as the Huskies claimed a 5-4 win. NHS scored once in the second, and the Panthers responded in kind in the top of the fourth.

Northern exploded for three runs in the bottom of that stanza, as first baseman Trey Brenneman doubled to open and, after another runner reached on an error, scored on a fielder's choice with Southerly batting. Outfielder Aaron Mitchell then doubled to post runners on second and third, and Speicher and Frazee rapped out back-to-back singles to close out that inning's scoring.

Hancock scored three in the fifth to knot the score at 4-all, but Frazee launched a solo home run in the sixth to give NHS a 6-5 lead. Dan Vagnetti came to the mound in the seventh to save the Huskies' win.

Frazee's homer and two singles paced NHS by producing two RBI. Lenhart had a double, and Brenneman and Mitchell each doubled and singled. Northern stroked out a dozen hits in all.

Lakers Fall To Catamounts As Record Drops To 8-10

The seemingly never-ending winter weather conditions of late have all but halted the 2001 baseball season for the Garrett Community College Lakers, who have managed to play but one game over the past two weeks. That contest resulted in a 10-9 defeat at the talented hands of the Potomac State College Catamounts on Saturday in Keyser, W.Va.

The Lakers were slated to host Allegany College on Tuesday, but that game had to be postponed until today.

Potomac State jumped out to a 5-0 lead with five runs in the bottom of the first inning, but over the course of the next 2½ innings the Lakers chipped away at the lead and tied the score in the top of the fifth. They held a brief 7-5 lead before the Catamounts took the lead for good with three runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Highlights of PSC's five-run first inning were a two-run single by Omari Briscoe and a one-run single by Josh Phillips.

Adam Skocik ripped a two-run homer for GCC in the second inning, and Jason DiAngelo and Matt Mills each stroked a solo shot in the fifth to give the Lakers their 7-5 advantage.

A solo homer by Wayne Sager and a two-run blast by Derek Cisar in the sixth gave PSC the lead for good (9-7). What ultimately proved to be the Catamounts' winning run was a solo homer by former Paw Paw High School standout Josh DeLawder in the bottom of the seventh.

The Lakers rallied for two runs in the top of the ninth on a two-run homer by Chad Cooper, but the game ended with the tying run at second base.

DeLawder also had two singles to go with his home run, while Morgan Clendenin hit two singles.

Matt Mills had a homer and a double, and Craig Barkey hit two singles for the Lakers, were out-hit by a 12-10 margin.

It was the 17th victory in 23 starts for Potomac State.

After today's game with Allegany College, the Lakers (8-10) are scheduled to host CCBC-Essex for a doubleheader this Saturday, play a twinbill at Frederick CC on Sunday, and travel to Anne Arundel CC for a doubleheader next Tuesday.

SHS Jayvees Lose A Pair

The junior varsity baseball team of Southern High School was edged twice by the undefeated Frankfort jayvees Friday at Short Gap, W.Va., as the Rams lost both contests in the final inning.

Southern held a 9-3 lead going into the final frame, but the Falcons (6-0) rallied for seven runs in that inning to record a 10-9 victory.

Leading Frankfort's hitting effort were Eric Spiroff, who hit a triple and a double, and William Haddix, who rapped a double and a single. Getting two singles apiece were Chris Smith, Johnny Markley, and D.L. Longerbeam.

Pacing the Rams at the plate were Nathan Fitzwater, who stroked a double and two singles, Andrew Feather, who had two singles, and Jay Tressler, who contributed a triple.

The score of the second game was knotted at 2-2 going into the seventh, but the Falcons scored a run in that final inning to win, 3-2.

Markley and Spiroff each hit two singles, and Longerbeam had a double for the Falcons. Billy Reams finished with a double and a single for Southern, and teammate Fitzwater hit two singles.

The Rams were scheduled to play a doubleheader at Fort Hill on Monday, but that encounter had to be postponed because of weather conditions. They are slated to host Frankfort this afternoon, entertain Preston this Saturday, and travel to Northern next Tuesday.

I want to share this poem with all those who have helped in many ways after the fire at my house.

Others

Lord, help me live from day to day
In such a self-forgetful way,
That even when I kneel to pray,
My prayer shall be for "Others."

Help me in all the work I do
To ever be sincere and true,
And know, that all I do for You
Must needs be done for "Others."

And when my work on earth is done,
And my new work in Heaven's begun,
May I forget the crown I've won,
While thinking still of "Others."

"Others," Lord, yes, "Others!"
Let this my motto be.
Help me to live for others
That I may live for Thee.

My sincere thanks to all.

Rams Run Over 'Cats, Roosevelt; Bats Silenced In Patuxent Defeat

It took a no-hitter to bring down Southern High School's high-rolling varsity softball team this week, as the Rams mounted a pair of impressive wins before being held hitless in a one-run loss. SHS crushed Westmar 13-0 last Thursday, April 12, and did the same to Eleanor Roosevelt Saturday in a 9-1 Calvert County Easter Tourney opener. The Rams' fortunes took a turn for the worse in the day's second battle, however, as a pitching duel masterpiece resulted in a 2-1 SHS loss to Patuxent. Although mound magician Jennifer Bosley gave up only two hits to Patuxent, she and her teammates were shut down at the plate by hurler Heather Turner.

Southern pounded out 17 hits off the Westmar pitcher in the week's Lonaconing debut. The Rams got off to a 4-0 start in a first inning flurry that included a three-run home run blast by infielder Erica Green. SHS went on to score twice in the second, once in the third, and six times in the sixth and final inning.

The Rams' fireworks included a pair of doubles and a pair of singles by shortstop Ashley Liller, three singles each by outfielder Stacey Scripp and catcher Gina Reeves, and a pair of singles that Green punched out in addition to her home run. Bosley tossed the first four innings, striking out 11 batters and not surrendering a single hit. Liller was summoned to the mound in the fifth and proceeded to notch the save by pitching two scoreless innings while giving up just two hits.

The Rams gave Eleanor Roosevelt a taste of the same in their first game Saturday, scoring eight runs on four hits and four errors in the first inning alone. Roosevelt scored once in the bottom of the stanza, but Southern answered that with a run in kind in the fourth to account for the final eight-run margin.

SHS's 11-hit output was paced by Reeves's double and two RBI, Liller's three singles, Bosley's triple and single, and Scripp's pair of singles. Bosley turned in a typical Bosley performance, fanning 15 opponents and giving up just two hits.

The second game with Patuxent was a different story, as Bosley finally met a pitcher who could seemingly match her pitch for pitch. Patuxent's Turner and the Ram ace locked horns in a pitcher's duel for the ages. Bosley struck out an eye- and mitt-popping 19 Patuxent batters while giving up just one hit, a performance that could only be topped by Turner's no-hitter.

The game was scoreless through the first seven innings, then SHS outfielder Megan Burner scored on an error to give the Rams a 1-0 lead in the top of the eighth. With its back to the wall, Patuxent tied it up in the bottom of the eighth when a runner scored on a throwing error. Turner drove in the winning run on a long single to clinch her own pitching victory.

SHS's published schedule prior to any make-up games being added shows the Rams traveling to Allegany tomorrow, then returning home Tuesday for a 4:30 p.m. match-up with the improving Northern Huskies.

The 8-2 Rams have outscored their opponents 73-13 so far this season, and Bosley's strikeout total continues to climb into the stratosphere while her ERA plummets toward the 0.50 mark.

NHS Nipped By Knights, Falls To Jefferson; Thumps Goretti

Northern High School's varsity softball squad took its first win this week by throttling St. Maria Goretti 28-3 Saturday to cap the South Hagerstown Easter Tournament. The win was preceded that same day by an 11-3 loss to Jefferson, and earlier in the week NHS dropped a hard-fought 4-3 contest to Preston on Friday.

While the 1-3 mark of the week gives the Huskies a 1-6 record in a season with more downs than ups so far, the Northern squad may have begun to turn a corner as its pitching game was at the top of its form over the week. Husky starter Jolene Brenneman, while still struggling with her control, gave up just four hits in each complete-game outing against Preston and Jefferson, and Bridget Frazee and Brandi Perez combined to toss a two-hitter against Goretti. Other pitchers have not fared so well against the Huskies, however, as the NHS murderer's row of Brenneman, Frazee, and Brooke Butler are each batting over .500.

Friday's contest saw Northern take a 1-0 lead in the opening inning as shortstop Frazee belted a run-scoring triple. Preston knotted the score in the third with a lone run, and with the game deadlocked in the sixth inning Preston took advantage of a pair of NHS errors by scoring three runs to go up 4-1. Frazee came through with a two-run home run in the seventh, but that final inning ran out with the Huskies down by one.

NHS added nine hits to Frazee's two long shots, including a trio of singles by both Brenneman and second baseman Butler, and a double by catcher Amanda Frantz. As mentioned earlier, Brenneman gave up only four hits over her seven-inning effort, but was doomed by the errors of Preston's three-run sixth.

NHS's Saturday tourney outing at South Hagerstown opened with a match-up with powerful Jefferson High, which took an eight-run win. Brenneman held the West Virginia squad to just four hits, but handcuffed herself by issuing 13 walks. Although Jefferson's Woods whiffed 13 Husky batters, NHS's offense still managed to rap out an impressive 10 hits, with Butler's four singles leading the way.

St. Maria Goretti proved the answer to Northern's prayers in Game 2, which was a Husky romp from the outset. Northern jumped out to an 11-0 first inning lead as Frazee cracked a two-run homer. Over the remaining three innings, the Huskies racked up scoring tallies of 1, 6, and 10 runs.

In addition to Frazee's first-inning shot, the junior co-captain ripped a triple and drove in four runs for the outing. The other two captains of the NHS triumvirate also had big games at the plate, as Brenneman stroked a triple and had three RBI and Butler went 4-for-4 with four runs scored. The Huskies had a whopping total of 19 hits. Frazee pitched the first two innings, enough to lay claim to the victory, before Perez came to the mound in the third for mop-up duty.

Northern is slated to host Beall today at 4:30, and tomorrow the Huskies will entertain Salisbury in a 4:15 p.m. doubleheader. They visit arch-rival Southern on Tuesday and travel to Kingwood for a rematch with Preston on Wednesday. Next Thursday, April 26, NHS returns home to host Fort Hill in a 4:30 battle.

Ex-Ram Softball Standouts Make Mark For Cats

Former Southern High School varsity softball teammates Melissa Kuykendall and Jennifer Teagarden have proven to be incremental players for the Potomac State College Catamounts in Keyser, W.Va. As of last report on Monday, head coach John Stone's squad had a 5-4 record.

Kuykendall and Teagarden were keys to the Catamount's recent four-game sweep of Sauk Valley Community College (Illinois) in tournament action played in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

PSC opened with 7-0 victory as Kuykendall went 2 for 3 at the plate and Teagarden added a single. In Game 2 Teagarden hurled a five-hitter with two strikeouts in a complete game 8-3 victory.

The following day Potomac State took two more games from Sauk Valley. Game 3's 10-6 victory included a 2 for 4 batting performance by Kuykendall, and in the next game Teagarden improved her mound record to 2-0 with a complete game victory. Kuykendall went 2 for 3 with a double and single.

Over the course of the four-game series, Kuykendall collected 6 hits in 10 at bats while Teagarden went 2-0 on the mound with 2 complete games.

Lakers Fielding Intercollegiate Softball Squad

Garrett Community College has joined the softball ranks of NJCAA Division III schools as the Lakers have formed an intercollegiate softball team. The Lakers debut tomorrow, Friday, April 20, in a 2 p.m. single-game match-up at Potomac State College in Keyser, W.Va.

Head coach Ann Wellham's squad will take part in five regular season road dates over the rest of this month, including a doubleheader, and will take part in the Division III Tournament at Anne Arundel CC on May 4-5.

A diverse unit takes to the field for the Lakers, as the roster includes players from Garrett and Preston county schools, and three from Estonia (see roster below). Tomorrow's contest at PSC will be a reunion of sorts for some former Rams, as the Catamounts have several former SHS athletes as well.

"We have a mixed bag of talent this year," Wellham commented. "I have seen a great deal of improvement over the last couple of weeks, but the weather has not permitted us much of an opportunity to develop to our full potential. We are trying softball this year, but there is no guarantee that we will have a program in 2002. If no new state funding comes in next year, we won't be able to fund a new program."

Beeghly Invited To Compete In National Shoot

For the second year in a row, Swanton resident Ron Beeghley has been invited by Gonic Arms to shoot in a national muzzleloaders event in Friendship, Ind. Beeghley, who was a member of the Gonic Arms team, finished ninth among 47 shooters in last year's competition. There were nine muzzleloader companies represented.

Beeghly holds two world records in the Safari Club and is among the top 10 in two other categories. He is also the only North American hunter to take five species of deer, a wild scrub bull, and a South Pacific water buffalo in one hunt with a muzzleloader.

Beeghly works as a consultant for Hotspur Outback Safaris, promoting Outback hunting in the Australian GETS FIRST GOBBLER — 15-year-old Willie Davis got his first gobbler on Youth Hunting Day last Saturday, an 18-lb. tom that sported a 9-inch beard. The youth, who resides near Swanton with his parents, Lori and William M. Davis, was assisted in the field by any young hunter's best friend — his own father.

'Rams' Ashley Liller Named WMIL Player Of The Year In Hoops Poll

SHS's C. Reeves, NHS's Frazee Also First-Teamers

ASHLEY LILLER

CHARLENA REEVES

BRIDGET FRAZEE

Southern High School junior Ashley Liller, whose outstanding play at both ends of the court led the Rams' varsity squad into the Maryland Class 1A girls' basketball state championship final, has been named the 2000-2001 Western Maryland Interscholastic League Player of the Year. The 5-7 guard helped the Rams to a 21-6 overall record and a perfect 10-0 league mark.

The honor was bestowed through a poll of WMIL coaches earlier this week. The voting also resulted in two other Garrett County basketball standouts, Southern senior forward Charlena Reeves and Northern High junior forward Bridget Frazee, earning All-WMIL first-team recognition. Rounding out the first team are senior center Teandra Smith of Allegany, junior forward Jessica George of Fort Hill, and senior center Stacey Langham of Westmar.

Named to the All-WMIL second team were SHS freshman guard Robbin Gregg and NHS forward Amanda Frantz, and honorable mention kudos went to NHS junior forward Jennifer Mosley.

"Ashley is a superb basketball player, all-around athlete, and student," Southern head coach Don Temple commented. "She's a hard worker in practice and in the classroom. She's very versatile on offense, can shoot the three, penetrate, post up, and rebound and pass.

"She's also very good at leading the fast break because she is a threat to pass or shoot, and makes good decisions. She's a good defensive player too, with great anticipation that leads to a lot of steals on her part that can get the fast break going. She can defend both inside and outside."

Liller led the Rams in scoring this year with a 15.7 average, assists with a 5.5 average, and in steals with a 3.6 average. She was third in rebounding at 4.7 takedowns per outing, and her 15.1 WMIL scoring average was good for second in the league behind Alco's Smith, tal. She averaged 7.7 points in WMIL competition, and her 301-point total is believed to be close to the NHS single-season record. Northern finished the season with a 12-12 record and a 3-7 mark in WMIL play.

Panther, Speicher Named To All-WMIL Basketball Squad

GREG SPEICHER

Two Garrett County high school hoopsters, one from Southern High School and one from Northern High School, were among five Western Maryland Interscholastic League players named to the All-WMIL first team this week by a vote of the league coaches. They are seniors Bryan Panther of Southern and Greg Speicher of Northern.

Among those named to the second team were Ricky Reams and Josh Sharon of Southern, while Southern's Chad Panther and Northern's Jeremy Frazee each received honorable mention.

Bryan Panther, a 6-2 forward for the Southern Rams, finished fifth in league scoring with just under 14 points per game, and was third in foul shooting with an 80 percent effort (16 of 20). He was one of the leaders on the team that reached the final four in the Maryland 1A tournament this spring and finished with a 22-4 overall record. The Rams were second in the WMIL with an 8-2 league mark.

Panther averaged 14.4 points and 6.2 rebounds for the season, hitting 49 percent of his shots from the floor and 82 percent of his free throws.

Greg Speicher, a 5-8 guard and playmaker for the Northern Huskies, was tied for third in the league scoring with a 15.4 average. He was fourth in the league in three-point shooting with 15 buckets, and eight in foul shooting, hitting 31 of 42 attempts for 73.8 percent.

He hit 50 three-pointers for the Huskies' 2000-01 season, averaging 16.3 points and 3.6 assists. He hit 46 percent of his shots from the field and 71 percent of his free throw opportunities.

Fort Hill's Jeremy Snyder, a senior forward who averaged just under 25 points per game in league competition, was named the WMIL Player of the Year. Other members of the All-WMIL first team were Ryan Rebuck of Allegany, Chad Keller of Fort Hill, and Josh Glass of Westmar.

Joining Reams and Sharon on the second team were Fort Hill's Joel Fradiska, Westmar's Bobby Alkire, and Beall's Brady Greig.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park

Roaring Knob Raceway Park has released its schedule of events for 2001.

Sat., April 21, and Sat., April 28 are slated as practice dates. The raceway will be open free to the public as the drivers "shake 'em down and tune 'em up."

The season will open on Sat., May 5, with a regular show of four division racing. Regular shows consist of Ken Nicholson and Sons Late Models, Caney Valley Sport and Marine AMRA Modifieds, VitaLink-QCOL Dwarf Cars, and Country Charm Hot Stocks. The gates will open at 5:00 p.m., with hot laps at 7:00 and racing at 7:30.

Registration for the Appalachian Timber Products Junior Pit Crew Club will be held on opening night. Youngsters can be signed up for tons of fun, games, and prizes.

Later in the season, the big Tri-State Shootout Series returns, and the season finale will be the King of the Knob Show.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park will run every Saturday night through the end of September. There is a limited Friday night schedule of Fort Necessity Garage four and six cylinder racing, along with demolition derbies. Motocross is slated for selected Sundays, featuring motorcycles and quads.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park is located two miles west of the Youghiogheny Lake, just off Route 40 on Fearer Road. For additional information, those interested may call the raceway office at 724-329-0306 or 724-329-8196, or visit www.Roaring Knob.com on the Web.

The Rock Allegany County Speedway

Saturday night was the opening night at The Rock, Allegany County Speedway in Cumberland.

Opening night winners in all divisions were: Scott Rhodes, who charged from the 13th starting position to win the Super Late Model feature; Matt Sponaugle, who won his first ever start in the Limited Late Models; Chad McClellan, who visited Victory Lane in the AMRA Modifieds; Brian Duffy, who won the Stock Division; and Terry Norris, who won the new Cruiser Division feature.

Rhodes won in the Super Late Models over Lance Elson, Dave Groves, Chuck Clise, and Chris Harr. Heat wins went to Chuck Harper, Todd Ritchey, and Dave Troutman.

In the Limited Late Models, Matt Sponaugle held off fellow rookie Kevin Weyandt for the victory. John Hedge, Donnie Hedge, and Gary Kimmell finished third through fifth. Weyandt and Rick Singleton won the heats.

Chad McClellan charged through the competition after starting ninth in the AMRA Modifieds to get the victory. Quint Milburn finished second, followed by Will Rowe, third; Mike Altobelli Jr., fourth; and Donnie Witt, fifth. Heats were son by McClellan and Milburn.

Brian Duffy won the 15-lap Stock Car feature after taking the lead from Troy Aikey with four laps to go. Adam Chamberlain, Jeff Detwiler, Rick Wright, and Kerry Molovich rounded out the top five. Heats went to Duffy and Chamberlain.

In the new Cruiser Division at The Rock, Terry Norris survived the 20-lap feature for the win over Mike Brode, Brian Shetfer, Mike Siegele, and Tom Eshelman.

Racing at The Rock will continue this Sat., April 21, with all five divisions in action. For the latest information, those interested may visit the track's web site at www.dirtrock.com.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Eighty plus cars were on hand for the test and tune session Fri., April 13, at Interstate 79 Speedway. All classes were given several sessions and had many opportunities to fine tune their race cars for this week's season opener.

Friday night's season opener will feature regular racing with the Shinnston Plumbing Late Models, Semi Lates, AMRA Modifieds, Pure Stocks and 4 Cylinders. Last year's champs will all return to defend their titles. Admission prices are $9 general admission and $20 for the pit area. All purses have been increased with the start of the season.

Over the next month several special events are planned to include the first leg of the West Virginia State Championship Series on May 4. This event will pay the Shinnston Plumbing Late Models $2,000 to win. Regular racing will be held for all other classes. On May 11 the fans will have the opportunity to get their favorite drivers' pictures and autographs.

Adorable Adoptables

NO BAD LUCK HERE — You should consider yourself lucky if the black cat shown above crossed your path, because she is a very loving adult feline who is available for adoption from the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Also available are Beau, below left, a young adult Lab/chow mix who is an expert at begging for treats, and Jake, right, a 7-month-old male poodle who is very rambunctious and full of energy. The shelter is open every day but Sunday, and is located along Oakland Sang Run Road just north of the Oakland Golf Club. Persons may call 301-334-3553 for more information.

with me that a 30-minute response time is unacceptable. But that is a problem we will have to address if the squad tries to move the Friendsville station to McHenry. The mayor and city council agree, we will have an ambulance squad in our town. There is start-up money and tax money to support our own squad if it is necessary. How sad this entire problem is, dividing our squad members. I pray they have the intelligence and humility to sit down and get it all straightened out. They seem to have forgotten that the patients come first and are the reason for their existence.

Approves Bill

The House-Senate Joint Conference Committee spent several days ironing out the differences between the House and Senate bills. Reports went back and forth between the chambers until the final day of the General Assembly, when the biggest piece of health care legislation this session got its final approval.

"We want to reduce health care costs, and at the same time we want the best possible health care for ourselves and our families," said sponsor Delegate Dan K. Morhaim, D-Baltimore, an emergency room physician. "That's often a very difficult thing to reconcile, so a combination of things are required, such as seeing to it that insurance and other programs cover the essentials."

U.S. drug spending grew more rapidly than other health spending in the '90s, according to a report last year from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Health care spending by Marylanders increased 4.6 percent in 1999, while spending on prescription drugs increased 22.2 percent in the same year, according to the Maryland Health Care Commission.

"It's such a big problem," said Delegate Pauline Menes, D-Prince George's. "Everyone tried to think of ways of improving the circumstances."

Maryland has become a leader in expanding insurance coverage to its poor, uninsured citizens, said Morhaim. With several other measures passed this session, insurance companies will cover morbid obesity surgery, colorectal cancer screening, and hearing aids for children.

Recently, the federal government approved a state plan to expand Medicaid to cover poor, uninsured women being treated for breast and cervical cancer. The state already provides limited treatment benefits under a state-funded program.

With the passage of the drug relief act, the state moves one step closer to providing universal comprehensive health insurance, a goal Morhaim says it already has achieved.

"I think we are there now, but it's very poor and done very late in the day and after the fact," he said. "It's not working optimally. Everybody needs to have health insurance and health coverage, but also the kind of coverage that promotes prevention and healthy lifestyles."

cluding the payment of restitution, according to Thayer Welch.

Parker was charged last August by sheriff's deputies who responded to a vandalism call on July 31, 2000, at a hunting cabin owned by Richard Kyle, located along Kempton Road. Officers and the victim entered the cabin to find items missing and damage to various areas of the cabin, including water damage throughout from plumbing that had been torn loose.

Subsequent investigation, including statements from two eyewitnesses, led to the charging of Parker. She had been convicted of these offenses after a 2-day trial in February, according to Thayer Welch.

The witnesses also reported the involvement of a second individual, of whom they have not been able to make a positive identification. The suspect is described as a white male with short dark hair and medium build. He reportedly removed fishing poles and items of fishing tackle belonging to Kyle, Thayer Welch said.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS TOWN OF DEER PARK

The purpose of this Notice is to identify two separate but related actions to be taken by the Town of Deer Park.

On or about May 7, 2001, the above named Town of Deer Park will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds under the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following project:

Project Title: Deer Park Water System Connections

Purpose of Project: Provide assistance to income eligible residents of Deer Park in connecting their private residences to a public water system

Location: Scattered sites, corporate limits of Deer Park

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

Notice is hereby given that the above named municipality has prepared an Environmental Review Record on the project described in this Notice and has determined that said property will have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment. No further environmental review of said project is proposed prior to requesting Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant Impact is based on the following:

There are no known permanent environmental consequences related to the installation of private service connections.

The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of this project is available for public examination at the town hall during normal business hours.

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments respecting the environmental impacts of the described project to the offices of the Town of Deer Park and to the Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than May 5, 2001. All comments will be considered and the town will not request the release of funds nor take any action on the project prior to this date.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

The Town of Deer Park will undertake the project described above with Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds. This Notice also certifies that Donald Dawson, serving in the official capacity of Mayor, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon is approval, the town of Deer Park may use Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds and the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Objections to Release of Funds

Objections to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Certifying Officer; or (b) that the town of Deer Park's Environmental Review Record for the project indicated an omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the program in the Environmental Review process, or (c) no opportunity was given to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation or its Executive Director to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places, or found to be eligible for such listing by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with 36 CFR Part 800(d), Objections by a Federal Agency. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the town of Deer Park and to the SCCDBG Program Coordinator, Department of Housing and Community Development, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, Maryland, 21032. All such comments must be received no later than May 25, 2001.

With Heartfelt Thanks

We will never be able to explain the horror and helplessness we felt after finding out that our son Joshua was missing from his bedroom on Thursday morning, April 12. If it were not for all the people who helped look for our son, he would have never been found as quickly as he was. Four hours was an eternity to us because not knowing where he was or if he was OK was terrifying. Everyone who was here looking for our son can never be thanked enough. You are all in our hearts and in our prayers. People like all of you make such a difference in this world. We thank God for each and every one of you for being here and helping us find Joshua.

Joshua Beitzel, 2½ years old

Thank you to everyone. It's nice to know that in a small town you can count on so many people when help is needed!!!

With sincere thanks,

POKEMON 3: THE MOVIE

Rated G - Running Time: 1:33 - Released 4/6/01

Having endured three Pokémon features in as many years, I wish to be first to offer the naive but fervent hope that the story is a trilogy. That our beloved youth are willing, even eager, to sit through any type of cartoon animated dreck that shows up in cineplexes is irritating enough, but the unmitigated inanity of the Japanese Animé-descended Pokémon franchise seems almost like a cruel joke, as if its Asian originators are sitting back and laughing at us helpless Occidentals and our low-scoring, video-game-addicted children. I wonder if they force-feed this stuff to their own kids.

Like its two feature-length predecessors (1999's Pokémon: The First Movie and Pokémon: The Movie 2000), the unimaginatively titled Pokémon 3: The Movie (English version) is written and directed by Michael Haigney with writing assistance from Norman J. Grossfeld, both of whom have fashioned their careers solely out of translating and transforming Kunihiko Yuyama's Pokémon products into a highly salable Western phenomenon. It begins with a short called Pikachu & Pichu in which various Pokémon get together to play, say their names, and annoy adult audience members. The feature, subtitled Spell Of The Unown (sic), revolves around an ancient legend in which an alphabet of mystical Pokémon symbols control the fate of characters by swirling around in different configurations and chanting, "unknown" over and over. When the symbols are discovered in an old mansion by professor Spencer Hale, he disappears into a magical dream world created in the mind of his young daughter Molly (voice of Amy Birnbaum) and becomes a lion-like creature called Entei (Ken Gates). Molly soon finds the letters and is whisked off into the colorful world herself, reveling in her new relationship with Entei, whom she calls "Papa" and whose sole purpose seems to be nothing other than granting her every wish. Molly's make-believe world grows out of the mansion itself, covering it in a cristalline, ice-blue shell which spreads to the surrounding fields and trees not unlike the "blueness" in Yellow Submarine.

Local Pokémon enthusiasts Ash (Veronica Taylor), Brock (Eric Stuart), Misty (Rachael Lillis), and Pikachu (Ikue Ootani) watch with helpless consternation as the mansion becomes an impenetrable ice castle, but when Ash's mother Delia (also Taylor) is kidnapped by Entei and taken inside at Molly's order, the teens decide to throw caution aside and rescue her. In accordance with established Pokémon guidelines, they are followed by the egotistical but comically accident-prone Team Rocket, consisting of James (Stuart), Jessie (Lillis), and their Pokémon friend Meowth (Addie Blaustein).

This film is followable, if not particularly engaging, and it's certainly colorful, rendering Molly's dream world in a rainbow of kaleidoscopic images. I would imagine it would seem much more profound if the viewer were given a complimentary marijuana cigarette upon entering the theatre. Come to think of it, maybe that's how the producers come up with their ideas. Still, one would think that three feature vehicles for Pikachu and his mind-numbing friends would be sufficient to convince our kids that there's got to be something better available and cause their interest in the avalance of trashy collectibles to wane. Alas, you and I both know better. ★★½

JOSIE AND THE PUSSYCATS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:38 - Released 4/11/01

Those of us who watch TV's Cartoon Network (or, more specifically, whose kids do) have been forced to come to grips with the abysmal quality of formerly loved "classic" cartoons like Scooby-Doo, Speed Racer, and The Perils of Penelope Pitstop. One such series was 1970's Archies spinoff Josie And The Pussycats, a show about an all-girl rock band that occasionally has to solve a crime, or defeat a villain, or travel into outer space, or...something. Long before the Bangles, the Go-Go's, the Spice Girls or the Cramps, Josie and her pals strummed their guitars sexily and belted out bubblegum tunes in our living rooms wearing leopard print bodysuits and cute little kitty ears. Those were the days.

And so it is inevitable that this traditional cartoon fave would be put through the Hollywood nostalgia mill, forcing decades-old ideas to conform to modern-day standards and allowing opportunistic producers to capitalize on the cartoons-to-movies trend. Written and directed by Harry Elfont and Deborah Kaplan (The Flintstones in Viva Rock Vegas), Pussycats is about as vapid as its cartoon inspiration, but it attempts to rise to something higher, offering some meager satire of current trends in music, merchandising, and teen fashion.

Although guitarist/vocalist Josie McCoy (Rachael Leigh Cook) and her two friends, bassist Valerie Brown (Rosario Dawson) and drummer Melody Valentine (Tara Reid), have the talent and dedication to make it in the music business, so far they have not been discovered. Not taken seriously by their lazy manager, Alexander Cabot (Paulo Costanzo), nor his skunk-haired sister Alexandra (Missi Pyle), the Pussycats are about to lose hope when they meet British talent agent Wyatt Frame (Alan Cumming, currently appearing one auditorium over in Spy Kids), who is not only ready to sign them unheard, but instantly begins planning a stadium concert. Although Josie, Val, and Melody are surprised by his sudden interest, they're perfectly happy to have a record deal, and their first single skyrockets to #1 in one week.

What they don't know, however, is that Wyatt works for the villainous Mega Records CEO Fiona (Parker Posey), who heads up a huge corporate conspiracy to implant subliminal messages in pop music, causing the nation's teens to buy whatever products they suggest. To further their plot, Fiona and Wyatt have designed special pussycat headphones to distribute at the concert, so when the thousands of teenage fans wear them, they will be under the spell of Fiona's secret message.

Josie And The Pussycats, the cartoon, was never known for particularly intelligent plots or important social commentary, it was just another of the mindless Hanna-Barbera products we kids lapped up every Saturday morning. So in a way it would actually be against the original principles of the show for the movie to have a great deal of integrity.

Yeah, that's what we'll say.

The film is fluff, but it's good-natured fluff, and the Elfont-Kaplan script pokes a few jabs at the runaway trend of product placement in movies, with some logo or company name in the background (or foreground) of nearly every scene. It also makes fun of the glut of seemingly disposable teen groups by featuring an amusingly spoiled and pretentious musical foursome called Du Jour, whose part in the film is a key factor in the Pussycats' discovery of the truth. This film didn't need to be made, but here it is. The best praise I can offer is it could have been worse. ★★★½

JOE DIRT

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:33 - Released 4/11/01

When I saw the trailer for Joe Dirt, and the voiceover proudly announced, "From the makers of Deuce Bigalow," I thought, you say that like it's a good thing. As it turns out, all Dirt has in common with Deuce are a few producers (of which Adam Sandler is one), but thank goodness the creative team is entirely different, consisting of TV director Dennie Gordon and writers Fred Wolf and star David Spade. Distancing himself from the ascerbic, cooler-than-thou persona he developed in his earlier post-Saturday Night Live films, in which he mainly stood aloof and condescending opposite the outlandish antics of his now-deceased pal Chris Farley, Spade seems to be moving toward more sympathetic characters, like his part in 1999's Lost & Found. This is a much sillier film but one that achieves on about the same average level. Joe Dirt is not going to go down as one of the best comedies of the year; it is as forgettable as they come, but it has its moments, mostly thanks to Spade's clever delivery, that bring a guilty chuckle.

Joe Dirt (Spade) is a man who has made the best life he can out of a bad situation, but has survived mainly because of an optimistic spirit and a determination to see the bright side of life ("You can't get ahead if you have "No" in your heart," he proclaims). Deserted by his parents at the Grand Canyon when he was 8, he grew up on his own, surviving by working an endless string of menial jobs, and has never given up the search for his family, whose name he doesn't even know (he was given the name "Dirt" by his unsympathetic father). Now working as a janitor at an L.A. radio station, Joe is discovered by smartass talk show host Zander Kelly (Spade's fellow SNL grad Dennis Miller), who is especially intrigued by Joe's 1970s style mullet wig (which, according to Joe, was placed there when he was a child and has since grown into place permanently). We learn of Joe's life story through a continuing flashback, as he relates it live on the air to Zander's listening audience. At first, Zander and his fans make fun of Joe like most of his lifelong acquaintances, but as they learn of his never-ending search for his parents, his unrequited love for a sweet-hearted hottie named Brandy (Brittany Daniel) and the abuse he gets from a bully (pop star Kid Rock) who wants Brandy for himself, they all develop an affection for the pathetic loser, and he becomes a radio sensation.

Make no mistake: Joe Dirt, both the character and the film, is stupid. But things as they are, that may well work in its favor. With its quirky characters, silly sight gags, and the tasteless humor that has become a staple among teen comedies of late, this film will not fail to amuse its market, but Spade's comic sense and his comfort with co-stars Miller, Daniel, and Christopher Walken, who plays a key supporting role, helps edge Joe Dirt slightly above ground level. ★★★½

"I'd like to invite everyone to stop in and say hello."
Bob Everett, Manager

Southern States Oakland Co-op would like to introduce its new manager, Bob Everett. Bob, who is 52 years old, is from Wilson, North Carolina, and a graduate of North Carolina State University. He has been farming for 21 years, and has experience with row crops, raising swine, and beef cattle. He has been employed by Southern States for the past 2½ years.

Since his arrival, Bob said he has found Garrett County to be a warm and friendly place to live. His wife Beverly and children 17-year-old Elizabeth and 11-year-old Fate Baker will be relocating to Garrett County soon.

Bob said he is looking forward to serving the needs of farmers and home owners in Garrett County and the surrounding area. "I would like to thank everyone for the warm reception I've received and I'd like to invite everyone to stop in and say hello."

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

JUBILATORS AT MAPLE GROVE

The Jubilators Quartet from Cumberland, Md., will be ministering in music at the Maple Grove Assembly of God Church, Horse Shoe Run, on April 22, at 6 p.m. Everyone is invited to come for the gospel in song.

OPEN HOUSE APRIL 28

An open house is planned at the newly remodeled store at the Eglon Farm Service, Eglon, on Saturday, April 28, from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. There will be food and door prizes, too.

CEOS CELEBRATION

Community members are reminded to look for items that would add to a display of crafts and useful items, made by Farm Women's Club or Extension Homemakers from Aurora, for a 75th anniversary open house planned for Sept. 9. Things of a more personal nature that were made may include pins, earrings, hats, and purses. Those who have such items to share are asked to contact Virginia Martin at 735-3407.

RAMP DINNERS

Both the Aurora and Mt. Grove volunteer fire departments have scheduled ramp dinners. Aurora VFD will have its on April 29 from noon until 3 p.m. Mt. Grove is scheduled to have its dinner on Sunday, May 6. Both feature ramps fixed in various manners, potatoes, ham, and desserts.

CEMETERY REQUESTS

For those who are renewing decorations on graves in the Mt. Olivet Cemetery on Lantz Ridge, it is asked that they do so by May 1, and to remove and take with them the old decorations.

The Eglon Cemetery Association also wishes to remind the public that mowing time is here and that decorations should be placed out of the mower's path.

UNION SENIORS

The April 12 meeting of the Union District Senior Citizens was attended by 29 members and guests, with Shirley Parsons providing the opening devotions following the covered dish meal. Guest speaker was Mark Durst of Durst Funeral Home in Oakland, who spoke to the group concerning pre-need and pre-arranged funerals. He also provided other information and answered questions from the audience. This event was sponsored jointly by the Aurora CEOS and the senior citizens.

A committee composed of Wilda Stemple, Janice Tackett, and Delores Douglas was named to make plans for a May birthday party at Hopemont. Announced was a food handler's workshop in Thomas at the senior center on May 16 at 9 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Also announced was the Aurora Area Historical Society meeting to be held Sunday, April 22, at 2 p.m., at the Aurora Community Building. Volkmar Wentzel will be present to discuss his planned exhibit of area photos. He is seeking input from the community concerning the photos.

The meeting concluded following the singing of "Happy Birthday" to Wilma Mae Teets and Mary Jane Hanline. Several games of Bingo followed adjournment.

GCC Sets Off-Campus, Internet Course Offerings

A number of Garrett Community College courses will be available at several off-campus locations and over the Internet this fall, according to the fall schedule of credit classes recently published. Fall semester classes will start Sept. 5.

Four courses are scheduled at the new Grantsville Outreach Center. These are Introduction to Computers (CS 105) on Mondays from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m., General Psychology (PSY 101) on Tuesdays from 5 to 8 p.m., Expository Writing (ENG 101) on Wednesdays from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m., and Introduction to Business (BUS 101) on Thursdays from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Two courses scheduled for the National Guard Armory in Oakland are Introduction to Computers (CS 105) on Wednesdays from 6 to 9 p.m., and Microsoft Access (CA 185) on Thursdays from 6:35 to 9:35 p.m.

Courses available on the Internet during the fall semester are Principles of Accounting II (ACC 112), Introduction to Business (BUS 101), Medical Terminology (BUS 130), CISCO Network Devices Live (CIS 101), CISCO Network Devices Express (CIS 102), Introduction to Computers (CS 105), Principles of Economics I (ECN 201), Survey of American Literature (ENG 252), American National Government (PS 140), General Psychology (PSY 101), Human Growth and Development (PSY 102), Educational Psychology (PSY 211), and Introduction to Communications (SPC 101). Some of these Internet courses will start in late August.

Students may now register for these and other credit courses at GCC's Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours, and persons interested in further information may call 301-387-3044. Fall schedules are available at GCC and at all branches of Ruth Enlow Library.

DCL Board To Meet Tomorrow At State Park

The Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board will meet tomorrow, Friday, April 20, at 6 p.m. at the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center, located at DCL State Park. The meeting is open to all interested citizens, and the board will accept input and public comments during the proceedings.

Tomorrow evening's agenda includes further review and discussion of the proposal to expand the size and number of commercial boats allowed on the lake. The issue was last discussed during a March 17 meeting, and a decision remains to be reached. The board must take action approving a change in lake regulations before the program can receive approval from the Department of Natural Resources.

The board will also be discussing how recreational permit sites are managed on the lake and during the land sale process by the state's Department of General Services. Del. George Edwards and Sen. John Hafer have asked the board to examine the issue again following its previous decision to maintain the status quo regarding eligibility and transfer of such permits.

Two additional DCL Policy and Review Board meetings have been slated for next month to finalize the draft of the lake's Recreation and Land Use Plan. The first meeting is set for 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 1, and the second is slated for 6 p.m. on Monday, May 14. Both meetings, which will take place at the Discovery Center, are open to the public, and citizens will have the opportunity to provide input and comments.

These meetings will focus on issues pertaining to land use, commercial use of the lake and its buffer strip, and resource management. The Recreation and Land Use Plan was last discussed during the board's April 10 meeting, which resulted in a number of recommendations for shoreline and buffer strip management, carrying capacity, boating, docking, and public access.

For further information on any of these upcoming meetings, or on the activities of the DCL Policy and Review Board, interested persons may contact DCL Recreation Area manager Paul Durham at 301-387-4111.

Coalfield Wars To Be Topic Of Springs Program

Dr. Carl Meyerhuber, a commonwealth speaker for the Pennsylvania Humanities Council, will present a program on Monday, April 23, at 7 p.m. at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa.

During the 1920s the Pennsylvania bituminous industry sank into economic depression, according to Meyerhuber. In order to repel non-union competition from nearby states, Pennsylvania's mine operators denounced their contracts with the union and mustered a private army to crush the United Mine Workers. The union, led by John L. Lewis, fought both the operators and rival miners.

Meyerhuber's talk examines how this relatively unknown strike endured for three bitter years on a front which ranged from Altoona to Avella. He is also associate professor of history, Penn State University-New Kensington campus, and author of several books relating to the coal wars in western Pennsylvania.

The program, presented by the Springs Historical Society, is free of charge and open to the public. The Folk Meeting House is located along Springs Road. For further information, persons may telephone 814-445-6945 or 814-662-4366.

Saturday NHS Fair To Mark National Youth Service Day

Garrett County's first Opportunity Fair is set for this Saturday, April 21, from 10 a.m to 3:30 p.m. at Northern High School. The fair is part of a nationwide observance of National Youth Service Day, a celebration of the year-round efforts of millions of young volunteers across the country. April 21 also marks the second Global Youth Service Day, a worldwide volunteer event.

"Service is the fundamental way of knowing how you fit into society," said Steve Culbertson, president and CEO of Youth Service America, which is sponsoring the national observance. "Service helps answer the questions 'Who am I?' and 'What am I to do in this world?' Every young person, as early as age 5, has the capacity to give back to someone else. Service gives kids resilience and lets them understand that their own problems are not as difficult as they thought."

Here in Garrett County, Saturday's Opportunity Fair at NHS will allow any interested person of any ability level to provide volunteer service work and fun activities with and for all area children, with an emphasis on local foster care children. "Many children in Garrett County enter foster care without any of their own belongings, making a turbulent experience in their young lives even more difficult," said Lori Wilson of A STAR! in Western Maryland, an AmeriCorps program of Frostburg State University, which is sponsoring the NHS event along with Garrett County Special Olympics.

In order to smooth the initial transition into foster care for children, volunteers from A STAR! and Special Olympics will be at NHS Saturday filling 100 backpacks with donated items such as personal hygiene products, school supplies, toys, and books. The backpacks will be presented to the GC Department of Social Services Foster Care Unit and will be given to foster care children as they enter foster care. Donations from all interested persons will be accepted by volunteers from 10 a.m. and noon on Saturday at NHS.

The daylong Opportunity Fair will also include a Run, Jump, and Throw event for all children 8 and older. Medals and T-shirts will be awarded to participants. There will also be an informative Vendor Expo during which local social service providers will have representatives and displays available to raise awareness about their services.

Part of the fair's emphasis will be on providing an opportunity for persons with disabilities to serve others. "Youth Service America (YSA) seeks to make service the common expectation and experience for all young Americans," said Culbertson. To date, YSA has awarded cash grants to 98 service and disability organizations in 37 states, including A STAR! in Western Maryland and (Garrett County) Special Olympics.

According to Culbertson, 54 million Americans — 1 in 5 — live with some degree of disability. The 1994-95 U.S. Census Report on Social Integration for People with Disabilities found that such persons were still five times more likely to feel isolated and dissatisfied with their lives than those without disabilities. The report also stated that children without disabilities, when given the opportunity to interact in mainstream settings with children who have disabilities, are more likely to develop acceptance of persons with disabilities.

"As a rule, service is performed for youth with disabilities, not by youth with disabilities," Culbertson stated. "We seek to change this paradigm and bring youth with and without disabilities together to serve their communities and benefit from mutual understanding. Children with disabilities who interact with children without disabilities are proven to have improved self-esteem and better social skills."

For further information on Saturday's Opportunity Fair, interested persons may contact Garrett County Special Olympics coordinator Christine Brown at 301-895-3793.

TV PIPELINE

More Time may go by with Dench

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Judi Dench

Q: Will we be getting any more episodes of As Time Goes By? Please say yes! –"Another Jean" via e-mail.

A: The short answer is: probably yes. Philip Bretherton, who plays the irrepressible Alistair on this hit PBS "Britcom," says scripts have been written for a new season, and the rest of the cast is simply waiting for busy Dame Judi Dench to find two or three months to rejoin Geoffrey Palmer in their roles as Jean and Lionel Hardcastle. Don't expect it to happen right away. As reported earlier, Dench lost her husband, actor Michael Williams, to lung cancer in January and only recently has resumed work.

The longer answer is: Remember, PBS doesn't work like other networks, so your local affiliate would have to buy the new episodes when they become available in order for you to see them in your market. In fact, I can't be entirely sure that you have seen all the existing ones to date. Check with your local PBS affiliate to be sure.

Q: I recently saw What's Eating Gilbert Grape on TV. Were any of its actors nominated for an Oscar? –John Biemer, Columbus, Ohio.

A: Yes, Leonardo DiCaprio was nominated as best supporting actor. He lost to Tommy Lee Jones in The Fugitive.

Q: Who played the father of Dr. Mark Greene on ER, and what happened to him? –Frances Williamson, Nocatee, Fla.

A: David Greene, the character played by John Cullum, was never intended to be a permanent character and died after an affecting story line with son Mark (Anthony Edwards).

Cullum, 71, is a two-time Tony Award winner best known for his unforgettable portrayal of Holling Vincoeur on Northern Exposure, airing in syndication on A&E Network. He also is much in demand as a director.

Q: Is the Edward Burns who co-stars in the movie 15 Minutes the same actor who used to play "Kookie" on 77 Sunset Strip? –C. Miner, Fall River, Kan.

A: No. The artist formerly known as Gerald Lloyd Kookson III on 77 Sunset Strip is Edd Byrnes, 67, who also was in the 1999 TV movie Shake, Rattle and Roll: An American Love Story.

15 Minutes star Edward Burns, 33, first garnered attention as the writer, director and star of the romantic comedy The Brothers McMullen. He also played a key role in Saving Private Ryan and co-created the NBC sitcom The Fighting Fitzgeralds.

Q: Did Hollywood Squares host Tom Bergeron ever guest host Good Morning America? –Dan H., Gulfport, Miss.

A: Yes, briefly in 1998, but he swears he never wanted the job full time, despite widespread rumors.

In Focus

Marion Ross, David DeLuise and Olympia Dukakis (from left) star in Ladies and the Champ, a new comedy premiering Sunday, April 22, on ABC.

Ross and Dukakis star as retired roommates who become boxing fans after they get cable TV. DeLuise plays a homeless hoodlum whom the women mistake for an aspiring fighter.

They offer to manage him, and he doesn't bother to set them straight. But when he's booked for a bout in Las Vegas, the truth may have to come out.

Monday

Doug (Kevin James) competes with a friend at work to become one of the company's calendar boys in The King of Queens Monday on CBS.
